In the opinion of Prof. Clark, preferential tariffs are politically and economically unsound. Justification could be found for them only in so for as they were a step otwards free trade. Canada's preference he characterised as an offering on the altar of imperial preference, and he expressed the belief that the bonds of empire were other than those rooted in so grave a source of friction as a trade arrangement.

In the first place, the self-governing colonies are not prepared to take any serious step in the direction of free trade within the empire; nor would they be likely to appreciate the adoption by the mother country of a policy of all-round protection, colonial products merely receiving at British ports preferential treatment equivalent to that accorded to Britsh goods at colonial ports. On the other hand, said Prof. Clark, any scheme, such as that under which the United Kingdom is asked to tax imports from foreign countries, and to admit colonial produce free of duty, as at present, while the colonies continue to tax her produce to an extent sufficient to protect their own industries, merely granting a preference to British as against foreign goods, is clearly indefensible. Moreover, a preferential policy would not be likely to materially increase Britain's export, trade to the colonies, but it would inflict a heavy blow on her export trade to foreign countries, compared with which that to the self-governing colonies was insignificant. Not only would Britain lose the benefit of the most-favoured-nation treatment, but the taxation of food would, by raising its price, increase the cost of production of manufactured goods and would thus handicap Britain in neutral markets.

Professor Clark, however, believes that a real reduction of protective duties in favour of the United Kingdom would benefit the mother country and Canada. "By removing the leading strings of protection to some extent," he says, "it would allow Canada's productive powers to follow their natural channels. But in that case a general reduction of duties all round would benefit Canada and in the long run the United Kingdom still more."

Professor Clark takes no stock in the claim that Britain's dependence on foreign countries for her food supplies constitutes a grave imperial danger, contending that that dependence is in some respects a source of strength, as it secures to her friends in need, the countries that supply her being bound to her by the tie of natural interest.

The contention that preferential trading relations would strengthen the ties between the mother country and the colonies Professor Clark answers by pointing out that the policy, once adopted by Britain, could not be confined to foodstuffs, but must inevitably extend till it became an all-round system of high protection, and there is grave reason to doubt whether an imperial preferential tariff could be arranged without bringing into dangerous conflict the diverse and often-opposing interests of the different states of the empire. The present Canadian preference, as a voluntary gift of a free people, Professor Clark says, stands on quite a different footing. Great Britain's hold on the colonies is not conditional on her adoption of protection, the bonds of empire being other and stronger than those of mere commercial intere st.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleriver, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.

Adrian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from female troubles, and my doctor said an operation was my only chance, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me without an operation."—LENA V. HENRY, R.F.D. 5.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

Preserving Time

the enameled steel reservoir is indispensable

Examine Pandora reservoir and you'll find it is made of one piece of sheet steel and oval in shape — therefore no square corners or seams to hold dirt. In addition interior is enameled pure white—smooth as marble.

As easy to clean as a china bowl, the Pandora reservoir is a most sanitary receptacle for fruit. As it is equal in size to several kettles it is simply indispensable at preserving time.

No other range has the enameled steel reservoir —one reason why your choice should be Pandora—the range with many improvements. 15

Feared Peary Would Shoot.

Copenhagen, Sept. 9.—Dr. Cook on Monday was the honored guest of the editor and staff of The Politicken. On Tuesday night that paper printed in spaced type a story which purports to be an interview with Dr. Cook, in which he says he feared he might meet Peary at the pole, and was anxious to get back as soon as possible, for if Peary had met him, Peary would certainly have shot him.

British Commoners Interested.

London, Sept. 9.—The controversy regarding the rival claims of Peary and Cook extended to the House of Commons. Adherents of Peary far outnumber the Cookites, a large number refusing absolutely to believe Cook's claims. The discussion arose over the ownership of land at the North Pole—the concensus of opinion is that the pole belonged to Canada

Delegates Reach Australia.

Brisbane, Australia, Sept. 9.—The "Marana" has arrived with the British and Canadian delegates to the Chambers of Commerce Congress. They were warmly received. The British representatives speak in highest terms of the hospitality of Canada and also of the scenic beauties of the country traversed.

Peary Coming Slowly.

Red Bay, Labrador, Sept. 9.—Commander E. Peary, homeward bound on the steamship Roosevelt, arrived yesterday at Battle Harbor, just above the opening of the Straits of Belle Isle, and approximately 65 miles above this point. As the telegraph station at Chateau Bay 35 miles northeast of here is closed the "Roosevelt's" next stop will likely be here, although it was at first intended that she stopped at the former place.

Coal is direly needed on board, and it is reported, that part of the vessel's woodwork has been used as fuel.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry

It has a reputation of 65 years' standing and never fails to either relieve or cure.

There are many imitations of this remedy on the market that sell for less per bottle. Dr. Fowler's is 35 cents, so be sure and get the genuine. The cheaper articles may be dangerous to your health.

SUMMER COMPLAINT AND DIARRHŒA

MRS. GEORGE PHILLIPS, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., writes: "My baby one year old took the Summer Complaint, and was so bad as to pass blood. I got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and only had to give a few doses before my baby was cured. My husband had diarrhœa and three doses cured him. I have used it in my family for over three years with great results and feel safe in recommending it to everyone for all kinds of Summer Complaints."

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Weak—Hogs Active and Higher at East Buffalo.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 12¾c to 14¼c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 11½c to 12c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning the offerings were 900 cattle, 500 sheep, 600 lambs, 1000 hogs and 250 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle since Monday; prices being well maintained at the advance noted then, owing to the fact that the demand was good from local buyers, of which the gathering was large, and on the whole a very active trade was done. Choice steers sold at 5c to 5½c; good at 4½c to 4¾c; fair at 4c to 4½c; medium at 3½c to 3¾c; cows at 3c to 4½c, and canners at 1½c per lb.

There were no new developments in the hog situation, prices being firm at the late advance. The supply was only fair for which the demand was good, and an active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $9 to $9.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. Supplies of sheep and lambs were larger, but, as the demand was ample to absorb them, a steady feeling prevailed in the market, and prices showed no change. Sheep sold at 3¾c to 4c, and lambs at 6c to 7¼c per lb. Calves met with a fair sale at prices ranging from $3 to $5 each.

U. S. Wheat at Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 9.—Two million bushels of American wheat have been shipped at this port to Great Britain during the past three weeks. Most of this comes from Kansas, and it is believed the figure will be greatly increased before the season ends. Steamship men say that this is a record-breaker for American wheat, and New York may well look to its laurels.

G.T.P. Will Ship by C.N.R.

Winnipeg, Sept. 9.—Arrangements have been completed between the C.N.R. and G.T.R., by which all grain brought in from the West by the latter will be shipped to the head of navigation by the former. This means that the National Transcontinental will not be ready to handle traffic from Winnipeg this fall.

Military Camp at Parry Sound.

Parry Sound, Sept. 9.—The 23rd Regiment, Northern Pioneers, are in camp here, being the first military camp in northern Ontario. Major J. B. Miller is in command. He will shortly be gazetted to the command, vice Lt.-Col. Knifton, whose time has expired and who is now in England on sick leave.

Brig.-Gen. Cotton will inspect the regiment.

Fell Sixty Feet to Death.

Tilbury, Ont., Sept. 9.—Fred Bailer, an employe of the Volcanic Oil & Gas Co., was overcome by gas while pulling tubing from a well on the Carr farm, Tilbury East, and fell from a derrick sixty feet high and was instantly killed. Bailer was 21 years old, and leaves a widow.

To Probe Ottawa Police.

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The police commission will on Wednesday next open a public enquiry into the alleged inefficiency of the local police.

Linen of Snowy Whiteness

The real beauty of linen lies in its whiteness. It must come from the washing spotlessly clean. So, naturally enough, it is always rubbed twice as hard, and so wears out twice as fast.

But here is a new way to wash linen as well as other fabric—a way that saves half the rubbing and doubles the life of the garment.

This new way is the way of Taylor's Borax Soap. For no other soap saves both labor and garments as does this wonderful soap—it saves its own cost many times over.

Taylor's Soap

Here is the Taylor way: Place the white clothes in warm, soapy water and let them soak over night. Then draw them out one by one and rub them lightly with Taylor's Borax Soap. When well soaped, roll them up and lay them in the bottom of the tub under water. Let them soak in this way for half an hour. Then rub them gently on the washboard, rinse and wring them out. Hang them on a rope clothes line, for wire may put iron rust spots on the clothes.

Scalding is never necessary with this soap, for it removes the dirt by itself. The borax softens the water, so less soap is required, and also much less rubbing.

Colored clothes are washed the same, only they should not be left to soak over night, and never boiled.

Follow these simple directions and your clothes will come out fresh, clean and free from any "soapy smell." The white goods will be whiter, the colored goods brighter and the woolens softer than ever before.

Borax not only softens the water, but also softens the hands—it leaves them even whiter than ever before. Also it purifies and sweetens—it destroys every germ and prevents the possibility of contagion.

Don't be satisfied with common soaps that make it necessary to rub your clothes doubly long. Such soaps are more expensive than you ever imagine. This wonderful soap costs no more to buy than the ordinary—so why not have the best when you pay no more? Order a bar today.

DUMMER MAN RECEIVED BEATING

And Men Who Were Responsible Are Summonsed.

Messrs. Fred Payne and Harry Payne, of Dummer, are to appear before Magistrate Edmison on Monday next, charged with assaulting Jos. W. Crowe, also of Dummer, on Monday, September 6th.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane issued the summons yesterday and the defendants signified their intention of pleading guilty. The affair is reported to have grown out of something Crowe did and, for which the Payne men are accused of "giving him a trimming."

A SHINING MARK

What Parisian Sage did for Chas. S. Baker, it will do for you. Read the following:

"I was so bald and such a shining mark for my friends that I, as a last resort, tried your Parisian Sage (after trying several bottles of the highly advertised and high priced so-called hair restorers), and I am glad to say I now have a heavy growth of new hair after carrying my shining mark for over seven years. I gladly recommend Parisian Sage to all afflicted with baldness." Chas. S. Baker, 491 Main street east, Rochester, N. Y.

Parisian Sage, the only natural hair restorer, is guaranteed by Wm. Madill to cure dandruff, stop falling hair, and cure itching of the scalp, or money back. It is the ladies' favourite hair dressing because it adds charm and luxuriance to the hair. 50 cents a bottle. Ask Wm. Madill about it.

"GOING SOME" FOR W. A. BUCHANAN

Former Peterborough Young Man Makes Great Impression in the West.

How would you like to have a press agent like the editor of the Cranbrook Herald. Read what he says in his last issue:

"One of the best talks that was ever made in this district was made by W. A. Buchanan, editor of the Lethbridge Herald and Liberal representative in the Parliament of Alberta for the City of Lethbridge, at the banquet in Fernie Monday. 'Billy' Buchanan is one of the best men that God ever created and the people got a great asset when they located him there in the newspaper business. He is 'gilly gold' wherever you take him and you can gamble on him from start to finish, for there are no better made. We know Buchanan and we know him well, and we will give him a certificate any time he shows his face."

MAD HASTE AMONG THE EXPRESSMEN OF THE CITY

THE REAL REASON

Can you tell me the meaning of the mad haste the expressmen of the city are displaying just now in calling for and delivering baggage?" was the question propounded to an Examiner reporter by a citizen this morning.

Not having travelled very much and having the minimum amount of baggage when he did get an opportunity to shake the dust of Peterborough from his feet, the reporter had not noticed the celerity spoken of, but being a newspaperman he immediately proceeded to find out what it meant.

The first expressman he encountered supplied the answer. He was coming down George street at a 2.12 clip, crouched over the reins, but the reporter made a semaphore with his arms and the willing steed was dragged down to a slow walk, while the newspaperman proceeded to "quiz" the driver.

"Prithee, why such speed?" he inquired gently.

"Why, you idiot," replied the expressman, politely, but firmly. "Don't you know that there is an expressman's race at the Peterborough Fair next week, and that all the boys have their horses in training. "Minnie, here," indicating with his whip the somewhat dubious piece of horseflesh, between the shafts, "may not be a Keswick in looks, but she will have them all screaming for help when it comes to speed. Watch her next week," he called back over his shoulder, as he touched up the mare and she let loose with a spurt that carried him out of sight before the reporter could get in another word.

NO CIRCUS FOR PETERBOROUGH

BIG FAIR SUPPLIES THE WANT

Peterborough seems to have been out of the circus belt this season.

For the first time in some years the city was not visited by one of the big travelling shows, although several passed through Ontario. Just why this is so no one seems to know, but it is safe to say that the absence of the circus this season has been generally regretted, especially by the small boy.

However, the people of the district will have an opportunity of seeing several acts which, in point of cleverness and interest, are not surpassed by any of the performers in the canvas arena. The directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, which will be held Sept. 16, 17, and 18, have secured these thrilling features for the performance in front of the granstand.

Material For Big Omelette In G. T. R. Wreck Near Omemee

A serious wreck occurred yesterday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock on the G. T. R., three miles east of Omemee on the "old line."

The cause of the wreck is unknown but it is attributed to a broken rail or a brake beam dropping down and as a result six cars loaded with eggs, cheese, coal and other freight are a total wreck, the cars being broken into match wood. The track is also badly torn up for some distance.

The wrecked train is the regular mixed running between Port Hope and Lindsay, known as No. 35. It is due to arrive in Lindsay at 2:05 o'clock. A number of passengers were on board but no person was injured as the wrecked cars were near the front of the train.

The train was running fifteen miles an hour when the accident happened. The engine remained on the rails.

The train was in charge of Conductor J. Way and Engineer J. Harvey.

The Haliburton engine and a coach were sent to the scene of the wreck and brought the passengers to Lindsay.

The auxiliary was quickly made up and left to clear the track which will be ready for trains to-day.

Havelock Girl Said To Have Been Ill-Treated At Home

Hazel Brennan, of Havelock, aged 15 years, was taken in charge yesterday by Mr. Geo. Cochrane, agent for the Children's Aid Society, and brought to Peterborough last night. Mr. Cochrane had received several letters from prominent persons in Havelock to the effect that the girl was not receiving proper treatment in her father's home. He did not go in answer to the first, but on others being sent Mr. Cochrane decided to look into the case. Mr. Brennan has married twice, and it is alleged that Hazel is not being kindly treated by her step mother. It was stated in the letters that she was cruelly treated and was kept home from school. In regard to the latter, the girl, although fifteen years old, is only in the third book.

Mr. and Mrs. Brennan were both away from home yesterday and the girl was got ready by an aunt to come to Peterborough. At the station the stepmother arrived and appeared anxious to tell the young girl something, but Mr. Cochrane would not allow her. The father arrived in the city this morning and in conversation with Mr. Cochrane, told him that the stories were altogether untrue and unfounded.

The case will be heard in Havelock on Tuesday by Magistrate Edmison.

MR. BAILEY ON THE SCHOOL QUESTION

Sir,—I do not mean that if the holidays were fewer our Public School system is proper; but, if you will have such schools why shut them up the best time of the year? The base of all schooling should be religious, and the child taught that he must depend upon himself, his own efforts and his own learning. He has in himself a power that schools cannot give and, often injure—everything public is his enemy.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

Ordinarily these fabrics would sell for $2.00, but so great was the price concession that we can afford to offer them at $1.50 per yard. Their splendid wear giving qualities and their width make them especially desirable for suits, coats, skirts and other garments.

Any judge of dress goods can tell at a glance that they are priced way below their real value and economical folk with the season's need ahead will purchase now. The season will not bring forth any more delectable dress goods attraction, do not delay. In richness of colouring and beauty of weave they stand absolutely unmatchable at the price.

This Week Heralds In Complete New Stocks of Fall Goods

Women's Suits, Coats and Skirts for Fall

There is no more opportune time to make a selection of your new Suit, Coat, or Skirt than now--this week. Here's the reason: Our stocks are more complete now than they will be later, almost every line is in and ready for your inspection. You will take no chances on your Suit being duplicated, for our garments are all exclusive to ourselves and to you. An invitation is extended to all to come and look over our showing carefully and compare our values with others. We feel the decision will be in our favour. Just come.

COLOURS—STYLES

Note these new shades for Fall, as shown in the Ready-to-Wear Garments: Shades of—Wisteria, Amethyst, Catawba, Navy Blue, Ashes of Roses, Faded Old Rose, (New Yorker's) Maple Sugar Shade, Grey, Taupe, Green, etc. Blacks, too, are much in vogue. The styles are decided, in either plain tailored or fancy. The nattiest showing we have ever congregated under our roof is now ready for your criticism.

MAN WHO BEGGED HAS TO LEAVE TOWN

William Carruthers Appeared in the Police Court This Morning.

William Carruthers the young man who appeared in police court a week ago, charged with begging from house to house, came up before the Magistrate this morning after a week's remand in the gaol. Several witnesses were called, who testified to having seen the prisoner. His Worship at first signified his intention of sending him to the Central Prison, but on the prisoner's promise to leave the city at once, the Magistrate allowed him to go. He said that he would leave right away for Toronto.

P. C. Newhall said that he arrested the prisoner on George street on Wednesday, the first of September. He saw him stop a man at the corner of Simcoe street. The man pushed him aside and walked away. The prisoner was drunk and was using filthy language. He had seventy cents on him.

Dr. McClelland said that he came to his office one day last week. He handed him an envelope containing sticking plaster, asking him to buy it. He went to another house.

George Ahearn saw the prisoner on Wednesday, Sept. 1st. He met him on George street. He engaged in a short conversation with him and then went on.

Adam Davidson saw the prisoner, too. He heard considerable bad language.

The prisoner, in the box, admitted that he tried to sell court plaster.

WERE FINED FOR BREAKING WINDOWS

Boys in Court This Morning for Destroying C. G. E. Property.

One who visited the police court this morning would have thought that Chief Rossel had started a school for boys. About fifteen boys were arraigned before the magistrate. They ranged in age from seven to twelve years of age. Nine of them whose homes are on Albert street were charged with breaking windows and locks in a house belonging to the Canadian General Electric Company. Four pleaded guilty, but the other five were all innocent.

During the summer months these houses have been unoccupied. Over seventy panes of glass have been broken in addition to the locks on the doors. It was stated in court to-day, that it would take twenty-seven dollars to repair the windows alone. No evidence was given against those that pleaded not guilty and His Worship, after warning them strongly against any such conduct allowed them to go. The guilty ones were each fined one dollar and had to pay two dollars' compensation to the company for the damage that had been done. They were locked in a cell at the police station until their fines were paid.

POST CARD COLUMN.

The Peterborough Light and Power Co. are asking a 30-year franchise of our streets.

On Aylmer street, north, they have been promising us light all summer and have gone so far as to erect poles, but these are not yet wired. We do not consider that any company so dilatory in its methods should be granted a 30-year franchise. Others having complaints should make them known now.

DARKNESS.

THE GAY MUSICIAN AT OTTAWA FAIR

Of the many musical attractions presented in Ottawa last season, the most popular was the charming comic opera, "The Gay Musician," by Julian Edwards, and presented by John P. Slocum's company.

Nothing but praise was heard after "The Gay Musician" was sung and many inquiries were afterwards made as to whether the comic opera would be heard again in Canada.

After considerable negotiation, Manager Slocum has eben induced to bring his company this season and "The Gay Musician" will be the attraction at the Russell Theatre for Fair week, opening Monday evening, September 13th, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

An entire new scenic production and the most costly costuming will be presented together with a superb singing company of principals, the most beautiful of show girls, a remarkable pony ballet and the best singing chorus in America. Manager Slocum is known for "doing things lavishly" and this season is no exception for he has excelled himself in presenting to the public the best company, which numbers 75 people, that could be secured in the theatrical field.

The entire press of Toronto say, that "The Gay Musician" is the very best comic opera seen there in years.

Is New Industry Coming This Way?

Corrugated Pipe Co. Representative Tells Lindsay Man It Is—May be a Pipe Dream.

Lindsay may secure a new industry. A firm manufacturing corrugated steel pipes for culverts and drainage purposes is seeking a location in this part of Ontario. This firm has a factory in Stratford.

Mr. Jas. Fleury, of town, met an agent of the firm in Toronto and suggested Lindsay as a most suitable town in which to build a factory and received the promise that the town would be visited anyway. An exhibit will be placed at the fair here this fall.

Mayor Begg, who is in Toronto today, will look the agent up and discuss the matter with him further. It is hoped the culmination will be that a new factory will be erected here.—Lindsay Warder.

In connection with the above the Lindsay Post has the following:

The Corrugated Pipe Co., an important American concern, has samples of its product at Toronto Exhibition, and their representative informed Mr. Fleury that the firm intended locating a branch in Peterborough. Mr. Fleury asked him why he did not locate in Lindsay and he certainly must have used strong arguments, for the representatives promised to bring samples to the Lindsay fair, as well as consider Lindsay as a site for the new industry.

If the firm is coming to Peterborough they have kept very quiet about it for none of the city officials have heard about it. Looks as if the representative of the Company had a line on somebody from Lindsay.

PRESENTATION TO TWO YOUNG LADIES

Two of St. John's Church Workers Remembered by Friends.

A very pleasant gathering took place at the home of Mrs. Wm. English, Water street, last evening, a number of St. John's Church workers assembling to wish Miss Hazel Dean success in her new sphere of work in Belleville, and to congratulate Miss Daisy Mills on her approaching marriage. Both ladies will be missed from the Sunday School, Miss Dean, for the last three years, having accomplished sterling work in the infant department. As a slight token of esteem presents were presented to Miss Dean from the Chancel Guild, Girls' Auxiliary, and Sunday School teachers, in the form of a handsome presentation copy of Tennyson's poems, and to Miss Mills a pretty fern pot. The Rev. Canon Davidson and Mr. R. J. Devey voiced the feeling of regret at losing the valuable help of both ladies, and expressed a hope that it would not be for long.

Dainty refreshments were served by the Misses English, and the pleasant evening came to a close about 10 o'clock, after conveying hearty thanks to the hostess of the evening.

THE BEST HERITAGE

Good health is one of the first requisites to success. Prolonged application to any subject cannot be sustained without well fed nerves.

If nervous energy could be secured by a large cash payment, every person would make a big effort to find the money.

By reason of well directed study, assisted by practical experience, a way has been found to supply energy to jaded and overwrought nerves, without its costing a fortune.

Pure fresh air, exercise, and eating the simplest foods will produce this desired result.

Among foods for human consumption none contain the necessary elements to sustain life in greater quantities than milk and wheat.

Orange Meat which is made from the whole wheat, thoroughly steam cooked, malted, flaked and toasted, contains the necessary elements to sustain life in greater proportions than any other cereal.

ORANGE MEAT and milk is a perfect food.

1909 PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRIAL WILL BE BANNER FAIR

One week from to-day and Peterborough's Fair will be open to exhibitors.

Realizing that the time is short President Leary, Secretary Hall, and the Directors are redoubling their efforts.

"A greater Fair than has been," is the motto under which the management is working.

Everything depends upon the weather man. Unkindness on his part is the only thing that can prevent the Peterborough Industrial of 1909 from being the banner Fair of the Association.

The 24th Field Battery's drill will include Tug-of-war on horseback, wrestling on horseback, the midnight alarm, red cross ride and other spectacular feats. Their performance will only be given at the night show on Friday and wil be one of the big events of the Fair.

The Mid-way will include everything from the ice cream man to the African dodger.

Many amusement enterprises have written to have space reserved on the Midway for them.

It is said that the exhibits of live stock will be the best in the history of the Peterborough Industrial.

Something doing every moment is what the directors are aiming at and a glance over the attractive programme they have issued is sufficient to show that they have been pretty accurate in their aim.

There used to be complaints from local citizens that the fair was all right for the farmers, but that there was nothing for city people to see. The day of such complaints is over. Recognizing that there was a good deal of truth in the criticism, the energetic directors have paid considerable attention to the amusement phase of the exhibition. Hence the many superior attractions arranged for this year's Industrial.

The evening entertainment on Friday has been arranged especially for Peterborough people who would not otherwise have an opportunity of visiting the exhibition. The grounds will be illuminated and all the exhibits will be open for inspection while at the same time there will be a splendid grandstand performance.

Union Church Services At Hastings Now Discontinued

Examiner Special.

Hastings, Sept. 7.—The union services which have been in progress for the past six weeks, have been discontinued, both pastors having returned from their summer vacation, and each taking up his own work.

Special music was rendered by the choir of the Methodist Church on Sunday evening last, assisted by Miss Mallory, of Grafton, who took the solos in the different numbers and also sang very sweetly "Thy Will be Done." Miss Mallory possesses a clear, full voice, well under control, and the large congregation was very highly pleased with her renditions.

Mrs. Chambers, of Peterborough, is renewing old acquaintances here.

We regret to lose from our town Mrs. A. Anderson and family, who have moved their effects to Toronto, where they purpose residing in the future. In their removal the Methodist Church loses some faithful members who have been in full connection for a number of years. Charlie was well known here, having held the position of principal of the public school for some time, while Miss Jessie was widely known as a most successful music teacher, one whose place it will be difficult to fill. The citizens join in wishing them success in their new home.

Rev. D. A. Thomson and family, have returned after a three weeks' holiday in Toronto.

Mrs. Robt. Tudhope and daughter, of Norwood, are spending a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stewart.

Miss Mae Beavis spent a few days last week with friends in Norwood.

The members of he Auxliary of the W. M. S. were entertained at the home of Mrs Geo. Brooks on Wednesday last. A delicious luncheon was served in the course of the afternoon and the ladies went to their homes loud in their praise of their hostess. Miss Lottie, returned Missionary from China, delighted the members of the Auxiliary by her free and full account of some of the phases of her work there, and also by an exhibition of curios from that distant land.

Miss Clarry is visiting her brother, Mr. L. F. Clarry.

This section was visited by frost on Sunday night, August 29th, and in some of the low-lying districts considerable damage is reported.

Miss Carrie Doxsee has returned home, after a pleasant visit with friends in Cannington.

Mr. Sam. Hatherley is in Toronto attending the exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Carter, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Jos. Carter.

Mrs. Geo Buchanan, of Havelock, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. L. Spence, of the Union Bank staff here, has been transferred to Haileybury and will leave town very shortly.

Dr. King and family have returned to their home in Toronto, after a month's sojourn in our town.

Rev. Wm. Burns was in Peterborough on Sunday occupying the pulpit in St. Luke's church.

The drill scow has been completed and is now ready for use, while the wharf is nearing completion.

SERVICES AT ALL SAINTS CHURCH

Week night services begin again at All Saints' at 7:45. These will take the form of a Confirmation class at which the rector hopes to see not only those to be confirmed, but as many members of the congregation as can attend.

There is a chance of saving the steamer Laurentian, ashore off the coast of Newfoundland.

Isaiah Nicholas, an Indian, is in jail at London, Ont., on a charge of shooting at another Indian with intent.

G. E. Beach, C.P.R. ticket-seller at Fredericton, N.B., has been arrested on a charge of stealing from the company.

A report comes from Guelph that Alex. Bunyan, the man reported murdered at Grafton, was a native of that city, and the hole found in his head, on which the murder theory rests, was a birth mark.

Emery Shelley, held at Simcoe in connection with the shooting of Michael Hall, has been discharged, the crown having no evidence, except that the boy was shooting in the woods on the day of the tragedy.

Delivers Pole to President.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 9.—Commander Peary yesterday delivered the North Pole to President Taft, who replied, congratulating the explorer, but declaring he did not know exactly what he could do with the pole. The message read: "Have honor place North Pole your disposal."

Taft replied: "Thanks for your interesting and generous offer. I do not know exactly what I could do with it. I congratulate you sincerely on having achieved, after the greatest effort the object of your trip, and I sincerely hope that your observations will contribute substantially to scientific knowledge. You have added lustre to the name 'American'."

Forty Thousand Dollar Fire.

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 9.—Fire in the Boardman block did $40,000 damage yesterday, with $15,000 insurance. The sufferers include Saskatoon Drug Co., $12,000; P. P. Woolhouse, jeweler; G. A. Woolhouse, stationer, $7,000; Fighton, Bell & Turner, real estate; Dominion Express Co.

Town Covered by Water.

Mexico City, Sept. 9.—The destruction by flood of Soto La Marina, a town in the state of Temaulipas, is so complete that the whole place has completely disappeared with the exception of a few church towers that project from the surface of a veritable sea.

Not a Murder.

Sarnia, Sept. 9.—It is stated that the autopsy of the body of W. Hendrie, hotelman, shows that he received the fatal gash in the throat by a fall on the bedstead, and not by being stabbed.

"Have Him Nailed."

New York, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Peary received the following message yesterday: "Good morning. Delayed by gale. Don't let Cook story worry you. Have him nailed."

Water Vapor In Mars.

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—According to a statement made by Prof. W. W. Campbell, director of Lick Observatory, the recent astronomical expedition which has just returned from Mount Whitney brought back proof that water vapor exists on Mars, definite proof that the planet Mars is capable of supporting sentient beings.

Fall From Bridge Will Kill Him.

London, Sept. 9.—A. J. McKeen of Ingersoll, a bridge worker, fell from a C.P.R. bridge at Thamesford and fractured his skull. He was brought to this city and operated upon. There is no hope for his recovery. He is 25 years of age. His mother and sister reside in Woodstock.

AIR CARRIES HEALING MEDICINE

That Cures Colds, Catarrh and Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes.

About the healing power of the air of the pine woods everybody knows, but to supply it in the form of medicine seemed almost beyond realization. After many years of careful study a scientific remedy, now known as Catarrhozone, has been produced, which enables the sufferer to breathe into his lungs all the healing properties of the balsamic pine woods air. This marvellous remedy has conquered catarrh. It unquestionably does cure it permanently.

CURE IS GUARANTEED.

You cannot fail to be cured by Catarrhozone, because it reaches and destroys the cause of the disease. You simply inhale the antiseptic vapor. It instantly spreads to every part of the breathing organs. The micro-organisms infecting the diseased tissues of your nose, throat, and lungs die instantly. There is nothing left to cause inflammation. Any spots that are raw and sore are quicly healed by Catarrhozone, and you soon are completely cured.

IT RELIEVES INSTANTLY!

It is impossible to breathe through a Catarrhozone inhaler without at once feeling better. Your head is cured of mucous discharge, your nostrils are cleansed of all putrid matter, the phlegm is removed from your throat. Every trace of catarrh is searched out of the system by Catarrhozone, which thoroughly disinfects and purifies every organ of the body.

Catarrhozone is the only natural remedy for catarrh. It cures by cleansing and purifying all diseased tissues, not by deadening the stomach with drugs.

MINISTERS AND DOCTORS USE "CATARRHOZONE."

It is a clean, simple, and satisfactory remedy that is endorsed by the clergy, and universally prescribed by the medical profession because it is scientific and absolutely certain to effect lasting cures.

Don't be misled into accepting a substitute for Catarrhozone, which alone can cure thoroughly. It is so powerfully healing that colds disappear in an hour, coughs in two hours, and even bronchitis, asthma, and chronic catarrh in a comparatively short time. Two months' treatment, $1.00; Small size, 50c.; all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ontario.

TOOK CARBOLIC ACID.

Colin Gordon Was Found Dead In G.T.P. Freight Car.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—With his cap pulled over his face and his hands clasped on his breast, as if in prayer, Colin Gordon, 10 Law street, ward seven, was found dead in a Grand Trunk Pacific freight car on the St. Clair avenue siding about 7 o'clock last night. Burns on his chin suggest suicide by carbolic acid.

The body was discovered by John Hyslop and William Henderson, employes of the Union Stock Yards, who went to the car to get some hay.

It is quite evident that the body must have been in the car since morning. Gordon's lunch basket, unopened, was by his side. Coroner Dr. Clendenan was sent for and after examining the body, had it removed to Speers' undertaking parlors. Deceased, who was 49 years old, leaves a widow and two children, a boy 16 years old and a girl about 5.

Two months ago Mr. and Mrs. Gordon's 18-year-old daughter died of typhoid fever, and the father has been in poor health ever since and complained of insomnia. His daughter's death seemed to have been a heavy blow.

It is a somewhat striking coincidence that within the last four years there have been two or three deaths in this family, and not one of the deceased persons died at home. A little over a year ago Mrs. Gordon's mother died while visiting in England, her daughter Edna died in the Toronto Junction Hospital on Pacific avenue two months ago. Now the father is found dead in a freight car.

Dr. Clendenan notified Chief Coroner Johnston, who will decide, after hearing full particulars, whether or not an inquest will be held.

Misrepresentation Alleged.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—George S. Kerr, acting for R. S. Morris, yesterday filed the particulars in the charges of bribery, corruption and misrepresentation in his action to restrain the city from entering into a contract with the Hydro-Electric Commission. None of the names of those who were bribed or corrupted were given, but T. J. Stewart, M.P., and Ald. A. J. Wright, are charged with misrepresentation in their addresses before the public before the bylaw was submitted. The alleged misrepresentation consisted in stating that the city would not be put to any expense in taking power from the commission; that the Cataract Co. was using within six per cent. of the total amount of water, it was allowed by the Government to generate power, and that the street lighting contract made in July 1908 was not binding on the city. Mr. Stewart stated, when acquainted with the charge made against him, that he would back up his statements.

Victim of Assault Dead.

Qu'Appelle, Sask., Sept. 9.—A. H. Harris, who was found last week on his farm dangerously wounded, is dead.

The preliminary examination of H. M. Roper, who is under arrest, will be held Friday.

Roper, after dragging his victim's body into the bluff, went into the house put on his best clothes, packed a valise belonging to Harris and took his employer's bankbook, showing a substantial deposit at the Union Bank, Qu'Appelle. He then drove to town in the buggy, and it is alleged, forged and cashed a check for $60. He left the horse and buggy at a livery stable, said good-bye to a number of friends and took the train east. Roper informed his friends that he was going to Montreal, but he left the train at Winnipeg, where he was arrested.

Scotland Gets Contract.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 9.—The local Government have accepted the tender of Thomas Nelson and Sons of Edinburgh, Scotland, for supplying the primer, and first and second readers, which books are now being distributed free to the school children of Manitoba. Theirs was lowest and most satisfactory tender submitted. The contract is for ten years, and also provides for supplying third and fourth year readers, if the Government decide to place these books on the free text list.

All the well-known publishers in the Dominion submitted tenders. One of the conditions was to state the price f.o.b. Winnipeg, and even at this the Scotch firm was away the lowest of them all.

Record Aeroplane Flight.

Aldershot, Eng., Sept. 9.—During a dead calm at an early hour yesterday morning, Capt. F. S. Cody, the American aeroplanist who has been in the service of the British army for a number of years, achieved what is believed to be the world's record for a cross-country flight in an aeroplane. In the big and cumbersome machine which is his own invention, Cody remained in the air for one hour and three minutes, covering over forty miles. His machine at times rose to an altitude of 400 feet, and traveled occasionally at the rate of fifty miles an hour. Cody had to land because his fuel gave out.

Sends For Eskimos.

Copenhagen, Sept. 9.—It is settled that Cook will send a ship back to bring to America the two Eskimos of his journey to the pole, as well as some of the party who were sent back when the start of the last stage began. Capt. Sverdrup may command the expedition. It is Dr. Cook's deside that he shall do so, and they conferred for some hours yesterday regarding the details of the expedition.

Toronto Exhibition.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—Despite the note of warning not infrequently struck within the past few years that the agricultural community of Ontario is being depleted through the lure of the western wheat fields, Farmers' Day at the Exhibition overtopped last year's record attendance by 5,000, which seems to indicate that "Canada's Greatest" goes serenely on its march of progress in face of all circumstances.

The cold statement of cash receipts for the day was not ready last night, but they probably exceed $20,000, as against $18,800 last year. Treasurer Bruntnall said the takings at the Dufferin street gate were greater than those of all the gates last year. Grandstand receipts were also in excess, a splendid crowd of at least 20,000 enjoying the performance with its especially liberal display of fireworks.

Among the visitors were: Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, and W. S. Calvert, M.P., Liberal whip. They were invited to remain for the evening, but had to leave early to catch a train for Ottawa.

Casualties were almost nil, not a single accident of at all serious nature being reported. The police and firemen also had an off day.

Airship Skims St. Lawrence.

Quebec, Sept. 9.—News has just leaked out that Laureate Le Clerc, an employe of the Canadian Northern, is the inventor of an airship which made a flight from the Plains of Abraham across the St. Lawrence, landing at the drydock at St. Joseph de Levis, about five miles. Towards midnight the same night he ascended again and made a flight northwards towards Montmorency Falls, and doubled the Island of Orleans. This is said to be the seventh ascension. He proposes a more ambitious flight Sunday next.

Suspect In Custody.

Cobourg, Sept. 9.—John McCracken was arrested yesterday, about six miles north of Brighton, under instruction from Inspector Miller.

This is the man who, rumor has it, was with the man Banyan, whose body was found on the railway tracks on Sunday. His movements will be traced. He has been sleeping in barns, and is charged as a vagrant.

Fire Rangers to Rescue.

Lugadin Lake, Ont., Sept. 9.—Two prospectors owe their lives to the timely assistance rendered by Fire-rangers Sweeny and Copping. While returning to camp in a canoe with provisions from the Lady Evelyn store, they were upset. They had to cling for some time to the overturned craft and were rescued just in time in an exhausted condition.

Three Thousand Bid Good-Bye.

Montreal, Sept. 9.—There was an affecting scene at the St. James' Cathedral last evening, when Archbishop Bruchesi and some 3,000 of the faithful wished an affectionate farewell to six French-Canadian nuns of the newly-founded community of the immaculate conception, who go to China to labor in that distant and difficult mission field.

Big Theft of Furs.

Edmonton, Sept. 9.—The fur storehouse of Hislop & Nagle at Athabaska Landing was broken into, and furs concentrated there were stolen, to the value of between ten and fifteen thousand dollars. This is an almost unprecedented occurrence, it being usual as in this case to leave goods unprotected for days in the northern territory.

Sat on the Track, Asleep.

Detroit, Sept. 9.—A Traverse City, Mich., special says:

Sent back to flag an approaching passenger train and protect a freight train, which was trying to make the side track, John A. McClurg, aged 25, a Grand Rapids and Indiana Railway brakeman, went to sleep on a side track and was struck by the north-bound passenger train. He was brought to the hospital here in a serious condition.

McClurg says he was worn out from overwork and sat down on the ties to rest. The passenger engineer saw the man on the track, but could not stop his engine in time to avoid hitting him.

As had he not been seen on the rails, the passenger train, which was running at a high speed, would have crashed into the freight just around the curve.

Ayr, Ont., Sept. 9.—A case of suicide early Tuesday morning on the farm of Thomas Bawtinheimer, near Wolverton, a few miles from here. Miss Agnes Scott, a sister-in-law, aged about 50 years, was found suspended by a rope from an apple tree.

FIRE INSURANCE

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catalogue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance:—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

Herb Routley Declared The Winner Of Nobel Trophy

The Secretary of the Peterborough Gun Club has just received from Montreal the trophy donated by the "Nobel Powder Co." for competition by the local club, to be shot for at five regular shoots during the past season —the member making the highest score in the five shoots to be the winner.

Mr. H. Routley who is the fortunate man, received the prize to-day and is to be highly congratulated on his success, this being his first year as a member of the Club. The trophy is a sterling silver watch fob, bearing the emblem of the Dominion Cartridge Co., with the inscription, "Presented by the Nobel Powder Co. of Montreal," and was offered on condition that the Dominion Cartridge Co. ammunition, loaded with Nobel powder, be used throughout the competition. This ammunition has given splendid satisfaction and all members are highly pleased with the shells.

MARTY WALSH GETS HANDSOME OFFER

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The first intimation of the expected scramble for star hockey players next winter comes from Marty Walsh, Ottawa's prodigious scorer in centre ice. Haileybury is after Walsh and has made him an offer the ordinary player would grab at hook, line and sinker. Marty, however, is booked to take up his residence here shortly and there is little chance of him playing away from the Capital.

ENTRIES FOR Y.M.C.A. SPORTS ON SATURDAY

There will be a big crowd on hand at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, when the contests for the Howden and Eastwood Trophies will be run off under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. In both contests there will be a large entrance list as there is keen competition. A number have been training for some time and will be in the best of shape for the contest.

Riverside Park makes an ideal place for an athletic meet. A good track will be laid around the field and the spectators will have a good view of the course from the grandstand.

RUGBY EXECUTIVE MEETING TO-NIGHT

There will be an important meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club in the Orderly room of the armouries to-night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of making arrangements for the opening of the season, discussing plans and prospects and arranging for the City League, which this year, will be under the control of the Peterborough Club. Every member of the executive is expected to be present.

TWO DAY EXCURSION TO FENELON FALLS—The farmers of Dummer and Douro will run an excursion from Lakefield to Fenelon Falls on Sept. 10 and 11. The Steamer Stony Lake will leave Lakefield on the arrival of the morning train from Peterborough on Friday, Sept. 10, arriving in Fenelon Falls about 5 o'clock p. m. Returning will arrive in Lakefield to connect with the afternoon train on Saturday for Peterborough. Music on board. Return Fare $1.00.

Southern Manchuria.

The soil and climate of southern Manchuria, especially throughout the fertile Liao valley, is naturally adapted to the abundant production of Indian corn. The rich alluvial soil, together with the long, hot summer days and warm nights, combined with copious showers, constitute ideal conditions for the successful production of corn.

The Hot Air Balloon.

It is related that the hot air balloon had its origin in a petticoat Mme. Montgolfier had washed her garment, intending to wear it to a great festival the next day, and hung it over a chafing dish to dry. The hot air swelled out its folds and floated it up into the air. The lady, in astonishment, called her husband to see the sight. He at once grasped the idea and was not long in producing the hot air balloon.

Unrequited Love.

First Office Boy—Mr boss is awful cranky lately. I wonder what makes him so hard on a fellow. Second Office Boy—Dat's easy. When a man's hard on a fellow it's a sign he's soft on a girl.—Lippincott's.

Not His Fault.

The Poet—Poets are born, not made. The Girl—I know. I wasn't blaming you.—Boston Transcript.

The Meredith Cocoanut.

George Meredith may not have been an altogether familiar author to the ordinary reader who craves for quick sensation. He never came down to the simplicity of Sherlock Holmes or Captain Kettle. Meredith required as acute and trained intellect before he could be appreciated.

It was once mentioned, in referring to the difficulty which some people experience in reading Meredith's novels that the Meredith "cocoanut" was very hard, but that the milk when reached proved to be very sweet. This joke got into the papers.

Two days afterward a well known firm of fruiterers had an inquiry after these cocoanuts from a country customer! The letter was to the effect that, having read somewhere that Meredith's cocoanuts have had a large sale lately and that the milk was fashionable, the writer would like to have a few to try.—London Tatler.

Queer Postal Training.

In China whoever wishes to enter the postal service must give evidence of courage, robustness, power of endurance, ability to traverse great distances over mountains and valleys and through dangerous forests frequented by wild beasts and robbers. After this the applicant is sent into uncanny places, which are considered to be the abodes of evil spirits. When the Chinaman has satisfied the authorities in regard to these matters he is appointed a letter carrier.

A Matter of Mind.

"I have a great mind to go to the club tonight," said Mr. J. to his wife.

"What?" she replied with surprise.

"I have a great mind to go to the club tonight."

"Whose?" she asked.

"Whose what?"

"Whose great mind?"

"Why, my own, of course, madam."

"Oh!" and the rising inflection she gave the ejaculation was very provoking to a man of fine feeling.

Tenless Towns.

No fewer than 1,500 towns and villages in Germany still own, and have owned, down from the middle ages, so much common land that their inhabitants pay neither rates nor taxes. Five hundred of these townships and villages derive so great a rental from their lands that they are able, in addition, to pay every citizen on New Year's day, a bonus of from $25 to $100 as his share of the surplus revenue.

Had No More Time.

"I can't wait any further for you. What are you reading, anyhow?"

"Henry James. Wait until I finish this chapter."

They Adjourned.

"Since you have insisted on trying on my hat, Miss Mabel, I shall certainly claim the forfeit."

"I don't know what you mean, sir; and besides, this isn't a good place; they can see us from the hotel."—Life.

Quite Rare.

Gus—What did you think of our amateur theatricals, Miss Mamie? Rather a rare entertainment, was it not? Miss Mamie—Well—er—yes; it wasn't very well done, to be sure.—Harper's Bazar.

Averice increases with the increase [illegible] of gold.—Juvenal.

Nervous People

SALT OF THE EARTH

But when overstrained their highly strung systems give way and depression and suffering is intense.

Money is made these days at the expense of brain and nerve rather than muscular tissues.

The successful men and women are often of the highest strung nervous type—keen and active—but with two little reserve force.

A little extra worry and anxiety and snap goes the nervous system. Weeks and months are often required before energy and vigour are regained.

Rest helps, so does fresh air and exercise but the blood must also be made rich and red by the use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Much as they may disagree on some points the best physicians are unanimous in claiming that an abundance of rich, red, life-sustaining nerve invigorating blood is positively necessary for the restoration of the exhausted nervous system.

There is too often little sympathy for the nervous sufferer. When as a matter of fact his sufferings are most intense, being of mind as well as body.

Headaches, neuralgia, indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability, pains and cramps are often the lesser felt because of the depressed spirits and discouragements which come with loss of memory and gloomy forebodings of the future.

The sufferer from nervous exhaustion and prostration can use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with positive assurance that the benefits derived therefrom will be both thorough and lasting.

There is no reaction from this great nerve-builder because it is not a stimulant but a restorative and reconstructor of the wasted nervous system. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

From Game to Game.

He was afraid to tell her right out and out that he loved her, so he began in a roundabout way, hoping she would catch his drift, thus betray, by her confusion, her own feelings. He didn't dream but that she loved him, but thought that she, like himself, was afraid to demonstrate it.

"Heart trouble," she repeated. "Are you sure you've heart trouble, Alfred? You know indigestion is very like it at times."

"Oh, I know I've got heart trouble, all right. I—can't you see it yourself?"

"Why, how silly, Alfred! No one can see heart trouble. They have to feel it. Have you taken anything for it?"

"No, not yet. But I—I want to, don't you know."

"Then why don't you?"

"I—I would—that is, if I could get it."

"Can't you get it, Alfred?"

"I—I don't know."

"Have you tried?"

"No, not yet."

(Silence for two provoking moments.)

"Alfred?" (coldly).

"Y-yes."

"Let's have a game of checkers."

They report Bug Death has made an excellent record in each of the past two years. The potatoes on which the Bug Death was applied were more vigorous in growth and greener in appearance throughout each of the seasons than those on which other applications were made.

DO YOU WANT BETTER CROPS?

Of course you do. Well, the way is clear. Use Bug Death and you'll not only have a heavier crop, but larger potatoes of better quality.

OBITUARY.

FUNERAL OF WM. COOK

The funeral of the late William Edwin Cook which will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock will be in charge of Nassau Lodge, No. 457, of Orangemen, and the sister lodges are requested to attend.

MRS. SAMUEL N. MUNRO.

On Sept. 9th, 1909, at 555 Roslyn Avenue, Westmount, Emma Davidson Munro, beloved wife of Samuel N. Munro, and eldest daughter of William Davidson, Peterborough, passed away peacefully to the home eternal. She possessed a sweet, gentle manner and was a devoted wife and mother, the light of her home. She fell asleep leaving a husband, daughter, and son, who, with her father, mother, sister and brothers, mourn her loss. Her resignation and self forgetfulness were beautiful to see. Her sick room was full of cheer, as if the sunshine had left its rays lingering with her to brighten and cheer others.

"There is no death! What seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portal we call Death."

WEDDING BELLS

DODDS—HAWLEY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Uriah Hawley, 548 Downie street, when his daughter, Miss Ettabelle was united in marriage to Mr. Hurrell Dodds, East City. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robt. Pogue, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who was given away by her father looked very pretty in her travelling suit of chicory lady's cloth with hat to match. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Clara Dodds, sister of the groom. She was becomingly attired in grey. She carried pink roses.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the young couple, a sumptuous wedding repast was partaken of.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodds left on the 4:38 train for Toronto and Buffalo, and on their return they will reside on Mark street, East City.

HAIG—RHODEHOUSE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wright, 302 Louis street, yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, when Miss Jennie Rhodehouse was united in marriage to Mr. George Haig, of Campbellford. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Charlotte Street Methodist Church, and the bride and groom were unattended. The bride was becomingly attired in a travelling suit of navy blue with hat to match.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Haig left on the 11:45 G.T.R. train for Toronto and points west. On their return they will reside in Campbellford.

COONES—VANZANT

A quiet wedding was celebrated this morning at St. Andrew's manse when Clinton Bishop Coones was united in marriage to Mrs. Isabella Vanzant, daughter of Mr. D. McDonald, of Georgina, Ont. The ceremony was performed at 11 o'clock by Rev. J. G. Potter. Both were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Coones will reside on Stewart street.

Mexican Town Has Sunk From Sight

Solo La Marina Has Disappeared From View With Exception of Few Church Towers.

EVIDENCES OF LIFE

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Mexico City, Sept. 9.—Word has been received here that the destruction of Solo la Marina, a town in the State of Tamaulipas, was so complete that the whole place has entirely disappeared, with the exception of a few church towers that project from the surface of a veritable lake. No one has been able to get closer than a league from where the town once stood. From that point rescue parties have noticed tents on the side of a small hill, the only evidence of life remaining.

WAS A PASSENGER ON ILL-FATED BOAT

J. P. Gibson, who is well known in Peterborough, having been a student with Dr. Johnston, V.S., until he graduated from the Ontario Veterinary College a few months ago, was one of the passengers on the ill-fated steamer Ohio, which struck a reef and went to the bottom of the Pacific Ocean on August 26th. G. E. Eccles, the Canadian wireless operator, who stayed at his post of duty till it was too late to save himself, was one of those who perished in the wreck. The Ohio went down on the edge of Millbank Sound, 250 miles south of Ketchikan. Dr. Gibson was on his way to Alaska, and had a narrow escape. He had been appointed veterinary inspector of a large contracting firm, who are doing work in Alaska, and was bound to the north when the wreck occurred.

Dr. Johnston has received a letter from Dr. Gibson in which he tells about the wreck. He also forwards a copy of the Seattle Times in which an account of the disaster appears.

Part of the letter is as follows:

"I am alive all right, but I lost all my instruments and diplomas, and clothes and all I had when it went down. It was an awful experience and I hope never to have such a one again. When I got out of my bed at the call it made my hair stand on end. At 1:30—it was rainy and very dark—the ship hit a rock. There was a panic and a rush for the life boats. They kept her going till 1:48 and then ran her ashore. At 2:15 she went down. There were four or five lost. I got into a boat and we started for no one knows where. It was so dark that we felt like blind men groping about. At last the boat struck shore, and we landed on a desolate island. There we remained till we were picked up late the next day. It is easy to sit here and write this, but I hope I never again see such a wreck."

TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL SKIN

About one sixth of all the waste matter discharged from the human body passes through the pores of the skin. If the skin is to be kept beautiful the pores must be kept in healthful condition by bathing and by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment which overcomes all chafing and irritation of the skin and cures pimples, eruptions and the many forms of eczema.

SAYS THERE IS TRUTH IN HIS STATEMENTS

Mr. R. C. Braund is of the opinion that there is considerable truth in Mr. W. A. Bailey's reference to the number of holidays that the school children receive. It is not that he is opposed to the little folks having plenty of play and fresh air, and everything that is necessary to their regly physical development. Mr. Braund is a friend of the children, but he likewise feels that the school holidays are too long. The children run around all day, getting into childish mischief, tearing clothes, bothering the neighbours and generally demanding the attention of their parents. They are probably more tired at bedtime than if they had spent three or four hours of the day at school, where they could be improving themselves. Remembering his own school days, Mr. Braund is not desirous of having the pleasure of the young generation curtailed, but he feels that there is altogether too much time devoted to holidays.

WORK ON SMITH STREET BRIDGE SOON UNDER WAY

Mr. Geo. A. Begy, accompanied by his son and by Mr. J. L. Boyd, C.E., of Toronto, engineer for the company, were in the city to-day in connection with the Smith St. Bridge contract. Mr. Begy stated to the Examiner that they would likely sign the contract within a short time and that the work on the bridge would be commenced shortly after the agreement was decided with the city. Mr. Begy is satisfied that a reinforced concrete bridge will make a desirable structure at Smith street.

How Is Your Watch Running?

Watch Repairing Always Has Been a Hobby of Ours to do the Best Work Possible.

Is it always fast or slow; never quite on time? Perhaps the watch is capable of very accurate running, but it is not in perfect order. You know the tiny mechanism of a watch absolutely demands that each of the dozens of little parts—jewels, springs, wheels, etc.—be just right, or good timing is out of the question.

E. H. HARRIMAN, FAMOUS RAILWAY MAGNATE, PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON AT ARDEN

Life Story of the Financial Wizard, Upon Whom the Conditions in Wall Street Largely Depended—Was Active Almost to the End.

E. H. Harriman from a Photograph Taken Early in 1908.

HIS RISE TO WEALTH

Edward Henry Harriman was born Feb. 24, 1848, at Hampton, L.I. He was the second son in a family of six children. His father was Rev. Orlando H. Harriman, an Episcopal minister.

The Harrimans were poor as church mice. The elder Harriman changed parishes every year, but not till Edward was nearly grown did he get one where he could earn a comfortable living. Always his meagre salary was in arrears, and his pride prevented him from accepting help from his friends. The Harriman children were pressed even for food and clothing.

Young Harriman's education was little and desultory. His father helped him some at home, and he attended some grade schools. Also he had a year at a denominational church where ministers' sons were educated free.

While still in his teens, young Harriman went into Wall street as a broker's clerk. He was an undersized, near-sighted, weak-looking young man, reticent, repelling confidence, one who made few friends.

But he was keen as a polished steel blade. Despite his weak appearance he was indefatigable.

And behind his big glasses glowed his eyes, deep set, penetrating, calculating, hard. He set in to learn the Wall street game. It was in the early '70s. His teachers were Jay Gould and Jim Fiske and Jay Cooke.

So young Harriman was soon trading on the floor—for his customers, for himself. If he was noticed at all by the giants of the Exchange, it was as a shrewd young man, remarkably quick on his feet with every turn of the market, quick as a flash to change position and protect himself.

Within ten or fifteen years he had made good. He had made his million, had won the respect of W. K. Vanderbilt and Stuyvesant Fish. Theirs were the only sort of friendships he allowed himself. He had established his own brokerage and banking house—E. H. Harriman & Co.

Also he was studying railroads—studying them as no man had ever done before. He wasn't a railroad wrecker like Jay Gould. He was no builder like Jim Hill. He saw an opportunity for wielding the power of Wall Street, to build up and combine and connect railroads. He saw himself bringing the power of Wall street to the railroads, and using the street to build up, to combine, to connect, to wrest vast profits from the carrying trade of the nation—of compelling the commerce of United States to pour out tribute to him.

Already he was looking westward, his eyes on the intrenched wealth as yet undeveloped.

He became friendly—but not a friend—with Stuyvesant Fish, who had admired his ability, and had him made a director of the Illinois Central, then a struggling road of 2,000 miles. Till 1887, when Fish became president and Harriman vice president, the broker was completing his "education." He worked with Fish in building the I. C. to a powerful corporation operating nearly 6,000 miles of trackage.

Fish was content to build up the Illinois Central, but his vice president was looking far beyond. He had his eyes on the west first. His opportunity came in 1889 in the purchase of the Chicago & Alton.

The Alton, though in bad condition physically, was a great money-maker. It was independent of a national traffic arrangement, and was the bugbear of all other railroads. It wouldn't play the game. T. B. Blackstone, of Chicago, was president, and held a majority of stock. The Goulds, Standard Oil and other big interests wanted it. It remained for the yet unknown Harriman to snatch it from the paws of the big fellows.

For Blackstone demanded a staggering price for his road. He wanted not only the market price for his holdings, but exacted that all the stock-

WINNIPEG'S BUILDING PROGRESS THREATENED BY GENERAL STRIKE

All Labour Unions in the Building Trades Will Meet to Decide Whether or Not They Will Go On Strike in Sympathy With Carpenters Who Are Demanding Higher Pay From Bosses.

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—Notices have been sent out to the various unions affiliated with the building trades' council of Winnipeg, for a general mass meeting of organized labor to be held to-night at which time the question of a general sympathetic strike, to assist the carpenters, will be discussed.

The unions will meet separately and a referendum vote will be taken behind closed doors. The sentiment of the unions will be learned, and the members will later meet in general assembly to come to a decision.

It is estimated that about 3,000 union men will be affected in the event of a general strike.

Yesterday the carpenters asserted they had received no official notice of the 40 cents per hour ultimatum, said to have been made by the employers Wednesday night.

The carpenters say that the employers have been at work for some time gathering up men in England, and that about 1,500 carpenters will be brought over to Winnipeg in case the strikers do not accept the final offer, but this is denied by the builders' exchange.

TRACTION ENGINE ALMOST THROUGH HALES' BRIDGE

Two accidents occured on the Trent Canal yesterday, both of which might have proved more serious than they actually proved to be. Yesterday morning a traction engine in passing over Wallace's Point or as it is also known Hales' Bridge, smashed the stringers and planking on the swing portion of the bridge. The engine was very nearly precipitated down into the channel.

Yesterday evening, when the Water Lily was on its way to Peterborough, she dashed into one of the gates at Lock No. 2, between Peterborough and Lakefield bending the iron shaft that is used in operating the gate and doing other damage to a considerable extent. Mr. Gordon, Overseer of this division immediately had a force of men repairing the work, but it will be some days before the lock is in its usual good working order. In the meantime, however, provision is made whereby boats can be locked through without any interruption to navigation.

The bridge at Wallace's Point is also being repaired and traffic over it will be resumed to-night.

BRING THEM TO PETERBOROUGH

The suggestion of the delegates to the Imperial Press Conference, that British manufacturers were neglecting opportunities for profitable business in the expanding markets of the Dominion, is bearing fruit.

The London Daily Mail has sent a special trade commissioner, Mr. F. A. Mackenzie, to Canada. He has already seen enough to induce him to tell the British manufactrer that if he wants to get Canada's trade, in competition with his United States rival, he must set up branch factories in certain lines in Canada, and thus be in close touch with the trade and co-operate with Canadian capital and enterprise. Here is an opportunity for our City Fathers and Board of Trade to make known where the knowledge will do the most good, the advantages presented by Peterborough for the establishment and successful operation of British manufacturing enterprises seeking a location in Canada.

CANAL ENLARGEMENT.

The day of canals is not over though the continent is being gridironed with railways. We have in this city, alerady realized the local benefit of the Trent Canal. Two fine churches, one completed and one under way, testifying to the utilisation of northern granite deposits, heretofore useless. What benefits the city may derive from the created accessibility of northern granite, in the way of god material for street macadam, in substitution for the unscreened and mud-mixed gravel that is dumped upon our streets, depend upon the public spirit and good sense of our civic administrators. If, with the canal uncompleted at both ends, we have so gratifying a foretaste of important material advantages what can we expect from the speedily approaching completion of the Trent Canal? This is not to exclude its usefulness in assisting in moving the wheat crop of the West. Yesterday the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Navigation Association meeting in Toronto declared in favour of deepening the Welland Canal, and will urge the matter upon the Dominion Government. This Government will not need much urging. It appreciates the importance of the St. Lawrence route, of whcih the Welland Canal is an important part. Its liberal expenditure in improving the harbour of Montreal and deepening the river channel from Montreal to Quebec, is proof that it will not neglect a work necessary to contributing to its greatest usefulness. We are constantly enlarging the hopper—in the great wheat growing west—and must give corresponding attention to enlarging the spout.

THE WEST AND TREE GROWTH.

One of the standrd objections to the Canadian West, is its dreary treelessness. This is, from both scenic and climatic considerations, a capital objection. But, in the interests of its future it is an objection that can be overcome. As there is in denuded Ontario an opporunitty for extensive and benign reforestery operations, so there is in the West both opportunity and warrant for the work of clothing naked landscapes, with the modifying, molifying and transforming presence of arboreal investiture. The soil of marvellous richness is there and the success that has been accomplished in some parts in the way of tree growth and the development of forest conditions, justifies the adoption and practice of a general forestration policy The experience of Winnipeg in the case of her parks, as referred to in the following from the Manitoba Free Press, shows the possibility of tree culture in the West:

• • • Those who visited Assiniboine park yesterday could not repress their astonishment at the appearance of what was so recently wild land. But what Winnipeg has done with swamps, with neglected spaces, treeless like so much of the Far West, can be done in any part of the Canadian West. The soil and the climate only want the touch of a hand that desires to enjoy the appearance and the blessing of trees. Central Park in Winnipeg, now so glorious a garden in the heart of the city, was thirteen or fourtten years ago a forbidding alkali swamp that gave no promise of ever being beautiful. But the Public Parks Board took it in hand and have made it what it is to-day, a splendid breathing spot at the doorsteps of thousands of citizens. Likewise, the experts tell us the homes on the treeless prairies of the West can be made by tree cultivation as desirable as those in Winnipeg, whose principal charm is their wealth of tree and shrub.

The Dominion Government experimental farms in the West have shown that many varieties of trees thrive on these rolling prairies which the first settlers believed were destined by Providence to be forever treeless. It is now known that the bareness was due to other causes, such as the constantly recurring prairie fires, the huge herds of buffalo that tramped the prairies, the rank growth of grass and the lack of an abundant rainfall. The latter is at present an obstacle, but experiments have demonstrated that by careful cultivation trees will take root and thrive. Those kinds that will thrive were noted in a paper which Mr. Angus Mackay, Superintendent of the Indian Head Farm, read before the Forestry Convention at Regina.

The attention and expenditure that have been devoted to tree planting in Winnipeg during the last few years have given direct, tangible results that are obvious to every visitor to the city. It was the trees and the boulevards that particularly excited the admiration of the visiting scientists. What citizen is there who does not think that the trees of the city and its parks are among its most desirable features, giving him the most satisfactory results for the money he has spent upon them.

There are encouragement and instruction in these remarks. We are informed that the one chief objection to the West as a land of homes, its treeless character, is an objection that can be overcome or, rather, overgrown. This gives a new importance to the West of Canada. There is a limitless expanse of soil unsurpassed in fertility, capable of growing all the cereals and vegetables used by civilisation. When the planting and growth of trees shall have had their transforming scenic and climatic influence, the cheerlessness of the landscape will be removed and the complete conditions of happy homes will have been achieved The conversation of our forest resources is a matter of paramount importance, but not more so than the matter of reforestry. In Ontario, in Peterborough county, in Peterborough City, in every street of the city, the matter of tree planting, tree preservation and tree improvement is a vital one, and should be made part of a scheme of general, and as far as Canada, east and west, are concerned, universal tree planting. Every waste place on every farm invites the labour and care of the tree planter.

NECESSARY INFORMATION.

Most farmers can estimate closely the number of bushels of grain raised, and tell fairly accurately the number of tons of hay grown, but when it comes to the really most important income of the farm, the product of each cow, it's all a blank, and they say, "Oh, I don't know, I get my cheque each month, that's all I care about."

While a knowledge of the total weight of milk delivered at the factory is necessary, it never conveys to the farmer the information he stands in need of as to the profit made by each cow in the stable. That information is absolutely necessary to him if he desires to consider himself a credit to his profession, a first-class, business-like dairyman. Otherwise these satisfying totals or delusive averages will continue to allow the one or two poor cows in every herd to consume good feed for which no profitable return is ever given.

In many herds where no attempt at checking up individual performance has been made, there is frequently to be found a difference of $30 or $40 in the earning power of the best and poorest cow. Farmers need to consider that statement carefully. In the Dominion are to be found herds, let us say of 12 or 14 cows, with a fairly good average yield of perhaps as high as 5,500 lbs. milk, where the highest yield is close on to 8,000 lbs. milk, and 330 lbs. fat; but, where the lowest yield is only about 3,700 lbs. milk and 150 lbs. fat. Such comparisons are only made possible by noting the actual performance of each individual cow for her full milking period. Weigh and sample regularly and make sure that each cow brings in good profit.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Brockville is fortunate in having had its exhibition opened by the Premier of Canada, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The fair directors must have a "big pull wid Loryea."

Who should decide when doctors disagree? Peary, who claims to have spotted the North Pole, calls Cook, who makes the same claim, a liar, and Cook declares him another. That's pretty much the present situation.

Is there not a possibility of giving too much prominence to technical education; of making it an end not an incident in popular education. A child destied to take a leading place in the mechanical arts, has a right to as much culture as associated with general education, as a child intended for a lawyer or a physician.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE FIRE.

The Weekly Sun, a journal which claims to be independent, but has never shown any marked hostility to the Whitney Government, thus discourses under the above heading of the Government's responsibility in respect of the recent disastrous fire at the Partliament Buildings, Toronto:

So far as one can judge from reports in the daily press too much cannot be said in praise of the work of the Toronto Fire Department at the Parliament Buildings' fire. Premier Whitney and those colleagues who were with him also appear to have played a most creditable part in assisting in fighting the flames after they had learned that a conflagration was in progress.

The question to which an answer is demanded, however, is why the blaze was allowed to get such headway in the beginning? A space of twelve minutes elapsed, according to the published reports, after the fire was discovered before the city fire department was called in. Such delay, if it really took place, with telephones and other means of alarm on every hand, is wholly indefensible. Still more inexcusable is it that the flames were allowed to get a headway at all. With officials and caretakers all over, and with the possibility of fighting fire by resources within the place itself that modern progress has made available, it should be utterly impossible, in daytime at all events, for a blaze to make a beginning.

The people of Ontario cannot institute an enquiry which will show just where the weakness existed, but they can and should hold the Government, which is supreme within the buildings, to strict account for permitting such glaring weakness in management as the event has shown, to have continued from day to day.

NORTHCLIFFE'S NURSERY TALE.

(London Advertiser.)

After painting a highly-coloured word picture of Germany's naval activities, Lord Northcliffe asks a western interviewer what would become of the Canadian wheat crop or of Winnipeg and Fort William, "if, about harvest time, as happened in France in 1870, you read a cable in the Winnipeg papers one morning that all your stuff had been held up in the Atlantic? I should like to know what would be the price of No. 1 hard."

This is the clap-trap with which Lord Northcliffe and his newspapers and a schoool of professional alarmists in Great Britain have been regaling the British public during the past few years. It looked a short time ago as if these panic-mongers would stampede the people. A Dreadnought scare swept over the country and carried a bye-election or two for the Jingoes; but the Britishers soon regained their sober senses. Happily their thoughts have been turned to domestic affairs by a great democratic budget and the Dreadnought craze is now forgotten or laughed at. In a saner and calmer mood, John Bull has examined the facts and is convinced that his matchless navy was never in a state of greater efficiency or preparedness than to-day. Its supremacy is safe in the hands of the present Government.

Lord Northcliffe trades in sensationalism and is one of the crowd who, in Lloyd-George's words, would build a navy against nightmares. The suggestion that Britons will wake up some morning to find that Germany has declared war on them and wrested from them the control of the high seas, is too childinsh to inspire anything but derision among the people of this country.

E. H. HARRIMAN, WORLD FAMOUS RAILWAY MAGNATE, PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

holders should be bought out, at the same price, and that the transaction should be cash. This meant a deal of $45,000,000 in cash—a thing unthinkable.

But Harriman, "the great borrower," went down into Wall street, got the money and bought the Alton, paying $42,000,000 in cold cash for it. It was a staggering deal, an eye-opener to older financiers. But Harriman went farther. He issued millions in bonds to develop the road, sold the bonds to himself and his friends, cleared $30,000,000 on his deal, thus making the Alton cost him only about nine millions.

This transaction aroused Wall street's admiration. It was to be several years yet before the public heard much more about him.

Poor old Union Pacific was Harriman's next venture. This road, built with Government help, which, to state it mildly, was most generous, had gone to seed. It owed the Government $52,000,000, and couldn't pay. The Government had foreclosed, and was operating it under a receivership. Harriman, the borrower, got $56,000,000 and bought the road.

Then Harriman began to make his dreams come true. He went over the road like a physician, doctoring its physical and financial ills. One great handicap it had—no outlet to the coast. So it extended only from Kansas City on the east to Ogden in the west. Then Harriman went after the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. and the Oregon Short Line and got them. This brought him into Portland and within striking distance of Puget Sound.

Now he turned south. Old Collis P. Huntington, builder and president of the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific, was resting on his laurels. Harriman modestly wanted the Central Pacific which ran from Ogden into 'Frisco. Huntington laughed at him, of course. So Harriman started another company to build a parallel line. Huntington died before this plan could be carried through, but the bluff worked with his estate, and Harriman immediately took over the S. P. and the C. P.

This added 9,600 miles to the Harriman ownership at one stroke and Harriman became a national figure.

Then came the Northern Pacific-Burlington-Great Northern merger. Harriman, modest as always, wanted in on this. Jim Hill waved him aside. So Harriman took the offensive by going after the Northern Pacific. The result was the greatest railroad fight Wall street ever saw. It was Morgan and Hill on one side—a combination to daunt anyone but Harriman—and the lone broker and his powerful backing which believed in him, on the other.

Wall street saw the Northern Pacific stocks hammered up to 200, 300, 400, 800, 1,000 a share. Great fortunes were wiped out. In that pitiless struggle millionaires toppled and fell. It was Jacob H. Schiff of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Harriman's most effective backers who, on his knees, begged the master raider to lay off.

But before Harriman had stopped he had 78 millions out of 155—one million better than control of stock. But part of this was preferred stock, which might be retired. And Hill and Morgan held the power of retiring the stock. It was an alternative between a lawsuit and a compromise. Harriman compromised, getting representation on the board of directors of the Burlington.

The Santa Fe was another rich road waiting for someone to grab it off. It was independent in policy, being run from the general offices instead of a stock ticker, and Hill, the Goulds and the Rock Island people all coveted it. But again Harriman got away with the prize, securing control in 1906.

It was in the same year that he got half interest in the San Pedro line, the road Senator Clark put in from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles.

Even such a keen judge of men as Stuyvesant Fish, ruling the Illinois Central, was yet to be deceived by Harriman's foxy tactics. Fish, a benefactor of the wizard, had put him in the practical end of the railroad game. Fish's pride was the Illinois Central. Harriman, though personally friendly to Fish, reached out for control, and of course got it. Fish was deposed after as stormy an internal fight as ever was waged in a road's inner circles.

Fighting to the last ditch, Fish quit game. Harriman's man, J. T. Harahan, Fish's former aid, was made president of the road.

When ex-President Roosevelt was writing voluminous things about malefactors of great wealth, Mr. Harriman had a "hunch" that the president was saying things about him.

Harriman had raised a large sum for the Republican campaign in New York in 1904, the year Roosevelt ran for president himself. When the "rough rider" was making his hardest cracks at rich malefactors, suddenly there appeared in publication a number of stolen letters, correspondence between Harriman and Roosevelt in 1904, in which the president put himself and Harriman in the ranks of "practical men."

Harriman's health began to fail in 1908. In the spring of 1909 he went to the southwest on a health trip, and, returning in no better condition, soon left for Europe. There he experienced little relief, and returned to the United States late in August.

Arden, N.Y., Sept. 9.—Edward H. Harriman, probably the greatest organizer of railroads the world has known, met the only lasting defeat of his active life to-day at the hands of death. Secluded in his magnificent home on Tower Hill, surrounded by members of his family, physicians, and nurses, he succumbed to an intestinal disorder this afternoon after a fight against disease which will rank for sheer grit with his remarkable struggles in the financial world.

The exact time of his death is known only in that limited circle of relatives and associates who had so effectively shielded Mr. Harriman from all outside annoyances during his last illness. The time was given to the world as 3.35 p.m., but Mrs. Mary Simons, a sister of Mr. Harriman, said to-night that the end had come at 1.30 o'clock, more than two hours previous. Whether this apparent discrepancy has any bearing on the current belief that every effort was made to lessen the influence of the financier's death on the New York stock market is problematic; but it is significant that the time of his death as officially announced was just 35 minutes after trading had ceased on the Exchange in New York.

Mr. Harriman died peacefully, and almost to the end his brilliant mind retained its integrity. After a relapse on Sunday he sank steadily, and soon after the noon hour to-day there came a condition which marked the approach of the end.

THE 57th REGIMENT MADE GOOD IMPRESSION ON TRIP

The Perth Courier Comments Favourably Upon Their Appearance and Conduct While in That Town

INCIDENTS OF THE VISIT

The Perth Courier says of the visit of the 57th Regiment to that town:

The occasion of the visit of the Peterborough Rangers to Perth on Labor Day is one that will always recall many pleasant recollections of a jolly outing. The Rangers, or the 57th, as they are known numerically, take an annual trip away from home, and at the eleventh hour asked to come here. They were assured that the town would treat them right, and all conditions being satisfactory, the arrangements were completed for their arrival here on Sunday morning. The special train left Peterborough about midnight Saturday and pulled into the Perth depot between three and four Sunday morning. The regiment then paraded to the Agricultural grounds where the advance guard had erected all tents the day before.

Church Parade and Concert.

At eleven o'clock the regiment paraded to the English church for divine service, and the order of service was fully set forth in a booklet in order, as it says, "that every member of the regiment may be able to take his part with heart posture and voice in the worship of God." The service was conducted by Canons Muckleton and Davidson. The church was packed to the very doors. The magnificent band of the 57th played several sacred selections during the service.

The rank and file were dismissed for the rest of the day, and spent the time in an orderly and gentlemanly manner strolling about town.

From 4 to 5 o'clock a sacred band concert was given at the Agricultural grounds by the regimental band, and was attended by hundreds of people who appreciated the program.

Monday was the big day with the regiment and the town. A parade through the town was held in the morning, headed by the brass and bugle bands, and while this was the only order of the day there was something doing all the time. Both parades were led by Cols. Stevenson and Balderson.

The rank and file held a cooks' parade in the afternoon with the bugle band making a continuous noise. The cooks' parade was new to most of the Perth people and was a novel sight. There were all sorts and conditions: the famous Coxey army was beaten to frazzle, and it was conceded by all that the "giraffe" "rubbered" a good deal, and the raccoon thoroughly enjoyed itself.

The steamers St. Louis and Arrah Wanna took the boys down the river and out on the lake for a few hours' delightful sail, and the officers were entertained by Captain and Mrs. F. W. Hall, at "The Grange."

Sojers have Good Time.

The regiment boys were out for a good time; they had the freedom of the town and certainly made good use of it. They were into all kinds of good-natured amusement, and again some of their pranks ran pretty close to the danger line. But that was only here and there, and was outweighed by the laughable things they did. One good joke was played on Chief White. While he was locking up a trunk, two soldiers slipped in after him, and turned the key on him and kept him there for a time. The chief took it all in good part.

Notes on the Visit.

Chief White will not forget them.

The Rangers certainly enjoyed themselves.

Several companies dined at the different hotels.

The company entrained for home about eleven.

The big bon fires gave a camp-like effect to the visit.

Our bachelors come in for a considerable lot of criticism.

The Perth girls were not long in learning the city goose step.

The soldiers could not have been given much more freedom.

Canon Davidson preached in St. James' church Sunday evening.

The accident to Mr. G. T. Kerr put a damper on the fun of many of the "sojer" boys.

Everybody in town should know how to spell Peterborough now—Get the ugh to it please.

W. T. Dockrill, travelling passenger agent of the C. P. R., accompanied the regiment to Perth.

It was "home sweet home" for Mat. Drysdale. All his old girl friends still unmarried knew him.

The west ward fire alarm was rung at periodical intervals. After the first alarm it was not heeded.

The subject of Canon Muckleston's sermon to the regiment Sunday morning was "A soldier of Jesus Christ."

Mat Drysdale, an old Perth boy, belonged to the band. His old friends were all glad to see him once more.

An officer remained over to settle for all damages—very decent, eh. The damages were light—two broken windows.

Adjt. Major Bennett could hardly tear himself away from the garden party, but he says: "Boys, might as well break away first as last."

One group hitched up the Hicks House bus and rode a bunch of their comrades around town, looking for the Rideau Ferry Junction.

The visiting officers voted our ladies the most gallant they had met in ages. We believe one or two will be back to renew acquaintances.

Capt. Matheson did the "grand" and entertained the visiting and local officers to a luncheon. The Captain was voted a jolly entertainer and a good fellow.

The signal corps, stretcher bearers, ambulance corps, bugle band, brass band and advance guard of the 57th regiment of Peterborough were guests at the Revere house during their recent visit.

A couple of privates went up to three ladies and addressing them asked permission "for the pleasure of their company," Two of those young ladies happened to be from Peterborough and knew the parties, and, calling one of them by name, said "Sergt. ——"I am going to tell your wife."

21 YEARS OUT OF BED

Tollgate Keeper Sleeps in Chair Tilted Against House.

Pennsburg, Pa., Sept. 10.—William H. Boyer of this place, who keeps the tollgate for the Turnpike Company, is the wit of this section. "Bill" has worked at about two things in his whole life of seventy years—hostler and tollgate keeper.

Boyer has not slept in a bed for twenty-one years. He sleeps in a chair tilted against the wall of his little tollhouse. This gate is located in the centre of the town and is the gathering place for scores who seek cause for laughter. His stories are all original, taken out of his past life, which was fraught with singularly funny experiences.

VITOL will cure you. The most hopeless cases surrender to its potent qualities.

IT will positively cure where all other remedies have failed.

TO guarantee a positive cure for all diseases which come from impoverished and impure blood is what Vitol makers cheerfully do.

ONCE give Vitol a fair trial; after taking one box you will be surprised at the wonderful results

LEAVE all your doubts and fears behind when you take Vitol. It will positively cure the most stubborn case. 50c a box or 6 boxes for 2.50.

School Shoes That Will Do Full Duty

The School Shoe proposition again confronts the parent—and a proposition it is.

To be guided by the price of a School Shoe, and not by its quality, means to exercise the poorest judgment possible.

Cheap School Shoes are always expensive—while good shoes are always a profitable investment in the end.

Bad enough to burn or cut yourself, but if you've no remedy to apply quickly—well, it's worse. If the wound inflames, it's costly.

And yet a 25c box of "Madill's Healing Ointment" will heal numbers of these wounds. Put it on immediately you're hurt—its antiseptic and will keep the sore clean and pure—in a day or two you're healed.

THRILLING RED CROSS RIDE BY THE 24th FIELD BATTERY

Artillerymen to Give an Exciting Exhibition at the Night Performance at Peterborough Industrial Next Week.

UNUSUAL FEATURES

Have you ever seen a dozen horsemen dash madly across a field to where a similar number of "dummies" representing wounded comrades at the mercy of the enemy stop their horses and alighting pick up the dummies and race back, while the hidden foe fire from their hiding place and the horses, alarmed by the shots and the strangeness of the situation, plunge and rear wildly?

If you have not, there is a new sensation coming to you at the Peterborough Industrial next Friday night, when the 24th Field Battery will give the famous Red Cross ride.

This will be only one of the many features of the drill to be given by the artillery men. Wrestling on horseback is a sport that is new to Peterborough people, and so are some of the other "stunts" that will be done.

Just one week more.

The Peterborough Industrial will be open to the public a week from today.

The time of your life awaits you at the Peterborough Fair.

You may flirt with others but you will love Peterborough all the more when you see her next Friday and Saturday.

Local people should do their share towards making this year's Exhibition a record breaker along all lines.

Never before have the directors shown such enthusiasm and never have they been more confident of success.

The 24th Battery will be in charge of Sergt. Major Fee during their drill. He has his men perfectly trained and their act will be one of the best features of a fair that is full of features.

The grounds will be in better shape than ever this year and the trotting track was never in better condition.

The exhibits in the main building will, it is said, surpass all previous exhibitions. It will be cramful of things that will interest the public.

A number of canines are in training for the dog race, which has come to be an annual feature. There are no specifications as to size. Anything from a French poodle to a St. Bernard is eligible.

Thanks to the Peterborough Poultry Association, the poultry to be shown this year will be in much better qaurters than before as the Association have furnished the directors with the coops used by them in their Poultry Show last year.

In Spite Of The Auto There's Money In Horseflesh Yet

That there is still money in horseflesh, and that the automobile is not superseding the horse is often demonstrated. A proof in point is the figure obtained by Hon. J. R. Stratton for his imported carriage team, winners of the red ribbon at the Cobourg Horse Show. Mr. Stratton had intended shipping them to Ottawa to-day to compete at the Canadian Central Exhibition, but he availed himself of an opportunity of disposing of them for immediate delivery to a gentleman of the Canadian West, and did so, the purchase figure for the team was $4,000; and the price of the carriage and equipment, set of double harness, two sets single harness and tandem set, was $440, making the aggregate figure for team and equipment $4,440. Mr. Stratton's remaining horse will be exhibited at Ottawa the coming week.

Extensive Alterations To Be Made To Auditorium Roller Rink

Extensive alterations to the Auditorium roller rink, to be commenced next week, will make this popular skating place commodious and up-to-date in every particular. The new management intend to leave nothing undone to make the auditorium as attractive as possible, and everything that will add to the convenience and comfort of its patrons is being added. In the future there will be no dust to cause annoyance to the skater. A shipment of what is known as the "dustless anti-slip" was received this afternoon, and has been applied to the floor. "Dustless anti-slip" keeps the dust down, and people may skate without the uncomfortable feeling occasioned by dust in their throats and nostrils.

The floor space is to be enlarged twenty-five feet. The present office, ladies' and gentlemen's retiring rooms, and skate room, are to be torn down and the entire floor then will be available for skating. New rooms for ladies and gentlemen, and two new skate rooms and an office will be erected along the west side of the rink. The new rooms will be large and well fitted. An entrance to the gallery from the outside will be made, by the erection of a stairway.

During the fall months the management will introduce several new and entertaining features.

CLEVER ANIMALS

M'lle de Leo Has Her Four-footed Friends Completely Under Her Control.

Eight dogs, a monkey, a pony, and a mule are used by Mlle. Celina de Leo in her famous trained animal exhibition which will be one of the grand stand features of the Peterborough Industrial. It is acknowledged to be the best trained group ever shown in America. Under her skilful guidance the animals perform clever feats that have hitherto been thought impossible. She has her pets thoroughly under control so that her slightest word of command is obeyed instantaneously. The result is an act that is thoroughly pleasing to everyone. It is novel and entertaining and has never failed to please.

It is costing the management a small fortune to secure the services of Mlle de Leo, but they feel that the act is worth it and the public is likely to come to the same conclusion after seeing her pets next week.

CARE IN PREPARING FOOD.

In recent years scientists have proved that the value of food is measured largely by its purity; the result is the most stringent pure food laws that have ever been known.

One food that has stood out prominently as a perfectly clean and pure food and which was as pure before the enactment of these laws as it could possibly be is Quaker Oats; conceded by the experts to be the ideal food for making strength of muscle and brain. The best and cheapest of all foods. The superiority of Quaker Oats over all other oatmeals is due to two things; the greatest care in the selection of the finest oats obtainable and the special machinery by which this oats is cleaned, rolled and packed. The Quaker Oats Company is the only manufacturer of oatmeal that has satisfactorily solved the problem of removing the husks and black specks which are so annoying when other brands are eaten.

NEW LIGHTHOUSE

Is Being Built Out in Rice Lake in the Eastern Channel.

The lighthouse situated in the eastern fork of the Otonabee, where it empties into the lake, is being removed further east, in order to give better service to the boatmen. The lighthouse has been placed on a point of land at the elbow the river makes in turning east to enter the lake. A pier several hundred yards east of the point and out in the lake is now nearly completed and to this the light house will be removed in a short time.

GREAT RACING FOR THE FAIR

$700 Will be Divided up Among the Winners of the four Trotting Events at Exhibition.

The speeding in the ring feature will be one of the big attractions of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, which will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

Good purses have been hung up by the directors and the probabilities are that some of the best horses in Ontario will be here for the racing. The programme includes a 2.40 class and 2.22 class on Friday and a 2.30 class and free-for-all on Saturday. $700 will be divided.

A very convenient circuit has been arranged this year so that the horsemen can make easy connections between the towns and cities. The dates are as follows: Napanee Sept. 15, Belleville Sept. 15 and 16, Peterborough Sept 17 and 18, Bowmanville Sept. 22, Cobourg Sept. 23, Lindsay Sept. 24 and 25.

COLD ON THE LUNGS

This letter gives some idea of the confidence placed in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine by people who know by experience of its exceptional merit. Mrs. R. D. We buy four bottles at a time and always keep it in the house, believing there is nothing so good for coughs and colds."

LIKES DOG MEAT

Man Says It Is Tender and Makes Him Strong.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10.—After Mrs. John Kruski had her husband arrested on the charge of cruelty he denied her accusation, but admitted to Sergt. J. F. Landy in the office of the Humane Society that he ate dog meat and liked it.

Kruski said he procured a small dog from a janitor had taken it home, slaughtered it and ate it. He denied that he insisted on his wife eating it also, but said he saw no reason why she should not. He declared it was nice, tender meat, tasted well and made him strong.

NEW UNIFORMS FOR THE MEN OF THE FIRE BRIGADE

Committee Decides to Advertise for Tenders—Stands for Fire Engine are to be Erected Along the River Banks.

OTHER BUSINESS DONE

Considerable business was done at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light committee of the City Council last night, at which there were present Ald. Buller, chairman Ald. Hicks and Ald. Turner.

Mr. Saxby was present, and presented a petition for a water main to be laid down on Bethune street, from Smith street. He has several houses on the street, and if he could get water and fire protection he would probably build a couple more They would require at least one hydrant and maybe two hydrants.

The committee decided to notify the water commissioners that if they will run the main down Betune street the city would take a hydrant. The locating of the hydrant to be left to the chairman and the chief.

A letter was received from Fire Chief Howard requesting the committee to advertise for tenders for new uniforms for the men.

The chairman said it was necessary to get busy on this at once as the men would be naked before long.

On motion of Aldermen Hicks and Turner it was decided to advertise for tenders for uniforms with an extra pair of pants for the men. Uniforms must be tailor made and made in the city.—Carried.

An application was received for an increase in Fireman Jos. Denno's salary.

The committee decided not to raise his salary as a fireman until he had served the proper time. The committee, however, will give him an extra $50 a year for doing the line work. This is to take effect at once.

It was moved by Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Hicks, that the city clerk write the secretary of the Fire Underwriters' Association, and remind him of his promise of a reduction of the insurance rate and ask that it be given.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Hicks, that the arc lamp at the corner of Water and Murray streets be put out on an arm.—Carried.

A couple of accounts were presented and ordered to be paid.

It was moved by Ald. Hicks and Ald. Turner, that the chairman procure harness for the fire steamer and the battery sink.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Turner and Ald. Hicks, that the Board of Works be requested to place the stands along the river for the use of the fire engine as soon as possible. The list of places will be given the chairman of the Board of Works by the chief of the fire department and it will include one for Auburn.

CHIEF HOWARD'S REPORT ON FIRE CHIEFS CONVENTION

Was Presented at Meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee Last Night—A Profitable Trip.

ALD. BULLER'S REMARKS

At the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light committee last night a report was read from Fire Chief Howard in connection with his visit to the recent convention of the International Fire Engineers' Association in Grand Rapids, Mich. The chairman, Ald. Buller, who accompanied Chief Howard, also gave a verbal report of the convention and there was an interesting discussion of the proceedings.

Ald. Buller stated that he had received much valuable information and he was of the opinion that one member of the Council should accompany the chief to the convention every year.

The chief's report was in part as follows:

We arrived twenty-four hours before the regular meeting time, and were accordingly permitted to make a careful examination of the different exhibits of fire fighting apparatus before the crowds arrived. Fifty-six manufacturers were on hand to exhibit their product, and latest inventions. The motor-driven fire appliances were very much in evidence, and it is generally conceded that in the very near future the automobile apparatus will supersede our present horse-drawn vehicles.

Theer were several motor chemical engines, which would be most suitable for Peterborough, and I would respectfully request that your committee make provision for the purchase of one of these machines for next year.

The third day of the convention was given over entirely to demonstrating gascline fire engines, chemical engines, and other large apparatus.

The meeting was the most successful of its kind ever held. There was nearly double the attendance from Canada of any preceding year, and fifteen active chiefs from the Province of Ontario with their associate delegates. About twelve hundred persons in all registered at headquarters, with five hundred and forty-eight chiefs in active service.

The number of topics and papers presented were exceptionally interesting.

On August the 18th at 8 p.m., a special meeting was called at headquarters of all the Canadian delegates for the purpose of forming provincial associations to work in conjunction with the international association. The Ontario delegates were in accord with the other provinces, and acted accordingly. Officers elected were Chief A. B. Ten-Eyck Hamilton, president; Ald. T. L. Church, Toronto, hon. solicitor; Chief W. A. Howard, Peterborough, sec.-treas.

Ald. T. L. Church, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee the Ontario delegates to meet in Toronto, extended an invitation to Toronto, at the City Hall on September, the 7th, as the guests of the city.

I have sent out eighty-seven notices extending the invitation to the chief of the fire department of each city and town in the province, together with an invitation for the mayor and chairman of the fire committee of each municipality.

A printed report of the proceedings of the Grand Rapids convention in book form, will be issued from the office of the international secretary, and sent out to each municipality represented within a month from date.

I wish to thank the gentlemen of the Council for permitting Ald. Buller and myself to attend, and also for the appropriation, and also doubtedly time and money well spent.

Your obedient servant,
W. A. HOWARD,

Ordination To Priesthood Of Young Man From Ireland

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor performed the ceremony of the ordination to the priesthood of William Maher, of Emily, Tipperary County, Ireland. Father Maher received his education and seminary instructions in Ireland, and arrangements were made whereby he should be received into the diocese of Peterborough. His Lordship sang Pontifical High Mass, assisted by Rev. Father McColl, and Rev. Father Phelan, of Young's Point. Rev. Dr. O'Brien acted as master of ceremonies. The rites of the Church for the elevation of a young man to the priesthood were performed during the mass by His Lordship. The congregation was largely represented. It is not known what will be the disposal of Father Maher in the work of the diocese.

GRAND OPENING OF THE NEW RINK

Will be Held on Tuesday Evening Next —Full Band in Attendance.

The new Brock Street rink will open on Tuesday evening next. Everything is now practically in readiness for the grand opening. The full band of the 57th Regiment will be in attendance, and the management has installed six hundred pairs of skates.

The public are warned against trespassing on the property of Mrs. (Hon.) Hamilton at Auburn. 1d-59

THE SHORT GIRL

The tall girl may be more imposing in appearance, more of a power at social functions; but the short girl does deadlier execution among men. From the first day they are at ease with her, which means a great deal to the average man; in her presence he does not feel the drawbacks of early incessant cigarette smoking, and the degeneracy of his sex; she can coax and pout, and flounce into pretty little passions with greater grace than a "daughter of the gods"; she needs a projecting arm in a crowd, and she does not take up so much room in a railway car, or dwarf her partners in the ballroom or while out for a walk.

There never yet was a little woman who could not flirt more furiously than a tall one, and yet escape unfavourable notice. Her scratches all seem to be given in play. It is, of course, by comparison that everything is thus or thus, and so it is only when judged by the standard of some exceptionally tall sister that a short woman will permit herself to be so described. She will always indignantly disclaim a brevity of inches under any circumstances, though no woman ever yet objected to the epithet "little woman" as a term of affection.

Kidney Suffering IN THE SPRING

Backaches and tired feelings tell of weak kidney action—Prompt relief by using DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

No organs of the body are so susceptible to the quickly changing temperature of spring as the kidneys. Sudden cold waves mean chilling of the surface of the body, closing of the pores of the skin and over crowding of the kidneys at a time when they are already overworked in an effort to free the system of the accumulated poisons of winter.

The tired draggy feelings you experience and the weakness and pains in the back tell of a poisoned system and defective kidneys.

There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated forms of this disease.

There is a reason for this. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills awaken the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and thereby effect a thorough cleansing and regulating of the whole excretory system.

In this combined action Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unique. There are no substitutes or imitations which possess this principle.

Mrs. F. O. Bacon, Baldwin's Mills, Que., writes: "I was very sick last spring. The doctors said I must go to the hospital for an operation but I didn't want to. My liver and kidneys did not act and I suffered terribly. I then began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and nothing else, and am now fully cured and doing my own work for a family of seven."

A CORRESPONDENT'S BUDGET OF NEWS

Just as Received Without Required Corrections.

The following items were received by the Examiner for its weekly edition and are printed exactly as taken from the envelope. At times correspondents are not too careful in regard to their orthography, and some of the words are rather doubtful. The budget of news is as follows:

Jack Finnie had a horse got its leg broken by kicking at another horse.

William Puff says the fishing ain't as good as it was last spring.

Swiming season is over in woodduck creek on account of low water.

Mr. John Moncrief had a misfortune while driving on the road, the horse falling on the church hill, smashing the dinner dishes and shaves.

Miss M— M— of Peterborough is now visiting friends and gathering a few more beau's to the end of her string.

The church is now being painted by —— Bros., Peterborough.

The harvest is off and fine prospects for next year's crop.

Lake—— Literary Society will be starting up in a course of about two months.

GREAT CLOTHING COMBINED FACTORY

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Centralization of the combined garment manufacturing interests of Chicago by the erection of a group of 80 buildings to cost approximately $5,000,000 and the abolition of the "sweatshop" by the building of homes, club-houses, libraries, and gymnasiums for 8,500 employees is the plan launched by the Chicago Garment Manufacturers' Association.

The plan, evolved by Solomon H. Shoninger, president of the organization, was enthusiastically received by members of the Association. As a practical undertaking it was pronounced feasible. A committee was named to carry out the preliminary preparations and look for a site. Included in the membership of the association are more than 100 manufacturers, who do a combined yearly business in Chicago of $40,000,000. Their plants at present are scattered in various parts of the city.

The combined plant will cover an area of 40 acres, and the drawings which have been prepared specify that each building shall be built of reinforced concrete and shall measure 75 by 100 feet. The individual plants will be detached, thus providing light workrooms for employees.

The structures will be so grouped that they will face a macadamized boulevard lined on either side with shade trees, with a large grass plot in the centre.

At either end of the row of factory buildings will be recreation houses, including possibly a swimming pool, together with the library, gymnasium and rest rooms. Included in the plans also is a large hotel, where out-of-town merchants and buyers will be entertained.

THE LIMIT OF DARING

Act of Arab Acrobats Surpasses the Most Thrilling Circus Performance.

"The limit of human ingenuity and daring has been reached by the combination of Arab acrobats who will perform at the Peterborough Industrial next week."

Sounds something like a circus announcement, doesn't it?"

It is safe to say in this case, however, than no circus offers to its patrons a more thrilling act than will be seen here. There are seven Arabs in the troupe and some of their "stunts" are said to be astounding in their daring and skill. They have two different and distinct acts which are certain to please the big crowd that will file through the gates of the Exhibition Park next Friday and Saturday.

HE ENJOYS HIS MEALS NOW

For He Keeps a "Little Digester" Handy

Mr. Glassco, of Toronto, wrote us on May 13th last:

THE COLEMAN MEDICINE CO.,
509 Church St., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—

I wish you would send me another box of your "Little Digesters". All the members of my family have been using them and have obtained the most satisfactory results.

I congratulate you on your success in putting up a tablet for the cure of Indigestion. I suffered for years and tried everything that was recommended to me. Nothing gave me relief, until I was persuaded to try "Little Digesters". Now I never suffer from Indigestion. I enjoy my meals and am not afraid to eat, because I know a "Little Digester" after each meal will digest my food.

I recommend them to all my friends who suffer from Indigestion and would further say that you may publish the above if you wish. I know there are thousands of people suffering from Indigestion who will be glad to know there is a safe and sure cure for them.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) E. S. GLASSCO.

"Little Digesters" cost 25 cents at your druggists, or by mail from Coleman Medicine Co., Toronto. 25

IS BERNIER TO BE NEXT?

Friends Expect He Will Nail Canadian Flag to Pole.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10.—Capt. Jos. E. Bernier is expected by Henry C. Wetherill to startle the world at any moment as third claimant to the honor of discovery of the North Pole.

"Captain Bernier," said Dr. Wetherill, at his laboratory yesterday, "is a distinguished Canadian explorer, and is a member of the various Arctic exploration and geographical societies. He has been absent for a year or more, ever since he went to the coast of Labrador to establish his base of operations. He has done noble work for the Dominion Government. He is an intrepid, experienced navigator, observer and explorer, and his record and his plans are well known to the Arctic clubs.

"I should not be in the least surprised to get a telegram that he has nailed the British flag to the pole."

Rain Marred Exhibition.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Americans' Day at the Exhibition was marred by a downpour of rain, which beginning about 7.30 p.m., an hour after the grand stand entertainment had started, threatened to bring it to an abrupt termination. Hundreds of people on the unprotected lawn in front of the stand hurried through the east gate, and the enclosure soon took on a deserted appearance.

To prevent the fireworks being ruined by the dampness, it was necessary to set them off, as expeditiously as possible. Although the rain came down intermittently during the whole evening, the performance proceeded. The air was damp and raw, but comparatively few of the occupants of the stand left during the scurry of the less fortunate, unsheltered public.

The attendance of 68,000 was several thousands larger than last year. The increase would have been larger had the weather been finer, as a sprinkle of rain soon after 6 p.m. probably deterred many from visiting the grounds at night.

Appeals to Limit.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—James Kinsler, a crippled ex-U.S. soldier, has lost in a struggle against extradition to Canada, and was taken from the county jail in Detroit yesterday by Detective Mahoney of Windsor and lodged in the Windsor jail on a charge of stealing $5 worth of lumber from a firm above Walkerville.

An alleged accomplice of Kinsler is now serving a six months term in Toronto.

Kinsler's costly resistance will go down in court annals as most unique. He first appealed against his arrest to the Supreme Court at Lansing and lost; next came an appeal to the United States District Court, and one to the United States Circuit Court, both of which were rejected. Two appeals were then filed in the Appellate Court in Cincinnati, but they were lost. Appeals were then sent to President Taft, U.S. Secretary of State Knox, and to both Houses of Congress.

Struck by Iron Bolt.

Kingston, Sept. 10.—There is a mystery surrounding the case of George Snowden, who was severely injured at the locomotive works Wednesday afternoon. He was struck on the head with an iron bolt and is now in the general hospital in a dangerous condition.

Two stories are given of the affair. One is that Snowden had threatened another workman, McManus, whose brother interfered, and that later he took the boy by the throat again. The lad resented the assault and picked up an iron bolt and struck Snowden on the head.

The story given by the locomotive works staff is that the missile was thrown in jest and accidentally struck Snowden, who is suffering from a scalp wound and concussion of the brain. The doctors hold out small hope for recovery. He is a married man with one child.

Boy Shot by Stranger.

Welland, Sept. 10.—Gordon, the 10-year-old son of Edward Kramer of the air line, came near losing his life and, as it is, he is badly maimed.

The lad was shot full in the face and chest by an unknown man, who was shooting squirrels.

He was returning from school and when near home was getting through a fence, when the sportsman fired. The boy screamed with the pain and the blood gushed from scores of wounds.

The man with the gun saw what he had done, turned and ran into the wood without waiting to see the extent of the injuries.

The boy was able to get home and he received prompt medical treatment. In all seventy grains of shot have been removed.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

New York detectives found a 15-year-old girl captive in Chinatown.

There are 1,041 men and 611 horses on the G.T.P. construction work in New Brunswick.

License officers emptied one hundred and sixty kegs and barrels of beer into the river at Elk Lake.

The British Government has agreed to a continuance of the Newfoundland modus vivendi until the conclusion of the arbitration proceedings at The Hague.

The provincial authorities have been appealed to in regard to the typhoid fever epidemic at Cobalt, and three inspectors have been sent up to have the town cleaned up.

Separate School Wins.

North Bay, Sept. 10.—The celebrated claim of the Separate School Board of Sturgeon Falls against the Public School trustees of that town for half of the taxes paid by the pulp mill in an assessment of $40,000, dating from 1899, was arbitrated yesterday by Judge Valin, who was sole arbitrator under the Michaud Act.

He found the Separate School entitled to one-half the taxes on the pulp mill for the years 1899 and 1903 inclusive, and 1907; for the years 1904, 1905, 1906, 1908, the taxes not having been paid by the pulp mill, no award could be made, but when paid the same ruling, he thought, should apply.

Mr. McFarlane of Toronto represented the Public School; J. M. McNamara, K.C., of North Bay, the Sturgeon Falls Council, and G. A. McCaughey of North Bay, the Separate School.

Strong arguments were placed before the judge by the Toronto counsel as to the act being ultra vires, but the judge ruled that it was within the powers of the Legislature to pass the act.

The decision is important, as it raises the right of the Separate Schools to share in a portion of the taxes levied on a limited corporation carrying on business in the municipality.

It is intimated that the case may go to the Privy Council.

Was Locked In Vault.

Kingston, Sept. 10.—There came near being a tragedy at a funeral in Sydenham.

William Lawson, justice of the peace, Elginburg, was examining a vault at the cemetery. Another gentleman, who was in at the same time, went out and closed the door after him, and as it had a spring lock, Lawson was made a prisoner.

He shouted, but owing to the thick wall, his cries could not be heard, and he was forced to stay in the vault all night and until the next afternoon, when it so happened that there was a funeral at the vault.

When the mourners opened the door they were terrified to see Lawson staggering out. He was in a terrible condition as a result of his twenty-four hours' confinement, being almost famished. There was great excitement for a time.

Cartoonist Charges Libel.

New York, Sept. 10.—Thomas F. Powers, the cartoonist of The Evening Journal, has brought suit for $100,000 damages against Henry Ridder, publisher, treasurer and manager of The Catholic News, in which periodical a statement was published on August 7 last, purporting to show that one of Mr. Powers' cartoons was "an insult to the faith of Catholics."

Mr. Powers declares in his complaint, filed in the Supreme Court, that the allegation is false, wicked and defamatory, and that the cartoon which the defendant chose to construe as representing Pope Pius X., was in reality, and quite obviously, a representation of the Shah of Persia.

Priests Are Suspended.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—When the Roman Catholic College at Marieville, Que., was burned some time ago, the fathers in charge desired to remove to St. Johns, but the Bishop of St. Hyacinthe refused permission. An appeal to Rome had no beneficial effect, so the college authorities moved without the necessary authority, and the bishop has placed Canon Lemieux, a relative of the Postmaster-General, and the twenty-five priests under him, on the suspended list. They are not permitted to have any clerical communication with the faithful, and are debarred from all priestly functions.

Edmonton Has Airship.

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 10.—Residents of Edmonton were startled yesterday to see flying high over the houses an airship carrying a full-grown man. It developed that Reginald Hunt has been working for three years to perfect an airship. He is a carpenter by occupation and is of a mechanical turn of mind and has already designed several useful labor-saving devices. About three years ago he became deeply interested in the problem of aerial navigation.

Shot His Brother-In-Law.

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Charles Roth, 23 years old, of Blasdell, Erie County, heard some one trying to raise a rear window of his sister's home shortly after midnight yesterday morning. He fired through the window. When he went outside, he found his brother-in-law, Geo. Pyne, stretched on the ground with a bullet hole in his temple. Pyne had recently been released from the penitentiary and had made life miserable for his wife and the neighbors.

Trio of Accidents.

Galt, Sept. 10.—William Paddock, Puslinch Township, tried to throw off a drive belt on a thresher before the speed slacked and was caught by the arm and thrown against the machine and probably fatally injured.

The C.P.R. express yesterday afternoon ran into a herd of cattle at Wallace's Crossing, near Dumfries station, killing five outright and mangling others. The passengers were badly shaken by the collision, but none were seriously hurt.

William Hodge, while driving a load of dry slabs to a hop field at Preston lit his pipe and threw the match carelessly behind. The load took fire, and, not noticed by the driver, only for the assistance of nearby farmers, the whole outfit would have been destroyed.

Eight Men Were Fined.

Ingersoll, Sept. 10.—Before Police Magistrate John Morrison yesterday eight men were charged with assaulting Provincial License Inspector Ayearst and two deputies several days ago. They were all found guilty and fined as follows:

Charles Cameron and Geo. Bowers, $20 and costs.

Wm. Murray, Wm. McLean, Daniel McMullen, Ewart Bell, Fred Barrow and Charles Barrow, $10 and costs.

The costs in each case amounted to about $13.

R. N. Bell, K.C., prosecuted and the men were defended by Jos. Gibson, Jr., and Col. Hegler.

Several special constables were sworn in to preserve order, but there was no indication of trouble.

Conductor Dies Suddenly.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Thomas Miller, conductor of the International Limited, Grand Trunk Railway, was stricken with apoplexy early yesterday morning and died at Grace Hospital a few hours later.

Miller was about 55 years of age. He has been in the employ of the G.T.R. for the last 35 years. He ran the first International Limited train, which is now one of the finest trains on the system.

He had the attack shortly after arriving from Detroit. He was in the Walker House, where he lived while in Toronto. His home is at 112 Quelette avenue, Windsor. Two children survive him. The remains will be sent to Windsor for burial.

Arrested at S. A. Meeting.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Mary Baker, 16 years, employed as a domestic at 143 John street, was arrested last night by Detective Murray while attending the Salvation Army services at the James street Temple. She is wanted for stealing a watch, a ring, and a sum of money from the matron of the Children's Aid Society of Berlin, from whose charge she escaped August 23. Inspector Miller of the society will come from Berlin for the girl, who is now in the shelter.

Vacancies For Two Senators.

Halifax, Sept. 10.—Senator Ross has begun a campaign for the appointment of Senators to fill the two vacancies caused by the death of Senator Carmichael and the resignation of Senator Curry. One of these seats had been vacant for two years and the other since January of this year. He claims that it is not fair to Nova Scotia and has begun a newspaper campaign for immediate appointments.

Use For Naval Fund.

London, Sept. 10.—(C.A.P.)—A Melbourne despatch says it is suggested by the Lord Mayor that the Dreadnought fund, amounting to $425,000, be devoted towards the establishment of training farms for boy immigrants and for initiating naval colleges.

Killed by Fall.

London, Sept. 10.—Adam O. McKeand of Woodstock fell from the new C.P.R. bridge at Thamesford on Wednesday afternoon and received injuries to his skull which resulted in his death yesterday morning.

By-Election for Montcalm.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The bye-election to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons for Montcalm, caused by the appointment of F. O. Dugar to be judge, will be held Sept. 27.

Western Crops Splendid.

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—Not in ten years, said one of the best known local grain dealers yesterday, have conditions been so eminently favorable for harvesting and saving the crop. Practically the entire wheat crop is now in stook, and safe from frost, while some farmers are making good progress with their oats. Barley is harvested and will be of fair quality and color.

The warm weather of the past few days has brought along late oats at a surprising rate, and it now looks as if a good many thousand bushels will be threshed off grain put in so late that farmers expected nothing but green feed.

Soo Canal Tonnage.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The Soo Canal traffic till the end of August shows an abnormal increase. The total tonnage was 8,455,250, as compared with 2,951,491 last year.

Tragic End of Play.

Buffalo, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Raymond Ryan, aged 12 years, was shot in play yesterday by another boy, who the police claim was Raymond Harkell, aged 14 years.

SENIOR AND JUNIOR RUGBY LEAGUE FOR CITY THIS YEAR

Executive of Peterborough Rugby Club Decides Upon That Step at an Enthusiastic Meeting Last Night---Club Will Control all Rugby Played in Peterboro' This Season.

Peterborough is to have a junior and senior City Rugby League this season.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club held last night in the orderly room of the armouries at which there were present Mr. Duncan Walker, the President in the chair, Dr. A. W. MacPherson; H. R. H. Kenner, Honorary President; C. E. Sisson, second vice-president; Geo. Lundy and George Armstrong of the executive committee and Secretary-treasurer F. D. Craig.

A good start was made in planning what promises to be an unusually succesful season. Last year at a general meeting at the end of the season it was decided that the officers of the Peterborough Rugby Club should control all Rugby played in Peterborough both City League and in the O.R.F.U. The executive will look after the finances, securing of grounds and other matters of similar importance.

At last night's meeting it was decided to go ahead with the organization of the two series of the City League and also to have another meeting on Tuesday night next in the orderly room at the armouries when representatives of all clubs intending to enter either one of the two series must be present as the schedule will be arranged then and will likely open a week from to-morrow. All junior and senior clubs intending to enter must get busy at once and must be represented at Tuesday night's meeting or they will be unable to get a franchise. With the prospects of two series in the local League and at least one O.R.F.U. team, no time can be lost in getting things started and the executive have realized this and are acting accordingly.

The age limit for the junior series was discussed but nothing was arranged it being decided to postpone this feature until Tuesday night's meeting.

The entrance fee into either team was placed at $2 per team. A committee composed of Messrs. Duncan Walker, Dr. A. W. MacPherson and F. D. Craig was appointed to wait upon the management of Riverside Park to make arrangements for the use of that ground for practices and games, and also to arrange with the Peterborough Light and Power Company for lighting the grounds for evening practices. The club will commence working out right away so as to be in shape when the season opens. The executive will look after practice hours for all the City League teams and this important matter will be arranged as soon as possible. Nothing was done in regard to O.R.F.U. Rugby, the question being left over until later but it is practically certain that Peterborough will have an O.R.F.U. team this season.

JACKSON JOHNSON HAS BETTER OF THE ARGUMENT

Big Smoke Given the Unofficial Verdict, Although There Was No Knockout Registered----Kaufman Couldn't Land on the Champion At All.

SAN FANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Referee Smith refused to give a decision after Jack Johnson and Al Kaufman had battled ten rounds in a no-decision contest. Johnson, however, had a clear lead in every round, and easily earned the unofficial decision of the newspaper men. In the seventh Kaufman drew yells from the crowd by planting right and left in the stomach. In the eighth Johnston put left swings to the jaw and mouth, drawing blood but Kaufman retaliated with a hard right hook to the stomach.

FIRST ROUND — Johnson opened with left hook to the stomach. They mixed at close range. Johnston landed right and left short arm punches to jaw and left to the face. Kaufman looked worried. Johnson closed in, landing short arm rights and lefts to the head. There was little sting in them, however. Just before the round ended Kaufman shot a right and left to the jaw, but the champion only smiled. Kaufman seemed slow in comparison with the fast work of Johnson.

ROUND THREE. — Johnston drove a wicked left to the jaw and a hard clout to the stomach and uppercut twice with his right to the mouth and blood spurted from Kaufman's mouth. Johnston planted an awful right wallop on Al's bleeding face and forced him to stall. Johnston taunted Kaufman goodnaturedly and varied this with two fearful jabs to the jaw. The bell rang and Al. tumbled into his chair with blood flowing in a veritable stream from his mouth and nose. It was apparent that Johnston was clearly Kaufman's master and could finish him at such time as he was ready to cut loose.

FOURTH ROUND. — Kaufman drove a hard right to the stomach. This angered Johnston and he beat the Californian against the ropes, planting right and left to the jaw. Kaufman again drove his right to the stomach and Johnston grinned. Both men eased up, Kaufman seldom landing. The round ended tamely and it looked as if Johnston deliberately slowed up to this stage. Kaufman failed to lead and had landed but two punches, both to the stomach.

FIFTH ROUND. — Johnston uppercut twice with right, lifting Kaufman's head a foot. Johnston was very quick. He drove right and left to the stomach, and had Kaufman constantly on the defensive. No damage was done in this round.

SIXTH ROUND. — Kaufman clinched, but Johnston broke loose and sent the white man almost into the press stand with a left hook to the body and a right across the jaw. Al. mixed it but found Johnston waiting and the latter showed that he was master of the situation at any style of fighting that Kaufman could bring to him. The round closed with ineffectual exchanges, Johnston having everything his own way.

EIGHTH ROUND.—Johnson opened with a straight left to the jaw and swung right and left with great force to the jaw and mouth. Kaufman backed away, seldom if ever leading. Johnson uppercut twice to the jaw with his left for which he was rebuked by hard right hook to the stomach, the best blow Kaufman had landed.

MANY ENTRIES FOR THE ATHLETIC MEET TO-MORROW

There is a great list of entries for the Eastwood and Howden Trophy contests at Riverside Park to-morrow and everything points to a most successful meet. The events will start at 2 o'clock. The entries so far are as follows:

Howden Trophy—Dick Evans, W. A. Bailey, S. T. Canniff, H. Wood, W. J. Corkery, R. G. Sturgeon, S. Houlihan, J. McDonough, J. Higgins, W. Perdue, V. Corkery, C. Holland, W. Cahill, J. Callaghan, F. Taylor, W. Grady, F. McGrath and J. O'Donnell.

Eastwood Trophy — Nagle Phelan, W. M. Perks, E. Kelly, R H. Wright, Boland Howden.

There should be a big crowd on hand.

RUGBY

The semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Rugby Football Union was held last night at the Iroquois Hotel, with First Vice-President Scott of London in the chair. There will be four clubs in the senior series, T.A.A.C., Peterborough, Parkdale Canoe Club, and Dundas, while eighteen clubs are entered in the junior series, including a western district, comprising two teams from London, Woodstock College, and Petrolea, two Toronto districts, a Peterborough-Lindsay group, and an Eastern group. There will be an intermediate series. The senior series is nice and compact, and with equally matched teams should furnish some excellent football, as well as provide the players with plenty of games. N.F. Culverhouse of Toronto was elected junior representative, but the other elections, including that of president, were left over.—Toronto Star.

• • • •

The Toronto A.A.C. will have senior and junior teams in the O.R.F.U. They will give all the young players a chance and try and develop a lot of new material.

• • • •

The Parkdale Canoe Club are counting on "Fat" Coryell, of last year's Varsity team, for quarter-back for their senior O.R.F.U. team. He is a member of their club, and one of their most active workers.

• • • •

The Argonauts held their first practice Wednesday night at Bayside Park, with several players in uniform. Levack, Newport, Capreol, Bardgette, Norcross, Baycroft, Art Kent, and Pud Kent kicked the ball around. The notable absentee was Banty Russell, who seldom misses a practice. He will be out on Monday.

• • • •

The Hamilton Herald says "There will be some new faces on the Tiger team this year, but the latest aspirant for a place is one who should have little trouble in making good. Norman Bramer, the husky policeman who has twice won the championship at the local police games, will turn out with the Tigers this year, if proper arrangements can be made with the commissioners. Bramer has not played the game of late, but a few years ago was recognized as one of the best centre scrimmage player in the City League.

• • • •

Frank Bardgette came down from Brantford where he is playing baseball, to practise with the Argos yesterday. He says he doesn't know yet whether he will play with the Argos or Tigers. He thinks he can qualify for either team.

Mrs. Goldwin Smith Dead.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—The death occurred last night of Mrs. Goldwin Smith, wife of Prof. Goldwin Smith, 26 Grange road.

On August 31, Mrs. Smith took a slight chill, but nothing more than extreme age was the immediate cause of her demise. No importance was attached by the doctors to Mrs. Smith's illness until Sunday last, when she suddenly became worse. From that time she gradually lapsed into a state of unconsciousness, which lasted until death.

The late Mrs. Goldwin Smith was born in Boston, Mass., in 1824. She was the daughter of Thomas Dixon, a knight of the Order of the Netherlands and of the Order of the Lily. Her maiden name was Harriet Elizabeth Menn Dixon. Miss Dixon was first married to William Henry Boulton of the well-known family of that name of Moulton, in the County of Lincoln, England. He sat in the local Legislature as member for Toronto, and was also mayor of the city.

"Short Change" Swindlers.

Chatham, Sept. 10.—Farmers galore were short-changed at the Norris and Rowe circus here on Wednesday. Sorry countrymen of Tupperville and Ekendell of Thorncliffe were each mourning departed cash that evening. The stranger had touched each of them for $13. Four or five other cases were reported where farmers were done out of from $10 to $20.

There appears to be a band of short-change artists following in the wake of the circus.

Believes In Armed Peace.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 10.—In an address on the British navy in the City Hall, Sir William White, former chief of naval construction of the Admiralty, said he had visited Esquimalt and regretted to see the guns at the foot of the hill on top of which they were formerly mounted. He had never agreed with the British policy in abandoning this and other naval bases.

King of Saxony In Airship.

Friedrichshaffen, Sept. 10.—Count Zeppelin took up the King of Saxony for an hour's run in his airship yesterday.

International Union Cards.

London, Sept. 10.—Samuel Gompers, addressing the Trades Union Congress, said: "We are endeavoring, with your co-operation, to bring about an interchange of trade cards between the United States, Great Britain and Canada."

Belleville Pastor Goes West.

Belleville, Sept. 10.—A call from Brandon, Man., to Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, for some years pastor of St. Andrew's Church, this city, has been accepted and was ratified by King ston Presbytery.

SNATCHED FROM DEATH

Charles Recard, Aged Twenty-Six, a Waiter From New York, Started to Drive a Team of Horses Straight Toward a Two-Hundred-Foot Embankment—Constable Saved Him Just on the Brink.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 10.—From horrible death by being dashed over Niagara precipice, Charles Recard, aged 26, was saved yesterday afternoon.

With a drunken driver and a horse out of control careering down hill, death was very near to horse and man when Chief of Police Kimmins dashed after the horse and threw it back on its haunches a few feet from the 300-foot bank.

Recard is from New York, where he was a waiter at a leading hotel. He was going to start in a new position at a Buffalo hotel. He spent yesterday here and was drunk when he asked a hackman to drive him to the depot, flashing a bunch of notes and promising double fare.

The hackman left the rig to call the attention of the police to the man, and Recard started to drive himself, and whipped the horse into a frenzy. Down the hill the horse sped toward the cliff, when Kimmins dashed after it and, grasping the lines, arrested its progress within a short distance of the gorge.

Recard spent the night in a cell.

Two Years In Penitentiary.

Belleville, Sept. 10.—Sydney Keech, a telegraph operator, express agent, etc., at a small station in North Hastings, was charged with embezzling a sum of money belonging to the express company.

Keech said he put the money in the waste basket and his wife put the basket contents, including the money, in the stove and burned it.

He was tried before Judge Deroche, found guilty of theft, and sentenced to two years in penitentiary.

DEATH IN A SCRATCH.

Simple Injuries With Serious Results.

Morris Quatzam, an eleven years old Windsor boy, has just died as the result of a scratch on his wrist. Poison entered the wound, which was caused by falling off his bicycle, and despite the physicians, the boy died. Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simple illustration. When a dirty knife, a rusty needle, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence, or a thorn, scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs, of which the air about us is full. Directly these germs are introduced through the breach in the skin, a battle royal ensues between them and certain organisms in our blood.

When the invading germs are too strong for Nature's defences, in a few hours the finger will become hot and throbbing. A little later the wound may exhibit a whitish appearance in the middle of the swelling, and we have what is known as a festering or poisoned wound.

The way to avoid such serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful yet painless germ killer, and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and inflammation.

The flesh is thus soothed and purified, the wound made perfectly healthy, and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the wound or sore, with new healthy tissue, in a quick, painless, and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing antiseptic, soothing, and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but it is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworm, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at fifty cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

MAGISTRATE GAVE HIM ANOTHER CHANCE

The blacklisted man who was found with liquor in his possession in the Market Arcade a few days ago, came up before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty to having had the flask, but he never drank any of it. He was merely fixing it for a man who was leaving for the West.

His Worship said that he would like to give the man another chance and on the defendant's promise to leave liquor entirely alone, he was allowed to go.

Eight Months In Central Prison For Escaping From Custody At Police Station

Wesley Howell Sentenced by Judge Huycke This Morning—Robert Wilson Allowed to go on Suspended Sentence for Harbouring Him.

THE EVIDENCE RECEIVED

On the charge of escaping from custody Wesley Howell was sentenced to eight months in Central Prison by His Honour Judge Huycke in the County Court this morning, the sentence to run concurrently with that delivered by Police Magistrate Dumble of six months in Central Prison on the charge of assaulting Police Officer Newhall, occasioning actual bodily harm. This virtually means that Howell gets two months in addition to the six that were imposed upon him in police court.

Robert Wilson, 314 Mark street, charged with having received Howell into his home and assisted him to escape, was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

Briefly, the history of the affair is this:

P. C. Newhall arrested Howell on Simcoe street, on the night of July 29th, for being drunk and disorderly.

When being placed in the cell, Howell caught Newhall momentarily unguarded, and kicked him, injuring him. Next morning Howell was remanded for a week when he appeared in police court.

That afternoon he escaped from the station by a sneaky ruse that proved successful.

Events happened quickly for Constables Newhall, Meharry and Meagher rounded up Howell that night at 11 o'clock in Robert Wilson's summer kitchen. Howell was taken back to custody and Wilson was charged with harbouring him and assisting him to escape.

Mr. G. N. Gordon ably represented the two prisoners this morning, and Mr. R. E. Wood acted in behalf of the Crown.

P. C. McGinty's Evidence

P. C. McGinty said that he and Howell were alone in the station. They were both outside the railing. Howell spoke at the phone only saying a word or two then turned to witness and said a woman wanted to talk to him. McGinty took the phone, put the receiver to his ear and heard a woman's voice. At the same moment Howell bolted through the door and McGinty dropping the receiver, ran after him.

P. C. Newhall was called and gave an account of how he, P. C. Meharry and P. C. Meagher had heard a conversation between Howell and Robert Wilson in the summer kitchen of the latter's residence in the East Ward. He had received a clue that Howell was there and the officers went over at eleven o'clock the night of the same day of his escape. "I could have touched Howell with a foot rule through the boards. They had a lamp inside and we could see and hear everything that was done and said. Howell told how he had given "Old Charley," the slip and had also eluded the police in the afternoon when they passed within a few feet of him. Howell changed his clothes and said that when he got away that night they would never see him again. Wilson produced a flask of whiskey and both had a drink. Howell said he intended to catch a C.P.R. train about midnight. After further conversation the prisoner got up to say Goodbye to Wilson and at that stage of the game the police entered the kitchen arriving as timely as if it were a staged scene. Howell made a swing at Meharry, but missed him and without further resistance both men surrendered and were handcuffed.

Prisoner's Story

Howell was put in the box. "I had finished my conversation over the telephone in the police station and hung up the receiver. I turned to walk away when the bell rang. I said, 'This may be for you, Mr. McGinty,' and I give him the receiver. He put it to his ear and before I knew what I was doing I started to run out of the station. I went around to the spur line up the track to the Cereal Works; crawled through a window and hid. Later I went on up to Auburn. I told several people that I intended to give myself up. I've been arrested four or five times. Once in Napanee, two or three times in Belleville and the same number in Peterborough. I was never sentenced to Central Prison."

Mr. Wood read the report of the police court proceedings in Belleville, that Howell had been found guilty of assaulting Constable Hayes and sentenced to one year in Central Prison. Howell said he had not understood Mr. Wood and admitted the case. His sentence had been suspended and he had never been in prison. He admitted being arrested for assaulting his wife in June and August of 1902; also on a later occasion in Peterborough when the family moved here and resided on Rubidge street.

Mrs. Howell gave evidence in regard to her husband's character.

Judge Huycke said that on the evidence received he had no alternative but to find Howell guilty.

Wilson's Hearing

On the advice of Mr. Gordon, Wilson pleaded not guilty t othe charge of harbouring Howell and helping him to escape but after the evidence was all in the plea was changed to guilty. P. C. Newhall and P. C. Meharry were examined for the prosecution. For the defence Dr. McClennan, Mr. Robt. Chambers of Otonabee and the prisoner.

Roebrt Wilson, the prisoner, said he had lived in Peterborough all his life. Howell called at his house and he asked Wilson to have his brother-in-law get him a suit of clothes. Wilson said he had never been charged with any offence before. His wife, he said is now in ill-health and was unable to be present in court. Howell called at his house and witness never thought of what he was doing by keeping him. He knew in the morning that Howell had been locked up and in the afternoon heard he had escaped from custody.

Dr. McClennan was called and said he knew the prisoner and his family. He knew nothing against him. He was the family physician. Mrs. Wilson had an illness which prevented her being present and which this matter had effected.

Mr. Robert Chambers of Otonabee said he knew the reputation of the prisoner for 25 years. It was a good reputation. Had it been otherwise he would have known it. Wilson moved to Peterborough from Monaghan.

Judge Huycke's Remarks.

Judge Huycke first dealt with Wilson's case. He felt that Wilson had understood that he should not assist Howell and he had also shown by that act that he was in active sympathy against the police. On the other hand he had always lived respectably and had a good reputation. He had a wife and five small children to care for and the Judge did not feel like visiting them with disgrace which the father had thoughtlessly brought them in danger of. He therefore allowed Wilson to go on suspended sentence, pinting out that the crime was a serious one, and that he wa snot acquitted, but should he live in the future as in the past, maintaining the good reputation he had won, he would probably never hear of the case again.

In addressing the prisoner, Howell, His Honour stated that he had not answered his conscience, and come back to the police station, but was preparing to get away for good, when he was recaptured. He had treated his wife badly, and himself worse, through a tendency to strong drink. A sentence of eight months in Central Prison was imposed to run concurrently with the sentence received in police court.

Is Japanese Wife Better Than Her American Sister?

Editor of Tokio Times, on Visit to America, Compares the Women of the Two Countries—An Old Maid in Japan is Almost Unheard Of—American Woman Not as Domestic as the Little Almond-Eyed Wife.

Mostoda Zumoto, editor of the Tokio Times, who is on a visit to America, says some interesting things in an interview with the New York World about America and Americans, as compared with his own people:

The Japanese woman is one of the happiest women in the world. She has her social circle and her family, to which she is devoted. She may be interested in some charities. She is always interested in the advancement of her husband's and children's happiness. With these her ambition ends.

"The American woman has ambitions in innumerable directions. She wants to shine in the political world. She wants to be pointed out in the professional world as the twentieth century Portia who can try a case and win a jury with feminine pleadings such as the brilliant stars of the bar never heard.

"Poor American husbands! What is to become of them eventually in the process of all this feminine activity?

"The American husband is the American slave.

"It always strikes a stranger there that the most expensive feature of American life is the American wife. In no other country in the world do the women appear to dress so magnificently, so extravagantly, as they do here. Even the shop girls here dress better than the women of wealth in many other lands. The people of New York are a magnificently groomed people, from the little girl who works in the downtown offices to the ladies of wealth and leisure.

"I have seen women in New York with their fingers so laden with jewels that it was hard to detect their knuckles. Enough wealth is contained in these displays to represent a small fortune.

"Of the hundreds of tourists who come to Japan every year I observe that the greater number are women. Wherever you go you find that this is so. The American woman travels and enjoys life, but the husband stays behind to make the dollars that provide her good time.

"Very seldom does the Japanese woman travel into foreign countries unaccompanied by her husband. She has no inclination to absent herself from her home and family to seek diversion elsewhere.

"The American woman must be a very charming creature to have men care so much for her that they work themselves old and weary.

"The American woman is extremely pretty. She is decidedly fresh looking and handsome compared with her tired, anxious-looking husband.

"In view of the husband's position in this country, I am not astonished to learn of the very large number of old bachelors here. In Japan we have no old bachelors, and an old maid in Japan is almost unheard of.

Through Life Together.

"The first thing a young man of our country thinks of when he begins to get on in his work is to marry and settle down. He probably would not be so likely to do this here. The demands made by women here are so exorbitant that they frighten the well-intentioned young men and make marriage less popular than in our country.

"A very high standard of living is set here by the millionaire class, and all other classes struggle to live up to it.

"In Japan if a young woman has no matrimonial prospects, say at around twenty-five or twenty-six years of age, her parents begin to get anxious and look about to get her a husband.

"Every woman marries over there unless she happens to be a cripple or is otherwise physically incapicitated. Over there it is the custom to marry. Because this is so, our women are supported by the men and there is not the great need for them to go out into the business world and compete with men to earn their livelihood. I think this is much the better way.

"In Japan a young man marries because it is the thing to marry and have a home of his own. It cannot be said that he always marries for love. But love develops, and most marriages grow into an ideal life partnership. Here they marry for love and end by hating each other in the divorce courts. We have divorce, too, but not to the alarming extent that prevails here, so I am inclined to think our custom is the better.

"Over there they marry young and grow old together, or rich together, or influential together, the wife sharing the happiness and fame of the husband. In America the man who wants to make a lot of money before he marries usually marries a woman of social position or woman who frequently has much money in her own right. This leaves husbandless a lot of girls of the poor or middle class.

CORNER GEORGE AND CHARLOTTE

Remember September will average cooler than usual with very little rain. The rains about middle week of September will put fall pastures in good condition, but farmers should remember that the August drouth not only seriously damaged a large acreage of late corn, but also temporarily ruined the mid-summer pastures also. We will not know the full extent of damage done by the August drouth before Oct. 10. I am now working on 1910 crop weather and will have it complete by end of this month. By crop weather I mean mostly temperatures and rainfall. I use these monthly, together with the daily calculations, in preparing my weekly bulletins.

I am and have a right to be, much elated over my great success in foretelling the August drouth that did so much damage in the corn states. At the time that forecast was published, conditions promised the greatest corn crop ever produced in any country. I gave fair warning that the August drouth would do the corn crop, particularly late corn, great damage.

Mars rises in the east soon after the sun goes down and appears much larger than any other of the heavenly bodies. It is called the red star on account of its colour. It is also called the god of war. The earth will pass between Mars and the sun Sept. 24, and that will cause electrical disturbances and increase the intensities of all weather features. Next bulletin will give more in detail the effects expected from the Mars opposition.

The idea that we may be able to communicate with the people of Mars is not worthy of serious thought, but I know of no reason why animal life should not exist on all the planets and the sun. Our moon's atmosphere and water being so small suggests that it is not inhabited.

CURED WHEN DOCTORS FAILED

Mr. Felix Villeneuve, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes: "I was a great sufferer from kidney disease and inflammation of the bowels and liver trouble and doctors could not help me much. Could not sleep, water contained sediment, had frequent desire to urinate and often passed blood. Had dreadful headaches, one side almost paralysed, and was deaf in left ear for eight years. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured me and I am very grateful. I want to thank you."

FOSTER SMILES AT IDEA THAT WE CAN COMMUNICATE WITH MARS

Examiner Special.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 11.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 10 to 14, warm wave 9 to 13, cool wave 12 to 16. That was predicted to be the most important disturbance of the month. Great high temperature wave followed by general rains, a cold wave and frosts unusually far southward are expected.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific Coast about 15, cross Pacific slope by close of 16, great central valleys 17 to 19, eastern states and provinces 20. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 18, great central valleys 20, eastern states and provinces 22. This disturbance will be preceded by an extensive cold wave and killing frosts in northern sections, and a cool wave with cold rains in southern sections. From Sept. 11 to 18 one of the most general disturbances of the year will prevail, causing general rains, a great high temperature wave followed by a great and general fall in temperatures. It will be called one of the equinoctial storms and will cause strenuous weather covering five or six days.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle

"By Saint Paul!" said Nigel, tugging at his bridle and white with anger, "they shall not chase me across the country as though I was a frightened doe. Archer, how dare you to lash my horse when I would have turned and ridden in upon them?"

"It is well that I did so," said Aylward, "or by these ten finger-bones! our journey would have begun and ended on the same day. As I glanced round I saw a dozen of them at the least amongst the brushwood. See now how the light glimmers upon their steel caps yonder in the bracken under the great beech-tree. Nay, I pray you, my fair lord, do not ride forward. What chance has a man in the open against all these who lie at their ease in the underwood? If you will not think of yourself, then consider your horse, which would have a cloth-yard shaft feathered in its hide ere it could reach the wood."

Nigel chafed in impotent anger. "Am I to be shot at like a popinjay at a fair, by any reaver or outlaw that seeks a mark for his bow?" he cried. "By Saint Paul, Aylward, I will put on my harness and go further into the matter."

"Nay my fair lord, I will not help you to your own downfall. It is a match with cogged dice betwixt a horseman on the moor and archers amid the forest. But these men are no outlaws, or they would not dare to draw their bows within a league of the sheriff of Guildford."

"Indeed, Aylward, I think that you speak truth," said Nigel. "It may be that these are the men of Paul de la Fosse of Shalford, whom I have given little cause to love me. Ah! there is indeed the very man himself."

They sat their horses with their backs to the long slope which leads up to the old chapel on the hill. In front of them was the dark ragged edge of the wood, with a sharp twinkle of steel here and there in its shadows which spoke of these lurking foes. But now there was a long moot upon a horn, and at once a score of russet-clad bowmen ran forward from amid the trees, spreading out into a scattered line and closing swiftly in upon the travelers. In the midst of them, upon a great gray horse, sat a small misshapen man, waving and cheering as one sets hounds on a badger, turning his head this way and that as he whooped and pointed, urging his bowmen onward up the slope.

"Draw them on, my fair lord! Draw them on until we have them out on the down!" cried Aylward, his eyes shining with joy. "Five hundred paces more, and then we may be on terms with them. Nay, linger not, but keep them always just clear of arrow-shot until our turn has come."

Nigel shook and trembled with eagerness, as with his hand on his sword-hilt he looked at the line of eager hurrying men. But it flashed through his mind what Chandos had said of the cool head which is better for the warrior than the hot heart. Aylward's words were true and wise. He turned Pommers' head therefore, and amid a cry of derision from behind them the comrades trotted over the down. The bowmen broke into a run, while their leader screamed and waved more madly than before. Aylward cast many a glance at them over his shoulder.

"Yet a little farther! Yet a little farther still!" he muttered. "The wind is towards them and the fools have forgot that I can overshoot them by fifty paces. Now, my good lord, I pray you for one instant to hold the horses, for my weapon is of more avail this day than thine can be. They may make sorry cheer ere they gain the shelter of the wood once more."

He had sprung from his horse, and with a downward wrench of his arm and a push with his knee he slipped the string into the upper nock of his mighty war-bow. Then in a flash he notched his shaft and drew it to the pile, his keen blue eyes glowing fiercely behind it from under his knotted brows. With thick legs planted sturdily apart, his body laid to the bow, his left arm motionless as wood, his right bunched into a double curve of swelling muscles as he stretched the white, weak-waxed string, he looked so keen and fierce a fighter that the advancing line stopped for an instant at the sight of him. Two or three loosed off their arrows, but the shafts flew heavily against the head wind, and snaked along the hard turf some score of paces short of the mark. One only, a short bandy-legged man, whose squat figure spoke of enormous muscular strength, ran swiftly in and then drew so strong a bow that the arrow quivered in the ground at Aylward's very feet.

"It is Black Will of Lynchmere," said the bowman. "Many a match have I shot with him, and I know well that no other man on the Surrey marches could have sped such a shaft. I trust that you are houseled and shriven, Will, for I have known you so long that I would not have your damnation upon my soul."

He raised his bow as he spoke, and the string twanged with a rich deep musical note. Aylward leaned upon his bow-stave as he keenly watched the long swift flight of his shaft, skimming smoothly down the wind.

"On him, on him! No, over him, by my hilt!" he cried. "There is more wind than I had thought. Nay, nay, friend, now that I have the length of you, you can scarce hope to loose again."

Black Will had notched an arrow and was raising his bow when Aylward's second shaft passed through the shoulder of his drawing arm. With a shout of anger and pain he dropped his weapon, and dancing in his fury he shook his fist and roared curses at his rival.

"I could slay him; but I will not, for good bowmen are not so common," said Aylward. "And now, fair sir, we must on, for they are spreading round on either side, and if once they get behind us, then indeed our journey has come to a sudden end. But ere we go I would send a shaft through yonder horseman who leads them on."

"Nay, Aylward, I pray you to leave him," said Nigel. "Villain as he is, he is none the less a gentleman of coat-armor, and should die by some other weapon than thine."

"As you will," said Aylward, with a clouded brow. "I have been told that in the late wars many a French prince and baron has not been too proud to take his death wound from an English yeoman's shaft, and that nobles of England have been glad enough to stand by and see it done."

Nigel shook his head sadly. "It is sooth you say, archer, and indeed it is no new thing, for that good knight Richard of the Lion Heart met his end in such a lowly fashion, and so also did Harold the Saxon. But this is a private matter, and I would not have you draw your bow against him. Neither can I ride at him myself, for he is weak in body, though dangerous in spirit. Therefore, we will go upon our way, since there is neither profit nor honor to be gained, nor any hope of advancement."

Aylward, having unstrung his bow, had remounted his horse during this conversation, and the two rode swiftly past the little squat Chapel of the Martyr and over the brow of the hill. From the summit they looked back. The injured archer lay upon the ground, with several of his comrades gathered in a knot around him. Others ran aimlessly up the hill, but were already far behind. The leader sat motionless upon his horse, and as he saw them look back he raised his hand and shrieked his curses at them. An instant later the curve of the ground had hid them from view. So, amid love and hate, Nigel bade adieu to the home of his youth.

And now the comrades were journeying upon that old, old road which runs across the south of England and yet never turns toward London, for the good reason that the place was a poor hamlet when first the road was laid. From Winchester, the Saxon capital, to Canterbury, the holy city of Kent, ran that ancient highway, and on from Canterbury to the narrow straits where, on a clear day, the farther shore can be seen. Along this track as far back as history can trace the metals of the west have been carried and passed the pack-horses which bore the goods which Gaul sent in exchange. Older than the Christian faith and older than the Romans, is the old road. North and south are the woods and the marshes, so that only on the high dry turf of the chalk land could a clear track be found. The Pilgrim's Way, it is called; but the pilgrims were the last who ever trod it, for it was already of immemorial age before the death of Thomas a Becket gave a new reason why folk should journey to the scene of his murder.

From the hill of Weston Wood the travelers could see the long white band which dipped and curved and rose over the green downland, its course marked even in the hollows by the line of the old yew-trees which flanked it. Neither Nigel nor Aylward had wandered far from their own country, and now they rode with light hearts and eager eyes taking note of all the varied pictures of nature and of man which passed before them. To their left was a hilly country, a land of rolling heaths and woods, broken here and there into open spaces round the occasional farm-house of a franklin. Hackhurst Down, Dunley Hill, and Ranmore Common swelled and sank, each merging into the other. But on the right, after passing the village of Shere and the old church of Gomshall, the whole south country lay like a map at their feet. There was the huge wood of the Weald, one unbroken forest of oak-trees stretching away to the South Downs, which rose olive-green against the deep blue sky. Under this great canopy of trees strange folk lived and evil deeds were done. In its recesses were wild tribes, little changed from their heathen ancestors, who danced round the altar of Thor, and well was it for the peaceful trav-

Recommended As An Ideal Remedy

W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lloydtown, Ont., March 19th, 1909.

"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had tried many remedies with only indifferent success, until "Fruit-a-tives" came to my notice. Being a general storekeeper, I was selling a good many "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers and, remarking how pleased they were with the results obtained from using "Fruit-a-tives," I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers as 'An ideal remedy.'

"I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the other. A good treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

eler that he could tread the high open road of the chalk land with no need to wander into so dangerous a tract, where soft clay, tangled forest and wild men all barred his progress.

But apart from the rolling country upon the left and the great forest-hidden plain upon the right, there was much upon the road itself to engage the attention of the wayfarers. It was crowded with people. As far as their eyes could carry they could see the black dots scattered thickly upon the thin white band, sometimes single, sometimes several abreast, sometimes in moving crowds, where a drove of pilgrims held together for mutual protection, or a nobleman showed his greatness by the number of retainers who trailed at his heels. At that time the main roads were very crowded, for there were many wandering people in the land. Of all sorts and kinds, they passed in an unbroken stream before the eyes of Nigel and Aylward, alike only in the fact that one and all were powdered from their hair to their shoes with the gray dust of the chalk.

There were monks journeying from one cell to another, Benedictines with their black gowns looped up to show their white skirts, Carthusians in white, and pied Cistercians. Friars also of the three wandering orders—Dominicans in black, Carmelites in white and Franciscans in gray. There was no love lost between the cloistered monks and the free friars, each looking on the other as a rival who took from him the oblations of the faithful; so they passed on the high road as cat passes dog, with eyes askance and angry faces.

Then besides the men of the church there were men of trade, the merchant in dusty broadcloth and Flanders hat riding at the head of his line of packhorses. He carried Cornish tin, West-country wool, or Sussex iron if he traded eastward, or if his head should be turned westward then he bore with him the velvets of Genoa, the ware of Venice, the wine of France, or the armor of Italy and Spain. Pilgrims were everywhere, poor people for the most part, plodding wearily along with trailing feet and bowed heads, thick staves in their hands and bundles over their shoulders. Here and there on a gaily caparisoned palfrey, or in the greater luxury of a horse-litter, some West-country lady might be seen making her easy way to the shrine of Saint Thomas.

Besides all these a constant stream of strange vagabonds drifted along the road: minstrels who wandered from fair to fair, a foul and pestilent crew; jugglers and acrobats, quack doctors and tooth-drawers, students and beggars, free workmen in search of better wages, and escaped bondsmen who would welcome any wages at all. Such was the throng which set the old road smoking in a haze of white dust from Winchester to the narrow sea.

But of all the wayfarers those which interested Nigel most were the soldiers. Several times they passed little knots of archers or men-at-arms, veterans from France, who had received their discharge and were now making their way to their southland homes. They were half drunk all of them, for the wayfarers treated them to beer at the frequent inns and alestakes which lined the road, so that they cheered and sang lustily as they passed. They roared rude pleasantries at Aylward, who turned in his saddle and shouted his opinion of them until they were out of hearing.

Once, late in the afternoon, they overtook a body of a hundred archers all marching together with two knights riding at their head. They were passing from Guildford Castle to Reigate Castle, where they were in garrison. Nigel rode with the knights for some distance, and hinted that if either was in search of honorable advancement, or wished to do some small deed, or to relieve himself of any vow, it might be possible to find some means of achieving it. They were both, however, grave and elderly men, intent upon their business and with no mind for fond wayside adventures, so Nigel quickened his pace and left them behind.

They had left Boxhill and Headley Heath upon the left, and the towers of Reigate were rising amid the trees in front of them, when they overtook a large, sheary, red-faced man, with a forked beard, riding upon a good horse and exchanging a nod or a merry word with all who passed him. With him they rode nearly as far as Bletchingley, and Nigel laughed much to hear him talk; but always under the raillery there was much earnestness and much wisdom in all his words. He rode at ease about the country, he said, having sufficient money to keep him from want and to furnish him for the road. He could speak all the three languages of England, the north, the middle and the south, so that he was at home with the people of every shire and could hear their troubles and their joys. In all parts in town and in country there was unrest, he said; for the poor folk were weary of their masters both of the Church and State, and soon there would be such doings in England as had never been seen before.

But above all this man was earnest against the Church: its enormous wealth, its possession of nearly one-third of the whole land of the country, its insatiable greed for more at the very time when it claimed to be poor and lowly. The monks and friars, too, he lashed with his tongue: their roguish ways, their laziness and their cunning. He showed how their wealth and that of the haughty lord must always be founded upon the toil of poor humble Peter the Plowman, who worked and strove in rain and cold out in the fields, the butt and laughing-stock of everyone, and still bearing up the whole world upon his weary shoulders. He had set it all out in a fair parable; so now as he rode he repeated some of the verses, chanting them and marking time with his forefinger, while Nigel and Aylward on either side of him with their heads inclined inward listened with the same attention, but with very different feelings—Nigel shocked at such an attack upon authority, and Aylward chuckling as he heard the sentiments of his class so shrewdly expressed. At last the stranger halted his horse outside the "Five Angels" at Gatton.

"It is a good inn, and I know the ale of old," said he. "When I had finished that 'Dream of Piers the Plowman' which I have recited to you, the last verses were thus:

"'Now have I brought my little booke to an ende
God's blessing be on him who a drinke will me sende'—

I pray you come in with me and share it."

"Nay," said Nigel, "we must on our way, for we have far to go. But give me your name, my friend, for indeed we have passed a merry hour listening to your words."

"Have a care!" the stranger answered, shaking his head. "You and your class will not spend a merry hour when these words are turned into deeds and Peter the Plowman grows weary of swinking in the fields and takes up his bow and his staff in order to set this land in order."

"By Saint Paul! I expect that we shall bring Peter to reason and also those who have put such evil thoughts into his head," said Nigel. "So once more I ask your name, that I may know it if ever I chance to hear that you have been hanged?"

The stranger laughed good-humoredly. "You can call me Thomas Lackland," said he. "I should be Thomas Lack-brain if I were indeed to give my true name, since a good many robbers, some in black gowns and some in steel, would be glad to help me upwards in the way you speak of. So good-day to you, Squire, and to you also, archer, and may you find your way back with whole bones from the wars!"

That night the comrades slept in Godstone Priery, and early next morning they were well upon their road down the Pilgrim's Way. At Titsey it was said that a band of villeins were out in Westerham Wood and had murdered three men the day before; so that Nigel had high hopes of an encounter; but the brigands showed no sign, though the travelers went out of their way to ride their horses along the edges of the forest. Farther on they found traces of their work, for the path ran along the hillside at the base of a chalk quarry, and there in the cutting a man was lying dead. From his twisted limbs and shattered frame it was easy to see that he had been thrown over from above, while his pockets turned outward showed the reason for his murder. The comrades rode past without too close a survey, for dead men were no very uncommon objects on the King's highway, and if sheriff or bailiff should chance upon you near the body you might find yourself caught in the meshes of the law.

Near Sevenoaks their road turned out of the old Canterbury way and pointed south toward the coast, leaving the chalk lands and coming down into the clay of the Weald. It was a wretched, rutted mule-track running through thick forests with occasional clearings in which lay the small Kentish villages, where rude shock-headed peasants with smocks and galligaskins stared with bold, greedy eyes at the travelers. Once on the right they caught a distant view of the Towers of Penshurst, and once they heard the deep tolling of the bells of Bayham Abbey, but for the rest of their day's journey savage peasants and squalid cottages were all that met their eyes, with endless droves of pigs who fed upon the litter of acorns. The throng of travelers who crowded the old road were all gone, and only here and there did they meet or overtake some occasional merchant or messenger bound for Battle Abbey, Pevensey Castle or the towns of the south.

That night they slept in a sordid inn, overrun with rats and with fleas, one mile south of the hamlet of Mayfield. Aylward scratched vigorously and cursed with fervor. Nigel lay without movement or sound. To the man who had learned the old rule of chivalry there were no small ills in life. It was beneath the dignity of his soul to stoop to observe them. Cold and heat, hunger and thirst, such things did not exist for the gentleman. The armor of his soul was so complete that it was proof not only against the great ills of life but even against the small ones; so the flea-bitten Nigel lay grimly still while Aylward writhed upon his couch.

They were now but a short distance from their destination; but they had hardly started on their journey through the forest next morning, when an adventure befell them which filled Nigel with the wildest hopes

| 138.0 | Mattagama River | June 1, 1910 |

Plans and profiles may be seen and full information obtained at the office of the Chief Engineer at Ottawa, Ontario.

After contracts are awarded the successful tenderers must submit designs of all superstructures with stress sheets all to be in accordance with the Specifications of the Department of Railways and Canals of the Dominion Government, 1908. The class of load to be used is that designated "Heavy" in the said specifications.

Tenders will be received for one or more of the structures required.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to five per cent. (5 p.c.) of the amount of the tender.

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY WORK

From Farm and Dairy.

There are a number of interesting features in connection with the ninth annual report of the Agricultural Societies of Ontario that are deserving of consideration. Superintendent J. Lockie Wilson is to be congratulated upon the attractive manner in which the report is issued and upon its careful editing. The most gratifying feature in connection with the work of the Societies, is the development that has taken place in the field crop competitions, the number of societies competing having increased from 10 to 47. Six hundred and fifty farmers took part in them last year. The farmers who grew the prize grain were able to sell their grain at 100 per cent. above the market price. This indicates the demand that exists for pure seed, and that this line of agricultural effort will stand still further advancement. The success of this feature of their work goes to prove what Farm and Dairy has contended all along that if the grant to the societies is increased it should be along the lines of work such as this, and not by handing out a lump sum of money to be distributed broadcast among the societies.

The government grant to the societies is distributed in proportion to their expenditures for agriculture purposes. Expenditures on grounds and buildings cannot be included by the societies as expenditures for agricultural purposes. This feature of the Act discourages societies from improving their grounds, from putting up good accommodation for their exhibits, and otherwise strengthening their exhibitions along these lines. Any change in the Act that would remedy this is opposed by the small societies that do not own their buildings, and do not expect to. The Department of Agriculture should take this matter in their own hands, and see that this feature of the Act is improved. The time has gone by in Ontario, except in a very few sparsely settled sections, for showing stock and articles without proper protection from the weather.

In his report, Superintendent Wilson points with pride to the fact that in 1907, 178 judges were employed, while in 1908 the number had increased to 222. He claims that this is an evidence of growth in the expert judge system. It may be, and it may not.

all depends upon how many exhibitions each judge attended. It has been commonly charged during the past two years that instead of sending set of judges to fifteen and twenty exhibitions, as was done in many cases formerly, the circuits have been broken into smaller divisions, thus providing more jobs for would-be judges, and increasing the expense of the system. When we know how many fairs these judges attended as compared with the number of fairs attended by the judges in former years, we will be able to determine what growth in the system there has been.

Superintendent Wilson properly draws attention to the increase in gambling evident at many exhibitions last year. We may presume from this that he will see that energetic measures are taken, by sending out government detectives, as was done several years ago, to suppress these features at our exhibitions this fall.

DAIRY CATTLE AT TORONTO

From Farm and Dairy.

Exhibits quite in keeping with the great advance of dairying are those made by the dairy cattle owners at the 1909 Canadian National Exhibition. On the whole, the dairy cattle are a good fair average as compared with the showing of former years, though possibly not quite up to the splendid standard of last year. Much of the educational value of the showing, so far as the public are concerned, is lost owing to the mixed up arrangement of the breeds in the stables. The Holsteins, for instance, are split up and scattered in three different barns widely separated. The management had apparently lost sight of the fact that the cattle appear in the ring but for one day and that they are mainly shown in the stables which is the only place where the public may see them for the remainder of the show. The real exhibit is in the barns. The superintendent should be responsible for the placing of the cattle and should so arrange the breeds, and at least have each breed separate, that they would be most easy of inspection.

Some misunderstanding arose as to the time of judging. In former years it has been the custom to commence judging on the first day at 9.00 a.m. This year it was delayed till 11.00 a.m., although the herdsmen were in readiness with their cows "haaped" up for the usual hour. Through this delay many of the cows were forced to retain their milk—what they could of it—until after 6 p.m. Any cow owner can appreciate what such treatment meant to freshly calved cows, especially when it is learned that these cows had not been milked since the evening before. In future years, classes should be so arranged that the cows would be judged first and thus prevent undue cruelty, which must surely result in loss.

A real need of the exhibition is some fit place—an amphitheatre—wherein to judge the cattle. Every first-class show in the United States has such a building. The live stock interests deserve it. Seeing that the grounds are so well equipped otherwise it is a surprise to many people that an amphitheatre is lacking. In threatening weather, such as was experienced on Saturday, very little interest is taken in the judging, owing to the lack of accommodation provided. The grandstand at the ringside is crude in the extreme and when compared with the scale of the splendid structure given to the so-called special attractions it would seem that stockmen were far from getting their just due.

The Holsteins and most of the Ayrshires were judged on Friday last; the remaining Ayrshires, the Jerseys, the Guernseys and the grades on Saturday. Holsteins were judged by H. H. Moyer of Syracuse, N.Y.; Ayrshires by M. P. Schank, of Avon, N.Y.; and Jerseys and grades by W. R. Spohn of Dallas, Texas. The awards are given elsewhere.

The exhibition in general is bigger and better than ever. The addition to the grounds, recently made, tends to relieve much of the old time congestion and affords ample room for still more growth. Entries in the horse and beef cattle classes are well up to the mark. The aggregate attendance at the time of going to press exceeds that of last year and with favorable weather throughout the remainder of the week there will be a substantial lead over figures of previous years.

COATED TONGUE HEADACHE DIZZY SPELLS

Your overworked stomach is on strike. It refuses to secrete pepsin enough to act upon the food. Refuses also to secrete acid enough to enable the peptic secretion to do its work.

What's the result?—dyspepsia, headache, sick all over.

Give to the stomach the assistance it requires—or in other words try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which cure more weak stomachs than any other medicine you know of.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills put the kind of life into a weak stomach that enables it to digest and assimilate all kinds of food.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Cured Mr. William Martin, a Well-Known Lumberman in Parry Sound.

"I consider that Dr. Hamilton's Pills make the best all round medicine. My stomach got disordered and all kinds of complications set in. My blood grew thin, my color got pale, and I had the worst kind of headaches. The food I ate all disagreed with me and I was constantly bilious and suffering from acute dyspepsia. A wonderful change took place when I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they gave me appetite and strong digestion. I had no more bad dreams, no sick stomach or headache. I was in fact like a new man, and will always recommend and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

HOW TO PRODUCE GOOD EGGS

From Farm and Dairy.

The most important requisites for the production of good eggs are summarised in a United States government bulletin as follows:

1. Hens that produce not only a goodly number of eggs but eggs of moderately large size (weighing 2 ounces each on an average). Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons, and Leghorns or Minorcas that are used on egg farms are varieties that may be expected to do this.
2. Good housing, regular feeding, and watering, and, above all, clean, dry nests.
3. Daily gathering of eggs, and when the temperature is above 80 degrees, gathering twice a day.
4. The confining of all broody hens as soon as discovered.
5. The rejection as doubtful of all eggs found in a nest that was not visited the previous day. Such eggs should be used at home, where each may be broken separately.
6. The placing of all summer eggs, as soon as gathered, in the coolest place available.
7. The prevention at all times of moisture in any form coming in contact with the eggshells.
8. The disposal of young cockerels before they begin to annoy the hens. Also the selling or confining of old male birds from the time hatching is over until cool weather in fall.
9. The using of cracked and dirty as well as small eggs at home. Such eggs, if consumed when fresh, are perfectly wholesome, but when marketed are discriminated against and are likely to become an entire loss.
10. The marketing of all eggs at least once a week, and oftener when convenience allows.
11. Keeping eggs as cool and dry as possible while on the way to town and while in country stores.
12. Keeping eggs away from musty cellars or bad odors.
13. The use of strong, clean cases and good fillers.
14. The shipping of eggs to the final market at least once a week and as much oftener as possible.

ONTARIO FRUIT REPORT

Early apples are much scarcer than usual, but there is a good promise of the winter sorts, which are most in demand for export. A number of complaints are made that some of the fruit is dropping from the trees owing to drouth, and also that many apples are small in size. The codling moth has been rather common this season, and there will likely be a full share of the wormy fruit where not sprayed, but so far apples are said to be remarkably free from spot and other fungus attacks.

Pears are described as being from light to good in yield. Plums are variable in yield, those who sprayed at the proper time getting excellent results. The curculio did much injury to plums where no spraying was done, and odd reports of rot have also come in. While some full yields of peaches are reported, the entire crop will be only a medium one. Cherries were plentiful this year, and of unusually fine quality. Grapes again give promise of a large return, and so far as regularity of yield is concerned is now regarded as one of our most consistent fruit crops.

What Ponso Is--What It Does

The secret of the great restorative powers of Ponso is its tonic germicide qualities. It goes at the root of the disease—the starting point—destroys the germs and at the same time its tonic influence tones up the system, purifies the blood and gives the weakened constitution strength with which to throw off the disorder.

Most all diseases are germ diseases and it is impossible to cure them unless you rid the system of the germs. The problem has been—until Ponso was discovered, to compound a medicine which would destroy these germs effectually without injury to the tissues.

Ponso Kills Germs

Ponso does it because germs being of vegetable origin they quickly succumb to its liquid gaseous influence. Ponso is a germicide. Its virtues are derived from oxide gases. The process of making it requires 14 days, and when finished it is a powerful combination of gases and liquid that goes straight to the seat of trouble, kills the germs and starts toning up the weakened tissues. No alcohol, no narcotic—nothing enters Ponso that is harmful. It is endorsed by hundreds of physicians. It puts vim, vigor and vitality into the body as nothing else can.

Millions of bottles have been used and its splendid health-restoring qualities are now offered to you in a way you should not let pass.

You want to get well, don't you?

You want to know if Ponso will help you before you pay any money for it. Here's your opportunity.

CEMENT FOR AND COST OF FLOOR

From Farm and Dairy.

How many barrels of cement and how much gravel would it take to build 2713 square feet of flooring in cow stable and horse stable floors? What would be the probable cost of laying this floor providing we had the bottom ready and materials at hand? What is the cost of the best grade of cement?—W. T., Carleton Co., Ont.

The foundation for this should be 4 inches thick with a proportion of 8 to 1. This would require 904 cubic feet of concrete altogether. It would require 25 barrels of cement. The top should be about 1 inch thick and proportioned 2 to 1. The surface coat would require 226 cubic feet of concrete, this would require about 19 barrels of cement or it would require about 44 barrels for the complete floor.

It is hard for us to estimate just what it would cost him to lay the floor in as much as we do not know if he intends to lay it himself or if he intends to hire some person to do the work for him. However, the concrete is usually laid so much per cubic yard and it would be an easy matter for him to figure this out for himself when he finds out what the contractors in his district charge for this work.

The best brand of Portland Cement can be purchased at the present time for about $1.35 a barrel, and in some districts where they are on the water front or in a close vicinity to the cement mills it can be purchased more reasonable than this.—London Concrete Machinery Company, Limited.

Laid Behind the Counter Until Relief Came.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING OF AN OWEN SOUND CONTRACTOR AND BUILDER.

Mr. Wm. Krauth, Owen Sound, Ont., writes: "Having read some of the testimonials of cures effected by Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, I thought it advisable to say a word of praise for its merits.

"Some years ago I was much troubled with stomach trouble and cramps. I used to roll on the floor in agony, and on one occasion I went into a faint after suffering intensely for four hours. A short time after this, in driving to town, I was attacked again and had to lie down in my rig, seeking relief.

"When I reached the drug store I asked the druggist for a quick remedy and laid behind the counter until relief came. The remedy I received from the druggist was Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Whenever, after that time, I felt cramps coming on, I found speedy relief in the above mentioned remedy, and I am now cured of this dreadful malady. The bottle is small, but its contents effect a marvelous cure. I can recommend it highly for the cure of cramps."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for 65 years. It is not a new and untried remedy. Ask for it and insist on getting what you ask for. Refuse substitutes. They're dangerous.

ON THE BAYOU ROAD

(A TRUE STORY)

HE BENT FORWARD FROM HIS SADDLE AND PRESSED THE HAND, GLOVED THOUGH IT WAS, TO HIS LIPS.

FELIX saw her first at early morning as she rode at furious gallop up the Bayou road. He drew aside, not because there was lack of space for both, but from quick admiration and the wish to follow every movement of the graceful, daintily poised figure. She had her mount well in hand and swept by at top speed. The boy had a vision of flushed cheek and parted lips, a sidelong flash of eye, and she was gone.

Yet not gone. A silk scarf that had added a last piquant touch to the picture fluttered from her shoulders to the ground a second later. She did not notice. With a shout Felix dug his spurs and dashed after her, stooping from his saddle in full career and catching up the scarf neatly. She had drawn rein at his cry and was waiting for him when he cantered up with his prize. Gallantly, with the ease and grace of his Spanish blood, he threw his mustang back to a sudden halt before her, removed his hat and offered the scarf. She thanked him and accepted it, smiling without embarrassment, wheeled her horse deftly and was off again. He stayed to watch as long as she was in sight.

He was on the road next morning, and at the same hour she passed again. He saluted and she acknowledged his greeting with a pleasant nod. So it was the next day, and the next. Finally there was a morning when she came at a walk and he ventured to speak timidly. She was a little startled, but they rode on together for half a mile. Acquaintance was made. Felix held himself well named.

He called her the mignonette girl, for no particular reason except that he could compare her with nothing for charm and daintiness save the scent of the little flower. She was very young, not more than seventeen, he thought; but he found her free from awkwardness or affectation. Never had the darker, richer beauty of his own race thrilled him as did this frank, blue eyed, supple wristed equestrienne. He came to think that the day began and ended with the few moments he was with her along the Bayou road. For her part she was reserved, yet took open pleasure in his company.

So their romance had its growth in sweet morning airs under the arch of the rising sun. They came, met and parted like the figures in some quaint idyl of an older century. He knew her only as Evelyn Courcey. She told him little of her home life. He was content not to seek it. The daily rendezvous on the road was enough for them both as yet.

The elder brother of Felix, Michael de Armas, was a notary and attorney in high esteem with the French and Spanish population of New Orleans. Member of a family that could trace a distinguished line through early settlers back to the Castilian nobility, he had yielded nothing in habits or way of life to the newer civilization of the republic. He knew little English, read none at all, mingled only with his old friends and sought rather pathetically to keep all else at a distance. Yet there was in his attitude no resentment against the changes he saw about him. He was a mild man, even tempered, quiet, inoffensive. If he did not understand more modern thought and methods it was merely because they did not interest him. He prospered among those who had known him and did not look beyond.

He found no fault with Felix in that the boy took kindly to the strange, fresh, vigorous tide that had swept upon the city from the northward. Perhaps he saw that while he himself could well end his life as one almost foreign to the country, the younger De Armas must grow up an American.

Fought Too Well.

As the traditional counsellor for many of the most prominent families of old New Orleans Michael became engaged in litigation concerning the resurvey of ancient estates. Boundaries had been loosely fixed and kept under original holders, and in the new order of things a stricter definition of lines and limits led to many a bitter dispute. Several of those who held themselves wronged placed their cases in the hands of De Armas, and the aged attorney fought a good fight for his clients, with Felix as English associate. He fought too good a fight. In the course of it he excited the active enmity of the counter claimants, who found him a sturdy foeman. His opponents had influence, the ear of the authorities and, incidentally, a hold on a section of the daily press.

One of the newspapers of New Orleans was owned and edited by Hamlin Jackson, a Georgian. He had a ready and a barbed pen, which had drawn him into more than one quarrel during his five years in New Orleans, and in deadly combat he had proved himself a man of high personal courage. For the rest he was vindictive in pursuit of those he chose to attack and nourished a strong dislike of the original aristocracy of the French and Spanish days.

This was the aid that the counter claimants drew upon. They presented the case to him as one in which the pride and greed of the old families had spurred them into open contempt and resistance of the new authority. He promised that he would attend to the matter in due course.

A week later Felix de Armas, glancing over the day's issue of Jackson's paper, came upon the following:—

"Certain proprietors of old estates in the city have offered annoying and presumptuous interference with the orderly settlement of boundary lines incident to a form of government quite opposed to the lax favoritism which they would prefer. It appears that their opposition is being led by one Michael de Armas, a man wholly discredited in the eyes of the bar, a miserable shyster who has fallen upon this opportunity unclean bird of prey. From all information forward by De Armas would be merely were not accorded the weight that a sented his case with all the pompousness and absurdity that would obtain under a benighted despotism. His clients have sacrificed what little hope they might have had in choosing so utterly worthless a representative."

The young man read this insolent attack with rage and horror. The cold blooded wantonness and deliberate falsehood of the thing were stupefying. That one should call his brother—the gentlest, most courteous, most honorable of men—a shyster, an unclean bird, was unthinkable. And yet here it was in print and type for all to read. He knew the explanation. The counter claimants had enlisted Jackson and had induced him to cast vile aspersions upon the character of the elder De Armas in the hope that he would be withdrawn from the case by his clients. But the recklessness, the cruelty, the maliciousness of a man who could put such libels into circulation could only proceed from personal venom and a tainted character.

Felix said nothing of the matter to Michael, who, as he well knew, could not read the slander for himself. He gave specific instructions to the aged housekeeper that should any of their friends call they must be carefully warned against communicating the terrible news to the attorney. Meanwhile the fact that Michael was hard at work with preparation of his case and would be held closely to it for several days gave liberty to his design. With the copy of the offending newspaper in his pocket he hurried to the office in which it was published and sent in word that Felix de Armas would like to see Mr. Hamlin Jackson. He was admitted.

No Explanation Needed.

The editor sat at a small, battered desk heaped high with papers. He was writing busily and did not look up at the young man's entrance. Jackson was a tall man, remarkably thin, "built with a square," as some one had ventured to say of him. His cadaverous face was smooth shaven, showing lines and angles in sharp consonance with his features and person. De Armas stood stiffly, waiting with what patience he could muster and stifling the anger that swelled within him.

"Well, sir?" said Jackson, after a pause, continuing his work.

"I fear, Mr. Jackson, that you are laboring under some misapprehension"——

"Don't give yourself any uneasiness, Mr. De Armas; I am under no misapprehension."

"But you will permit me"——

"No, sir, I will not permit you to explain a word."

Jackson cast upon his visitor an eye that was as cold and soulless as a gleam from polished steel, an eye from which spirits of less resolution were wont to quail. Felix returned the glance with scorn and high resolution.

"I was going to say, you will permit"——

"And I say I will permit nothing of the kind!" Jackson brought a corded hand down upon the edge of the desk to lend emphasis to his threatening tone. De Armas went white. His nerves, drawn to a tense pitch by his grievance, were like to snap under the insulting tactics of the editor.

"I was going to say that you will accord me the satisfaction one gentleman has a right to demand of another," he thundered. "I can hardly include you in that category, but I hope I can count upon you for the act."

Jackson towered to his feet, blazing with wrath.

"Yes, sir, you can have your satisfaction. The sooner the better, you impudent whelp. Bring on your whole tribe if you like."

Felix was not sure that he would be able to get away from the place without attempting bodily harm upon the man if he remained to hear more. He received Jackson's words with a gesture of scorn and contempt.

"A friend of mine will call to make the arrangements immediately," he murmured, and left the office.

Felix sought out Pierre Levois to act for him as second, a man skilled in the procedure of the duello and the survivor of many meetings on the field of honor. Levois had seen the slanderous article in Jackson's paper and undertook to make terms that would mean the chance of sure satisfaction.

"If he attempts to take advantage of you or seeks to evade the proper degree of risk I will strike him and make him challenge me myself," fumed Levois, departing on his errand. He returned some hours later to report the agreement. The combatants were to meet as soon as might be after dawn the next day, with pistols, at ten paces. Felix was well content. He was no stranger to the use of firearms and the distance would at least make it probable that one or both of the participants would suffer severely.

The edge of his anger dulled by the prospect of settling the injury placed upon his beloved brother, Felix turned his thoughts to other matters. What would the mignonette girl think of him? On the morrow he would be absent from their tryst for the first time since he had met her. At the very moment when she awaited him on the road he would be in peril of his life, seeking that of another. The chances were at best even that he would never canter by her side along that road. He would have wished to send her some message, some excuse for his failure to be at the place, but he did not know where she lived. He regretted the obsession of happiness that had held him so closely to the charm and mystery of their brief meetings. But there was no way to reach her. He must appear recreant until either by his own word or through the news of his death she should know that he had not forgotten.

Off to the Duel.

It had scarcely lightened in the east next morning when Felix aroused himself from a restful sleep and joined Levois on horse at the corner of the street. A field near the army barracks had been chosen for the scene of the duel. It was well shielded from observation by trees and hedges that offered further protection from the rising sun. They were first on the ground, and Levois thought to give his young principal some last instructions and advice. He found, however, that Felix had entered into that strange, seeming apathy of the iron nerved duellist in which detachment of mind and perfect inflexibility of muscle best fit a man for the mental and physical strain of combat. Levois was surprised and encouraged. The boy would do well, he felt. He refrained from interfering with the control that his principal had drawn about himself and left him standing alone while he began a preliminary measuring of the distance.

Jackson appeared some minutes later with his second, a man whom Levois and Felix recognized as one of the opponents of his brother in the land suits. The editor's thin, upright form was tightly buttoned in a close fitting coat, his face was set and menacing. There was more than a vestige of truth in the report that he prepared himself for combat as a mummer for his part with deliberate eye to unsettling his adversary's courage by direful mien and sinister appearance. Levois knew Jackson's reputation and smiled as he saw this shallow preparation. It would have no more impression than a heathen amulet upon the state of mind with which Felix had hedged himself.

Jackson had brought his own duelling pistols and remained at his end of the ground in dread and threatening pose, while he sent his second forward to offer Felix the choice. The boy allowed Levois to make the selection and took the weapon after it was loaded without removing his stern gaze from his enemy. Slowly he moved forward to the spot that Levois indicated. Jackson also advanced. The two faced each other at ten paces, pistol arms lowered and eyes fixed.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" asked Jackson's second.

"Fire! One"——

The shots rang out at the same fraction of a second. The bursting cloud of smoke hid each from the other for a space. Felix retained his position. Jackson's bullet had grazed his temple, shearing a lock of hair in passage. As the intervening air cleared the boy saw that his own aim had been better. Jackson had fallen forward; the two seconds were running toward him. A moment later they turned him over. He was dead, instantly killed. The bullet from his opponent's weapon had struck him in the centre of the forehead.

Felix was hardly conscious that he had taken part in what had passed when he came to himself a moment later. It was as if he had waked from a vague dream to find it reality. His youth and inexperience in affairs of death might have made that waking painful, but he felt no emotion other than relief that he had vindicated his brother and cleared the family name. Under the accepted view of the time, in prevailing traditions of right and wrong, he had played the honorable gentleman. Levois led him from the field triumphantly.

Hoping There Is Time.

Out on the highway again Felix looked toward the east with sudden interest. It was late, but there might yet be time to reach the rendezvous if he rode swiftly. He parted hurriedly from his surprised second and with whip and spur dashed upon a circuitous route toward the Bayou road. He found the mignonette girl riding slowly toward the city. She watched his headlong approach with the smile that he had come to look upon as holding all of light and hope for him.

"Come, Master Chevalier," she said as he drew up, "is this your hour for early riding? Where now is your admiration for the first flush of dawn that I have heard you rant so nobly of?"

"What matter?" he responded, bowing, hat in hand. "If the sun will stand still upon the road and wait for me I lose nothing."

"At least your tongue is not tardy," she retorted.

She turned back and they rode on together. In reaction from the sombre business of the preceding hour Felix threw himself with an ardor he had never before ventured toward his goal. He was tender, brilliant, devoted, halting not at all for her mockery, but pressing to the declaration he was determined to make ere they parted that day. She checked him neatly, her face aglow with happiness and merriment, time after time, but he would not be denied. He caught a softer depth in her glance and returned to the attack with prescient insistence. He would win the mignonette girl now, bringing their idyl to its flower on the spot where first it had sprung to life.

In throwing out the parallels of his investment he asked that he might know where her home was or something of her family. She fenced with him here for some minutes, but finally capitulated with a little sigh.

"I cannot laugh with you in this, Felix," she said. "Had I father, mother or brothers I might jest about them. But I have none of these."

"At least then you have some protector?" said Felix in astonishment. "Is it some more distant relative?"

She shook her head.

"But there must be some one."

"Yes, there is one. And he is very dear to me. I was adopted when I was a child, Felix. So far as a man may be a father and still no father he has been that to me. I wish that you might know him," she added, turning impulsively to her companion.

"I have every reason to believe that I shall know him," answered Felix complacently. "If he has been good to you he shall also be my father, for I have none. What is his name?"

"He is Hamlin Jackson, the editor."

She did not notice his silence until some minutes later, when she turned to him with a question. The look she saw upon his face frightened her as nothing she had ever seen before.

"Felix," she cried in terror, "what is wrong?"

His voice sounded far away to his own ears as he answered after a pause with an effort of which he had not thought himself capable:—

"It is nothing—a passing weakness. It will leave me in a moment."

She watched him, wide eyed, and her agitation gave him the strength he needed. In a flash it came to him that the hour was his and hers. Their idyl was crushed with its blossom still unfolded, but nothing should keep from him or blur the memory of this last ride. He would have the fragrance at least.

Wondering at himself, he made some sally presently and in a moment had calmed her. Once more his laugh rang out along the Bayou road. He renewed his wooing where he had left it, carrying no further toward the end he had planned, but taking the same blithesome, ardent tone. Again she was on her guard, and again they played the game of the ages, man and maid.

They reached the point where she had always parted from him. If she knew with the woman's intuition that he had drawn back from the purpose he met her with that day she gave no sign as she held out her gloved hand smiling. He could not be banal, he could not be manly. There was nothing he might say to prepare her. Yet one thing he did. He bent forward from his saddle and pressed the hand, gloved though it was, to his lips. Then he swept off his hat and drew his mustang aside.

"Goodby," she cried gayly.

"Adieu," he answered.

THE COMMON SEWING NEEDLE.

We are so accustomed to seeing the little steel sewing needle in everyday use that we accept its presence as a matter of course, quite as if it grew on a tree like an apple.

It is true that needles have always been used, but not always in their present form. In times when skins of animals were worn for clothing the needle was made of fishbone, bone or ivory, without an eye and of goodly size and strength, in order to pierce the skins easily.

Since the latter part of the fourteenth century steel needles have been made. Various are the kinds and sizes which are now required for everyday use by a world of people for sewing by hand, by machine, for packing, upholstery and leather work, wonderful needles for surgical purposes and many others.

The material used in the manufacture of the needle consists of fine steel wire, which is supplied in coils. These coils are cut with powerful shears into lengths each sufficient for two needles.

Several thousand of these lengths are placed together in a bundle, heated to red heat and then quickly straightened by pressure and rolling.

These straightened lengths are then pointed at both ends on a revolving grindstone. A grinder will point as many as one hundred thousand needles in a day, while machinery invented for the same purpose will point three times as many as a skilled workman.

Next comes the eying of the needles. You will remember that each length of wire referred to is sufficient for two needles. At the centre of each length, therefore, is stamped the grooved and rounded impression of two needle heads, end to end, and then perforated by steel punches.

Through the double eye holes thus formed (of, say, one hundred needles at a time) is threaded fine wire, giving an appearance ow a two edged comb. The needles are held rigid and then broken apart with comparative ease between the eyeholes.

The needles are next hardened and tempered by being subjected to red heat, plunged into an oil bath, reheated again and gradually cooled.

After this they must be scoured and polished by friction combined with softsoap, oil and emery powder. Washing, drying and more polishing follow—in fact, there seems to be no end to the polishing and finishing processes—but when the work is finally completed the needles are as near perfection as modern machinery and human skill can make them.

Yet we buy them for four cents a paper, at the rate of about six for one cent.

PITFALLS FOR ENGAGED COUPLES

Charles Kingsley used to tell a story of a friend who called on the local curate and found his reverence dancing ecstatically round a half-packed portmanteau. "What's the matter?" asked the caller, in amazement, "have you gone quite mad?" "Not a bit of it," panted the curate, "but I'm engaged; and I'm just off to see her!" And away he started again on his jubilant career round the room.

Those of us who have been in the curate's enviable position can sympathize with his exaltation, though personally we would not exhibit it in quite the same way; for the man who does not feel transported to the seventh heaven when he has just won the sweetest prize life has to offer does not deserve his good fortune. But no lover ever stayed long on this pinnacle of bliss, and the sooner he descends to less dangerous altitudes the better, for he must walk warily if he is to tread without disaster the primrose path of courtship that leads to the altar.

The path "of the lover may be strewn with flowers," said an old divine who knew what he was talking about, "but the flowers conceal many a pitfall into which he will stumble if he be not wary." In a breach of promise case, in which the writer once took a modest professional part, the defendant gave as his principal reason for breaking his troth the fact that the fair plaintiff yawned repeatedly in his face when he was wooing her. "How often did you see her?" asked plaintiff's counsel. "Oh, every day practically." "Perhaps you saw too much of each other?" suggested the man of wig and gown. "We certainly did," was the emphatic answer.

And therein is one of the most fatal pitfalls in the path of the engaged. They, as a rule, see far too much of one another. In their new-born ardour they cannot spend an hour apart which they can possibly spend together. That which at first is a delight becomes a habit which neither has the moral courage to relax, and mutual boredom results. It can scarcely be otherwise so long as human nature is what it is. The fire of love is best fed by discreet absences and uncertainty, and if it is too much sat over and watched, especially in its early stages, it has a fatal tendency to smoulder, if not to go out. The wise lovers are those who bear this fact in mind.

And just as dangerous as too frequent meeting is too demonstrative affection. "He would never leave me alone," said the respondent in a recent divorce case. "Even when we were engaged he was always kissing me, until I got quite sick of it and him." Kisses may be, as Cotton says, "the pledges and incentive of love," but too frequently administered they are as apt to pall as an exclusive diet of chocolate eclairs, and they lose their sweetness and their purpose in proportion as they are too prodigally indulged in.

Of course there are some who go to the opposite extreme of niggardness, like the lover who, when kissing his fiancee for the first time after ten years of engagement, inquired, proudly: "Have I not been ceevil?" "Senselessly ceevil," was the disgusted rejoinder; or that other wooer who, after waiting a similar time for his first indulgence, said grace both before and after the operation.

Lovers should also beware of the first quarrel. Quarrelling is a habit easily formed and hard to eradicate, and each wrangle may be a nail in love's coffin. After all, if quarrelling is necessary there will be plenty of time for it after marriage; it should not cloud the fair skies of courtship.

SOME RED HOT CRITICISMS

Hon. W. J. Hanna Back From the North Country—Is Indignant.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Hon. W. J. Hanna has returned from the North Country and hands out some red hot criticism of the state of affairs in Cobalt where the epidemic of typhoid is causing so much alarm. "The conditions are shocking," said Mr. Hanna this morning. "There has been no regard even for common decency. Landlords who bought in ready-made two room houses costing $280 are renting them for $360 a year and simply laughing at any attempts to introduce sanitary conditions.

Mrs. Farndel of Clementsport, N. S., Suffered All Her Life From Asthma, But Was Permanently Cured by Catarrhozone After All Other Means Failed.

Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma, and hopes that many will follow her example and use Catarrhozone:—

"I am now in my eightieth year, and cannot recall the time when I was free from asthma. I had always a choking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhozone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave relief in five minutes, and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhozone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used I was completely cured. I am as free now from asthma as if I never had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. I prize my Catarrhozone inhaler next to life itself."

PURITY FLOUR

ALL PLAYS ARE BASED ON LOVE

Watching the plays of the present day, as kaleidoscopic-like they shift and change and come and go upon the modern stage, a thought of the passions of which they are formed and which colour them is bound to occur, according to the critic of the Chicago Tribune. Elemental passion is the root of all life, and life once created is swayed and controlled by the minor passions which spring from the elemental. The main passion depicted on the stage is love. All plays have for their basis this passion. Early celibacy, simple product as it is of the Gothic customs, has, nevertheless, come through the ages to be the mainspring of all plays that are really worth while. Shakespeare recognised this passion as the most potent. In the wonderful romance and tragedy of "Romeo and Juliet" he rang all the changes on young loves, recognising it as the only pure and unadulterated love that can exist outside of the love which a mother bears her child. Before this perfect love Shakespeare declared:

"All other passions flee to air
As doubtful thoughts and rash-embraced despair,
And shuddering fear and green-eyed jealousy."

This was the love born of nothing save desire to be loved—untinctured by the deadly knowledge which only experience can create. The love which is common and that which is most depicted on the stage labelled as it were "taken from life," is love born of much experience, tinctured always with the dread of losing; shadowed by jealousy and fanned to white heat by the everlasting struggle of competition which is the taskmaster of the age.

Speaking of jealousy, it is the second great passion depicted in plays, and it is, as has been said, the offspring of love. It is on the stage in all its varied forms. There is the jealousy which contents itself merely with itself and eats its heart away. Then there is the jealousy which vents itself in speech and wears itself out in suffering. The jealousy, however, which is the one that really counts, is that which insists upon revenge. Here again, Shakespeare touches with an unerring hand the nerve and reveals it raw and quivering in the unmatched jealousy drama of "Othello."

Revenge, then. It is more often than not the child of this bleeding jealousy. It is the passion which in real life holds hundreds spellbound reading of it as it has figured in "double tragedies." It is the passion which when depicted on the stage awakes an echo in the hearts of those witnessing the play. "Revenge is sweet," and all have felt its sweetness. The revenge of the present day, however, is the subtle revenge. The old, bloodthirsty, fiery kind of a relic of the Dark Ages. Even the gory "human interest" revenge of the melodrama is threatening to die a nine-lived death through the gradual inertia which is coming over it.

The plays where pity figured as the ruling passion are becoming obsolete. True, some are to be found in the playhouses where "Nellie, the Waif," and "The Child of the Slums," and other productions of like tag are being played. But people are learning to discriminate, and they refuse to waste their tears and wear themselves out pitying players when at home and inside their doors and on their way downtown and in clubs and objects upon which their pity would not be wasted. Modern emotion in a theatre is confined almost solely to intense interest which is centred on problem plays that bid fair to have some bearing in one way or the other on the welfare or downfall of an advanced age.

Patriotism—it is passion that will never die as long as there is a flag to wave.

Some Of The Hard Laws That Are Now In Force In Kansas

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 10.—The eighty new laws which have just become effective in this State would indicate a drifting back to the days of Puritanism.

One measure provides that even the nude in art must go. Another makes it an offence, punishable by fine or jail sentence, for any newspaper or periodical to publish scandalous items even though they may be a matter of record in court.

Revolvers, "knucks," dirks and all deadly weapons are practically driven from the State. A dealer may not even exhibit these weapons in his show windows, and if any one other than an officer be found with one in his possession "it's the 'pen' for him."

Except on dining cars no liquor may be imbibed on any train within the borders of the State.

Coloured and white women are to be segregated hereafter in the State reform schools.

Because a Kansas City man covertly hooked up an electric fan with an electric wire passing his lodgings by means of a steel "stick" umbrella a law was passed making it a felony to steal electric power.

It will be a misdemeanour to publish anything promoting divorces.

Any boy under eighteen years of age caught smoking a cigarette will be liable to a fine of $10, and any one selling to such a youth or giving to him a cigarette or "the makings" will be liable to a fine up to $100, one-half of which is to go to the informer.

A hog, no matter how much of a razor-back, is to be held to be worth more than $30, for criminal prosecution purposes at least. It will be grand larcency to steal one.

A brand new game law, practically prohibitive, goes into effect. The man who never hunts will feel it in that it is to be a gaol offence to sell any game whatever in the State. There will be no more game served in restaurants. Hunters may eat what they kill, or may give it away, but they may not sell it. No game may be shipped into Missouri from other States.

Travelling men will sleep hereafter under nine-foot bedsheets made that long so as to fold back over what, in many rural hotels, are abominations in the shape of antique, unwashed, "comforts."

"Coke" fiends may find themselves deprived of the right to run their own business by the appearance of a guardian. From now on the Probate Judge may appoint guardians for those who use to excess drugs classified as "coke" by the police.

One more law of State-wide importance limits the working hours for women to fifty-four in the week.

DOINGS OF MILK COMMISSION

From Farm and Dairy.

The Ontario Provincial Milk Commissioners have returned from a two weeks tour of inspection. Their trip included Chicago, which is the largest American city to adopt pasteurization by municipal by-law, under which all milk which does not come from tuberculin-tested cows must be pasteurised. Dr. Evans, the Health Commissioner, and others who were interested in the agitation leading up to the by-law were able to supply Ontario's commission with considerable data.

The commission also toured northern Ontario. At the "Soo", with Mr. W. H. Hearst, M.P.P., and Dr. McCuaig, the Health Officer, they visited dairies and farms, while a special study was made of the conditions at the twin cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, where Drs. Lawrie and Mannion are the Health Officers. The commissioners with Dr. Murray and the Hon. A. G. McKay visited several of the dairies supplying milk to Owen Sound.

When interviewed in Toronto on their return, Mr. W. Bert Roadhouse, secretary of the commission, said: "It has been a productive trip. We believe we have been able to acquaint ourselves with most of the up-to-date methods adopted by the largest cities in the United States in handling the dairy business and safeguarding the health of the community.

"During the next few weeks we expect to complete our visits to several centres in Ontario, ascertaining the conditions prevailing. The commissioners deem it their duty to learn how far conditions require improvement, and how far methods adopted in other countries can be applied to bring about such improvement."

POULTRY AT THE O. A. C.

From Farm and Dairy.

The poultry deparment at the Guelph Agricultural College is of some what large proportions. The most recent addition is an up-to-date incubator cellar, a substantial brick building 60 x 40 ft. It contains besides office, coal room, etc., three incubator rooms, one large and two small. The large room is used for the practical work in connection with incubating. The two small rooms will be used for experimental incubation. The rooms are well ventilated. Professor Graham attributes considerable of his success to the thorough ventilation he has in his incubator rooms and in fact says that this is the first year that he has been troubled with the so called white diarrhoea, owing he says to the fresh air provided.

FARMING CHICKENS OUT

The most unique feature in connection with the department is the system Professor Graham has of farming his chickens out. The chicks are not yarded on the old runs as formerly but are put out over the farm. Some of them along the edge of an old gravel pit around which shade trees have been planted for the purpose of hiding the pit. A colony was put at the edge of the trees and the chicks allowed the free run over the adjoining pasture fields. Another colony was found at the edge of the corn field and the chicks were allowed the free run through the corn and the way they were growing proves that this system of rearing the chicks is satisfactory as far as the chicks are concerned. He also had them placed in the orchard, in fact any where that he could find available space. Those in charge of the various departments seemed quite pleased to have the chickens on their land all thinking that it was just as good for the land as for the chickens. This idea should become more and more popular with farmers. A few colony houses run in the corn or pasture fields would take the chicks where a good deal of feed that would otherwise be wasted would be obtained.

A HOME MADE BUTTER MAKER

From Farm and Dairy.

A home-made butter maker is of planed and sand papered lumber, built like a box, the front board half the height of the back, the back about half the length of the front and with a slit in its middle about an inch and a half deep. Have the front legs a trifle longer than the legs of a work table, those at the back two inches longer, tipping the box forward. In the bottom near the front, a spigot draws off the milk. The roller resembles a high rolling pin of hardwood (and of weight to suit the workman) with a handle at either end. Its diameter should be twice as many inches as the height of its front board. Thrust its shorter hadle through the slit in the back, which must be wide enough to allow easy movement, run a wooden pin through the farther end to prevent the handle from being withdrawn, and the worker is finished. The roller is several inches shorter than the ends of the box, but the nearest handle protrudes several inches for the hand to grasp while moving the roller from side to side up and down. When washing the articles remove the pin and scald roller and box separately.

NUGGETS OF DAIRY THOUGHT

From Farm and Dairy.

At the time of the visit last summer of the members of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club to the farm of Mr. D. Duncan, of the Don, Prof. H. H. Dean, of the O.A.C., Guelph, delivered a splendid address. The following are extracts from it:

"A man may be ever so good, even a local preacher, but if he does not make money out of his farm or his business men say that he is a failure."

"It is an easy thing for us Government officials to draw Government salaries. When, however, we get out on the farms and get in touch with practical farmers who are working out practical problems in a practical way, we see that the world is going forward elsewhere as well as at the college."

* * *

"While we are constantly hearing people say that the price of cheese must go down and that the people of England won't pay the prevailing high prices, still we notice that the prices are higher to-day, than ever before. The fact is cheese is one of the cheapest foods that the people of England can buy even at present prices."

* * *

"Where farmers have the proper appliances and a good home market, butter making is a profitable business but it is hard on the women. The selling of cream relieves the women of a great deal of hard work. It keeps the skim milk on the farm and returns the fertility to the soil."

"When I was in England I found that the butter most prized was the French rolls from Normandy, done up in fancy packages with great skill. Then came Danish, Norway, Swedish, Canadian and Siberian and New Zealand. It was humiliating to find that our butter was only on a level with that from Siberia. We think that we are superior to the people of Siberia but our butter product does not show it."

"The shipping of milk to the cities is a profitable branch of dairying but it has its serious draw-backs. My opinion is that the people who supply milk for our cities must in the near future furnish better milk, and it must be from cows that are free from tuberculosis, and that are milked in clean stables. The bacterial content of milk must be greatly reduced."

* * *

"City people if they want better milk must be prepared to pay more for it. The health of the family is of far more importance than a paltry few cents a quart more for milk."

"We must have better cows and better men to handle them."

"There is a great future for the Jersey cow, if she will convince the man on the farm, by actual test, of her capacity to produce large quantities of milk or butter. I am afraid that in the past Jersey breeders have given too much attention to fancy points and not enough to increasing the producing qualities of their cows."

"Our dairy farmers to-day must be shown by actual test what cows are capable of doing. No longer can our breeders give guesses as to what their cows are doing. They must be able to prove their statements."

* * *

"I heard a discussion once as to which was doing the most good for the country, the Agricultural College or the press. The college is doing good work but it reaches comparatively few. The press reaches the masses. Bacon said, "Reading maketh a full man." Our farmers should read more and work less. In the past the importance of manual work has been over emphasised."

IMPORTANT FACTS

"A quart of milk is practically equal to a pound of beef in food value."

Professor Dean, of the Ontario Agricultural College. "The composition of wheat is higher in protein and heat of combustion than any other cereal prepared for human food."

Results of analysis by Bureau of Chemistry, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture:

ORANGE MEAT is simply the whole wheat berry, steam cooked, mixed with malt flaked and toasted. This process develops in each wheat berry the highest percentage of grape sugars. It converts the starches into a form most easily digested and assimilated

POINTERS.

From Farm and Dairy.

The poultry products of the State of Missouri reached the enormous total of $46,000,000 last year, the greatest in the history of the State. This includes both poultry and eggs.

The main requirements in rearing chicks are to keep them from getting a chill; to feed them just enough of the right foods; to keep them clean; and to give them plenty of exercise.

Don't attempt to place chicks in a brooder that has ever been used before without first disinfecting it. It takes something stronger than a mild winter to kill the disease germs of last summer.

Another line of disinfection that must not be forgotten is that of the intestinal tract of the adult stock. Once or twice a month put Epsom salts in the mash, estimating a third of a teaspoonful to each adult bird. A day or two after the fowls have had a good purging, with this remedy I would want to go over the runs with a strong disinfectant, particularly something of a drying nature. For this I know of nothing better than lime.

GRAND RALLY ! !

WE WONDER if it ever occurred to the boys of Peterborough that the selling of papers was a stepping-stone to a successful business career in future years.

DO they recognize the fact that this little business offers them an opportunity to

or in other words, to double the money invested in selling the EXAMINER to transient buyers.

BOYS, buy the EXAMINER at one cent each and sell it for two cents each ; or in the case of weekly patrons, they pay six cents per week and receive ten cents from the subscriber, thus making a profit of 62 2-3 per cent.

DO you know of any business in the city that pays such profits with as little chance for bad debts ?

IT only requires a Boy to HUSTLE, the same thing that is required when he gets into a bigger business world.

OF course we do not mean to say that the Boy, to become a successful business man, must be a newsboy, but we do say that the successful newsboy has gained an experience that is of much service to him in after years.

BOYS

THE # EXAMINER

MONEY IN NEWSPAPER ROUTES.

Another boy was only thirteen when his father died, leaving two hundred dollars insurance, a widow and four younger children. The insurance money was loaned out to a neighbour at six per cent., as a sort of reserve fund, and while the widow did plain sewing, the boy carried newspapers morning and evening. After three months' experience with this work he borrowed twenty-five dollars and purchased the smallest newspaper route in town. Vigorous canvassing for new customers made that route so productive that in six months he paid back the loan. The lender offered another loan of fifty dollars, which the boy took, buying two more routes. These were covered by boys hired to do the work, however, because he felt that all his energy must go into the original route, so that he would at least be certain of good returns from that. Principles of management learned by this plan made him so successful that in less than five years he owned every newspaper route in his town. His mother's two hundred dollars was still intact, and his brothers and sisters going to school. A legacy of two hundred dollars fell to the family. This, with the original two hundred dollars and another hundred the boy had saved, was paid on a home costing twenty-eight hundred dollars, the balance to be cleared off at the rate of twenty-five dollars a month. Three furnished rooms were rented at a total of about twenty-two dollars monthly, and this money, it was agreed, should never be spent. Newspaper routes, odd jobs and the mother's contributions kept the family and paid the instalments. In four years the income from furnished rooms, put away in the bank, grew to more than one thousand dollars. The mortgage was finally cleared off, and the boy, now nearly twenty-one years old, started to get an education at the high school.

THERE are a number of Boys in Peterborough making four and five dollars per week, not necessarily all selling the Examiner, but some easily make three dollars per week selling the Examiner exclusively.

Boys! Be Boys of Business

Get in the game. It won't hurt you, but will give you a right start. You will have money of your own to save or buy useful needs with.

BOYS ! Take your spare time between four and six o'clock and see what success you will have between now and Christmas.

HOW TO MAKE A GOOD WIFE

A girl should marry when she is capable of understanding and fulfilling the duties of a true wife and thorough housekeeper, and never before. No matter how old she may be, if she is not capable of managing a house in every department of it she is not old enough to get married. When she promises to take the position of wife and homemaker the man who holds her promise has every right to suppose that she knows herself competent to fulfil it. If she proves to be incompetent or unwilling he has good reason to consider himself cheated. No matter how plain the home may be, if it is in accordance with the husband's means, and he finds it neatly kept and the meals (no matter how simple) served from shining dishes and clean table linen, the husband will leave his home with loving words and thoughts, and look ahead with eagerness to the time when he can return. Let the girl acquire every accomplishment within her power—the more the better, for every added accomplishment will be that much more power to be used in making a happy home.

STAGE FAVOURITES

MAUD FULTON

Maud Fulton is the real bonbon in "The Candy Shop," which Chicago got to see last summer, and which is unfolding its sweetness and song on New York. Miss Fulton is another start who has come up from vaudeville. She made her hit with the Keith people, so big a one that legitimate managers went after her. She can sing, she can dance—and is the real candy. That's what they all say.

A marriage in which the combined ages of bride and bridegroom were 164 years took place at St. James' Church, Grimsby, the bride, Mrs. Harriet Collins, being eighty-five and the bridegroom, Mr. William Craven, seventy-nine. The bride was given away by her grandaughter.

Fourteen burglaries in the neighbourhood of Finchley road, all committed in the months of June and July, were confessed to by a French clerk named George Pilotelle, aged 24, who was sent to prison for six months on each of four charges of burglary at the London Sessions.

The doctors of Scarborough Hospital at first hoped to save the sight of the left eye of a boy named Ernest Brambles (15), who was injured during a display of fireworks on the Spa but it was stated that the sight was quite destroyed. Brambles' injury was caused by a falling rocket stick.

Private meetings of coalowners in South Wales are being held for the purpose of forming a national federation of coalowners to oppose the Miners' Federation of Great Britain. Owners of colieries stopped in one district will be indemnified by other coalowners all over the country.

A cow and horse belongng to Mr. H. T. Holmes, of the George Hotel Tideswell, were observed to be apparently at play, when the latter kicked the cow. This infuriated the beast and it made a determined charge at the horse with its horns, impaling the animal. The horse had to be destroyed.

After waiting 52 years an Indian Mutiny veteran named Rogers, who is 75 years of age, has been publicly presented with his Mutiny medal at Headcorn, Kent. Rogers, who served in the 12th Lancers, and subsequently in the Kings' Dragoons, was stationed at Meerut at the outbreak of the Mutiny.

IRELAND

The clerk of Cavan Guardians received a letter, signed, "A former pauper of many years ago," with two postal orders, each for 20s, "by way of restitution."

M'Caw, Stevenson & Orr, Ltd., Belfast, have just issued, in portfolio form, a very interesting set of engravings, which were published seventy-five years ago on the opening of the first railway in Ireland, that from Dublin to Kingstown.

While cycling into Galway by the military road Surgeon-Colonel Osborne, R.A.M.C., in charge of the Galway Garrison at Renmore Barracks, was thrown off his machine at a steep incline near Foster street and sustained serious injuries.

A shocking story was related at a coroner's inquest held at Kilquiggin, a village near Arklow, concerning the death of Susan Tallon, aged 66, who, the evidence went to show was beaten to death wtih a bucket by her husband, Garrett Tallon, now in custody on the charge of wilful murder.

Irish apples have, says the "Liverpool Daily Post," won high favour in the Liverpool market this season, quite a brisk bidding taking place for recent consignments. As was shown at an official inquiry just held in the city, Irish butter has a stiff battle to fight with Danish, but Irish need fear no foreign competition.

An interetsing miniature portrait, in water-colour, by Samuel Lover, of his brother, Henry Lover, was recently acquired for the collection of Irish artists in the Belfast Public Art Gallery and Museum. It was formerly purchased from the executrix of the late Miss Maria Lover, who was a sister of the artist. Samuel Lover, who was born in Dublin in February, 1797, was the well-known Irish poet, painter, dramatist, musician, and novelist of whom Ireland is so proud.

SCOTLAND

At a meeting of Renfrew Town Council a letter was read from William Robertson, shipowner, stating that he had purchased thirty acres of ground and the feu of some property thereon, and that he had pleasure in presenting it to the burgh as a public park.

Members of Gallatown U.F. Church, Y.M.C.A. on their annual picnic to Montrave Fife had just commenced a game, when Robert Davidson Potter, one of the excursionists, suddenly dropped on the ground and expired. The deceased had only been married three weeks.

The death at his home in Kent of that well-known Ayrshire agriculturist, James Robertson, formerly of Kilburn, and Milrig, Largs, has just been announced. Deceased was one of the Robertsons of Kilburn, who for many years farmed their own land in the glen of Brisbane.

Councillor Scott Gibson has returned to Glasgow after his week's engagement at the Gaiety Theatre, Dundee, and has informed Press representatives that on Saturday night he intimated from the stage that his salary had been arrested that day, leaving him penniless.

The mutilated body of George Smellie was found on the railway near Plenboig. Mr. Smellie was trained from boyhood in the Town-clerk's Office, Coatbridge, and for a long number of years acted as Depute-Assessor. He was recognized as an authority on the licensing law.

NEW SERIAL STORY

"The Princess Virginian" Will Commence in The Examiner on Tuesday Next.

The Examiner is pleased to be in a position to offer to its readers in its new serial story one of the best that has been presented to the subscribers of this journal. The new novel is the Princess Virginian, written by C. N. and A. M. Williamson, from whose facile pens have come such charming stories as "The Lightning Rod," and "Rosemary in Search of a Father." Their latest effort is a story of modern adventure, into which is interwoven a delightful love interest. The story never flags and will be read with the keenest of interest. Subscribers should see that they read every copy containing the story the first instalment of which will be published in Tuesday's Examiner.

Latest feature—burnished surface

The Pandora might truly be named "the range with a piano finish," for the smoothness, lustre and brilliancy of the new burnished surface rivals the finish of a high-class piano.

This new burnished surface polishes quickly and requires about one-third the black lead necessary for the rather rough surface of ordinary ranges.

Ordinary ranges need polishing once a day to look bright, while the marvellously smooth burnished surface only needs polishing once a week.

The burnished surface is a McClary invention—found on no other make of stoves—so if you desire to save time, polishing-labor and black lead, be sure you choose Pandora. 16

ARE OLD MAIDS AFTER 40 YEARS

Every unmarried woman in the United States is grateful to Mrs. Glendower Evans, of Bostom Not because Mrs. Evans is the promoter of a bank for old maids. Many of the unmarried women assert that they prefer mixed banks—that is, banks for both sexes.

The gratitude is for Mrs. Evans's act in moving on the age limit of old maidenhood. "No woman should be called an old maid until she has passed forty," asserts this unique philanthropist. And all the single women in the United States say, "What a clever woman!"

Every one who isn't over forty can recall when it was the custom for girls to marry at sixteen and seventeen, and to have inward tremors of misgiving if at eighteen she were still unwed. The girl of twenty-two with no steady beau was an object of commiseration by all who knew her, and at twenty-five she was hopelessly across the line that separated the "girl" with matrimonial prospects from the "old maid" with none.

By some subtle means that age limit was subsequently advanced to twenty-eight years. Eventually it reached thirty. Before the march of the financial and industrial progress of women the thirty-year boundary line receded. Wavering for a time, it was at last pushed to thirty-five. There it has remained until the good Mrs. Glendower Evans made official proclamation for all clubdom that the Rubicon of girlhood was not passed until forty.

It was while she was presenting her plan for the Old Maids' Bank to the Massachusetts Insurance Commission that she made he statement: "In this age of enlightenment no unmarried woman is an old maid until she has passed forty." And the Massachusetts Insurance Commission nodded its concurrence.

If a depositor in the Old Maids' Bank foregoes the blessedness of the single life she may receive a goodly amount for the beginning of housekeeping. If she has preserved that state at the age of fifty, when even hopeful Mrs. Glendower Evans admits her chances for marriage are negligible, she begins to receive a regular annuity.

PERFECTLY MOULDED FIGURES

Another Medical Discovery.

To get out of condition is detrimental to beauty of form as well as to health. There is a certain flabbiness which robs a good figure of charm and grace. Those who are beginning to grow fat rapidly are never in the pink of condition.

But here medical science has slipped in with a very wonderful remedy—one which not only restores a perfectly moulded form but renews health and strength. We give the recipe in full for the benefit of our stoutish friends: ½ oz. Marmola, ¾ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4½ oz. Peppermint water.

Any druggist will make up this prescription, or supply you with the ingredients which you can mix yourself. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

The great virtue of this harmless remedy is that whilst the excess fat is being expelled, the person under treatment has a healthy appetite and does not need to study dietetics or go in for tiresome exercises. The whole system is "refreshed" and reinvigorated, the blood renewed and muscular development restored.

HOW A MAN'S POCKETS TELL ON HIM

The average modern man has at least fourteen pockets in his clothes. In these pockets, through the things that are in them you can tell the story of what the man has been doing in the past, what he is doing to-day, and what he hopes to do in the years to come.

In these pockets he carries his watch, pocketbook, papers and many old letters and clippings that he has made from the newspapers.

Supposing that you were found dead in some outof-the-way place, and while there was nothing on your person to indicate your name or residence, the things you had in your pockets would give a very good idea of the nature of work you had been doing.

If you happened to be an attorney, doubtless you would have briefs, suggestions, letters relating to your business. Probably a digest of important laws and many other things that would lead the police, as they turned the story over to the papers, to say: "A man, evidently an attorney, was found on the streets dead last night."

If you happened to be a physician there would be many little things, thermometers, hypodermic syringes, pellets and pills, together with a glossary of medical terms, that would reveal much relative to your personality and work in life.

Or get at the proposition from another point of view. Suppose for any reason you should come under the surveillance of the police and be arrested and "held as a suspicious person." The things found in your pockets would tell largely what kind of a man you were. It would not be expected that if you were an upright and honorable citizen that you would have vulgar and obscene pictures in your pockets. It would not be expected that you would have poetry, so-called, that had been victimized about your person. Neither would oyu have poetry, so-called, that told of wicked and vicious acts committed by licentious men. If you were all that you claimed to be, your pockets would bear strong evidence of the truth of your statements. You would hardly expect to find a Bible in the pocket of a shell game man or a pamphlet on "How to Play Poker," in the pockets of a minister of the gospel.

It is to be expected that boys passing through the green and callow age will have in their pockets things from which either the worst or best might be inferred, but the things that a man has in his pockets will tell very largely what kind of a man a man is.

Pockets are a necessity to the modern man. He cannot get along without them. But there is no need that he should have them cluttered with things that are worthless, debasing and wicked. There are so many good things that a man may carry, things that cheer, inspire and encourage, in addition to helping him keep tab on his business, that a man should see to it that these, and these only are, in his pockets.

What are in your pockets to-day?

UNABLE TO ACCEPT IT

The erection of the Smith Street bridge received a set back last night when Mr. Geo. A. Begy of St. Catharines asked to be relieved of the contract, and his cheque returned. He went into the matter fully, explaining the circumstances which had unexpectedly arisen during the past week, circumstances entirely beyond his control. The committee decided to refer the matter to the Committee of the Whole Council, to be considered on Tuesday night. Mr. Begy was asked to be present at that meeting.

Jim MacIntyre, who came from Kinmount yesterday, got into trouble, which finally landed him in the police court and he was fined two dollars by Magistrate Dumble this morning. He pleaded guilty to having been drunk and disorderly. He was arrested at the G.T.R. Station yesterday afternoon by P. C. Newhall. He apparently had intended going away on the Belleville train but when he got on the car his conduct was such that he was put off again by the conductor. A window was broken by him. The police station was telephoned and P. C. Newhall came down and arrested MacIntyre. This morning he paid his fine and was allowed to go.

HUNDREDS OF BUYERS.

The market this morning was one of the largest in many moons. Everything that this grand country produces in the fruit and vegetable lines was offered in abundance by the farmers. Variety was a feature. From small, white onions to wild grapes and red peppers. It was a pleasing sight and one that reminded the casual observer of the munificence of the Hand that has provided so generously for all our wants. Plums and green gages sold at six quarts for twenty-five cents; pears at 30c. a basket; tomatoes, 25 and 30 cents a basket; corn, 10c a dozen, and cucumbers, squash, potatoes, and many other fruits and vegetables. Prices were very reasonable with the result that a great quantity of plums, pears, gages, and tomatoes were purchased.

ANOTHER MOTION TO COMPEL MR. BURNHAM TO TELL THE WHOLE TRUTH

Notice Served on His Agents To-day to Compel Him to Disclose Details of Doings of Alleged Detectives.

REPEATED REFUSALS

A Notice of Motion was served today upon Mr. J. H. Burnham's agents returnable before the Trial Judges at Osgoode Hall, in the City of Toronto to compel Mr. Burnham to answer questions which he refused to answer and to compel him to produce documents and correspondence which he refused to produce on his recent examination for Discovery on the 8th and 9th instant respecting the work and operations of certain alleged detectives employed on his behalf during the Dominion election campaign. It is contended on Mr. Stratton's behalf that it is an abuse of the process of the Court, respecting privileged communications, to employ and pay canvassers and workers during the campaign under the guise of their being detectives.

The material to be used on the motion discloses that one of these detectives admitted that he had received several hundred dollars from Complainant, Burnham and his official agent, Mr. James Kendry and others to work for the complainant Burnham during his election and one of these alleged detectives further admitted that he spoke to electors in the Complainant's interests and that he spent considerable money in treating voters.

Mr. Stratton's counsel contends that all dealings, transactions and correspondence with said alleged detectives should be fully disclosed by Mr. Burnham on his Examination for Discovery and especially in view of the fact that Mr. Burnham admitted on his previous examination that he had paid detectives in his employ.

800 BASKETS PEACHES

Brought to the City This Morning by Dominion Express Co.

The peaches are very plentiful this summer, a Dominion Express Company official stating to-day that this morning over eight hundred baskets were unloaded here. The number of baskets brought to Peterborough each morning averages from six to eight hundred. They will continue to come for the balance of this month.

EGGS BROKEN

A basket of eggs fell on the cement sidewalk at the market this morning with inevitable results. The farmer's wife, who had been carrying them bravely tried to save the pieces. The mixture going back into the basket was the same stuff omelettes are made of.

ST. KITTS DROWNING

Little Girl Missed Her Footing While Playing on the Bank of a Weir and Fell into the Water.

BODY WAS NOT FOUND.

Special to The Examiner.

St. Catharines, S ept.10.—The four-year-old daughter of William Brinson, an employee of the Welland Vale Manufacturing Company, was drowned in the waste weir in the rear of the works this evening. The girl, with her three-year-old brother, was playing on the banks of the weir, waiting for their father to leave the factory. In some manner the little girl lost her footing at the top of the steep bank and rolled into the water. Workmen at the factory had seen the children on the bank, and fearing for their safety, had warned them away. Soon after the boy was seen crying and told of the accident. A searching party was at once organized, but the current at that spot is very swift and up to a late hour to-night no trace of the body had been found.

Carried Off Many Prizes At The International Dog Show

Dr. F. L. Robinson returned from Toronto last night, where he had been attending the International Dog Show at the Toronto Exhibition, and where his Boston Terriers carried off a number of prizes. His terriers carried off seconds in the novice, puppies, and limit classes. Dr. Robinson's dogs beat the winners at the New York and Pittsburg shows, and all the Canadian dogs in their classes. He also won third prize for the best dog in the open class.

The French bull dog, "Rowdy," owned by Parker Crossley, of Bracebridge, formerly of Peterborough, was shown by Dr. Robinson. It won first in the dogs only, and second in the open contest.

Downie Street Drain Question Is Once More Considered

The Downey St. creek was again discussed by the Board of Works last night and it was finally decided to go over the locality in a body on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. D. W. Dumble addressed the board on behalf of two property owners on the street in question. Years ago an ex-alderman in the north end, Mr. Rutherford, had the course of the creek changed. Now the walk over it is badly decayed and needs repairing. Instead of repairing it, it should again be changed and run through Mr. Tamblin and Mr. Blodgett's property. Mr. Tamblin offers to give the right of way in exchange for a little bit of street. Mr. Blodgett will give his consent if the city will dump the excavations from the new water course on to his property and also to crib the banks of the creek with the old timber taken from the old drain and elsewhere. Tamblin built a house on his land and part on the street and put a mortgage on it and now he is in a position that he cannot sell his property. There will be no trouble in getting him to carry out his part.

Mr. Blodgett wants the city to do all the crib work and all the work at their own expense. He positively refuses to do any work himself.

Ald. Bradburn suggested that the city sell at a low cost part of the gore to Mr. Tamblin and let the drain stay just where it is.

EX-MAYOR BEST WANTS $800 FOR THE PART OF HIS PROPERTY REQUIRED FOR AYLMER STREET

The Board of Works met last night with Ald. Phelan in the chair and Ald. Bradburn, Gillespie, Turner and Mayor Rush present. Mr. Harry Best had been asked to meet the committee with regard to the piece of his property which the city requires for the extension of Aylmer St. to Princess St. The Board had hoped that a satisfactory arrangement could be made with the ex-Mayor for its purchase, but he demanded $800 and would not hear of $500, which the city had thought would be sufficient.

Mr. Best cited several cases, the McMahon and Reid property which had to be secured for the northern part of the city for the extension of George St. and which had cost the town no small sum. That was the precedent that had been established. Compared with those figures he held that his demand for $800 was nothing but right.

The committee did not consider the question any further. The price was higher than they had expected and no one seemed to be anxious to take it up. Mr. Best had another proposition which likewise did not seem to strike the committee very strongly. He offered to sell a strip of his property on the south side of the south end park which could be added to the park. It stretches from George St. to Aylmer St. and is 20 feet by 627 feet. Mr. Best asks for this land $400 stipulating that all the houses built on his property from which the strip is taken, shall face on the park and that a walk be built along in front of them. This would give the houses a fine front and would look out on the park which would increase their value. Some of the lots that are being sold along George St. extended, are so small that no one will be expected to put good residences on them and for this reason. Mr. Best says that this may have a leniency to decrease the value of the neighbouring land. Mr. Best informed the committee that his offer of $800 was without prejudice in case of arbitration.

The application of J. C. Matchett, a city teamster, for two weeks' holidays, was left with the chairman.

W. J. Martin applied for the position of inspector of the construction of the Smith St. bridge.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Gillespie, the selection of the inspector be left with Engineer Hay and the chairman.—Carried.

Fire Engine Stands.

The application from the Fire, Water and Light Committee for the board to build the stands for the fire engine was taken up next. The board considered this once before and turned it down.

Ald. Turner and Ald. Bradburn thought the board should do it as they have to be done. One is wanted at the Quaker Oats Company, one at Auburn, and one at Lake street. If the stands are not built the fire engine is of very little use.

Ald. Bradburn then suggested that the engineer make a report at once and submit it to the Committee of the Whole Council at its next meeting early next week. The report to include the stand at Auburn and at the Quaker Oats anyway.

City Engineer Hay presented a report on the proposed Cresent and Romaine street sewer which will be 1690 feet long. He finds that there are a great many obstacles in the way and it would not be satisfactory, so he recommended that the sewer be deferred for the present until the Council decided upon the improvement in the whole sewer system.

On motion the committee decided that the building of Crescent street sewer be deferred owing to the report of the engineer.

Ald. Bradburn called attention to the necessity of placing a catch basin on George St. in front of B. Shortly's store to relieve the overflow of water during wet seasons, at Barrie's corner. Mr. Barrie threatens a suit for damages if he sustains any loss through this cause.

PROF. ROSS G. MARVIN

Ross G. Marvin, the ill-fated scientist who lost his life while making the dash for the pole with Peary, is a Cornell graduate of the class of 1905, who made so good a record in his studies that he was offered a place in the engineering faculty. But Marvin got a chance to go north with Commander Peary, and passed up the professorship.

After the "Farthest North" expedition returned, however, Marvin went back to Cornell to teach. Peary wanted him to go north again on the present trip, but Marvin declined. But he went down to the boat to tell Peary good-bye, and they got to talking over the other trip.

Marvin felt the call of the north. He sent a hasty wire back to Cornell and went on with Peary to meet death in the Arctic.

THE PENALTIES OF SUCCESS.

An unknown satirist thus hits off the tendency of men and women to make faults out of every phase of human condition and achievement—to judge by the rule of countries:—

If a man is poor he is a bad manager; if he is rich he is dishonest. If he is prosperous everyone wants to do him a favour.

If he's in politics its for pie; if he is out of politics you can't place him and he's no good for his country. If he doesn't give to charity, he's a stingy cuss; if he does it's for show.

If he is actively religious he's a hypocrite; if he takes no interest in religion he is a hardened sinner. If he shows affection he is a soft specimen; if he seems to care for no one he is cold blooded. If he dies young there was a great future before him; if he lives to an old age he has missed his calling.

Human nature seems to resent being placed at a disadvantage. If a man by some bad course of conduct loses the respect of society and incurs the reproaches of his associates, his natural inclination is not aspire to a higher level, but to attempt to bring others to his own. If a woman falls and choses to remain down, she seems to delight in the effort to attribute or have attributed, to others in her circle the faults that have deprived her of respect—to brnig others to her level. Malice and vindictiveness are in many cases, added to envy and jealousy. If a fellow citizen rises by virtue of the exercise of qualities of industry and public spirit to a position of prominence and usefulness to the community, he will find detractors would-be rivals, who, too indolent to follow the same road, to employ the same means to success, energy and enterprise, must detract from the merits of the successful and, with a robust vindictiveness and petty spite, the only positive elements in their characters, obsinately pursue a course of hostility. Men, who, having made a comparative failure in the achievements of the strenuous life—men who will not risk their means nor actively employ their abilities in promoting the advancement of the community; but who, on the contrary employ themselves in obstructing the efforts and neutralizng the influence of those who aim to, and succeed in, benefitting the community in which they are citizens. The measure of good citizenship and public spirit is the ability and will to take the broad view of its obligations and, subordinating unworthy motives and impulses, to co-operate with fellow citizens in promoting the general welfare.

A CAVALIER KNIGHT.

Sir James Whitney's answer and attitude towards the deputation that waited upon him on September 8th are peculiar, to speak most mildly. It was asking Government cooperation, on behalf of the Association of Ontario Municipalities in combatting the ravages of tuberculosis, by the establishing of two or more sanatoria where indigent patients may receive proper treatment. This treatment cannot be provided in such homes and in default of it, much unmitigated and preventible suffering, leading to preventible or at the least, deferable deaths results. The answer of Sir James, neither in its spirit, nor matter, was unworthy of a man occupying his position:

"There is no room for argument for the need of some improvement in the treatment of the disease," "but I think we can trust medical science to keep pace with the times." There is nothing easier for men of municipalities to say 'Let us get the Government to take hold of this thing.'" There is a limit to the powers of any Government. The Government must face the question from the standpoint of an ordinary business transaction. The Government is a trustee for the people and must not fritter away their money. Within the last five years many heavy responsibilities have been placed upon it."

Here the Premier admits the principle that would justify the action asked by the deputation, and seeks to escape responsibility by an evasive expresion of confidence in the medical profession. Sir James can "well trust medical science to keep pace with the times," but the complementary cooperation should, in this case, come from the Government, which is charged with no small responsibility in relation to the promotion of the public health. Medical science has kept pace with the times and prescribed isolation as a capital element in the treatment of tuberculosis; it remains for others—the Government, in the case in question—to administer the prescribed treatment. The subject does not assume, as Sir James somewhat cynically remarks, the aspect of "an ordinary business transaction," for more than money—human life and home interests—are involved. How he can regard public money spent in relieving human suffering from the white plague," as "frittering" away the money of the people is difficult for the philanthropic mind to conceive. In practically declaring in favour of compelling hospitals to admit tubercuosous patients, by saying he would favour withdrawing government aid in the event of such a refusal, Sir James flies in the face of the medical science he is willing to trust. Medical science declares that consumption is contagious, and also declares the exclusion of patients afected with it from hospitals, a justifiable precaution. The somewhat supercilious attitude and tone of Sir James towards the request of the deputation shows a lack of sympathy with suffering and the efforts of philanthropists and scientists, to combat tuberculosis in the way most approved by advanced medical science. If the state maintains hospitals for the shelter and treatment of the mentally deranged, and institutions for the deaf and blind, it can not logically disclaim responsibility in respect of state aid in the battle against the ravages of a disease to whose credit stands a record of suffering and dearth, and of menace to society more momentous than any of the other ailments that flesh is heir to.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY.

In an article selected from the Winnipeg Free Press and reprinted in yesterday's issue of the Examiner, it is stated that it was the trees and boulevards of the metropolis of the west "that particularly excited the admiration of the visiting scientists." That is to say, Winnipeg, with a fine public spirit and taste, had created from a condition of hopeless mud and alkali waste a comparative civic paradise, in which the chief attractive features were "trees and boulevards."

In the matter of trees, speaking only of streets, Peterborough surpasses anything that Winnipeg can hope to accomplish in the space of a generation. We have the trees, but we can't boast much of the boulevards, except at rare intervals.

We indeed have the trees, and indeed, to many trees; that is they were set together too closely in the beginning, and they have not had the care and attention necessary to remedy the condition of overcrowding that has come with continued growth and expansion of branches. Street trees, or, in fact, trees in any situation, like children, as has been remarked, need training from their very earliest days. A tree, from the time it is planted, requires attention of several kinds, but chiefly trimming and pruning, to give the proper shape and proper direction of growth. Where trees, that at somewhat advanced maturity should stand thirty or more feet apart, they are set at a distance of, say, ten feet. For a few years this makes little difference for the moment; but a significant difference in relation to future effects.

This close planting arises partly from a desire for early shade, and that unique arboreal element of civic beauty, which tree growth alone can give, and also from lack of outlook to the future and disregard of what a tree will do in the way of growth. But this close planting is not an immediate nor necessarily an ultimate evil, if the requisite attention is given. Where trees are too abundant, if those that can be spared from a row are trimmed high, so that the trees on either side can spread towards each other, then the tree whose foliage has been made to grow high can be removed, and the gap thus caused will be little noticed, the lateral growth of adjacent trees having been allowed to fill up the space.

The trimming of trees should be begun early. If left till branches low down become large, when they are cut off, this action becomes more mutilation than trimming, and is hard upon the vitality of the tree.

To secure the best results from the care of our street trees, the trimming and treatment should be uniform. This cannot be if the matter is left to the caprice of individual owners, both as to time and method. A legal gentleman informs the Examiner that the property in trees, planted upon the streets by private citizens in front of their premises, is vested in the corporation. If this is the case the city is indicated, in a double sense, as the authority to whose care and attention our street trees are to be entrusted. The city has the authority, and is thus in a position to apply a uniform system to the necessary pruning, trimming, thinning and general care of the trees.

Unfortunately, the city does not take the slightest interest or show the slightest sense of its responsibility in this matter, and when appealed to in regard to some vandal proposal to remove a beautiful tree gives, without interested investigation, a too ready consent to the destruction of the magnificent tree growth of years, resulting in a most undesirable conditions.

This condition suggests the appointment of a Park Commission, which should have authority over our parks, public places, trees and boulevards, all vital elements of civic beauty. If we had an intelligent and public-spirited Park Commission, should we see, as can be seen on almost every street of the city three or four dead trees, thrusting their naked ugliness upon the view, and that for years, in some cases. These dead trees, these gruesome and unsightly skeletons are blots upon the stretches of tree verdure and foliage beauty that line the streets.

But we have no Park Commission to deal with this disgraceful condition, and the Board of Works could easily procure the removal of these dead trees. Private citizens are not called upon to do it, for these trees stand in places under the authority of the city. All the Board of Works need do is to announce that anyone who will remove these dead trees, leaving the places where they stand, clean and tidy, may have the wood for fuel and there would be scores who would be glad to get a supply of fuel on such easy terms.

Why not take action and have these eyesores removed It is only neglect and procrastination—not thinking—that stand in the way of a most desirable action in the interest of the beauty of our streets, as far as tree lines are concerned.

To recur to a Park Commission, such a body, if indicated for any city in the interests of its beauty, is needed in Peterborough. We have, fortunately, an abundant supply of parks potentially beautiful, and some of them well maintained—in a somewhat mechanical way—in some respects, and capable of being made surpassingly beautiful in actuality. This, a Park Commission, which might be composed of public spirited citizens, who would find their reward in the fruit of their works, with reasonable substantial support from city and citizen, would do. We need such services as they could give to secure the best results from our parks. With a commission in existence would the neglected condition of Central Park, which obtain to-day be allowed to remain?

We need educated taste to be applied to the planting of parks in conformity with the recognized canons of taste and landscape gardening. The tree planting on the little triangular plots at the intersection of Park street with Charlotte and Hunter streets, is an example of lack of taste -trees planted in straight rows like a cabbage garden, in mechanical disregard of the orderly promiscuity of nature's arboreal dissemination.

Such things cannot be left to chance or the caprice of men whose highest ambition is to put in so many hours a day, to put so many trees in so many holes, like so many fence posts. We must have taste; we must have love of trees for their own sake and solicitude for the beauty that can be created by proper distribution and treatment. Ordinary labourers are not the sole offenders. Men who are supposed to know better make blunders. In building the Normal School some stately oaks were sacrificed that might have been preserved to be an ornament and a glory for another century, as they had been for a past century. They were sacrificed to an aestheticism of the brick and mortar variety.

We have often remarked that Peterborough is the most bountifully endowed with tree growth of any town or city in Canada. Aside from the preservation and beautification of our parks the preservation and proper treatment of aur trees justifies the promulgation of the foregoing suggestions and the creation of some body qualified, both by innate interest and taste, to promote and preserve the comeliness of our tree growth and parks, and thus supply one of the chiefest elements in the making of the city beautiful.

SNOW

The bell is about to ring for the straw hat.

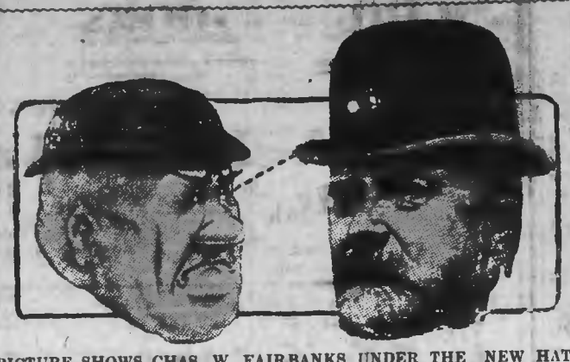
On September 15 the straw hat must go. It is decreed.

Maybe some of you have already canned the hay lids. But there are a lot of them left. You can count 'em by the hundreds on the street. There's only a felt hat or a derby here and there.

Three months ago these alfalfa hats look fine—all fresh and white and clean. And now, look at 'em. Look what the smoke of downtown, occasional rolls through the gutter before the wind has done to 'em.

They've been to the cleaners again and again—these hats. The wheels have been buzzing all summer. But even the wheels can't make an old hat a new one. And it's tough on the hat anyhow, no matter how fine it may be for the cleaner man.

So, after looking at the sky, the almanac, the calendar and his rabbit's foot, after feeling the north wind whistle through the facial brush heaps still seen on our streets indicating winter it has been decided that the straw hat must go.



PICTURE SHOWS CHAS. W. FAIRBANKS UNDER THE NEW HAT, AND EVERETT TRUE STICKING TO HIS OLD STYLE

The first 1910 derby hat has arrived and a single glance shows that it's going to be a hard winter for the long-faced man. This season's derby is about a fourth again as high as last year's. It's tall and tapering and must be worn high on the head.

Do you remember those green hats that Andrew Mack and Chauncey Olcott wear on the stage to look like the ould Oirish gintlemin? Well, that's the nearest thing to the new derbies. The brim does not roll over at the side, but has an edge that is nearly flat. Any long-faced man this year will look like an undertaker when he dons the top-piece.

Last season, of course, the chubby-faced man had to wear a chubby little derby to be in style, and the result of the combination made his face look like a half-eclipsed moon. This year he'll feel like King Ed himself when he sees himself in the mirror.

One of the most prominent ex-vice presidents of the United States, now touring the Orient, will be pained when he hears about the new style.

The originator of the low-crowned derby, Everett True, will be another opponent of the new style. He has affected the low-crowned derby for many years, and Mrs. True will run into trouble this season if she brings one of the new-fangled hats home with her.

The new hat, which has a crown five inches high, will have a brim that varies in width from 1¾ inches to 1¾ inches. The extreme 1910 style will have a crown 5½ inches in height, and a brim 2¼ inches wide.

Proclamation: KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS:—

WHEREAS, the people of Peterborough are approaching that season of the year when wind whistles through the brush and the furnace begs for food; and

WHEREAS, hay lids and straw roofs are beginning to look like last year's birdnests, not to say what is technically known among good dressers as being "on the pazazz"; and,

WHEREAS, the city of Peterborough is noted all through Ontario as being the home of men's fine millinery, her citizens as the glass of fashion and the mould of form; now, therefore,

It is hereby announced and proclaimed that on and after the 15th of September, it shall be strictly a gross violation of fashion's law for any man in the city of Peterborough, county of Peterborough, and Province of Ontario, to knowingly, wilfully, or intentionally wear, display, exhibit, flaunt, or otherwise aid, abet or encourage the wearing, displaying, exhibition or flaunting of the now obsolete personal adornment to the head known as the STRAW HAT; and it is further

PROCLAIMED, that anyone who GETS UNDER one o fthese hats will expose himself to the efforts of his fellow citizens in GETTING OVER hats aforesaid, by stepping, jumping, or leaping on said hat; and it is urged upon all citizens, that in order to uphold the good name of Peterborough as a fashion centre each citizen be and is hereby made a committee of one to enforce, in spirit and in word, the provisions of this pronouncement.

Given under hand and the appended seal this 11th day of September.

SOME QUEER SUPERSTITIONS OF LOVE

There is no step along the rose-strewn path that leads to the altar that is not haunted by its own pet superstition; and the nearer to the lovers' goal, the more thickly these superstition; and the nearer to the much of the charm of wooing and being wooed: for not a step forward can be taken without a delightful trepidation as to whether it will be lucky or the reverse, wise or foolish. It is such pleasing fears, such delicious doubtings, that feed the flames of love, and add a greater brightness to its halo of romance.

Every maid, for instance, knows that "if she marry in the month of May she will surely rue the day"—but what of all the other months of the glad year of wedding? Which will bring her happiness, and which must she shun? Happily she is not left to her own resources in deciding this crucial question, for love's calendar has all been landmarked for her guidance. She is told, on unmistakable authority:

When February birds do mate
You may wed, nor dread your fate.
If you wed when March winds blow,
Joy and sorrow both you'll know.
Marry in April when you can,
Joy for maiden and for man.

Marry when June roses blow,
Over land and sea you'll go.
Those who in July do wed.
Must labour always for their bread.

And so on, until "December snows fall fast, Marry, and true love will last."

In all the year June and October seem to shine with brightest promise of nuptial bliss, and the days of happiest omen are June 4 and October 9. The maid who wears her bridal veil on either of these golden days is assured of all sweet things in her wedded life.

Then each month has its unlucky days, which lovers on wedding bent will be wise to avoid. After all, they only number thirty-two in the year, so that there is a liberal margin for felicity. Thus, in February, the 6th, 7th and 18th must be struck out of the nuptial calendar; in March the 1st, 6th and 8th; in April the 6th and 11th; in May the 5th, 6th and 7th; and so on to the 17th of December, the last illomened day of the year. Of all the days of the month the sixth holds least promise of happiness, and the third the greatest. Even in lucky June lovers must give the 7th and 15th a wide berth; and in October, the 6th.

Having chosen the month in the light of this good counsel, a crucial question still faces the would-be-happy couple. Which day of the week shall it be? And here none but the blind—the wilfully blind—need go astray. Friday is admittedly a day to avoid the altar—except in Scotland, where it is, curiously enough, the favourite day of all the week. Tuesday and Wednesday are full of promise; Thursday has one conspicuously lucky, if inconvenient, hour—that before sun-rise; while Sunday, Monday and Saturday are neutral days. The qualities of the days are fairly displayed in the following not unfamiliar lines:

Monday for wealth,
Tuesday for health,
Wednesday, the best day of all;
Thursday for crosses,
Friday for losses,
Saturday no luck at all.

When once the happy day is fixed, beware of changing it, for that way certain disaster lies.

THE ONLY WAY TO GOOD HEALTH

Is to Keep the Blood Rich, Red and Pure by Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The only way for every girl and woman to be well and at her best is to keep her blood rich and red and pure. Impure, weak blood is the cause of the wretched feeling of languor and faintness, pains in the back and sides, headaches and all those other indescribable sufferings which makes the lives of so many growing girls and women a daily torture. There is one sure way to be well, and that is through the tonic treatment supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These Pills actually make the new, rich blood which 'growing girls and women need to make them well and keep them well. Thousands of mothers and their daughters have found an effectual cure for anaemia, general weakness, indigestion, palpitation, nervous disorders, skin troubles and other ailments in Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Mrs. J. C. Moses, Brenton, N.S., says: "Last spring and summer my daughter's health gave out. She had no energy, was very pale and nervous, and had no appetite. As the usual remedies given in such cases did not help her, we became much alarmed, and on the advice of a neighbour began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. We could soon see an improvement, and as she continued to take the Pills she gained in weight and vigour; her color returned and her whole system seemed to be built up again. She is now the picture of health and joins in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

The terrible shooting fatalities that have brought sorrow to homes in Lindsay and Peterborough, and have shocked two whole communities, must serve to bring to our minds with the greatest force possible the awful danger that lies in the careless handling of firearms. On the very same day that poor Hicks lost his life in Peterborough a party of nine or ten boys, ranging in age from nine to fifteen, were celebrating the holiday, near Hales' Bridge. Four or five of them were carrying small rifles, and they were walking along the river bank, shooting at whatsoever their fancy impelled them to aim at. There were many canoes, boats, and launches going up and down the Otonabee that day, and it is certain, from information received, that the passengers in more than one boat had their safety imperilled by the erratic marksmanship of those boys. There is nothing so clear as that the Otonabee is no place for a gunner to indulge in promiscuous shooting during the summer season, but when gunning is carried on not only by men, but by callow youths, who have not been many years out of swaddling clothes, it spells peril to any human being who may happen to be passing up and down the waterway.

It may be absurd to suggest that police should regularly patrol the river during the summer months, but it should not be beyond the power of the county constabulary to at least have an eye to the proper safeguarding of the public on Saturdays, Sundays and general holidays.

There can be no two questions as to the debt we owe to those who have our educational matters in hand. Thanks to their foresight and public-spirited labours, Peterborough is to-day as well equipped with educational institutions as any city of its size in Canada. We have a splendid normal school, a new Collegiate Institute, and a new separate school; these as well as the older schools, are all provided with splendid facilities for teaching, and with first-class teachers. There are two business colleges, also, established in the city, and when we add the instruction classes in the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. it is easily seen that Peterborough has no reason to be ashamed of the part her citizens are taking in the matter of educating the young.

Nobody who is in the habit of taking an evening promenade along George street, can fail to be struck by the fact that the western sidewalk is always crowded to the point of discomfort, whilst the east side is practically deserted. Sometimes, usually on Saturday nights there is a big crowd in front of the Peterborough Hardware store, but this is as nothing to the congestion that is to be seen on the opposite side of the street. This condition of affairs has given rise to a certain amount of rude jostling, in which women, we are told, are the chief offenders. Peterborough people are usually well behaved and it seems a pity that complaints of such a nature should be handed in. However, here the complaint is, and if it serves to keep a few aggressive females from taking up the whole of the sidewalk in their future perambulations, it will have served a good purpose to have published it.

Lovers of amateur sport are not backward in expressing their appreciation of the way in which the owners of Riverside Park have treated the athletes of this city. The grounds were purchased by these gentlemen, not as a prospective gold mine, but in the magnaminous desire to provide at reasonable cost a splendid athletic ground for Peterborough. All that these gentlemen looked for in return was a modest return for their investment. This has not been realized; but, notwithstanding this fact, such a measure of fair dealing has been exhibited by them in their negotiations with sports promoters in general, and they have shown themselves so appreciative of the difficulties that beset the amateur's path in particular that they have earned the good will of everyone in Peterborough.

It is sad to feel that around and about us live people who consider that they have not paid a proper share of respect to a departed loved one, unless they offer it in the form of an obituary ode in the columns of some newspaper. Some of these lucubrations are such senseless, mawkish, maudlin drivel that one marvels that people, sane in other respects, should render themselves ridiculous by appending their names to them. But they do, and, what's more, they glory in doing it. If they only knew how the hard unsympathizing public regards their efforts, and the uncontrolled merriment that the perusal of their offerings causes in many a home they would think twice before exhibiting their misshapen, splay-footed offspring to the world. Look at the following:

"Oh, mother, dear, we miss you sorely,
Now that you have gone above;
We didn't think when you was looking so poorly,
That so soon we should be losing your love."

This is a specimen of obituary poetry that can almost be termed the quintessence of sentimentality in tabloid form. The person who can perpetrate such stuff as that and imagine it to be poetry could qualify for a lunatic asylum without much trouble.

Lynch law is not a popular pastime in Canada, and from present appearances is not very likely to be, but although Canadians in the outlying sections of the country have not sunk to so low a depth of lawlessness, as have certain classes of people across the border, they are not entirely free from the stigma of engaging in occasional acts of brutality "Charivarii," or as the colloquial term is, "shivareeing" is still indulged in, not only in the more remote settlements, but also in many a thriving village in this prosperous province of Ontario. There is absolutely no excuse for its survival in a country which claims to be behind no other in any one of the attributes of civilization. It is really a paganish custom, brought over from Europe by the settlers who peopled Louisiana and Alabama. The underlying idea is a good one. It is simply a crude form of protesting against breaches of morality, but if people set the moral and social law at defiance, the arm of justice is long enough to gather them into its toils. It is no part of the duty of any body of men to constitute themselves judges and inflict their own forms of punishment on moral backsliders. A somewhat humorous incident occurred in the United States some years ago, where a woman aroused the ire of the neighbourhood by marrying a man the day after her former husband had been buried. A large crowd hurried to the house with instruments of music in the shape of tin pans, kettles, and horns. At the height of the uproar the bride appeared at the window and addressed the musicians:

"Aren't you ashamed of yourselves," she said, in lofty indignation, "to make such a noise when you know we had a funeral in the house only yesterday?" If ever there was an excuse for a "shivaree" it was certainly then.

HAS EATEN NO MEAT FOR EIGHTY YEARS

Rev. Henry S. Clubb, Grand Old Man of Vegetarianism, Hale and Hearty at 83.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 11.—The Rev. Henry S. Clubb, eighty-three years old, president of the Vegetarian Society of America, resident of Philadelphia, and temporary sojourner in Cleveland, is hale, hearty and happy, having subsisted nearly eighty years on potatoes, cabbage, corn and onions. Never a taste of meat, never a pork chop, never a leg of turkey, not even a clam or a crab or a lobster.

The Rev. Mr. Clubb is in the ministry because he can't help it.

"I wouldn't feel at home in any other calling," he said.

Religion is this octogenarian's natural element, as water is a duck's or air is a bird's.

"I was the smallest sort of a boy when I accepted the Bible as my guide," said Mr. Clubb. "I studied the words from a practical viewpoint. How did the Bible intend that I should live? One of the very first things I learned was that God never intended I should eat meat. I was just a small boy, but I made up my mind to accept God's advice. From that day to this no morsel of beef or veal or any other flesh has passed my lips."

Certainly no one who looks at the fresh, pink, healthy face of the Rev. Mr. Clubb would question the efficacy of vegetarianism—at least as applied to the preacher.

But Mr. Clubb was not content to merely practise vegetarianism. He wanted to preach it as well. So away back in the 70's he affiliated with the Bible Church. That denomination is unique, but not numerous. In America there is but one congregation. This one parish is to be found in Philadelphia and the Rev. Mr. Clubb is its pastor. Though eighty-three years old, he preaches regularly every Sunday morning and evening, exhorting the flock to stand firm by the vegetarian creed.

"The church was founded on the word of God. We first accepted God's word purely as a matter of faith. And now come all the physicians and the physiologists and confirm our belief. That meat is not food is now a scientific fact."

DR. COOK PLAYING WI TH HIS LITTLE GIRL

Little Ruth Cook hasn't played "piggy back" with her papa for three years. But she's looking forward to it now with all her heart. For papa is coming back. He's the world's hero, the north pole discoverer, but he's her papa.

Ruth is much bigger now than she was then. She'll be more of a load. But the man who carried supplies and instruments and guns enough to make a succesful trip to the north pole will be able to carry his little girl all right. And doubtless he'll be glad to do it.

Fashionable Hats And Dresses For Fall Wear

Here are two absolutely new ideas in street frocks to be worn with or without wraps just as weather permits. They are developed in the soft fabrics which are making such a strong bid for fall popularity.

The cuirass bodice turned up in folds at the bottoom to disclose the pleated skirt is a striking innovation, as is the shirring which shapes the other dress.

The little hats are the modified Russian shapes which head the list of the season's favourites, so far. The simplicity in trimming which characterizes these hats will appeal to every girl and woman who dislikes the ornate and conspicuous in millinery.

AN APPEAL TO THE ORANGEMEN

Editor Examiner:—

At the funeral of the late Willian Cook, Esq., Douro street, yesterday, it seemed strange the Orange Society of which the deceased was a member, were not represented in a good substantial manner.

I have been at several funerals in different towns and cities, also in the country, both near and in the far north conducted by several fraternal societies. I have been at Masonic funerals and the ceremony was very impressive. The different Forester societies have their beautiful service and in one case I know where the Canadian Order, a lodge of more than two hundred walked in procession and showed every respect to a brother's deceased wife at her funeral.

In talking to one well posted in the way the St. Peter's T.A.S. and C.M.-B.A., also the Knights of Columbus of the Roman Catholic faith, conduct their funerals I learn with pleasure they have a beautiful service.

The Sunday Schools have always to my thinking showed deu respect to a companion in forming a procession and assisting at the service in the favourite hymns of the departed.

The Loyal True Blue Association, were provided by this Society and the brethren were cared for during sickness and were buried with reverence. The Sons of England, the Sons of Scotland, the different Trades and Labour nUions have their funeral rites administered at funerals of the departed. The Loyal Orange Association it seems should look into this and even if all cannot turn out to honour the departed brother it should be arranged with the Grand Lodge to allow the brethren to walk and have some appropriate music by a band by those that have time.

There is time for all on the Twelfth of July celebrated by many millions, but a brother of the same cause has only one member to wear the color in his hnour and memory. There might have been another half dozen men with a small streak of Orange blood in their veins but where were their colours as they term it?

I have heard several say they are not ashamed of their colours but where were the members without their colours yesterday? Where was that loyal band of July? Orangemen, if there is a funeral service in connection with your Society it remains for you to form a large gathering and have the service of an Orange Society for a member since fifty years ago he joined you.

Nassau get that band together, boys fall in line, send word ahead to the several Orange Lodges in this city. Go down to Little Lake Cemetery and do your duty and las twishes of your brother.—A Visitor.

I was told by a number have a beautiful funeral servce and also the Prentice Boys, as I have personally seen at such a gathering.

In Little Lake Cemetery I noticed several monuments erected by the Woodmen of the World or Canadian Order of Woodmen. I cannt just now recollect which, and I learned they

G. WALTER GREEN CO. AT TORONTO EXHIBITION

Made a Splendid Showing and Was a Credit to Peterborough.

While in Toronto this week a visit was made to the machinery hall of the Exposition. Being on the lookout for Peterborough exhibits, attention was quickly drawn to the prominent display of the G. Walter Green Co., Limited. It was situated in one of the best locations in the building and continually crowded with visitors.

The exhibit of this enterprising company comprised several types of portable saw mills, a lath mill and other mill machinery. Three of the machines were in actual motion, which gave added effect to the exhibit. The display compared well with the oldest companies of the Dominion, and was a credit to this city.

Mr. Green was a very busy man, his time and the time of his assistants being constantly taken up with enquirers anxious to learn all about the machines. This enterprising firm has not hesitated to assume the expense connected with so large an exhibit, and it is hoped that the new business secured will justify the expenditure and open up a greatly enlarged field for the products of the company.

It is hoped that this company will be induced to enter its Toronto exhibit at our Peterborough Industrial next week.

AN ENTERPRISING SCHOOL BOARD.

The Examiner has to thank Rev. W. L. Armitage, formerly of this city, chairman of the Picton Board of Education, for a copy of the announcement of the Picton Collegiate Institute for 1909-10." It is a very creditable boklet, of some 26 pages. It contains the names of members of the Board and officials, and the names and pedagogic functions of the seven members of the staff, which includes a specialist in Agriculture. Among its photogravure illustrations are pictures of the old High School building, and of the beautiful new Collegiate Institute building. Accompanying the latter are cuts of the plans of the basement, ground floor, and first and second floors, with dimensions, and indicated uses of the several rooms. Letter press information is also given of the organization of the school, the programme of the five courses of study—General, Teachers' Matriculation, Business and Agricultural courses. Considerable attention is given to details of the agricultural course, which covers two years, and also to a "short course of Agriculture and Business Training, held in January and February for the benefit of those who cannot take the regular course. Special emphasis is laid, by way of display type upon the assurance several times repeated, "The school is FREE; No fees charged for any course". On the whole the "announcement" of the Picton Collegiate Institute is very creditable to the enterprise of the educational authorities of this beautiful and beautifully situated bayside town.

THE MILLINERY OPENINGS.

The fall millinery openings in this city are slated to take place on Thursday of next week and following days. The millinery staffs are all busy getting their showrooms in readiness for the event, and it is safe to say that Fashion never presented a wider range of beautiful headgear than will be exhibited this season.

THIS DISEASE HAS BECOME A MONOPOLIST

Consumption, Doctors Say, Attacks 70 Per Cent. of Civilized People.

London, Sept. 11.—An inquiry just completed by the Royal College of Surgeons of Belgium tends to show that about 70 per cent. of the population in all civilized countries are attacked by tuberculosis at some period in their lives.

The germ of consumption, as has been demonstrated in the bacteriological laboratories here and in Berlin, Paris and New York, has not as much vitality as a number of other disease germs. After persons are over eighteen years of age their chances of battling off the disease are very good.

Improved tenements, it is argued, will do more good to humanity than sanatoriusm, which are inadequate and expensive and cure no greater proportion than are cured at home. More than 175,000 persons die annually in the United States from tuberculosis, 120,000 in Germany. In the latter country htere are 800,000 and in the United States 1,225,000 native consumptives at present, and in America there are 4,000,000 and in Germany 3,000,000 people now alive who have somehow been cured of the disease.

The sanatoria capacity in America is only 21,000, and in Germany only 19,000 annually. These sanatoria, by their latest reports, gathered by Dr. Maurice Fishberg of New York, cure but 9,500 a year in Germany, and 10,500 a year in America. So the sanitariums are only a drop in the bucket. The only hope for the treatment of the disease on a commensurate scale, some of the experts say, is at home, in improved tenements. This is the plan now being proposed by Fishberg in New York. There is, of course, much opposition to his views by the sanatoria folks and their large following.

DESTROY THE CAUSE.

You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without Destroying the Cause of It.

Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff; and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that wil destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

SURGEON TRANSMITS CANCER TO MICE

Disease at Last Proved to be Contagious Declares Prof. Robertson.

London, Sept. 11.—Prof. Ford Robertson, after a series of experiments on mice, claims to have settled in the affirmative the long-debated question as to whether cancer is contagious. The investigation also confirms him, he says, in his belief that cancer is caused by a parasite or germ. Robertson undertook his experiments on the theory that the failures in the previous inoculations by other students of the subject were due to the unsuitable methods employed. The bacilli, if such there be, he argued, may have to be introduced in large numbers, owing to their vulnerability to the mininizing agents of the animal invaded, or they may have to be introduced during a particular phase of their existence.

Two observations of wide general application are to be made with regard to the Robertson experiments—first, they seem to prove the especial vulnerability of the stomach to cancer. Direct injections into the blood was negative. The influence is that anything which breaks down the stomach tissue of functions may lead to cancer. Among these causative agents may be classed very hot fluids, such as coffee and tea, and condiments, and an excessive quantity of vinegar or salt, and effervescents and medical salts taken as laxatives. They are all stomach irritants.

In the second place, these in conjunction with other experiments, raise once more the vital question as to whether the so-called germs of cancer and other diseases are in reality animal or vegetable in nature. The mycetroza, or fungus growths, are claimed by both botanists and zoologists. They are undoubtedly a low form of life—but what life, animal or vegetable? If they are merely moulds or fungi, the whole theory of germs will have to be changed. Beriberi and pellagra are already admitted to be due to mould or fungi.

WEESE—WILSON.

A quiet wedding was celebrated on Tuesday, Sept. 7th, at the Charlotte street parsonage, when Miss Annie Wilson, of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Mr. William Weese of Hamilton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. Henderson.

There is a city by-law forbidding spitting upon pavements, which, unfortunately, is more honoured in the breach than the observance. Some days or so ago on George street, near the Examiner building, a lady slipped on one of several splashes of smeary mucus, ejected by some one suffering from a bronchial or tuberculous affection ,and, falling, injured herself so severely that she is still under a physician's care. The civic statute book is cumbered with by-laws which are as useless as the laws of the Medes and Persians, because no attempt is made at enforcement.

THE OTTAWA EVENING JOURNAL, TUESDAY, SEPT. 7

At The Russell.

The Ottawa Evening Journal, Tuesday, September 7th, 1909: The Russell Theatre yesterday opened its doors for the season of 1909-1910, and was crowded to the doors at both the afternoon and evening performances to welcome Geo. S. Trimble in "Foust." The reproduction of this sublime poem play by Goethe was fully up to the standard of the presentation made for upwards of a quarter of a century by Lewis Morrison. Trimble possesses a good stage presence, has a resonant voice and while slightly troubled from a cold, his every utterance was clear and distinct.

Miss Edna Porter was a charming "Marguerite." Her graceful appearance and sympathetic voice won her way in the simple garden scene and again in the prison scene her tragic parts were splendidly rendered. Her work received well merited applause.

Miss Myra Brooké as the meddlesome and loving Martha gave a capable performance and Carlyle Shelley's depiction of Faust was all that could be desired. The other characters were well taken. Shelley is tall of stature, with a powerful voice.

The scenic effects added greatly to the impressiveness of the piece and the scene on the Brocken was highly appreciated.

HARRY HERMSEN

Who Appeared Here With "The Royal Chef," Returns Thursday, Sept. 16 With the "Burgomaster."

Harry Hermsen will head the big revival of "The Burgomaster," which Wm. P. Cullen will present at the Grand Thursday, in the role of Peter Stuyvesant, governor of New Amsterdam, who sleeps for 200 years and awakens to find himself in modern New York. The costumes for the revival are all new, and are the handsomest, it is said, of any comic opera now touring. The scenery is all new some of the scenes having been changed. "The Burgomaster" was the first of the Pixley and Luders popular successes to gain favor. It is in a class with 'Robin Hood" and "The Prince of Pilsen" for tunefulness and many of the numbers have come to be known as classics. "The Tale of the Kangaroo," "I Love You," the Indian chorus, "The Rainy Daisies, and other songs have a lilt that sends the auditor from the theatre whistling merrily. Miss Lockhart has written a new song which experts claim will be a big seller. It is entitled "How many Have You Told That To?" The chorus, which is a very large one, has been selected for its singing and dancing ability. Mr. Cullen will be remembered as the producer of "The Burgomaster" and "The Tenderfoot."

DR. COOK STARTS FOR AMERICA

The Waterfront Was Lined With People and All the Ships In the Harbor Were Dressed With Flags — Geographical Society, University and Government Sent Representatives.

Copenhagen, Sept. 11.—Dr. Fred. A. Cook left Copenhagen yesterday afternoon on the first stage of his journey homeward, apparently happy and confident and with the cheers of a great crowd ringing in his ears. Formal farewells were exchanged between Dr. Cook and committees of the Geographical Society and the University of Copenhagen. As he departed the explorer stood alone on the high bridge of the yacht Melchior, which is taking him to Christiansand, raising his hat in response to the shouts of the spectators, who line the waterfront. The ships in harbor were dressed with flags.

Admiral De Kichelieu, in a speech, thanked Dr. Cook for returning to the United States under the Danish flag.

"Green-eyed envy and jealousy," he said, "are doing their envenomed work, but we in Denmark believe in you absolutely."

"I want to thank you," said Dr. Cook, in reply, "for the great honor that is mine in going home on a Danish steamer. You have been my friends; you have fought my battles. With a full heart I say farewell to the people of Denmark."

Speaking to the Associated Press, Dr. Cook said: "I am perfectly willing to put my records before the American coast and geodetic survey to be compared with those of Commander Peary, but I do not see why I should ask for such a comparison first."

Asked if he had any message for the public, Dr. Cook replied: "Don't you think that would be rather presumptuous? All I want is to get home to my family and children and to finish my work."

Peary's View of Cook.

"Editor Herald, New York.

"I do not imagine The Herald likely to be imposed upon by the Cook story, but for your information, Cook has simply handed the public a gold brick. He has not been at the pole on April 21, 1908, or any other time. The above statement is made advisedly and at the proper time will be back by proof. (Signed) Peary."

Looting at Fire.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Two teamsters were arrested yesterday and lodged in the Agnes street police station, charged with stealing a quantity of scrap copper from the ruins o' the west wing of the Parliament buildings.

Inspector Duncan yesterday received a letter telling him that the copper, lining covers and other piping about the building, was being sacked and stored in a cement house on the grounds. From this, it was being removed between noon and one o'clock and between five and six in the evening.

Detectives Montgomery and Ferguson secured Charles Yoman, 32 years, 387 Sackville street, at noon. He had two sacks in his wagon and said he had been told to sell them and buy beer. He offered to give back the copper, but was locked up.

At 6 o'clock Detectives Montgomery and Miller got Gladstone Paris, 25 years, 52 First avenue, on a similar charge.

Dr. Fritch Denies Charge.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 11.—Dr. G. A. Fritch, arrested in connection with the Millman case, made a brief statement yesterday, in which he said:

"I do not know that I ever saw the Millman girl, but I think she was in my office two weeks ago Thursday night in company with another girl. Nothing was said about the nature of her case."

When told that bricks similar to those which the body was weighted had been found in a garage being constructed at Dr. Fritch's home, the doctor said that undoubtedly cement bags might be found there also.

Dr. Fritch was remanded under $10,000 bail.

Found His Dead Body.

Holland Landing, Sept. 11.—George Swezie, a well-known farmer, living in this village left the house about 7 o'clock Thursday night without saying where he was going, and failing to return, a search party was organized. Yesterday morning the body was found in the Holland River, where it passes through the farm of John Sheppard.

Deceased was about 75 years of age, and leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. Beth Beaton. The supposition is that Mr. Swezie wandered about in the darkness and fell in the river

WHY SHOULD WOMEN SUFFER?

Those that are almost daily afflicted with headache, backpains, depression, neuralgia, and "don't care" feeling, can be quickly cured by "Nerviline." Just a few drops of this wonderful remedy in sweetened water makes you feel better at once—gives you relief from unnatural aches and pains. Thousands use Nerviline every day—it does them good. Why not you?

Nerviline Cures.

"I wouldn't think of being in the house unless I had a bottle of Nerviline handy," writes Mrs. A. E. Banner, of Belleville. To stop headaches, cure pains, and drive away sickness, nothing compares with Nerviline.

Every dealer in the land sells Nerviline in large 25c bottles. Get it to-day.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

One of the prize horses at the Toronto Exhibition was stabbed yesterday.

If the typhoid epidemic at Cobalt is not soon checked the town may be quarantined.

A Liverpool despatch reports that the Allan Line steamers will probably be transferred to the Grand Trunk.

The Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and the Macdonald Institute have each more pupils than they can accommodate.

A part of the Toronto Garrison Common will be leased to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for a transformer station.

An attempt was made to wreck a C.P.R. passenger train near Manitwaki, Quebec, by placing a rail across the track and covering it with stones and moss.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier returned to Ottawa and a Cabinet meeting was held to discuss business of the session. It is expected that Parliament will meet in November.

$75,000 Fire In Almonte.

Almonte, Sept. 11.—Fire which did damage to the extent of about $75,000 broke out at three o'clock yesterday morning in a frame structure in the rear of a business block on Mill street occupied by James Patterson, druggist; W. Kaufman, hardware; and W. West, general merchant.

Adjoining the building first attacked were several other frame buildings, and these soon fell a prey. It also ran and enveloped the sheds and stables in the rear of the Commercial Hotel, and soon these fine premises and the large three-storey brick hotel were in flames.

All the fine business blocks were totally destroyed, together with their contents. It spread in the rear and a stable owned by J. K. Cole was burned and other frame buildings farther up the street.

An electric light pole fell, striking A. S. Henshaw, manager of the Bank of Montreal, knocking him unconscious and breaking his collar bone. At ten he was reported conscious and and no really serious results are anticipated.

The following are losers: Thoburn, owner of the premises occupied by Mr. West; W. West, general merchant; Kaufman, hardware; T. R. White, owner of buildings occupied by Mr. Kaufman; James Patterson, druggist; Dr. T. P. Patterson, dentist; Masonic Lodge, contents on top floor of White's building; J. K. Cole, owner of Commercial Hotel; D. J. McDonald, tenant of hotel; George Young, boots and shoes; J. K. Cole, damage to residence; H. H. Cole, damage to stock. Total insurance is about $40,000.

Great Floods In Mexico.

Mexico City, Mex., Sept. 11.—Another terrible flood has visited the Jamiltepec district, in the State of Oaxaca. Sugar plantations and mills have been destroyed, hundreds of heads of cattle have been killed, and scores of farm laborers have lost their lives in the waters.

The destruction wrought by the floods and tornadoes throughout the State of Tamaulipas, has done frightful damage, and may even rival that in Monterey.

The greater part of the state is still cut off telegraphically from the rest of Mexico. Such reports as are coming in tell of whole towns having been swept by the raging waters.

Destitution has spread over great areas. Plantation owners have sent messengers into Victoria telling the authorities of the pitiful condition of the inhabitants.

Several towns report loss of life ranging from a few up to five hundred persons in some instances.

All the irrigation works in and around Matamoras have been ruined, and will involve a loss of millions of dollars.

Toronto Fair Closes.

Toronto Sept. 11.—The Canadian National Exhibition of 1909 which will to-day pass into history has justified expectations that it would easily surpass the records of former years, but unless a miracle occurs, the directors will have to wait until 1910 for the attainment of the coveted 900,000 mark. As nearly as can be gauged at present, the surplus will be about $45,000, an increase of $5,000 over 1908, with a possibility that the civic coffers may be enriched by as much as $50,000.

"Review Day" showed a satisfactory increase in view of the fears entertained in some quarters that the heavy gains earlier in the exhibition might result in a slight falling off later on. Quite a smart patter of rain in the middle of the afternoon was not a helpful influence, and while the grandstand was filled at night, receipts were a trifle under those of last year.

Dynamited Bank.

Montreal, Sept. 11.—Burglars dynamited the safe of the Banque Provinciale at Yarrachiche at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and stole $4,800.

The explosion awakened the manager, Belmore, who was sleeping upstairs, and he ran down and fired at them. They fired back and refused to leave. They fired another dynamite charge and blew the safe open and ran with the money.

Babe's Body Left In Hotel.

Detroit, Sept. 11.—The dead body of a three weeks' old baby girl was found alone yesterday in a room in the Library Park Hotel. The child was brought to the hotel Thursday afternoon by a well-dressed and attractive-looking woman who registered as Mrs. J. C. Capon of Chicago.

WILL THE FRENCH ROLE CANADA?

Jean Bonier Says That With Rapid Increase of French-Canadians and Race Suicide Among the English-Speaking Citizens, the French Will Some Day Dominate the Country—A Separate State.

Washington, D.C., Sept. 11.—In an interview in The Herald, Jean Bonier of Quebec, a guest at the New Willard, says:

"French Canada has virtually a new flag, or rather a flag of its own. It has already four or five flags differing from the Canadian flag proper, but none of them quite expressed the real national aims and desires of the French-Canadians. Even the new standard is not assured of universal adoption, though it is being very largely employed by groups of French-Canadians throughout the whole of Canada, and also for church and other decorations in certain French-Canadian centres in the New England States.

"Visitors have always been struck with the number of French tri-colors decorating the streets and public buildings in Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec and other parts of French Canada. The French colors are still occasionally in evidence, but are being rapidly displaced by the new flag.

"Like all Gallic peoples," added M. Bonier, "the French-Canadians attach a great deal of sentimental interest to the symbolism of flags, and there is consequently considerable significance in this change of standards. The French-Canadians attach a great deal more importance to the choice of a flag than is generally supposed by those who are not familiar with all their aspirations. That they dream of becoming an independent nation, which will in time dominate the northern part of Canada, few of them care to deny. They largely base their hopes upon the rapid natural increase of their nationality, and the alleged race suicide which their public men openly charge against the English-speaking citizens of both Canada and the States. And it is precisely because they believe so firmly in their future destiny as an independent nation that they attach so much importance to the choice of an appropriate flag which shall be distinct from any other existing colors and shall proclaim their French and Catholic origin."

Germany's Tariff.

Berlin, Sept. 11.—The National Zeitung states that in spite of all machinations by Britain, it appears it will no longer be possible for her to prevent the conclusion of the commercial peace between Germany and Canada. This will be due to the fact that Canada in consequence of the reduced duties on English imports, is one of those countries to which the new maximum tariff of the United States will be applied and the inevitable result would be a tariff war between Canada and the United States, but Canada will endeavor to prevent this development. For this reason it will probably transpire that Canada can do nothing but meet the wishes of the United States and abandon her highly protective policy. That would change the position in regard to Canada's tariff war with Germany, because there would be no reason for Canada to deny to Germany what she concedes to the United States.

Killed on Railway Track.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—While on his way home from the Moffatt Stove Foundry at Weston yesterday afternoon William Mathers was struck by a train at the crossing and instantly killed.

Mathers was on his way to dinner when the accident happened, and it is thought he miscalculated the distance the train was from the crossing and tried to get over it first. He was hurled some distance, and when picked up was dead.

Mathers, who is a widower, was 59 years old, and known in Toronto. He has a son, besides two sisters and a brother, living here. At one time he drove a wagon for O'Keefe's brewery.

Wanders From Home; May Be Dead.

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—While laboring under high mental and nervous tension and partly delirious as the result of long illness, Alexander Frank, Austrian consular agent in Winnipeg, wandered from his home about midnight Thursday and was still missing yesterday.

Mauretania's New Record.

New York, Sept. 11.—The Cunard Mauretania broke all trans-Atlantic records by making the crossing between Queenstown and this port in four days, eleven hours and thirty-five minutes. This performance betters that of the Lusitania by seven minutes.

Fell to His Death.

Smith's Falls, Ont., Sept. 11.—Robt. Swindlehurst, a moulder, fell downstairs at his home and died a few hours later from concussion of the brain. He was 46 years old, and leaves a wife and five children, two daughters in Toronto.

Pennsylvania Drought Broken.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Rain began falling throughout Pennsylvania late Thursday night after one of the longest dry spells in years. The grounds in many sections was dry to a depth of four feet or more, and leaves of trees were drying.

DENOUNCES LLOYD GEORGE BUDGET

The First Result, He Said, Would Be an Immediate Increase in the Number of Unemployed Through a Great Depletion of Capital—Government Was Dallying With Socialism, He Says.

Glasgow, Sept. 11.—Lord Rosebery finally cut himself adrift from modern radicalism as exemplified by the House of Commons nowadays and in a straight talk yesterday to the business men of the north, vehemently denounced the budget and its authors.

The ex-Premier's speech has been awaited eagerly by those opposed to the budget, as it was expected to give a lead to the House of Lords and furnish a platform for a fight for a general election on which the moderates of all parties would be able to foregather.

Lord Rosebery, characterized the budget as a "revolution which put the future of Great Britain in the melting pot and which in the best interests of the nation should not become law."

He declared that the first result of the budget would be an immediate increase in the ranks of the unemployed through a great depletion of capital.

The arguments advanced for taxing land applied logically to consols and all other forms of realized property.

Scores of millions were lying idle in the banks at the present moment owing to the apprehensions regarding the financial policy of the Government which proposed to treat all landlords as pariahs.

If the Lloyd-George budget was the only alternative to tariff reform, Lord Rosebery declared many would cease to defend the doctrines of free trade. He said the Government was dallying with Socialism, which was the end of all things.

Lord Rosebery's address was discussed keenly in the House of Commons, and the prevailing opinion in the lobbies seemed to be the fate of the finance bill has been sealed thereby and the House of Lords would reject it.

Gas Plant Exploded.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Richard Luker of Lorne Park was severely burned by the explosion of an acetylene gas plant in the cellar of Alfred Jephcott's summer residence at Lorne Park yesterday.

It was only by his nerve and presence of mind that Luker escaped as well as he did, for when the gas ignited the flames caught his clothing and were burning fiercely when he threw himself on the floor, and by rolling over and over extinguished them.

Both his arms were badly burned and his face was almost cooked by the flames. His eyes are swollen, and at first it was feared that he might lose his sight, but it is now thought that his eyes will be saved.

Embalmers Receive Diplomas.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—The names of the successful candidates in the recent examination held by the Canadian Embalmers' Association were given out by Secretary J. C. Van Camp last night. Those who will receive diplomas as embalmers are: Jos. Hillier, Burk's Falls; Charles F. Barr, Drumbo; J. W. Law, Beeton; Geo. S. Wilson, Norwich; Robert W. Lockhart, Cochrane; Russel C. Wood, Cornwall; M. P. Brown, Brantford; J. Herbert Boutelle, Danville, P.Q.; Geo. C. Wilcox, Waterford; W. H. Theaker, Mount Albert; H. Strafler, Aurora; W. V. Corbin, Hepworth; S. C. Richardson, Toronto; S. W. Wolsford, Cargill; Charles B. Cole, Belleville.

No Drunkenness Amongst Troops.

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—E. F. Jarvis, acting Deputy Minister of the Militia Department, has issued a statement in which he denies that there has been much drunkenness among troops on strike duty at Glace Bay.

The report of the officer commanding the Maritime Provinces has been received at the Department, and it is to the effect that a statement made in the press despatches is malicious, unjust and largely incorrect.

The report says that only a few cases of drunkenness have occurred among over five hundred men scattered into numerous detachments.

New York Democrats.

Saratoga, N.Y., Sept. 11.—After adopting a declaration of principles which included an endorsement of a Federal income tax, and effecting a continuation of its efforts for the rehabilitation of the party through the organization of "the Democratic League," the Democratic conference concluded a two days' session yesterday.

Three Years For a Firebug.

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—For setting fire to a wood pile immediately adjoining the house of a man he disliked at Wakefield, Que., Onesime Dubois was sent to prison for three years. He was convicted once before for arson and was allowed out from jail two years before his time was up. He will now have this to serve.

Cut His Throat.

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—Leaving a note for his wife, Harry Gill, a carpenter, left his home Thursday night with the deliberate intention of ending his life, and yesterday morning he was found with his throat cut in St. James' Park, but still alive. He may recover.

Toronto Engineer Gets Job.

Port Arthur, Sept. 11.—John Galt, hydraulic engineer, Toronto, will advise the city regarding the placing of the intake pipe connected with the waterworks, which must be moved to allow the construction of the drydock.

Took Too Much Medicine.

Hamilton, Sept. 11.—Jennie Shea, 62 West Burlington street, was found in Robertson's shipyard, at the foot of MacNab street, last night in a semi-conscious condition. She had taken an overdose of Pain Exterminator and was hurried to the city hospital. The stomach was pumped out and at a late hour she was reported to be out of danger.

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—It is roughly estimated that the Canadian west is about $1,000,000 better off in actual currency by the arrival Thursday of homeseekers from across the border.

He Died In a Few Hours.

Blenheim, Sept. 11.—John Spangle, a young farmer residing on Neil Sinclair's farm, Old street, met death in a horrible manner. He was assisting at the threshing, and was sliding out of the mow to the barn floor. The hands had finished and were cleaning up the barn floor, so some of the forks had been left standing along the mow. Spangle slid down on the butt end of one of them, and though the drop was only a couple of feet, it entered at the rectum and he was impaled by over 15 inches. He died in a few hours.

Little Girl Was Drowned.

St. Catharines, Sept. 11.—The four-year-old daughter of William Brinson, an employe of the Welland Vale Manufacturing Co., was drowned in the waste wier in rear of the work last night. The girl, with her three-year-old brother, was playing on the banks, waiting for their father to leave the factory. The girl lost her footing at the top of the steep bank and rolled into the water. Workmen had seen the children on the bank and had warned them away. Soon after the boy was seen crying and told of the accident.

CANADIAN CATCHER MAKES A NEW RECORD WITH PIRATES

"Mooney" Gibson, the London catcher with the Pittsburg club, caught his 115th consecutive game in the National League yesterday, thereby establishing a new world's record.

Gibson during the last two years has led the catchers of the two major leagues in games played. He caught 111 in 1907, last season worked in 140 games, while up till to-day he has caught 123 games.

Gibson's performance is truly wonderful. It is harder now to make a record than ever before. The game has changed. The wear and tear on a catcher is harder, especially when one considers the fact that the team he has been working with has been in the lead for so long.

It was on May 5 that Gibson took a rest, just for one day, O'Connor relieved him. He then started in to work again, and every day since he has been behind the bat for the Pirates. In that time he has worked in 115 games, establishing a new world's record.

The nearest any catcher has ever come to these two records is the work of Flint who caught 120 out of 121 games while a member of the Chicago team in 1877. McGuire, now managing Cleveland, caught 132 games during the season of 1896, while Kling of the champion Cubs, caught the same number as Flint in 1903. This leaves Gibson with the record in major leagues with 140 games, which he caught last season.

The greatest number of games caught in one season was accomplished by Berry who received in 175 games, while a member of the San Francisco team of the Pacific Coast League.

O. R. F. U. OFFICERS ARE APPOINTED

Toronto Star, Sept. 10.—A. R. Denison, the well known architect, president of the Island Aquatic Association, yesterday accepted the office of president of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. Mr. Denison is an enthusiastic sportsman, and the Union should prosper with him at the head. Secretary Roy Clark also announces that Mr. Donovan, of St. Michael's College, will be second vice-president of the Union so that the officers of the year will be as follows:

President—A. R. Denison, Toronto.
1st vice-president—Percy Scott, London.
2nd vice president — C. Donovan, St. Michael's.
Sec.-Treas.—Roy Clark, Toronto.
Junior representatives — N. F. Culverhouse, Parkdale, and a representative from each senior club.

According to Secretary Clark, there will be seven teams in the city junior series of the O.R.F.U.: St. Michael's College, Beach Success, Y.M.C.A., T.A.C., Parkdale, I.A.A, and Aura Lee.

NO HOCKEY FOR 14TH

Kingston, September 10.—The historic 14th Regiment hockey team is to disappear, according to Lt.-Colonel Cunningham, the head of the regiment. The matter of disbanding the team was discussed at a meeting of the officers of the regiment last night, and the decision was practically reached to go out of the hockey business. Colonel Cunningham says that the officers feel that the energies expended in keeping up a hockey team could be better utilised in building up the regiment.

Lieut. Noble Steacy, manager of the team, and chairman of the Sports Committee of the regiment, was not present at the meeting last night, but he expressed no surprise when told of the officers' decision. He says he has had enough of the game, as he has had very little return from the time and money which he has expended. Moreover, Mr. Steacy said that the prospects for a good team were exceedingly poor, as three of the crack players, Richardson, Vanhorn and Hiscock, declared last winter that they were through with the game.

BIG OFFER FOR FIGHT

Mr. Joseph C. Miller startled the sporting and amusement world last week by coming out with a bonafide offer of $75,000, for the coming heavy weight championship battle between James J. Jeffries and Jack Johnson Assuring the genuineness of his offer with a certified check for $25,000, contest to be held at his ranch at Bliss Okla. He promises ample accommodations for any sized gathering, and his brothers at Bliss are now busy working out details concerning care and comfort. He considers it an unusual opportunity for advertising the Miller Brothers' belongings there, and in fact the whole state of Oklahoma. It is therefore presumed if "Mr. Joe" don't get the battle, the chances are, with his tenacity, acumen, resources and influence he will succeed, and when the man who by victory has shown his prowess and is hailed the world's champion, while the vanquished foe bites the dust of Oklahoma, the first cheers will arise from the time of Miller Bros. and Edward Arlington's Real Wild West.

CUBS ARE SORE AT UMPIRE KLEM

Protest Game With Pittsburg on That Account—Murphy's Complaint.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 10.—Charges that Umpire Klem deliberately acted as a conspirator, robbing the Cubs of any reasonable chance for victory at Pittsburg Tuesday were filed yesterday in a lengthy protest presented by President Murphy to President Heydler, of the National League.

Not only did the owner of the West Side club question the honesty of Klem but in an exhaustive manner the protesting magnate summed up the methods which he alleges are in vogue when Klem presides at a game involving the Cubs. In his letter Murphy says:

"Umpire Klem, whose ungovernable temper is known not only to all ball players but even to most patrons of the National League Parks, as well as smarting under a cumulative grievance from the baseball season of 1909, deliberately weakened the Chicago Club in what is generally regarded as the most crucial series of the season, so that Pittsburg could win."

Because of Klem's alleged violation of the National League Constitution, Murphy entered formal protest against the game of last Tuesday being awarded to the Pittsburgs and insists that it be replayed when Klem is absent.

TOM LONGBOAT IS IN BUSINESS

While the professional running game appears to be at a standstill just now, Tom Longboat continues to gather in a little loose change each week by running exhibitions at some of the fall fairs.

Last week he ran three exhibitions in New Ontario, and on Tuesday was a big drawing card at Aylmer, where he ran against a relay of local runners. Since Sol Hints took charge of the big Indian he has ceased to hit the high spots and is always in condition to run a good race. Tom has become a wise old owl, and the pennies which come so easy are stowed away for a rainy day.

Tom's latest move is to build a general store on the reserve near Caledonia and it will be opened in a few weeks. A competent manager will be engaged, and the sign will read "Tom Longboat's General Store."—Toronto Star.

Y. M. C. A. RUGBY CLUB MEET MONDAY NIGHT

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Rugby Club is called for Monday night at 7.30 o'clock in the Y. All those intending to get into the game are asked to turn out, as it is important that it should be known at the outset the number who are going to get into togs. The meeting of the league is called for Tuesday night and every member will realize the importance of being present on Monday night. The Y has every facility for its team, and a good line-up is expected.

WILL HOLD CONFERENCE

The Pomological Society, of America, will hold its biennial conference at St. Catharines, Ontario, September 14th to 18th on the invitation of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, The Niagara District Fruit Growers' Association and St. Catharines Horticultural Society, (one of the largest in Canada) and with the approval of the Ontario Government.

The date has been selected in order that the members of this important body may have an opportunity of attending the Niagara District Horticultural Exhibition which will be held, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 15, 16, 17.

It is expected that the display of fruits will be the finest ever shown in the Dominion. The flower and vegetable exhibition will be on a large scale.

A special feature of the show will be the exhibit of fruits in baskets and packets ready for shipment. Every person interested in Horticulture and fruit growing should attend.

MARVELLOUS HEALING POWERS

The most severe test to which a healing ointment is ever put is the cure of eczema. So successful has Dr. Chase's Ointment proven in the cure of torturing itching eczema that many people refer to its effects as magical and marvellous. After the first few applications it positively stops the dreadful itching and then gradually and naturally heals up the sores

SCULPTURAL COMPETITION OF DESIGNS FOR TWO MONUMENTS

1. Competitive designs are invited for two monuments, one to the memory of the late Honourable George Brown and the other to the memory of the late Honourable Thomas D'Arcy McGee.

2. Each monument is not when completed and in position to cost more than ten thousand dollars, including pedestal from the level of the ground.

3. The competition is open only to artists resident in Canada, and artists of Canadian birth residing elsewhere.

4. The site will be at a point in the Government property at Ottawa, to be after decided.

5. Designs shall be in the form of sketch models in plaster, made at a uniform scale of one and one-half inches to the foot. A description of the design shall accompany each model. No name, motto or other distinctive device is to be attached to the models or description. The competitor shall send his name in a sealed envelope without distinctive mark thereon.

6. The author of the best designs will be awarded the commission of the work, the second best $500.00, and the third best, $300.00.

7. The models and all communications regarding this matter shall be addressed to

Advisory Art Council,
C. o. Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, Canada.

The designs must be delivered before the 1st day of February, 1910. They will be kept from public view until the award has been made. All expenses of delivering the sketch-models and accompanying descriptions shall be paid by the competitors. Sketch-models will, after the award, at the expense of the department, be returned upon the request of competitors, but at the risk of the competitors.

Notice of the award will be sent to each competitor.

The award will only be binding provided the successful competitor is prepared to furnish satisfactory evidence, with security, if demanded, that he can execute the work for the sum mentioned above.

By order,
NAPOLEON TESSIER,
Secretary.

Mr. H. C. Duff of Norwood, is in the city to-day.

Mr. D. W. McClelland, of Buffalo, N.Y., is at the Hotel National.

Mr. Fred A. Shannon and son are home after a pleasant holiday, spent camping at Rosedale.

The Misses Baldwin, of Toronto, are guests of their uncle, Mr. J. J. Lundy, at Verulam House, East City.

Mrs. J. Z. Rogers and Miss Mamie Rogers have returned home after several weeks' visit at "Woodside," Kawartha Park Clear Lake.

Mrs. T. Billington and Miss M. Rae, of Winnipeg, and Mrs. A. Boyd, of Thessalon, are visiting Mrs. R. H. Adams, 308 Stewart street.

Mrs. Fred A. Shannon returned on Wednesday afternoon after an extended visit in Canandaigua, N.Y., where she spent the past two months.

Mrs. (Dr.) A. G. Walmsley is spending two or three weeks the guest of friends in Toronto, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, and Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Lillie Simons of the nursing staff of the Tompson Memorial Hospital, Canandaigua, N.Y., is spending a few months' vacation at her home here.

Mr. Jos. A. Maynard, of the mechanical staff of the Examiner, has resigned his position and goes to Ottawa to accept a similar position on one of the journals there.

The many friends of Mr. Isaac Pimmett will be glad to hear that his blacksmithing business at Coldsprings has increased so much that he is obliged to take on a helper in his work.

Dr. A. G. Walmsley has returned from attending the ninth annual convention of the Ontario Osteopathic convention in Toronto, in the program of which he took part by reading a paper. Dr. Walmsley states that the convention was most successful, and that the attendance was very large—nearly all of the other osteopaths of the Province being present.

The High School staff is strengthened by the addition of Mr. J. W. Russell, M.A, Science Master. Mr. Russell, is a well known specialist, with a large experience, and the Board consider themselves very fortunate in securing his services. Mr. Russell has purchased the splendid residence lately occupied by Mr. D. A. McBride at the corner of York and John streets and taken up his residence with wife and two fine young sons, who will attend the public school. Mr. E. H. Adams, M.A., the Classical Master with Mrs. Adams has leased Mr. Henry Endacott's house, lately occupied by Inspector Gordon. Mr. Adams will have charge of the cadet corps, and is well qualified to teach drill and gymnasium work.—Dufferin Post.

Badly Hurt In Thresher

BLOODPOISON SET IN

Truth is often stranger than fiction and many of the cures brought about by Dr Chase's Ointment are more like miracle than anything else.

You generally hear of this great Ointment as a cure for eczema or piles. In the case we report to-day the trouble was blood poison. You know how dreadfully dangerous this is. You know how helpless doctors are in its treatment. Read about this cure brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont., writes: "I feel like shouting the praises of Dr Chase's Ointment. While threshing grain my son got badly hurt. One of the men who was pitching sheaves, missed the sheaf and ran the prongs of the fork into my son's leg. He did not take much notice of it and in a day or two it got sore and very itchy and blood poison set in. We did everything for it but it would heal one place and break out at another, and kept his way for three months.

"Finally I thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment and in a week's time we noticed a wonderful change. By the use of three boxes he was completely cured and the wounds healed up. There has not been a sign of a spot on him since.

"I might also say that my husband was cured of a very bad case of piles by the use of two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is a wonderful Ointment."

Wherever there is itching or irritation of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with every assurance that the results will be prompt and satisfactory.

ASSAILANT DISAPPEARED.

Alfred Bond Seriously Injured by Waiter in Restaurant.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Struck down by a blow on the back of the head, Alfred Bond, 63 Pears avenue, is lying unconscious in the General Hospital. His condition is serious. Bond's assailant, whose name is known to the police, is an employe of Bird's restaurant, at the Exhibition grounds, where the assault took place. He disappeared on felling his victim, but it is expected he will soon be arrested.

Bond and a companion entered the restaurant about 8 p.m. Both were apparently intoxicated. After eating and paying for a meal, they seemed disinclined to leave, and the proprietor had them ejected, but without any violence, as they offered little resistance. It appears from the statements of spectators to the police that the employe followed them out, and, with no provocation, made a cowardly attack on Bond, striking him on the head with his fist. Bond fell unconscious, and, in this condition was removed to the emergency hospital in the police ambulance. The doctors applied restoratives for an hour without result, and he was then removed in the ambulance to the General Hospital.

Bond is a driver employed by A. R. Stanton, dairyman, of Davenport road, and is about 25 years of age. The young man for whom the police are looking is understood to have his home in Unionville, Missouri. It is charged that on Thursday night he made an unprovoked assault on an elderly man outside the restaurant.

Found Toronto Friendly.

Montreal, Sept. 11.—Referring to the recent visit of the members of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce to Toronto Exposition, and the cordial manner in which they were received, La Presse says:

"Up to this date, the nasty manifestations of The News, The Telegram and The Mail against the Province of Quebec, had really led us to believe there was a serious incompatibility of character between the English-speaking people in Ontario and the French-Canadians in Quebec. What a pleasure for us to admit our mistake. There can be no doubt that the Ontarian is quite disposed to fraternize with Quebec.

"We are citizens of the same country, we all feel the same need of promoting its development and greatness, and the serious men of Toronto have made it a pleasure to receive serious men from Quebec, without considering their nationality.

"Under the same British flag, with the same allegiance in our hearts, we are all British subjects and compatriots. This view allows us to deeply despise the criminal but fruitless attempts made by some ambitious journals, who would like to provoke fratricidal divisions, to derive party advantages therefrom."

Ottawa Crop Estimate.

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—A statement of farm crops of Canada at the end of August was issued by the census and and statistics office yesterday. The wheat crop is put down at 168,336,000 bushes, or 21.73 bushels per acre, and barley at 56,975,000 bushels, or 30.55 bushels per acre. The yield of oats is given as 354,919,000 bushels, or 38.15 bushels per acre; rye, 1,708,000 bushels; peas, 8,184,000 bushels; beans, 1,311,000 bushels; buckwheat, 7,794,000 bushels; mixed grains, 19,524,000 bushels; flax, 2,131,000 bushels, and hay, 10,246,600 tons.

The wheat estimate for the three western provinces is 149,285,000 bushels; oats, 187,802,000 bushels and barley, 33,893,000 bushels.

Lay on Track to Sleep.

St. Catharines, Sept. 11.—A strange fatality happened on the local line of the N. S. & T. Electric Railway between here and Merritton Thursday night. Robert Cooper, a Merritton man with his wife and family of 12 children, had evidently laid himself down on the railway tracks to sleep. In the shadow the motorman did not see the man, and the car ran right over him, killing him.

Boy Held for Assault.

Kingston, Sept. 11.—James McManus, a 17-year-old employe of the Locomotive Works, is held by the police, accused of striking George Snowden, another employe, on the head with an iron bar. Snowden is in the General Hospital, and not expected to live. McManus was remanded for a week.

"THE ETERNAL ROMANCE"

One of Pathe Freres' best and most beautifully coloured films. It tells a story of the love of two young people and how they are disappointed and how thirty years after two of their children fall in love with one another and are nearly disappointehd also in their love until it is discovered that their parents were old lovers thirty years before. The story is well told on the curtain, the colouring could not be better and it should please you.

"A MOTHER'S SORROW"

A most pathetic story telling of the intense love of a mother for her son and how he broke her heart through his love for a useless sweetheart and how he tries to redeem himself when too late.

ANOTHER TALE ADDED TO BITTER DISPUTE BETWEEN PEARY AND COOK

New York, Sept. 13.—Wireless despatches last night told of Dr. Cook's homeward journey on the steamer Oscar II., gaily decorated in his honor. He mingled freely with the passengers, and at luncheon related more of his experiences. The Oscar II. is due in New York Sept. 21.

Commander Peary is still in the vicinity of Battle Harbor, Labrador, where the Roosevelt is being repaired before her trip to Sydney, N.S.

Despatches from Paris indicate that France would not be averse to acting as mediator in the dispute, being peculiarly fitted for this task as an unprejudiced nation.

A cable from Peary to certain newspapers saying that "Cook has simply handed the public a gold brick," and claiming proof for the statement, has added fuel to the personal warfare.

Seized the Supplies.

Copenhagen, Sept. 13.—A remarkable letter, giving Dr. Frederick A. Cook's version of the trouble with Commander Peary over supplies, appears in the newspaper Politiken. The letter was written by Dr. Norman Hansen, a prominent Danish physician, who several times visited Greenland to study eye diseases.

Dr. Cook told practically the same story to one of his closest American friends just a week ago, before Commander Peary re-appeared on the scene.

Dr. Hansen was with Cook for some time in Greenland, and returned with him on the Danish Government steamer Hans Eged. In his letter he says:

"Now that Dr. Cook is gone, I am no longer under any obligation to keep silence, and I will air my right to publish the story about the house in Annatok, a story which Dr. Cook himself had too much delicacy to relate to the world. I write it according to my memory, in the same manner that Dr. Cook in agreement told it to me, and I am fully convinced that in no details are my recollections wrong.

"Dr. Cook had built his house for stores in Annatok, north of Etah and it was this depot which he started to reach in February, 1909, crossing Smith Sound. It was a pretty large house, the wall being built of heavily filled provision boxes, so that Dr. Cook knew that when this important point was reached everything was safe. He had, before the start, arranged with a young friend named Whitney that he have the right to use the house while hunting musk-ox for sport, in the winter of 1908-09.

"When Dr. Cook and his two Eskimos, exhausted and half starved, came within a shot's distance of the house in Annatok, young Whitney came out to bid him welcome, but inside the house was a stranger, giant Newfoundland boatswain, on watch. This man had been placed in Dr. Cook's house by Peary, when the latter passed Etah with his ship bound north, Peary had given the boatswain a written order, which commenced with the following words:

"This house belongs to Dr. Fred. A. Cook, but Dr. Cook is long ago dead, and there is no use to search after him, therefore, I, Commander Robert E. Peary, instal my boatswain in this deserted house."

This paper the boatswain, who could neither read nor write, exhibited to Dr. Cook, and the latter took a copy of this wonderful document. Dr. Cook gave me a lively account of how the young millionaire, Mr. Whitney, during the whole winter, was treated like a dog by the giant boatswain, and how he had calmly witnessed the sailor bartering Dr. Cook's provision for fox and bear skins for himself.

'Dr. Cook also had to put a good face on the unpleasant situation. He had to see his own house and had to make a compromise with the boatswain with strong fists.

"Dr. Cook made a present of the house with all its contents to his two faithful Eskimos, with the proviso that Whitney was to have the use of the house as long as his hunting trip lasted, but he was compelled to let the Newfoundland boatswain continue his watch.

"Now, I suppose the sailor will celebrate his triumphal entrance into New York harbor aboard Peary's ship, while Whitney is, where? Aboard his own yacht Jeannet, or perhaps he has not waited to wait for his own boat and has gone aboard Peary's ship.

"To Mr. Whitney, Dr. Cook gave his instruments and his observations, as he thought these precious things were safer there than on the long sled trip in the spring across Melville Bay, but all his note books and greasy and soiled record books, which have been so closely written upon, he kept and carried with him.

"But what is the record to us? The two men, Peary and Cook, their character, their conduct, that is what interests us, and every little item throwing a side light upon their nature is valuable."

No White Man With Peary.

New York, Sept. 13.—The surmise that Peary was unaccompanied by a white man or anyone who could check his reading of the sun, when it told him he was at the North Pole, proves to be correct. It is stated now, that the only three men in his party who could take altitudes were sent back with supporting parties or because of frost bites, and that only five men went with Peary beyond the 88th degree. These were Hansen, a negro, who had been with Peary as a kind of man Friday on previous expeditions, who has always been useful, and four Eskimos.

HARRIMAN WAS BURIED YESTERDAY WITH ONLY FRIENDS AT THE FUNERAL

Arden, N.Y., Sept. 13.—Through the quiet aisles of the Ramapo Woods the body of Edward H. Harriman was carried yesterday from the great house he never lived to see finished and laid in its resting-place on the Arden hillside.

The rulers of Wall Street came from New York to pay their last tribute, but the most prominent part in the funeral ceremonies was taken by the men who knew him best as a country squire, master of the great estate which covers 43,000 acres of hill and valley in this, the most rugged part of Orange County.

His general superintendent, his master mason and the managers and assistant managers of his dairies, his farms, and his trotting stables, were the men who bore his coffin, and the services were led by his own chaplain.

The funeral was private and only friends of the family who had received invitations from Mrs. Harriman were admitted. Those present included: Hon. B. B. Odell, jr., and wife; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Perkins, Maxwell Ewarts, James Stillman, Jacob H. Schiff, F. D. Underwood, W. V. S. Thorne and Robert S. Lovett.

The first service was holy communion celebrated at 10 a.m. by Rev. J. Holmes McGuinness for Mrs. Harriman and children at their home on Tower Hill.

At 11 o'clock came a public memorial service at St. John's Church for the employes of the estate and parishioners of the church. The Harriman family pews were left vacant.

Elaborate precautions were taken to preserve the privacy of the afternoon service. Several scores of employes, aided by a number of uniformed police from Tuxedo, guarded all roads over which the funeral procession passed from the house to the church and kept watch at intervals of twenty yards around the patch of woods, which includes the Harriman burial plot.

ITALIAN BOSS IN THE COAL MINES AT SYDNEY FOULLY MURDERED

Sydney, Sept. 13.—Max Petrission of Dominion mine No. 1 was foully stabbed to death by Joe Nash in an Italian shack at No. 2 Saturday afternoon. Petrission is the padrone at No. 1, and has from the commencement thrown his influence into the scale for the company. A number of striking foreigners were moving, and Petrission drove there Friday afternoon to purchase some of their furniture. He entered the shack, leaving his rig outside, and entered into conversation with the men gathered there. Being strikers, the conversation turned to the respective merits of the United Mine Workers' Association and the Provincial Workmen's Association. Petrission was sitting on a chair when Nash, an Indian, who had espoused the U.M.W.A. cause, leaned forward and plunged a knife into the upper part of Petrission's leg, inflicting a severe wound. Petrission ran outside, clambered into his rig and drove to the residence of Dr. McKeen, who did all in his power for the injured man. Petrission was then removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where it was found one of the large arteries of his leg was severed. It proved impossible to stop the bleeding, and about nine o'clock the man died. After inflicting the injury, Nash ran away, and was seen to go in the direction of No. 3. Since then all trace of the murderer has been lost. When last seen he was wearing a brown suit and a brown cap. The murderer is about five feet five inches in height, dark complexion and clean shaven. He was arrested some time ago for carrying loaded weapons, but the case was dismissed. He has been in the country several years and speaks broken English. Chief Ingraham was notified of the occurrence, and promptly with a number of his men set out in search of the man.

Human Skeleton Found In Woods Near Springville

Geo. Bidgood, a Farmer, Makes a Gruesome Discovery---Absolutely No Clue to the Identity Of the Remains Which Must Have Been Where They Were Found for a Year at Least---Body May be That of a Woman.

A sensation was caused at Springville yesterday morning when Mr. Geo. Bidgood, a farmer living close to that village came across the skeleton of a human being while searching a strip of woods on George Campbell's farm for a lost pig. The body had evidently been where it was found for a long time and there is absolutely no clue known to the authorities as to the identity of the remains. Nothing was found around the body to indicate who had met a tragic death and there is no information as to anyone being missing in the neighbourhood.

The skeleton was found just east of Kendry siding on the C.P.R. and about thirty yards from the north side of the railway fence. The remains were discovered among the branches of a large pine tree which was felled a year ago last winter by Matthew Clark.

The body was clad in man's clothing but the coat had been removed and was underneath the skeleton. The rest of the clothing consisted of a striped shirt, a vest of rough texture, a pair of black tweed trousers with a pair of No. 6 shoes.

The body was lying on its back against the limb of a tree, the right leg being slightly bent upwards at the knee while the left leg was straight. The remains were in a bad state of decay, the head having fallen off, while the arms were separated from the body, the left being extended and the right close to the side. A portion of the skull which had been exposed to the weather had been bleached white on the outer part, there being a quantity of short hair.

In the palm of the right hand lay a white handled razor with a tuft of hair on the heel and a few feet away was a can of Paris green which had been opened but which was in a good state of preservation.

A careful search of the pockets revealed $4 in bills, some Dominion Bank and others so badly damaged that only the word "Montreal" could be deciphered. There was in addition 90 cents in silver, a pipe, a package of tobacco and a jack knife.

Coroner Dr. Gray was notified of the discovery and drove down to the scene where he empanelled a jury from those around. After viewing the body the inquest was adjourned indefinitely as the authorities have absolutely nothing to go into the case, although a careful investigation will be made.

A strange feature about the case is that Dr. Gray states that the body may be that of a woman despite the male clothnig. The teeth would indicate this and there are other reasons for coming to the same conclusion.

There are strong suspicions of foul play, especially should the remains prove to be those of a woman. The position the body was found in makes it clear Dr. Gray state that the person could not have fallen that way had he or she cut her throat with the razor found. It looks rather as if the body had been placed in the position found, by somebody else.

It is considered remarkable that the skeleton was not recovered long before yesterday as the spot where it was discovered has been frequented by berry pickers durnig the past summer.

VERDICT IN SPRATT CASE

Death Was Caused by a Ball Fired From a Rifle in the Hands of Jacob Smith.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Lindsay, Sept. 13.—Tthat the death of Dominic Spratt was caused by a ball fired from a rifle in the hands of Jacob Smith, on Sept. 3rd, 1909, was the findin of the Coroner's inquest held this morning. Dr. Wood, Coroner presided, and the evidence of several witnesses was taken. The inquest was held very much against the will of the parents of the deceased boy.

SUCCESSFUL ADMINISTRATION.

One of the stock charges of the Conservatives against the Liberal Government of the Dominion is that of extravagant and wasteful expenditure and inefficiency. A very little examination of the conditions will serve to show that such charges are not justified. When Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power, he gathered about him some of the most capable statesmen in the country. What was the result? Manufacturers were flooded with business, farmers became contented, and prosperous; the northwest was peopled by sturdy cultivators of the soil; the public debt was kept on an even basis; the revenue increased, and from that day to this no charge of corruption has ever been made against any member of the Government. In 1900 the people saw it was good to let Laurier go on with his work. In 1904 they issued to him a mandate to build the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and in 1908 they said to him "go on and finish your work."

The money of the people has been carefully guarded, and considering the magnitude of the business transacted the vast number of national improvements effected, and the endless detail connected with each department, it must be the occasion for congratulatio nthat after thirteen years the Opposition can only present to the people a few instances in which it is thought that too high prices were paid for goods supplied to the Government, and these prices were paid upon the certificate of officials of Conservative appointment, that the "prices paid were fair and just." The Government have offered every facility for the most thorough investigation into the public accounts, but so thorough is the system of supervision exercised by the Auditor-General that overcharges and excessive prices are easily detected. It may truthfully be said that financial affairs have been economically and wisely administered since Wilfrid Laurier became Premier of Canada.

The affairs of the Dominion, whose importance is constantly increasing, cannot be administered without a reasonable increase in expediture. As the country expands and develops the demands for public works and improvements multiply, and must be reasonably met. When the Liberals assumed office they found, as the result of mismanagebent a general stagnation in business circles, arising from a want of confidence in the Conservative Government, the members of which had so little confidence in each other that they were conspiring among themselves for the premiership. After the Liberals took office this sentiment gave place to one of security, and the result was manifest in a stimulus to every branch of trade the like of which the country had never seen.

It is true that the expenses of the country have largely increased, but not out of proportion to the increased responsibilities, or the greater volume of business transacted. This feature of the case is overlooked by the Conservatives when criticizing the Gov-

Womanly Health

How to Preserve It

The good looks of every woman depend largely upon the proper working of her stomach and other internal organs.

If your stomach is strong and digestion is good, the cheeks flush with color, eyes dance and sparkle, breath will be pure, and your hair smooth and glossy.

Let indigestion creep in, and the skin becomes sallow and rough, pimples break out, eyes get dark circles, ill-breath is all too apparent.

Get the stomach toned up with Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they increase the secretion of the gastric juices, promote vigorous digestion, increase the supply of blood, and thereby invigorate the entire system.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

CURE WOMAN'S ILLS.

The system is quickly won back to a normal healthy condition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and every girl or woman who uses this remedy will show it in a clear, wholesome complexion and a sound healthy body. Sold in 25c boxes by all dealers.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

So certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) E. THODY.

ernment expenditures. Examine this a moment. In 1896 the total trade of the country was $239,025,000, and the total revenue $31,618,590. The deficit was $330,551. In 1908, the total trade of the country was $650,793,000 and the total revenue $96,500,000, and the surplus was $19,000,000. One must judge by the results. If it be extravagance to increase the trade of the country from $239,000,000 to $650,000,000 and show a surplus of $19,000,000 then what should be said of the Conservative Government, which secured a trade of only $239,000,000 and came out at the end of the year nearly half a million of dollars in debt?

If extravagance brings results like this the people would welcome more of it. The money of the people is well spent if it encourages trade, and provides easy channels for commerce. A Government that can do this and show a large surplus, is a better Government than one which spent less, but failed to stimulate trade, and could not meet its obligations at the end of the year. By judicious expenditure the Liberal Government have stimulated every branch of industry, and made necessary extra transportation facilities, and more buildings for the public convenience, thus adding to the public expenditure in a legitimate manner. The Government, while not unmindful of their obligations in administering the revenue for the benefit of the people as a whole, have conducted affairs honestly and economically, with due regard to the necessities of the public service.

Members of the Conservative party, seeking to gain power, and the party press seeking the spoils, unite to discredit the present Government, but the task is beyond their joint power. The few extracts from recent political history cited above, are sufficient to remind them of this. Had the present Government been unfaithful, recreant to trust, incompetent or in any other manner deserving of public censure, it would be a question for the electors to determine whenever opportunity offered, as to the wisdom of sending to Parliament a supporter of the Government. The facts, however, are strong and must be faced. The people know the political history of the country, they know the public record of the men who claim to be leaders of the party seeking office, and the task of reaching a wise conclusion is an easy one. Nothing succeeds like success. The Liberal Government has governed this country for thirteen years, with energy and enterprise. Under its rule Canada has reached a position of unprecedented international importance, and these thirteen years have been years of buoyant prosperity, unbroken by only a brief period of hard times, reflection of a world-wide commercial stringency, and the swing of prosperity is carrying the country forward to-day.

A POLITICAL EARTHQUAKE IN GREAT BRITAIN.

(London Nation).

Something like a political earthquake has passed over the land, which has almost submerged tariff reform, and left the budget the most conspicuous object in the landscape. A great volume of evidence testifies to its sensational popularity. The Limehouse speech has, perhaps, produced a keener popular interest than any public utterance since Gladstone's home rule orations, or John Bright's addresses to the people of Birmingham. Hundreds of thousands of copies of it have been struck off the press and sold as rapidly as they have been printed, and the total sales have passed three-quarters of a million. From all parts of the country come reports of the complete failure of the hostile agitation. A great protest meeting at Manchester was practically broken up, and Mr. Joynson Hicks' speech abandoned, while from various centres Conservative organizers have seen resolutions carried against them, or only passed by narrow majorities. The editor of the Ulster Guardian writes to the Manchester Guardian to say that the Unionist workmen of Ulster support the land taxes, and that many of their leaders are with them. A weight of testimony, indeed, confirms the wisdom of the Daily Mail in withdrawing its forces in time from a lost cause. It seems probable that, though the Lords may not throw out the budget, an appeal to the country will not be delayed much beyond the opening of the New Year.

THE VALIDATING STATUTES

The Sun does not oppose the scheme of the Provincial Government to take the control of electric energy out of the hands of collective capital. If the community is persuaded that electric energy should not be exploited by companies, it only remains to try its confidence by practical experiment. Success will be its justification. The Sun does not find the most ambitious scheme of public ownership necessarily in conflict with any principle to which it is wedded.

We have been disturbed by the methods by which Mr. Whitney has sought to hurry the new enterprise into effect. He has made mistakes, which ought to have been avoided, serious mistakes for which he merits severe reproval. In a new venture like this as in all matters of government, the Prime Minister was bound to follow not only the letter of the law but its spirit and the hitherto unchallenged traditions of British justice. It may be that there are here as well as in England precedents for what are called the validating statutes. If there are, they ought not to have been followed. It may be that under our constitution the Legislature is supreme and above the law and Magna Charta and all traditions of justice, that it can close the door of the court and do what it will with the property and rights of citizens. If so, it ought not to have declared valid a contract which, as Judge Anglin found, the municipality of Galt never made. That was retroactive legislation against which the law for good reasons has always recoiled. It violated local government and it slammed the door of justice in the face of those who may have been injured. Cheap power, important as it doubtless is, ought to have waited till things could be done decently and in good order. Every interest should have been given fair play.

Collective capital is on trial. Let it not be denied justice. It may have made overreaching contracts, but they were solemnly made. If we do not deal justly with capital, it may desert us. The law, wise in its experience, has provided the process of expropriation by which after a full hearing property may be taken at its fair value. That is the only process which the legislature, in the absence of fraud, ought to have countenanced.

On these grounds, Mr. Whitney may be justly criticised without saying a word unfriendly to the securing of cheap power for the people or to the keeping of the latent energy of our rightful owners, the people of this Province.

RESTORING THE FOREST

(Toronto Star)

The reforesting of the older portion of Ontario is a movement of much importance. At a meeting recently held in Cobourg, it was pointed out that there is in the Counties of Northumberland and Durham an area of 15,000 acres of sandy land. This was once covered with a fine growth of pine. After the pine was cut attempts at farming were made, with fair success, certain elements of fertility being supplied by the leaf mould and other matter which always accumulates in a forest. But this covering was soon exhausted; the soil grew poorer and poorer, and finally nothing was left but sand, so fine and dry that it drifts, and covers tracts of good land. Buildings and fences have been allowed to go to ruin. Moreover, the clearing of the land has injuriously affected the sources of streams, the district being the watershed between waters flowing in Lake Ontario and into the Trent River.

The right way to deal with this land is to replant it with such trees as will thrive in a light soil, and thus not only create wealth in timber, but restore fertility and moisture to the earth. It is believed that the land can be bought for $5 an acre; that in sixty years the expense will be $165 an acre and the return $600.

Looking out of the window of a railway car, one often sees fields disfigured with stumps, and apparently yielding nothing. What a difference it would make in the landscape if the stumps were taken out and replaced by young trees. The sale of the firewood from the stumps would yield enough money for the replanting, and the new trees would, before long, become a fresh source of revenue. Thus beauty and utility would go hand in hand, as they often do.

At the same time, efforts are being made to encourage the planting of trees in the West, where they serve the purposes of supplying both fuel and shelter. The Dominion Government supplies the trees and pays the express charges. Two and a half million trees were sent out to Western farmers from the Indian Head Station this spring.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARLTON, N.J.—I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or [illegible] I read about Lydia E. [illegible] Vegetable Compound; so I [illegible] it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."—Mrs. GEORGE JOHNS, Box 40, Marlton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured by it of almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I should like to have you or somebody else inform me when the lawns are to be judged in the Horticultural Society competition. This judging has been put off too long already. The lawns have fallen off in appearance and character. The turf has deteriorated, and the flowers, under the chill of September nights and slight frosts, have taken on a draggled and frowsy appearance. The judges will not have a fair chance, as they would have had if called upon to pass judgment when the lawns and bloom were at their best, as they were in August, when the judging should have been done. Why can't we get something done in Peterborough in good time and under some system? It seems to me that if there is to be any more delay the judging might be put off till Christmas.

Yours truly,

Sept. 11th. CITIZEN.

Note—For the information of Citizen it is pointed out, as he will discover, that the lawns are to be judged today, and that the judges are Messrs. Jordan, Cooney, Wise, Stevenson, and Stocker.

YOUR BLOOD IS POISONED

If You Suffer From Headaches or Neuralgia.

Frequent attacks of Headaches or Neuralgia are Nature's warnings of Blood Poisoning. The pain is due simply to the tortured nerves, inflamed by the blood being overloaded with impurities, because of inactive bowels, kidneys or skin.

There is usually chronic Constipation and the foul matter, instead of passing from the body, is absorbed by the blood. The kidneys are not as strong as they should be and fail to filter from the the blood, the necessary amount of impure matter.

Instead of the skin throwing off one and a half pounds of waste matter every day, it [illegible] to do the work, saving [illegible] a pound of this waste to poison the body. Headache powders and pain killers simply numb the nerves and have no helpful action on the organs causing this poisoning of the blood. To cure Headaches and Neuralgia, the blood must be purified, which can be done only by making the kidneys, bowels and skin healthy and active.

"Fruit-a-tives", made from concentrated and intensified fruit juice, is the greatest blood purifying medicine.

"Fruit-a-tives", or "Fruit Liver Tablets", is a scientific cure for Headaches and Neuralgia, and never fails to cure because "Fruit-a-tives" stops the cause of these troubles.

WOLFE AND MONTCALM.

To-day, Sept. 13th, 1909, is the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of the Plains of Abraham, where both commanders, equal in bravery and gallantry, met death, one in victory and one in reverse. This battle, though not mighty hosts were engaged was significant as its issue was the beginning of british supremacy on the northern half of this continent, the substitution of the British system—democratic and industrial—from the French system—national and militarist. The hostility of the rival armies has been forgotten and the battle field holds monuments of the rival commanders, enemies have been moulded into one Canadian homogeny and the parent nations are firm allies, defensive and offensive.

DRUG AND TOBACCO CURE.

We have yet to hear of one failure to cure where a fair trial has been given. Can be given without the person knowing it, is harmless and absolutely without taste. Mother, sister or wife, you would be doing a great work by giving this remedy to some members of your family. We will mail a full month's treatment for five dollars. which has been aply described by a famous physician as "the last word science has spoken" on the subject of such remedial agents, and to which by virtue of its health-giving properties, the name of Vitol—meaning life "health-producer"—has been given.

So potent is its force that it will not only restore the health and vigour which have been lost, but, if persevered in, will in addition impart the highest measure of nervous and physical vigour of which the individual is capable; for there is a maximum capacity of health for everyone, though he may not hitherto have had the fact impressed upon him. PROFITS—There is a good profit in this Ink. There are 12 or 15 Ink Companies in the United States paying dividends of from 12 to 20% per annum.

THE KEARNS INK CO. of Toronto was organized two years ago to manufacture the new CANADIAN WRITING INKS, invented by J. J. Kearns. The past two years has been spent in experimenting and improving quality and to-day it stands among the top notchers in the Ink world. This Ink has met with such spontaneous approval from users, and the trade has shown such willingness to buy in quantities, that the managers deem it wise to enlarge their operations and make a big staple business enterprise out of this Company, hence offer to the public. The total capital is only $40,000, so that you can see that this is no inflated and watered wild cat scheme, but a first-class legitimate investment offered to you—one where a dollar invested today will be worth at least two in a year and will pay 10 per cent. income on this.

Some Orders That we Received as to the Sale of Kearns' Ink. We found the demand practically without limit; we receiving orders and inquiries far beyond our ability to supply the goods. Orders came from such houses as Parson's Pair Syndicate 17 stores in Ontario, Central Business College, Ontario Government, King Edward Hotel, Grand Trunk Railway Co., National Trust Co., Toronto Railway Co., Separate Schools of Toronto and Peterboro', Imperial Accident & Guarantee Co., Central Canada Loan & Savings Co., Consumers Gas Co., Toronto Elec. ## WEDDING BELLS

McLAREN—BERRY.

A very pretty wedding took place in Centreville Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, Sept. 8th, at 1 p.m., when Miss Mattie Evangeline Berry, daughter of Deputy-Reeve Mr. George P. Berry, of Cavan, was united in marriage to Mr. William Glenroy McLaren, a prosperous merchant of Souris, Manitoba.

The church was beautifully decorated. The bride was given away by her father and entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Maggie Berry, sister of the bride. The bride looked handsome in a Princess gown of cream Duchess satin, tulle veil, and carrying an ivory bound Bible. She wore the groom's gift, a beautiful necklace and sunburst of pearls. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Edna M. Evans, of Norham, who was gowned in pink silk. Mr. William A. O'Brien of Milbrook, ably assisted the groom. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. A. McKenzie, B.A. The ushers were Mr. James Campbell and Mr. Fred Anderson.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a sheaf of pearls and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links.

After the ceremony a reception was held at "Glenhurst," the residence of the bride's parents, where the guests partook of a dainty dejeuner, served on the beautiful and spacious lawn.

The bride was the recipient of many valuable gifts. Mr. and Mrs. McLaren took the 5 p.m. train for Stony Lake and other points of interest. After a short visit among friends in Western Ontario the happy couple will go to their home in Souris.

They carry with them the best wishes of a large circle of friends for future prosperity and happiness.

Mrs. McLaren was a graduate of Nicholls' Hospital Training School for Nurses, and has very many friends in Peterborough.

OBITUARY.

GLADYS MANLEY.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manley, Otonabee, will sympathize with them in the loss they have sustained by the death of their eleven months' old daughter, Gladys.

The funeral took place last Tuesday afternoon, to the Little Lake cemetery, Rev. Mr. Johnston, of Keene, conducting the service.

CURE FOR WHOOPING COUGH

Mrs. William Ball, Bracebridge, Ont. writes: "My three boys had whooping cough and we could get nothing to help them until we used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept on improving until they were cured at the cost of one dollar. This was not a large bill for so dangerous and distressing an ailment."

HAVE PURCHASED BRADBURN PROPERTY FOR AN ORPHANAGE

Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation Buy House and Two Acres of Land on London Street —Deal Consummated on Saturday.

$17,000 PAID FOR IT

The Bradburn Homestead with two acres of land on London street, running back to McDonnell street, has been purchased by the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation of Peterborough, the deal having ben consumated on Saturday. The price paid was $17,000. The house will be used as an Orphanage, the government refusing to allow children betwen the ages of two and sixteen to remain in the same building with old people. At the present time there are a large number of children staying at the House of Providence and the government inspector on his last two visits stated that another place must be procured for the children or else the government grant would be stopped.

The corporation was therefore obliged to build a new home but a building could not be completed for a year, thus t was thought best to look around for a suitable place with the above result.

The new property is one of the best in the city, well built and with plenty of ground. The new owners will take possesion in about a month.

THE GRANDSTAND IS BEING REBUILT FOR THE FAIR

Superintendent J. J. Bennett and a large saff of men are at work at Exhibition Park preparing the grounds for the Industrial Exhibition. Many improvements are being carried out and the grounds will be in better shape than ever before. The roof of the main building is being changed and the walls tightened so that it will be perfectly dry. The grandstand is also being rebuilt and strengthened in order to accommodate the big crowds that will occupy it on Friday and Saturday. Other improvements are being carried out which will add to the comfort of Fair visitors.

The merchants of Peterborough should decorate their places of business for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this week and indicate to the many visitors in the city that they appreciate the Exhibition and the efforts of those who have been working so faithfully in its interest. Nearly every merchant has a supply of bunting and flags for decorative purposes and should help things along by using them this week. The cost will be small and the results should more than recompense for the little outlay. Let the visitors see that you are in sympathy with the Fair and are doing your share to make it a success.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE WAS OPENED SATURDAY NIGHT

The Grand Opera Opera season of 1909-10 was opened on Saturday night with the Morrison production of Goethe's immortal tragedy "Faust," with Geo. S. Trimble as Mephistopheles. The supporting company was very strong and the production throughout was excellent. The scenic investure was especially successful, the awe inspiring Brocken scene being effectively worked out.

The acting of the Company was very commendable and the large audience thoroughly enjoyed the offering, which was one of the best presentations of "Faust" ever seen here.

It is not necessary to say anything about the play itself. Its details are known to every theatre goer, and it is sufficient to say that the company gave a most artistic interpretation of the drama.

Incidentally, the opening gave the local theatre-goers an opportunity to see the improvements that had been made in the house during the summer, and the result was a distinct surprise to the patrons who were delighted with the enterprise shown by Messrs. Turner & Sons.

NEW LODGE OF TRUE BLUES FORMED AT HALL'S BRIDGE

What proved to be a very profitable meeting to the Loyal True Blue Association took place on Saturday evening, Sept. 11th at Hall's Bridge when one more Lodge was added in this district. When the Brethren that went up from the City arrived they found the members already in their hall and ready for the ceremony. This new branch of the Order is in the best of condition. Besides owning their hall and furniture they have a large bank account for the treasury, possibly the most wealthy Lodge in the country. They were all prepared for the opening of the Lodge and have a banner costing one hundred dollars and some expensive instruments, and to say they know how to entertain visiting members is a very mild term. After the organization had been completed, the officers duly elected and installed, the members and visiting brethren sat down to a neat and tasty luncheon and after hearty good wishes to each the meeting was brought to the close, having been very profitable in every way. Bro. M. E. Ketchesen, District Organizer is much pleased over the prospects in this lodge and has never presided over a meeting where more agreeable and earnest endeavours were put forth. A Lodge for Ladies is being organized also at the same village and it is expected the night of organizing the Local Lodge of the City will go up in hacks to assist in the opening.

Two Dummer Men Were Each Fined $13.60 For Assault

Two residents of Dummer were each fined two dollars and costs, amounting in each case to $13.60 for assaulting another one of their fellow villagers. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the complainant. The case came up before Magistrate Dumble, in the county police court this morning at eleven o'clock. The accused pleaded guilty and the above fines were imposed.

TWO FAMILIES HAD ALTERCATION

That Resulted in a Police Court Case This Morning.

An exciting case was heard in the police court this morning resulting from an altercaion that took place between two families in the South end of the city, on Friday evening last. A woman was charged with striking a young girl. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the accused and pleaded not guilty. Mr. A. P. Poussette was present on behalf of the complainant. Several witnesses were heard for both sides, the evidence being of an extremely contradictory nature.

The complainant stated that the accused struck her in the face making her nose bleed. This was corroborated by two other persons who claimed to be present at the time.

The defendant swore that the young woman and her mother were continually calling her and her daughter "dirty things." She told her that it must stop. She denied having struck her.

Several persons were called, who were eye witnesses of the affair. They stated that there was considerable talk but no blows were struck.

BIG MUSICAL ATTRACTION THURSDAY EVENING

PHAMIE LOCKART,
In "The Burgomaster."

The Grand Opera House Theatre will offer one of the best season's musical bookings next Thursday in a special engagement of that comic opera success, "The Burgomaster," with the famous player, Harry Hermsen, in the principal part. Everything has been done to make the present revival of this the best of all the Pixley and Luder's successes an innovation, and anager Wm. P. Cullen, under whose able direction the present tour is given, has surrounded the principals with an excellent singing company. The third act has been entirely rewritten by the authors and the piece has been brought right up to date with several new musical interpolations supplied "The Burgomaster" will come as a welcome announcement. The engagement is for one night only and the seat sale opens Tuesday, Sept. 14th, at 9 a.m.

POST CARD COLUMN.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I want to ask about a Buck Moose, as. I am always anxious to know more; the old saying is that the longer you live the more you will know. The other day I saw a piece in the paper saying a Buck Moose will not attack a man unless out of season, or man having no license. Kindly let me know if this is so. Then I will know what to do if I ever meet one.

It's Dan Wants to Know.

Work Is To Commence In Spring On New C.P.R. Line

The new branch of the much-talked-of C.P.R. from Coldwater to Peterborough through Lindsay is now assured and work will commence on the construction of the road early next spring.

The final revised plans of the location through the township of Eldon were filed in the local registrar office with Mr. C. D. Barr a few days ago.

The plans for the other sections of the railway will in all probability be filed in the course of a few months when everything will be in readiness for the commencement of the new railway.

The Proper Name

The official title of the proposed railway is the Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway, but it will be constructed and operated by the C.P.R. It is to be constructed as a first-class passenger and grain route from Georgian bay to Peterborough, where it will connect with the main line of the C.P.R. The official and final plans now in the registry office are the location plans upon which the purchases of property will be made, and it is expected that the company will send men to Eldon township at once for the purpose of purchasng the land they require for the railway.

Survey Changed

The first survey of the proposed railway was registered by Surveyor Gourlay, of Lindsay, three years ago, but the recent survey made by Mr. Killaley and Chief Engineer Darling changed the route considerably, and gave the roadbed more grade.

Midland Abandoned

It was first proposed to construct the road from Midland to Peterborough but the C.P.R. were blocked in Midland by private parties who attempted to hold the company up for enormous sums for their property. so they decided to build the road from Coldwater which has a fine harbour.

Near Box Factory

The railway will pass through Lindsay a few rods north of Carew's box factory, where a huge steel bridge will be erected high enough to allow all steamers to pass underneath it.

The plans registered recently show the exact course the railway will be constructed upon through the township of Eldon. It enters the township of Eldon at the north-west corner of lot 17, on the 1st concession and runs easterly and southerly to the east boundary line of Mariposa which is on the 12th concession.—Lindsay Warder.

Revolution In Tailoring During The Fall Season

This fall will see quite a revolution in tailoring in Canada. Worsteds, for a long time the favourite for autumn trade, will be superseded by tweeds, mostly of the fancy variety. This does not mean that worsteds will be entirely done away with, but that they will play second part to tweeds. There is no particular reason for this change, except fashion's decree, which decided that the day of the worsted for a time was done.

The freaky style of suits that came into vogue about two years ago are to be entirely done away with, as far as the fashionable tailor is concerned. There was a strong feeling against these styles last season, though they were worn. In cloth of cheaper grades, these styles will, to some extent, prevail.

No More Cuffs on Sleeves.

"It is high time that these cuffs on the sleeves and pockets were abolished" said a prominent tailor. "They wer used on a modification of what was supposed to be the New York style, though there was not very much similarity in the designs. This season the turned-up cuff at the bottom of the trousers will have few wearers. The sack coat will be about the same length as last year, the three button coat being largely the favourite. The striking feature of the coats will be their exceeding lack of decoration of any kind.

"The pegtop trouser will not be used at all this year. Instead they are being made very fully the whole length.

Demand For Plaids.

"There was an effort last year to bring in some better class plaids, which was unsuccessful, and there will be none this year, though in the case of the cheaper lines, I expect there will be a fairly good demand.

"In regard to overcoats the only change that will be introduced will be in the case of the semi-fitting coats. These coats were fairly popular last year, though they only look well on a big man. This season they will be made to fit more from the shoulders to the knees, and from the knees downwards, they will be given lots of flare. Melton will be a popular line, as usual. In fact, Melton is always a staple. Beaver will not meet with the same demand as in former years."

A NEW SECURITY AND AN OLD BUSINESS

Offering by A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, of Securities of F. N. Burt Company, Limited.

In the advertising columns of today's Examiner, A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, of Toronto, offer 7 per cent. Cumulative, Convertible Preference shares of F. N. Burt Company, Limited, with a bonus of 20 per cent. of the amount of the Preference stock in common shares.

Messrs. Ames & Co. have a long record as an issuing house, and the various public flotations they have made during the last twelve years have all been fully taken by the public. Their last public offering made in July last, jointly with Mr. R. Forget, of Montreal, was of 15,000 shares Common stock of Duluth-Superior Traction Co., in connection with which subscriptions were received for over 26,000 shares. That issue was made at $61 a share, and the market price has ruled several points higher ever since.

The firm intimate that they have carefully examined the basis for the Burt Company securities now offered, and recommend purchases from the standpoint of security, dividend return and prospects of profits to the investor. It is expected the shares will have a wide market. Applications for listing on the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges are to be made in due course, and the issue is being thoroughly advertised in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, as well as in the City of Buffalo.

Reference to the advertisement will show that the securities offered relate to old established businesses, which are being rearranged and moderately extended. The well established basis for the securities is indicated in the letter of the Accountants, Messrs. Clarkson & Cross.

ANOTHER INDIAN LIST MAN FINED

Just another blacklisted man had to pay ten dollars for the privilege of being drunk on Saturday last. He appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning, and pleaded guilty. This was his first offence since having been put on the "Indian list," and His Worship imposed the minimum fine. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared on behalf of the prisoner.

FLOWER SUNDAY AT ST. JOHN'S

Interesting Service Held Yesterday in Which Children Played a Prominent Part.

Yesterday was Scholar's Flower Sunday at St. John's and about 250 took part in the special beautiful service in the church at three o'clock, p.m. Led by the choir singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers," class by class the scholars moved in a long procession to the church. The regular Church Service was used up to the Collects after which the floral decoration of the cross began. A large cross was placed at the Altar rail, pierced with hundreds of holes, and fitted up with electric lights. Each scholar placed a white aster in one of the holes, under the guidance of Mrs. R. J. Devey and Miss Maud Rush and presented a bouquet of flowers and money offering. The choirboys led by filling up the centre of the cross and then the tiny tots from four years old commenced at the foot, until with the Bible Class girls, the cross was filled with lovely blooms.

The Rev. Mr. Montgomery of Port Hope gave a most eloquent address taking flowers as his text, and drawing many lessons from them helpful to the Christian life. The service was choral throughout, especially noticeable being the hearty singing of "All Things Bright and Beautiful."

Two tables inside the Altar rails were filled with bouquets, and at the evening service the cross was illuminated, many of the congregation remaining for a nearer view of the floral offerings. The festival was arranged by the Sunday School Superintendent, splendidly aided by all the teachers and officers.

MERGER OF CANADIAN ENAMEL WARE MAKERS

Seeking to Thus Meet American Competition—Has the Peterborough Purity Ware Proposal Any Interest in the Premises?

Important Toronto interests are concerned in the merger of the cast-iron porcelain enamel manufacturers of Canada, which was accomplished in Montreal on Saturday. The consolidation involves the factories making all the porcelain baths, sinks, and other goods of similar character manufactured in this country, the two dominant institutions being the Standard-Ideal Company of Port Hope and the Amherst Foundry Company of Amherst, N.S. The Port Hope plant employs some six hundred men, and about two hundred and fifty mechanics are engaged at the works in Amherst.

The merger was effected through the Royal Securities Company of Montreal, Mr. W. M. Aitken, who has been a prominent figure in a number of large consolidations recently, conducting the negotiations, the representatives of the Amherst concern being Mr. William Knight, the President, and Messrs. Cressman and Luby, directors; Messrs. H. T. Bush and A. Douglas MacArthur represented the Standard Ideal Company. The capital involved in the merger is two million dollars, and it is said that the amalgamation of the factories will permit of specialization in the output of the different plants and will better enable the Canadian manufacturers to withstand competition from the United States. It is said that the consolidation of the Canadian manufacturers has been hastened by the threats of a more formidable invasion of the Canadian markets than has yet been attempted by the big plants on the other side of the line. With the reduction in cost of production which the present merger will bring about, the Canadian manufacturers, whose products upon the basis of quality are already specified by architects in preference to the foreign product, will be able, it is said, to better meet outside competition in the matter of price.

Ran Against Nail In Dark Cellar And Will Lose Left Eye

Mr. George Lancaster, who resides at 247 Westcott street, suffered an injury to his left eye this afternoon, by which he is likely to lose the sight of it. He was entering the cellar of a new house that he is building in the South end of the city. The cellar was dark and Mr. Lancaster not being able to se where he was going, walked against a board, out of which a sharp nail was protruding, the nail entering the left eye.

Dr. T. N. Greer was called and had the injured man removed to Nicholls Hospital, where late this afternoon an operation was performed.

FARM CROPS OF CANADA

Census and Statistics Office Issues Important Statement.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—The Census and Statistics Office yesterday issued a statement of farm crops of Canada, with estimates of production.

The wheat crop is put down at 168,386,000 bushels, or 21.73 bushels per acre, and barley at 56,975,000 bushels, or 30.55 bushels per acre. The yield of oats, which was not estimated last month, is given as 354,919,000 bushels, peas, 8,184,000 bushels; beans, 1,311,000 bushels; mixed grains, 19,524,000 bushels; flaxseed, 2,131,000 bushels, and hay, 10,246,000 tons. Harvesting operations were practically concluded at the end of August, except in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and although there was a scarcity of labour in the Northwest, the fine weather there made the cutting of grain practicable in good condition. The wheat estimate for the three western Provinces is 149,285,000 bushels, of oats, 187,802,000 bushels.

RATEPAYER PROTESTS

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I notice that the Council propose making a thirty years' contract for the street lights. Now, if this be so, I enter a decided protest to such a lengthy agreement. In this age of discovery and invention what would be a wise and expedient course to follow now in a very short time, would be sheer folly.

In view of the increase of information regarding electricity and its capabilities of doing service to man, the probabilities are that in a very few years the price of electricity will be materially reduced. In view of the changed condition of the city, as time rolls by, much shorter agreements are to be preferred, possibly a ten years' limit would be long enough, and then the contract could be renewed in view of the then existing conditions.

RATEPAYER.

WHAT IS ITCH DIRT?

It is the old Anglo-Saxon name for Dandruff and it's a good one. If you have dandruff you have itch dirt and the little microbes that are part and parcel of dandruff are working persistently night and day and sooner or later will reach the very life of your hair and destroy its vitality.

Then you'll be bald—Bald to stay—for not even the wonderful rejuvenating properties in Parisian Sage can grow hair after the hair bulb or root is dead. Parisian Sage cures Dandruff, Wm. ## SIXTY MILLIONS MORE.

This Is Increase In Grain Yield In Canada This Year.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—A supplementary crop bulletin issued by the census and branch shows that, as compared with last year, Canada's crop yields shows a remarkable increase.

Of wheat, it is estimated that Canadian farmers will have for sale 168,000,000 bushels, over forty-three million bushels more than last year.

The oat crop is estimated at 345,919,000, an increase of over eighty-four million bushels.

There is also an increase of over seven million bushels in the production of barley.

The only province which does not show a substantial increase in the yield of wheat, oats and barley is Ontario.

It is estimated that the wheat crop of the west will exceed last year's crop by forty-five million bushels. There is a big increase in the production of hay and clover.

The crop should be worth from fifty to sixty million dollars more to the Canadian farmers than that harvested in 1908.

Love-making Stopped.

Detroit, Sept. 13.—An injunction has been obtained by Ernest D. Shove, a Brownstone Township farmer, restraining Lily Burden, 33 years old, who was a school teacher at Flat Rock last year, from making love to Shove's 17-year-old son.

In his petition for an injunction the parent said the teacher had told him his son was dull. He believes now it was a subterfuge to gain access to his company, for in order to assist him in his school work the teacher taught the boy after hours. It is alleged she made considerable progress in gaining his affections.

British Service Takes Marconi.

London, Eng., Sept. 13.—It has just been announced that the Postmaster-General has concluded an agreement with the Marconi Company for the transference to the Government of its wireless telegraph stations in the United Kingdom. The Marconi system has been worked under a license from the postoffice for several years, but it was not anticipated that the Government would take over so soon the stations and plant of the Wireless Telegraph Co.

The agreement gives the postoffice the right to use the wireless system between the mainland and the outlying islands, such as the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands. The arrangement is purely insular and does not embrace transatlantic communication.

No information has yet been given as to the financial terms of transference, but these must, as a matter of course, shortly be laid before Parliament. There can be no doubt that wireless telegraphy at present is only in its infancy and is needful of much development before it can, as an adjunct to the postoffice, be worked with advantage to commercial life.

Lack of Rain Serious.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Manager Saunders of the Bank of Montreal in Mexico, who is now in the city, makes the announcement that no rain has fallen in the Necaska Valley, and that the Mexican Light, Heat & Power Co. have been paying at the rate of $10,000 (Mexican) per day for coal.

Generally the rainy months are June, July and August, but when the banker left for the north on the 31st of August, no rain whatever had fallen in the valley, and the outlook was not at all promising.

Strathcona Not Retiring.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Lord Strathcona, who reached here yesterday from the west, declined to discuss the rumor of his alleged coming retirement from the high commissionership. He said he did not generally discuss such matters, but acted whenever the opportune moment arrived. His lordship did say, however, that he had held the office up to the present time at the earnest solicitation of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who had maintained that the public interest required his presence in London.

Boy Bandits In Pen.

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—To meet two boys, aged 11 and 12 years, serving each two-year terms in the penitentiary at Edmonton, Sask., for highway robbery, was the unique experience of W. P. Archibald, the Dominion parole officer.

One lad organized a gang of boys and fitted them out with revolvers. The children had to be put in the big penitentiary simply because the authorities had no other place for them.

Kingston's Loss.

Kingston, Sept. 13.—Dr. John H. Bell, grand medical examiner, Canadian Order Chosen Friends, moving to Hamilton, was tendered a farewell at home in the city hall, attended by 600 citizens. He was presented with a diamond ring and gold-headed cane. He served two years as mayor, and was medical health officer for several years.

Aeroplane Exhibition for Military.

Jarville, France, Sept. 13.—Roger Sommer, the French aeroplanist, made a spectacular flight here yesterday, in view of 30,000 soldiers who are taking part in the war manoeuvres. He then made another flight, thrice crossing the River Meurthe and soaring over the highways and farms at a speed of 80 kilometers.

Leg Torn Off.

St. John, N.B., Sept. 13.—Saturday night Percy Campbell, six years old, climbed on the back of a carriage and getting his leg caught in the wheel had it torn off at the knee. The thigh bones were also badly broken. The boy is still alive.

Aground In River.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Sept. 13.—For thirteen hours, George Felz and Harry Porter with two companions, were marooned in a small launch on a bar out in the river less than a mile from the point where the river breaks into the turbulant upper rapids.

The boat went aground about 7 o'clock Saturday night, and it was not until 8 o'clock yesterday morning that it was released and the party, half dead from cold and fright, were taken off.

The absence of a wind was all that saved the boat, and its four passengers from being swept over the falls.

Just off the spot where the boat grounded the water is deep and the current very swift. There was a dense fog over the river all night, and even if the launch had lifted off the reef, the men would have been in a worse plight than before, for it would have been a hard matter to make shore with the lights obscured and a mark of only a quarter of a mile between them and the rapids.

All through the night the men kept calling for help, but their voices failed to reach any ear along the shore.

When John W. Broderick, a riverman, went out early in the morning and pulled the craft off the men were in a state of collapse.

Several years ago the Ella H. went aground on the same reef and pounded to pieces.

U. S. Tariff Commission.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 13.—President Taft Saturday appointed the new tariff commission or board, which is to assist him in the execution of the new tariff law, with especial reference to applying the maximum and minimum clauses to nations which are unfriendly or friendly in their tariff relations with the United States.

The new board consists of Prof. H. Emery of Yale, chairman; Jas. E. Reynolds of Massachusetts, now assistant secretary of the treasury, and Alvin H. Sanders of Chicago, at present editor and publisher of The Breeders' Gazette.

Congress appropriated the lump sum of $75,000 to cover salaries and the expenses of the investigation of the commission.

Cattle Poisoned.

Belleville, Sept. 13.—It is reported that some unknown persons have poisoned seven cattle and a team of horses belonging to Thomas Woods, who lives near Sidney town hall, in the fourth concession of Sydney, near this city.

$10,000 Prize For Aeroplane Race.

St. Louis, Sept. 13.—The Aero Club of St. Louis announces a prize of $10,000 for an aeroplane race here the first week in October. Glenn Curtiss has accepted the club's offer of $6,000 for three flights.

Goderich Carries Bylaw.

Goderich, Sept. 13.—The Road-making Machine bylaw in Goderich, Saturday, was carried by a majority of 410.

H. WOOD'S HOWDEN TROPHY KELLY TAKES JUNIOR CUP

Athletic Games at Riverside Park Saturday Were Productive of Good Sport and Were Well Attended---Some Close Finishes Were in Order.

The following is the summary of the showing made by the winners at the Howden-Eastwood Trophies:—

For Howden Trophy...

Hy. Wood, 13 points, winner of Trophy.
S. Canniff, 10 points, Gillette Safety Razor.
V. Corkery and R. Evans were tied for third with 7 points each. Prize, a watch fob.

For Eastwood Trophy...

Egbert Kelly, 19 points, winner of Trophy.
Walter Perks, 12 points, prize-fountain pen.
Rollie Howden, 10 points, prize, sweater.

The Howden-Eastwood athletic contests at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon conducted under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. provided several hours of clean, interesting sport that was enjoyed by a fairly large attendance, not a few of whom were ladies. The weather was perfect and the arrangements for the various events were thoroughly prepared with the result that there were no long or disconcerting delays. In almost every instance the contests were close and exciting and particularly in the sprints. There were two series of events, the senior for whch the Howden trophy was competed and the Eastwood for the junior. The results of the senior were as follows:

100 Yards—First Heat

1, Corkery; 2, Canniff; 3, O'Donnell. Time, 11 4-5 seconds.

Second Heat

1, Wood; 2, Jones; 3, McCarrell. Time, 11 2-5 seconds.

Final

1. Hy. Wood.
2. V. Corkery.
3. M. McCarrell. Time 11 seconds.

220 Yards—First Heat

1, Evans; 2, O'Donnell; 3, Holland. Time 25 seconds.

Second Heat

1, Corkery; 2, Wood; 3, Cahill. Time 23 seconds.

Final

1. Hy. Wood.
2. V. Corkery.
3. Dick Evans. Time 25 4-5 seconds.

One Mile

1. George Robinson.
2. J. McMartin.
3. J. O'Donnell. Time 5 min., 29 seconds.

Putting 12 lb. Shot

1. S. Caniff, 35 ft., 11 in.
2. Sturgeon, 34 feet.
3. W. Grady, 31 ft., 11 in.

Running High Jump

1. S. Caniff, 4 ft., 11 in.
2. Hy. Wood.
3. Dick Evans.

Running Broad Jump

1. Dick Evans, 17 ft., 3 in.
2. W. Cahill, 17 ft., 1 in.
3. V. Corkery, 16 ft., 9 in.

In the 100 yards Corkery lost to Wood by a foot after a hard struggle all the way. When the 220 was pulled off these two were again away at the pistol. Wood having a slight advantage, Corkery stumbled slightly over a flag setting him back about six feet. He closed up the gap to within a foot or more but was unable to overtake Wood who ran a fine race. "Stan" Canniff won the putting of the 12lb. shot and the high jump in a clever manner. The latter event was closely contested and was one of the best of the afternoon.

In the senior list there was a half mile open which was won by Charley Thorpe of the Victoria Harriers. He followed Brown around the course until within about twenty feet of the tape. Thorpe was expecting another lap but saw the judges pull up the line for the finish and with a fine spurt passed his opponent a few feet from the mark.

One-half Mile—Open

1. C. Thorpe, coat sweater.
2. Brown, pair of military brushes.
3. H. Lees. Time 2 min., 18 sec.

JUNIOR EVENTS

100 Yards.—First Heat

1, Howden; 2, Kelly; 3, Peoples. Time 11 4-5 seconds.

Second Heat

1, Perks; 2, Phelan; 3, Wright. Time 11 2-5 seconds.

1. W. Perks.
2. E. Kelly.
3. W. Flowers. Time 11 2-5 seconds.

220 Yards

1. R. Howden.
2. E. Kelly.
3. W. Perks. Time 27 seconds.

Open Half Mile

1. N. Phelan.
2. R. Wright.
3. E. Kelly. Time 2 min., 31 sec.

Putting 8lb. Shot

1. Egbert Kelly, 34 ft., 9 in.
2. N. Phelan, 29ft., 1 in.
3. R. Wright, 28 ft., 3 in.

Running High Jump

1. W. Perks, 4 ft., 8 in.
E. Kelly and R. Howden tie.

Running Broad Jump

1. Egbert Kelly, 16 ft., 1¾ in.
2. R. Howden, 16 feet.
3. W. Perks, 15 ft., 5¾ in.

440 Yards—Open

1. R. Howden, pair of skates.
2. Harold Hill, pair of running shoes.
3. W. Flowers. Time 1 min., 9 sec.

Rollie Howden and Egbert Kelly had a great battle for first place in the 100 yards in the first heat, and in the final Perks won with room to spare in front of Kelly who finished second. Howden in the final did not get away with the pistol and did not attempt the race.

The officials were

Judges—J. J. Howden, Vincent Eastwood, H. R. H. Kenner.
Timers—R. M. Glover, H. Clarke.
Referee—D. B. McCrae.
Starter—Fred McGrath.
Clerks—C. Sisson and George Armstrong.

The gentlemen handling the events performed their duties in a capable manner and to their efforts the success of the afternoon was largely responsible.

Resume

The two open events did not count for the trophies.

The points were awarded as follows: five for first place, three for second and one for third. The possible was thirty.

Track Notes

Kelly is a member of the T.A.S. Athletic Club. He entered each of the six events and secured a place in each. His showing was a very creditable one.

Mr. Hassard, of the Y.M.C.A. was present and assisted the officals in handling the sports.

The Y.M.C.A. deserved credit for the splendid sport provided and the manner in which everything was carried out.

Speaking of bouquets, the two gentlemen who have shown their interest in sport by providing the trophies, Messrs. J. J. Howden and Vincent Eastwood, are to be congratulated for the interest they have stirred up in athletics by thus donating these silver cups. The winners hold them for a year, and it is to be hoped that they will alway be contested as keenly as in the past and by as many of the city's young men and boys. The future in fact should bring out greater numbers.

It was regretted that Howden did not get away with the pistol in the final of the boy's 100 yards. He would have been right along with Perks and Kelly in the encounter for the first positions.

Mr. Mark Spencely did not make a hit with the small boys who were kept out of the grounds by his presence as constable. They were on the outside looking in on Saturday and from their conduct as a body this summer at the ball games that is where they should always be. The "urchins" of to-day have been sadly neglected along the line of education in manners.

JOHN SVANBERG REACHES ENGLAND

John Svanberg has reached England from America. He has nothing but praise for his reception in the States and Canada. There are, it is true, he says, the poorest class of sports, who cannot accept defeat, in those countries, as well as in every other corner of the world; but he has found that the general body of sportsmen are as willing to applaud the alien in America as in any other part of the world. He greatly prizes the last trophy he received just prior to weighing anchor in New York, namely, a replica in every respect of the Marathon trophy which Hayes secured at the Stadium. This was handed to him as the gift of an unnamed American admirer as he boarded the liner, and Svanberg accepts it as a tribute to the regard in which the American nation hold the straightforward athlete. It may be mentioned that he was entertained at a great banquet by the Swedish Club in New York before leaving, while there was also a banquet in his honour organized by the New York athletic sportsmen.

"VIC" HARRIERS IN TRAINING

The Victoria Harriers will meet at their Club Room on Park street at 7.15 to-morrow night (Tuesday). They will commence trainng on the road for the Examiner Road Races. All members are requested to turn out, any new members are cordially invited to join the Club. The Vics will also resume their Saturday afternoon runs, commencing from next Saturday afternoon.

STRATHCONAS TO HAVE TEAM IN CITY LEAGUE

The Strathconas will have a team in the Senior City Rugby League and will be represented at the meeting of the League to-morrow night.

This was decided at a meeting of the Strathconas on Saturday, when the Commissioners made up their mind to branch out into a new line of sport. The Straths have since their organization a few years ago, won two hockey championships and a baseball championship, as well, but Rugby is a new one to them. However, Manager Metheral, with his usual aggressiveness, has already rounded up a good bunch of players, and with the material he has in sight, the Straths should be heard from during the season.

RUGBY CLUB'S MEETING

The Rugby teams of the city are again reminded of the meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club to-morrow night at eight o'clock in the orderly room at the armouries, entrance at the south-east corner of the building. Every club that intends to enter either the junior or senior series must be represented to-morrow night as the schedule will be drawn up in order to run off two leagues and have a team in the O.R.F.U. as well, it is necessary that the games should commence as soon as possible and it is likely that the first game will be played on Saturday. Entries for both senior and junior leagues must be handed in to-morrow night.

FARMER SHOT AND KILLED BY HIS DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Harvey Scott, aged 75, was shot and instantly killed by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wesley Scott, at their home, near Thorndale, East Nissouri, at eight o'clock this morning. A neighbour, Jos. Viney, was the first to learn of the tragedy. He was coming from the cheese factory when Mrs. Wesley Scott came running along the road crying, and upon being asked what was the matter, said: "You'll see what I've done when you go over there." He found the old man's body beside his son's house with a bullet hole behind the ear. He notified Dr. Armstrong of Thorndale, and to the Doctor Mrs. Scott said that she had stood the man's tortures long enough and shot him. Dr. Armstrong is of the opinion that the deed was done while the woman was temporarily insane. Harvey Scott lived alone in a house beside that of his son and daughter-in-law. Officers were sent to arrest the woman at noon.

KIDNAPPED THREE CHILDREN THEN SHOT TWO OF THEM

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Three little children, kidnapped last night, were found in the woods near town to-day, one of them, Theresa, 7 years old, was dead; a boy of about the same age, was shot through the arm, and seriously injured, and the third, a sister of the dead girl, was uninjured.

The unharmed child told the police a terrible story. She said a man had lured them away from town and had killed her sister and then had shot the boy. Following her story and a description she gave of the abductor, one arrest was made.

Get The Best Out Of Life
HEALTH AND SUCCESS
By keeping vigor and vitality at the top notch—DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will help you.

Health, strength, beauty, success.

These are the words which tell of a happy, joyous life.

The foundation of each and all is good red blood.

Red blood on which health can build—red blood from which muscles and nerve cells are created—red blood which rounds out the form and gives the healthful glow to the complexion—red blood from which comes energy and vigour of mind and body.

With red blood there is no weakness or disease, no failure and fatigue. Red blood makes life worth living and only when it is present in the system can you get the best out of life.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven an enormous success because it forms new, red blood, from which new nerve and brain cells are created.

When you use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you know for a certainty that each dose is doing you a certain amount of good, because it adds just so much new red blood to the system.

Whether you have become exhausted by disease, overwork, or the depressing effects of spring matters not. The cure is found in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Irritability, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervous headache, anaemia, despondency, and all the dreaded accompaniments of a weak and exhausted system disappear when this great blood-forming system builder is used.

To get the best out of life you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to make you well and to fill you with the energy and vigour which makes for success and happiness. 50 cents a box at all druggists, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The final Club Tennis Tea of St. John's Tennis Club was held on the Oval, Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, with about 35 present. The tea was held after the final games were played in the mixed doubles, for the season, which games resulted in a win by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richardson, of Park street. Two sets were played, the score being 6-4 and 6-3. The contestants were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richardson, Miss Lillian Dean and Mr. Charles Downs. The games of the Club will be continued as long as the weather is favourable, and considerable interest is still being shown at the Oval in the game. The Club has passed through a very successful season, and ends with a much larger membership than ever before.

F. N. BURT COMPANY, LIMITED.

The F. N. Burt Company, Limited, recently formed under the laws of the Province of Ontario, has acquired, as of September 1st, 1909 the businesses of the F. N. Burt Company, of Buffalo, N.Y., manufacturers of small paper boxes; The Morton Company, Limited, and the Merchants' Counter Check Book Company, Limited, of Toronto, together with the Canadian business of the Carter-Crume Co., Limited, the three last named companies being manufacturers of counter check books, or merchants' sales books.

F. N. Burt Company are specialists in paper box making. During the last ten years there has been a striking evolution in the paper box making industry. The local paper box business, which was carried on almost entirely without the use of automatic machinery, has given place to factories employing thousands of people, with skilled labor and improved machinery. A few years ago many articles were wrapped only in paper, which are now sold in cardboard boxes. This applies in most lines of merchandise. Grocers' shelves now show a large proportion of their goods in such boxes, products thus reaching the customer in the same condition in which they leave the manufacturer, while manufacturing and wholesale druggists are conspicuous amongst many other large users of small paper boxes.

Mr. F. N. Burt, of Buffalo, a Director of this Company, and whose experience will be valuable to it, has been a most successful manufacturer of small paper boxes for more than ten years, having manufactured goods of a high class and put his business on a low cost basis. During the last year Mr. Burt has perfected special machines, which have for some months been in practical use as to a percentage of the output. The exceptional value of these machines has been fully proven, and as soon as more of the same style can be installed the average cost of production will be further materially reduced. A number of these machines are now in process of manufacture.

The Burt Company leases one of its factories, but owns the other two, the real estate and buildings being well located and very valuable. The Company has taken them over, subject to small mortgages on a part of the property, totalling $49,000. One of $25,000 is at 4 per cent, and it is proposed to leave this indefinitely. As to the remaining $24,000, which is at five p.c., it is provided that $10,000 shall be paid on May 11th, 1911, with the balance in instalments of $2,000 per annum.

The Burt Company's output has nearly all been marketed in the United States. A small percentage, however, finds its way to Canada, and Mr. Burt has for some time thought of establishing a factory in Canada, believing that it would be profitable to do so. Mr. Burt has considered it wise to have factories in three different locations in Buffalo. This is regarded by the present Board as good policy, in view of its being a safeguard against serious interruption of business from fire, and in view, also of the advantage from a labor standpoint.

Toronto, September 10th, 1909.

About 90 per cent. of the business in Canada in counter check books—or merchants' sales books, has been done by the Carter-Crume Co., Limited, The Morton Company, Limited and the Merchants' Counter Check Book Co., Limited. Each of these has maintained separate factories and separate business organizations. These businesses have been successfully conducted for many years, and the uniting of them will effect important economies in both the manufacture and the sale of their products. They also furnish an excellent foundation for the Canadian business of the Burt Company. United, these businesses should ensure, from the beginning, a profitable Canadian factory.

I am of the opinion that the working capital which has been provided will be ample for the requirements of the Company, and that both the paper box and counter check book departments will be very profitable.

Reference to the accompanying certificate of Messrs. Clarkson & Cross, accountants, will show that they estimate earnings for the current calendar year of $119,000. While the Company takes over the businesses named as of September 1st, 1909, it may be mentioned that these estimated earnings would provide $52,500 for a year's dividends on the preference Stock and $66,500, being 8⅞ per cent. on the Common Stock for depreciation charges and Common Stock dividends. It is proposed to retain in the business the proportion of this surplus applicable to the four months ending December 31st next. No dividend, therefore, will accrue on the Common Stock until after that date.

In common with most manufacturing concerns these businesses suffered both in volume and net profits during the year 1908. The profits, however, even in such an unusual year, were substantial, and, I believe, considerably exceeded the average proportionate net profits of manufacturers generally. Recovery has been rapid and sound, and the momentum acquired makes the outlook very favorable.

It is proposed to establish a Canadian factory, in which will be consolidated the plants of the three Check Book Companies while duplicates will be installed of such special machinery now used by the F. N. Burt Company in its Buffalo factories as will be suitable to the growing Canadian market. It is expected that a business of not less than $250,000 will be done by the Canadian factory within two years from its commencement.

From the records through a period of years of the above-mentioned businesses, with which I have been in intimate touch, I am confident that the Company will be able to maintain its dividends on the Preference Stock at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, and that, commencing January 1st next, the Directors will be justified in paying quarterly dividends of 1 p.c. on the Common Stock, being at the rate of 4 p.c. per annum, while prospects are excellent for increases in dividends on the Common Stock from time to time thereafter.

S. J. MOORE, President.

ACCOUNTANTS' STATEMENT

After examination of the Books and Accounts of the F. N. Burt Company, Limited, The Morton Company, Limited, the Merchants' Counter Check Book Co., Limited, and the Canadian business of the Carter-Crume Co., Limited, we hereby certify that the combined profits for the years 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1908 are as follows:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Year ending December 31st, | 1905 | $ 55,112.77 |
| " " " | 1906 | $ 92,646.92 |
| " " " | 1907 | $ 122,690.19 |
| " " " | 1908 | $ 68,390.79 |

Of the above amounts, which total $338,840.67, the net profits of the Burt Company for the four years were $282,447.04, and of the Check Book business $56,393.63.

All expenditures in connection with maintenance and repairs of the property have been charged against profits, and we are of the opinion that ample amounts have been annually written off for depreciation, in addition to the outlays required to keep the works in good condition. Losses from bad debts have averaged less than one-half of 1 p.c. during the past four years.

Net Assets, over and above Liabilities, irrespective of good-will and patent rights, exceed the amount of the Preference Stock.

The computed net profit upon the sales for the eight months of 1909, we find to be $79,543.20. On the basis of this computation, cost experience and volume and character of orders on hand, we feel warranted in estimating net profits for the year 1909 of $119,000. This would provide $52,500 for 7 p.c. dividend on the Preference Stock, leaving $66,500 available for depreciation charges and Common Stock dividend.

Toronto, September 10th 1909. CLARKSON & CROSS

SOLICITORS' OPINION

We have had charge of the formation, under the laws of the Province of Ontario, of the F. N. Burt Company, Limited, and certify that both the Preference and Common shares have been validly issued as fully paid shares, the Preference Shares being preferred as to both assets and cumulative dividend of 7 p.c. per annum, and carrying the right to the holder to exchange the same at any time, share for share, for Common Stock.

THE LITTLE ORPHAN, OR ALL ROADS LEAD TO ROME

A most beautifully told story of the love of a man who has lost both wife and only child, for a poor waif of an orphan who thinks "all roads lead to Rome," and is met by him on the road to Rome. It is a lovely picture for children as well as parents.

MID-WINTER SPORTS

"THE ETERNAL ROMANCE"

One of Pathe Freres' best and most beautifully coloured films. It tells a story of the love of two young people and how they are disappointed and how thirty years after two of their children fall in love with one another and are nearly disappointehd also in their love until it is discovered that their parents were old lovers thirty years before. The story is well told on the curtain, the colouring could not be better and it should please you.

A DOUBLE FATALITY

Water Jacket Surrounding Settler Breaks and Water Coming In Contact With Heat Causes Blow-Up —Three Poles, Eating Lunch, Are Deluged With Molten Metal — Smelter Closes.

Victoria Mines, Ont., Sept. 14.—A fatal explosion occurred in the smelter here at 1.30 on Sunday morning. One man has died and two others have been badly burned. The water jacket surrounding the settler broke, and the contact of the water and the white heat of the settler caused the accident. Three attendants, all Poles, were sitting close by, eating their midnight meal, and were without a moment's warning deluged with molten metal, brick and scrap iron. One man lived until 10 a.m. on Sunday, and died when they were placing him on a special train, provided by the company, to be brought to St. Joseph's Hospital.

A second man was brought to the hospital on the special, but died at 9 o'clock at night. The third man will get better. The flesh of all three was practically roasted off them.

Dr. Patterson of Sudbury was summoned by wire at 2 a.m. and drove out and attended to the suffering, returning on the special with the one taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. It is stated that the wife and three children of Fred Gouin are now going to Victoria Mines to reside. An inquest will probably be held. The Mond Nickel Co. placed every possible facility at the disposal of Dr. Patterson in his efforts to save the lives of the men. The plant immediately closed down, and was not reopened again until to-day, when a few of the officials from England was present.

Rejected Bribe.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—The shoe went on the other foot at yesterday's session of the royal commission enquiring into civic affairs, when Ald. Clerihue, a leading councillor, swore that Mark Workman, a large shareholder of the Montreal L., H. & P. Co., offered him money to vote for the company's tender for the street lighting. Ald. Clerihue said he had declined the offer and given Workman a severe "call."

Anniversary of Wolfe's Death.

London, Sept. 14.—The 150th anniversary of the death of Wolfe was commemorated yesterday at the Church of St. Alfege, Greenwich. A wreath was laid on the grave by members of his old force, the Royal Marines, and Mr. Wolfe Aylward representing the family.

Has a Flying Omnibus.

Paris, Sept. 14.—Francis Laur, a French engineer and inventor, announces the invention of a flying omnibus capable of transporting merchandise and passengers, and he has officially asked the Municipal Council to grant him a franchise for the city of Paris.

AGED MAN WAS SHOT

Mrs. Wesley Scott, Charged With Killing Harvey Scott, Her Father-In-Law—Says She Has Been Threatened and Abused by Him For a Long Time — Husband Is Not Surprised at Deed.

London, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Wesley Scott of the 5th concession of Nissouri, was placed under arrest last evening by High Constable Hughes, charged with the murder of her father-in-law, Harvey Scott, aged 75. She is now lodged in the county jail here.

The shooting took place yesterday morning at 7.30 at the son's home, while the husband was away at a threshing.

Mrs. Scott was observed running down the road and crying by Jos. Vining, about 8 o'clock.

"What's the matter?" he asked, and she replied, vaguely, "You'll see what I have done when you get up there."

Vining found the old man stretched out on the ground at the rear of the house, dead. There was the wound of a 32-calibre bullet behind the ear.

Mrs. Scott admitted to Dr. Armstrong, who was called, and also to Jos. Vining, the first to arrive on the scene, that she had done the shooting. She said that she had been laboring under his threats and tortures for years and could stand them no longer.

On enquiry of the husband, he stated that for years his father had abused him and his wife. Scott showed many marks that he received from blows delivered by the father.

"My father," he said, "used to go to the house and abuse my wife and on many occasions took a club to her. At one time she had him arrested and up in court at Thorndale for beating her. He was fined a small sum and let go."

All the neighbors state that it is a wonder that the woman has stood the old man's abuse as long as she had, and they are all of the opinion that she did the shooting while in a fit of temporary insanity brought on by his constant abuse.

The two families of Scotts live side by side on the 5th concession of West Nissouri, the old man living alone. The other household consists of Wesley Scott, his wife and one daughter, who is about 15 years old. The homes are between two and three miles east of Thorndale.

Mrs. Scott, sr., stated that she was the second wife of the deceased. She said that he had always been a model husband to her; he never abused her.

The son, Wesley, said that his mother had died of heart failure some 22 years ago. The neighbors stated that just before she died a kettle of boiling water had been spilt on her breast, and they went so far as to charge her husband with throwing her out of the loft on two occasions, breaking her leg.

An inquest was opened yesterday afternoon at the Scott home. After viewing the body the inquest adjourned to meet on Friday evening in Thorndale. Coroner Hughes of this city is in charge of the inquest.

Dr. Armstrong from Thorndale conducted a post-mortem examination after the jury had viewed the remains.

The shooting was done with a 32-calibre revolver, which Wesley Scott says has been in their house for years.

"I was surprised to hear that my wife had shot my father. I would not have been surprised had he shot her, as he often threatened to shoot both her and me," he said.

New York's Overcrowded Schools.

New York, Sept. 14.—The public schools of the five boroughs of Greater New York opened yesterday with 60,000 children unable to gain admittance for the full courses. W. H. Maxwell, superintendent of schools, estimates there are no less than 675,000 applicants for enrollment. A half dozen new buildings finished during the summer were opened yesterday, but these seemed to give but little relief.

Western Indians May Vote.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—The Indians of Alberta and Saskatchewan have been placed on the same basis in regard to the exercise of the franchise as the red men of the older provinces. In future an Indian of these provinces who desires the white men's right of voting may qualify for the privilege by cultivating and securing a deed of a parcel of land.

Alderman Sues For Damages.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—Ald. Larviere has issued a writ for $25,000 damages against McLean Wallbank, vice-president and general manager of the Montreal L., H. & P. Co., for alleged slander in his testimony before the royal commission that Larviere had asked $10,000 for aldermanic election expenses in consideration of support for a contract.

ON CHARGE OF LIBEL

Dan MacDougall, Head of Glace Bay U.M.W., Is Taken From House by Detective, Rushed Aboard Special Car, and Taken to Montreal to Answer a Criminal Charge—Officials Reticant.

Glace Bay, N.S., Sept. 14.—The arrest of Dan. Macdougall, local president of the U.M.W., has created consternation in the ranks of the United Mine Workers.

He was taken out of his home Sunday night by a private detective from Montreal, rushed aboard a special car and not allowed communication with any friends. Mine Workers' leaders do not know the exact charge on which Macdougall was arrested, but from information secured from Magistrate MacDonald, who endorsed the warrant, the charge is said to be criminal libel, based on an advertisement in Montreal papers, stating that men should keep away from Glace Bay, as the Dominion Coal Co. will not pay wages promised, and stating that other conditions are unfavorable in the mines here.

Macdougall left Sunday night for Montreal, in custody. His wife was not informed as to his destination, and thought her husband was not going to leave Glace Bay.

The Coal company officials will not speak of the arrest, saying that the head office in Montreal is responsible.

Reaches Montreal To-day.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—Daniel McDougall, the local president at Glace Bay of the United Mine Workers of America, will arrive in Montreal to-day in custody. The arrest is the outcome of a paid advertisement in a Montreal paper, signed by McDougall, warning workmen from taking the places of strikers, the assertion being made that men now employed were huddled in filthy and miserable quarters.

Fruit Societies In Convention.

St. Catharines, Sept. 14.—The Society for Horticultural Science, a subsidiary of the American Pomological Society, opened its sixth annual meeting yesterday, W. A. Taylor, Washington, D.C., presiding. The Pomological Society will open its thirty-first session to-night in St. Paul street Church, when Hon. W. S. Duff, Minister of Agriculture, will welcome the delegates.

Ferry Employe Drowned.

Fort Erie, Sept. 14.—Harry Gown, aged 19, an employe of the International Ferry Co., was drowned last night by falling from the ferry, and Charles Lightheart failed in a desperate attempt at rescue.

Guelph Woman Shoots Herself.

Guelph, Sept. 14.—In an unconscious condition, with a bullet hole in her right temple and a revolver by her side, Mrs. Robert Haugh, wife of Robert Haugh, grocer, was found in the bathroom at her home Sunday afternoon. She never recovered consciousness, and survived but a short time. She had been in poor health.

Grocery Clerk Badly Hurt.

Stratford, Sept. 14.—Fred Sayers, grocery clerk, is in a critical condition as a result of a vinegar barrel rolling down an incline and pinning him against a wall. Two ribs were broken and he has internal injuries.

Myrtle Blacklock, aged 16, was sentenced to 15 months in the Mercer Reformatory for vagrancy.

Boy Burglar Kills Himself.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 14.—Rather than face arrest for burglary, John Washburn, aged 13, who lived with his parents at Hastings, yesterday afternoon turned and fired a shot at a posse of sixteen men who were pursuing him through the woods, then placing the revolver to his head, blew out his brains.

The pursuit followed a burglary committed some time Sunday night, two stores near Fruitport being entered and ransacked, and guns, revolvers and ammunition stolen.

To Lease Kingston Dry Dock.

Kingston, Sept. 19.—As a result of complaints from vessel-owners and the Marine Underwriters' Association, that the Kingston Government dry dock has not the necessary facilities for repairs, thus detaining vessels too long a time, the Public Works Department of the Dominion Government is calling for tenders to lease it.

$500 Reward For Bank Robbers.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—A reward of $500 per man is offered for the arrest of any of the robbers who blew open the Provincial Bank safe at Yamachiche. General Manager Bienvenue is satisfied that they will prove to be the party who robbed the Bank of Nova Scotia at Rainy River some weeks ago.

Blown Into the Street.

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Half a score of persons were injured, several probably fatally, when a boiler in the Larline Baths exploded yesterday. Women patrons were blown through the windows of their compartments into the street, and the building was almost completely wrecked.

THE Princess Virginia

By C. N. and A. M. WILLIAMSON,
Authors of "The Lightning Conductor," "Rosemary in Search of a Father," Etc.

COPYRIGHT. 1907. BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

Through the gate of dreams lies the fair land of romance into which you would travel, finding welcome relief from the daily grind. Now you are invited to accompany the Princess Virginia, who determines that the royal personage who would honor her with his hand must fall in love with her and woo her as any other man would a woman. Therefore she travels incognito in his realm, meeting adventures strange and full of excitement. You will learn with pardonable pride that the American blood in her veins gives her an independence unheard of in the presence of kings, but most of all you will want to know how she succeeds in her bold undertaking. That you will enjoy every minute of the reading is assured by the verdict of thousands who declare "The Princess Virginia" to be a most delightful story.

CHAPTER ONE.

"NO," said the princess; "no. I'm dashed if I do."

"My darling child," exclaimed the grand duchess, "you're impossible. If any one should hear you!"

"It's he who's impossible," the princess amended. "I'm just trying to show you"—

"Or to shock me. You are so like your grandmother."

"That's the best compliment any one can give me, which is lucky, as it's given so often," laughed the princess. "Dear, adorable Virginia!" She cuddled into the pink hollow of her hand the pearl framed ivory miniature of a beautiful, smiling girl which always hung from a thin gold chain around her neck. "They shouldn't have named me after you, should they, if they hadn't wanted me to be like you?"

"It was partly a question of money, dear," sighed the grand duchess. "If my mother hadn't left a legacy to my first daughter only on consideration that her own extremely American name of Virginia should be perpetuated"—

"It was a delicious way of being patriotic. I'm glad she did it. I love being the only royal princess with American blood in my veins and an American name on my handkerchiefs. Do you believe for an instant that if Grandmother Virginia were alive she would let Granddaughter Virginia marry Prince Henri de Touraine?"

"I don't see why not," said the grand duchess. "She wasn't too patriotic to marry an English duke and startle London as the first American duchess. Heavens, the things she used to do if one could believe half the wild stories my father's sister told me in warning! And as for my father, though a most charming man, of course he could not—er—have been called precisely estimable, while Prince Henri certainly is, and an exceedingly good match even for you—in present circumstances."

"Call him a match if you like, mother. He's undoubtedly a stick. But, no; he's not a match for me. There's only one on earth." And Virginia's eyes were lifted to the sky as if, instead of existing on earth, the person in her thoughts were placed as high as the sun that shone above her.

"I should have preferred an Englishman for you," said the grand duchess, "if only there were one of suitable rank free to"—

"I'm not thinking of an Englishman," murmured her daughter.

"If only you would think of poor Henri!"

"Never of him. You know, I said I would be dash"—

"Don't repeat it! Oh, when you look at me in that way, how like you are to your grandmother's portrait at home—the one in white, painted just before her marriage! One might have known you would be extraordinary. That sort of thing invariably skips over a generation."

The grand duchess laid down the theory as a law, and, whether or no she were right, it was at least sure that she had inherited nothing of the first Virginia's daring originality—some of her radiant mother's beauty perhaps, watered down to gentle prettiness, for the hereditary Grand Duchess of Baumenburg-Drippe at fifty-one was still a daintily attractive woman, a middle aged Dresden china lady, with a perfect complexion preserved by an almost perfect temper, surprised eyebrows, kindly dimples and a conventional upper lip.

She was not by birth "hereditary." Her lord and (very much) her master had been that and had selected her to help him reign over the hereditary grand duchy of Baumenburg-Drippe, not only because her father was an English duke with royal Stuart blood in his veins, but because her Virginian mother had brought much gold to the Northmoreland exchequer. Afterward he had freely spent such portion of that gold as had come to his coffers in trying to keep his little estates intact. But now it was all gone, and long ago he had died of grief and bitter disappointment. The hereditary grand duchy of Baumenburg-Drippe was ruled by a cousinly understudy of the German Emperor William II.; the one son of the marriage had been adopted as heir to his crown by the childless king of Hungaria; the handsome and lamentably extravagant old Duke of Northmoreland was dead; his title and vast estates had passed to a distant and disagreeable relative, and the widowed grand duchess, with her one fair daughter, had lived for years in a pretty old house with a high walled garden at Hampton Court, lent by the generosity of the king and queen of England.

For a long moment the Dresden china lady thought in silence and something of sadness. Then she roused herself again and asked the one and only royal princess with an American name what, in the way of a match, she really expected.

"What do I expect?" echoed Virginia. "Why, I wish for the moon—no, I mean the sun. But I don't expect to get it."

"Is that a way of saying you never intend to marry?"

"I'm afraid it amounts to that," admitted Virginia, "since there is only one man in the world I would have for my husband."

"My dearest! A man you have let yourself learn to care for, a man beneath you? How terrible! But you see no one. I"—

"I've never seen this man. And—I'm not 'in love' with him. That would be too foolish, because, instead of being beneath, he's far, far above me."

"Virginia, of whom can you be talking? Or is this another joke?"

Virginia blushed a little and, instead of answering her mother's look of helpless appeal, stared at the row of tall hollyhocks that blazed along the ivy hidden garden wall. She did not speak for an instant, and then she said, with the dainty shyness of a child pinned to a statement by uncomprehending elders: "It isn't a joke. Nonsense, maybe, yet not a joke. I've always thought of him—for so many years I've forgotten when it first began. He was so great, so—everything that appeals to me. How could I help thinking about him and putting him on a pedestal? I—there's no idea of marriage in my mind, of course, only—there's no other man possible after all the thoughts I've given him—no other man in the world."

"My dear, you must tell me his name."

"What! When I've described him—almost—do you still need to hear his name? Well, then, I—I'm not ashamed to tell. It's Leopold."

"Leopold. You're talking of the emperor of Rhaetia."

"As if it could have been any one else."

"And you have thought of him, you've cherished him, for years as an ideal! Why, you never spoke of him particularly before."

"That's because you never seriously wanted me to take a husband until this prim, dull French Henri proposed himself. My thoughts were my own. I wouldn't have told you only—you see why."

"Of course, my precious child. How extremely interesting and—and romantic!" Again the grand duchess lapsed into silence, yet her expression did not suggest a stricken mind. She merely appeared astonished, with an astonishment that might turn into an emotion more agreeable.

Meanwhile it was left for Virginia to look vexed—vexed with herself. She wished that she had not betrayed her poor little foolish secret—so shadowy a secret that it was hardly worthy of the name. Yet it had been precious—precious since childhood, precious as the immediate jewel of her soul because it had been the jewel of her soul, and no one else had dreamed of its existence. Now she had shown it to other eyes, almost flaunted it. Never again could it be a joy to her.

In the little room, half study, half boudoir, which was her own there was a desk, locked in her absence, where souvenirs of the young emperor of Rhaetia had been accumulating for years. There were photographs which Virginia had contrived to buy secretly—portraits of Leopold from an early age up to the present, when he was shown as a tall, dark, cold eyed, warm lipped, firm chinned young man of thirty. There were paragraphs cut from newspapers telling of his genius as a soldier, his prowess as a mountaineer and hunter of big game, with dramatic anecdotes of his haughty courage in time of danger, his impulsive charities, his well thought out schemes for the welfare of his subjects in every walk of life.

There were black and white copies of bold, clever pictures he had painted. There was martial music composed by him and plaintive folk songs adapted by him, which Virginia had tried softly to herself on her little piano when nobody was near. There were reports of speeches made by him since his accession to the throne, accounts of improvements in guns and an invention of a new explosive. There was a somewhat crude yet witty play which he had written and numerous other records of the accomplishments and achievements and even eccentricities which had built up the Princess Virginia's ideal of this celebrated young man, proclaimed emperor after the great revolution eight years ago.

"You are worthy to be an empress."

Her mother's voice broke into Virginia's thoughts. She started and found herself under inspection by the grand duchess. At first she frowned; then she laughed, springing up on a quick impulse to turn earnest into jest and so perhaps escape further catechising.

"Yes, would I not make an empress?" she echoed, stepping out from the shadow of her favorite elm into the noontide radiance of summer.

The sun poured over her hair as she stood with uplifted head and threaded it with a network of living gold, gleaming into the dark gray eyes rimmed with black lashes and turning them to jewels. Her fair skin was as flawless in the unsparing light as the petals of lilies, and her features, though a repetition of those which had made a Virginia girl famous long ago, were carved with royal perfection.

"There is no real reason why you should not make an empress, dearest," said her mother, in pride of the girl's beauty and desiring, womanlike, to promote her child's happiness. "Stranger things have happened. Only last week at Windsor the dear queen was saying what a pity poor Henri was not more. But, no matter; he is well enough. However, if— And when one comes to think of it, it's perhaps not unnatural that Leopold of Rhaetia has never been mentioned for you, although there could be nothing against the marriage. What a match for any woman—a supreme one! Not a royal girl but would go on her knees to him if"—

"I wouldn't," said Virginia. "I might worship him, yet he should go on his knees to me."

"I doubt if those proud knees of his will ever bend in homage to man or woman," replied the grand duchess. "But that's a mere fantasy. I'm serious now, darling, and I very much wish you would be."

"Please, I'd rather not," smiled Virginia uneasily. "Let us not talk of the emperor any more and never again after this, mother. You know now. That's all that's necessary, and"—

"But it's not all that's necessary. You have put the idea into my head, and it's not an unpleasing idea. Besides, it has evidently been in your head for a long time, and I should like to see you happy—see you in a position such as you're entitled to grace. You are a very beautiful girl (there's no disguising that from you, as you know you are the image of your grandmother, who was a celebrated beauty), and the best blood in Europe runs in your veins. You are royal, and yet—and yet our circumstances are such that—in fact, for the present we're somewhat handicapped."

"We're beggars," said Virginia, laughing, but it was not a happy laugh.

"Cophetua married the beggar maid."

A. E. AMES & Co., Limited, Toronto.

F. N. BURT COMPANY, LIMITED.

The F. N. Burt Company, Limited, recently formed under the laws of the Province of Ontario, has acquired, as of September 1st, 1909 the businesses of the F. N. Burt Company, of Buffalo, N.Y., manufacturers of small paper boxes; The Morton Company, Limited, and the Merchants' Counter Check Book Company, Limited, of Toronto, together with the Canadian business of the Carter-Crume Co., Limited, the three last named companies being manufacturers of counter check books, or merchants' sales books.

F. N. Burt Company are specialists in paper box making. During the last ten years there has been a striking evolution in the paper box making industry. The local paper box business, which was carried on almost entirely without the use of automatic machinery, has given place to factories employing thousands of people, with skilled labor and improved machinery. A few years ago many articles were wrapped only in paper, which are now sold in cardboard boxes. This applies in most lines of merchandise. Grocers' shelves now show a large proportion of their goods in such boxes, products thus reaching the customer in the same condition in which they leave the manufacturer, while manufacturing and wholesale druggists are conspicuous amongst many other large users of small paper boxes.

Mr. F. N. Burt, of Buffalo, a Director of this Company, and whose experience will be valuable to it, has been a most successful manufacturer of small paper boxes for more than ten years, having manufactured goods of a high class and put his business on a low cost basis. During the last year Mr. Burt has perfected special machines, which have for some months been in practical use as to a percentage of the output. The exceptional value of these machines has been fully proven, and as soon as more of the same style can be installed the average cost of production will be further materially reduced. A number of these machines are now in process of manufacture.

The Burt Company leases one of its factories, but owns the other two, the real estate and buildings being well located and very valuable. The Company has taken them over, subject to small mortgages on a part of the property, totalling $49,000. One of $25,000 is at 4 per cent, and it is proposed to leave this indefinitely. As to the remaining $24,000, which is at five p.c., it is provided that $10,000 shall be paid on May 11th, 1911, with the balance in instalments of $2,000 per annum.

The Burt Company's output has nearly all been marketed in the United States. A small percentage, however, finds its way to Canada, and Mr. Burt has for some time thought of establishing a factory in Canada, believing that it would be profitable to do so. Mr. Burt has considered it wise to have factories in three different locations in Buffalo. This is regarded by the present Board as good policy, in view of its being a safeguard against serious interruption of business from fire, and in view, also of the advantage from a labor standpoint.

About 90 per cent. of the business in Canada in counter check books—or merchants' sales books, has been done by the Carter-Crume Co., Limited, The Morton Company, Limited and the Merchants' Counter Check Book Co., Limited. Each of these has maintained separate factories and separate business organizations. These businesses have been successfully conducted for many years, and the uniting of them will effect important economies in both the manufacture and the sale of their products. They also furnish an excellent foundation for the Canadian business of the Burt Company. United, these businesses should ensure, from the beginning, a profitable Canadian factory.

I am of the opinion that the working capital which has been provided will be ample for the requirements of the Company, and that both the paper box and counter check book departments will be very profitable.

Reference to the accompanying certificate of Messrs. Clarkson & Cross, accountants, will show that they estimate earnings for the current calendar year of $119,000. While the Company takes over the businesses named as of September 1st, 1909, it may be mentioned that these estimated earnings would provide $52,500 for a year's dividends on the preference Stock and $66,500, being 8⅓ per cent. on the Common Stock for depreciation charges and Common Stock dividends. It is proposed to retain in the business the proportion of this surplus applicable to the four months ending December 31st next. No dividend, therefore, will accrue on the Common Stock until after that date.

In common with most manufacturing concerns these businesses suffered both in volume and net profits during the year 1908. The profits, however, even in such an unusual year, were substantial, and, I believe, considerably exceeded the average proportionate net profits of manufacturers generally. Recovery has been rapid and sound, and the momentum acquired makes the outlook very favorable.

It is proposed to establish a Canadian factory, in which will be consolidated the plants of the three Check Book Companies while duplicates will be installed of such special machinery now used by the F. N. Burt Company in its Buffalo factories as will be suitable to the growing Canadian market. It is expected that a business of not less than $250,000 will be done by the Canadian factory within two years from its commencement.

From the records through a period of years of the above-mentioned businesses, with which I have been in intimate touch, I am confident that the Company will be able to maintain its dividends on the Preference Stock at the rate of 7 p.c. per annum, and that, commencing January 1st next, the Directors will be justified in paying quarterly dividends of 1 p.c. on the Common Stock, being at the rate of 4 p.c. per annum, while prospects are excellent for increases in dividends on the Common Stock from time to time thereafter.

Toronto, September 10th, 1909. S. J. MOORE, President.

ACCOUNTANTS' STATEMENT

After examination of the Books and Accounts of the F. N. Burt Company, Limited, The Morton Company, Limited, the Merchants' Counter Check Book Co., Limited, and the Canadian business of the Carter-Crume Co., Limited, we hereby certify that the combined profits for the years 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1908 are as follows:—

|---|---|
| Year ending December 31st, 1905 | $ 55,112.77 |
| " " " " 1906 | $ 92,646.92 |
| " " " " 1907 | $ 122,690.19 |
| " " " " 1908 | $ 68,390.79 |

Of the above amounts, which total $338,840.67, the net profits of the Burt Company for the four years were $282,447.04, and of the Check Book business $56,393.63.

All expenditures in connection with maintenance and repairs of the property have been charged against profits, and we are of the opinion that ample amounts have been annually written off for depreciation, in addition to the outlays required to keep the works in good condition. Losses from bad debts have averaged less than one-half of 1 p.c. during the past four years.

Net Assets, over and above Liabilities, irrespective of good-will and patent rights, exceed the amount of the Preference Stock.

The computed net profit upon the sales for the eight months of 1909, we find to be $79,543.20. On the basis of this computation, cost experience and volume and character of orders on hand, we feel warranted in estimating net profits for the year 1909 of $119,000. This would provide $52,500 for 7 p.c. dividend on the Preference Stock, leaving $66,500 available for depreciation charges and Common Stock dividend.

SOLICITORS' OPINION

We have had charge of the formation, under the laws of the Province of Ontario, of the F. N. Burt Company, Limited, and certify that both the Preference and Common shares have been validly issued as fully paid shares, the Preference Shares being preferred as to both assets and cumulative dividend of 7 p.c. per annum, and carrying the right to the holder to exchange the same at any time, share for share, for Common Stock.

the grand duchess reminded her, with elaborate playfulness. "And, you know, all sorts of things have happened in history—much stranger than any one would dare put in fiction if writing of royalties. My dear husband was second cousin once removed to the German emperor, though he was treated— But we mustn't speak of that. The subject always upsets me. What I was leading up to is this—though there may be other girls who from a worldly point of view are more desirable, still you're strictly within the pale from which Leopold is entitled to choose his wife, and if"—

"Yes, would I not make an empress?"

"Dear little mother, there's no such if.' And, as for me, I wasn't thinking of a 'worldly point of view.' The emperor of Rhaetia barely knows that I exist. And even if by some miracle he should suddenly discover that little Princess Virginia Mary Victoria Alexandra Hildegrade of Baumenburg-Drippe was the one suitable wife for him on earth I wouldn't have him want me because I was 'suitable,' but—because I was irresistible. I'd want his love—all his love—or I would say, 'No; you must look somewhere else for your empress.'"

"But that's nonsense, darling. Royal people seldom or never have the chance to fall in love," said the grand duchess.

"I'm tired of being royal," snapped the princess. "Being royal does nothing but spoil all one's fun and oblige one to do stupid, boring things which one hates."

"Nevertheless noblesse does oblige," went on the Dresden china prophetess of conventionality. "When alliances are arranged for women of our position, we must content ourselves with the hope that love may come after marriage, or, if not, we must go on doing our duty in that state of life to which heaven has graciously called us."

"Bother duty!" broke out Virginia. "Thank goodness, in these days not all the king's horses and all the king's men can make even a princess marry against her will. I hate that everlasting cant about 'duty in marriage.' When people love each other they're kind and good and sweet and true because it's a joy, not because it's a duty. And that's the only sort of loyalty worth having between men and women, according to me. I wouldn't accept anything else from a man, and I should despise him if he were less or more exacting."

"Virginia, the way you express yourself is almost improper. I'm thankful that no one hears you except myself," said the grand duchess. But at this moment, when clash of tongues and opinions seemed imminent, there occurred a happy diversion in the arrival of letters.

Virginia, who was a neglectful correspondent, had nothing, but two or three important looking envelopes claimed attention from the grand duchess, and as soon as the ladies were once more alone together in the sweet scented garden she broke the crown stamped seal of her son Adalbert, now by adoption crown prince of Hungaria.

"Open the others for me, dear," she demanded excitedly, "while I see what Dal has to say." And Virginia leisurely obeyed, wondering whether Dal's news would by and by be passed on to her. It was always an event when a long letter came from him, and the grand duchess invariably laughed and exclaimed and sometimes blushed as she read, but when she blushed the letter was not given to the crown prince's sister.

There was a note today from an old friend of her mother's of whom Virginia was fond, and she had just begun to be interested in the third paragraph, all about an adorable Dandy Dinmont puppy, when an odd, half stifled ejaculation from the grand duchess made the girl lift her eyes.

"Has Dal been having something beyond the common in the way of adventures?" she inquired dryly.

Her mother did not answer, but she had grown pink and then pale.

Virginia began to be uneasy. "What is the matter? Is anything wrong?" she asked.

"No—nothing in the least wrong, far from it, indeed; but, oh, my child!"

"Mother, dear, what is it?"

"Something so extraordinary, so wonderful—I mean as a coincidence—that I can hardly speak. I suppose I can't be dreaming. You are really talking to me in the garden, aren't you?"

"I am, and I wish you were telling me the mystery. Do, dear. You look awake, only rather odd."

"It would be strange if I didn't look odd. Dal says—Dal says"—

"What has he been doing—getting engaged?"

"No. It is—your emperor, not Dal, who talks of being engaged."

"Oh," said Virginia, trying not to speak blankly, trying not to flush, trying not to show in any way the sudden sick pain in her heart.

Of course she was not in love with him. Of course, though she had been childish enough long ago to make him her ideal and foolishly faithful enough to keep him so, she had always known that he would never be more to her than a shadow emperor. Some day he would marry one of those other royal girls who were so much more suitable than she. That would be natural and right, as she had more than once told herself with no conscious pang, but now that the news had come, now that the royal girl was actually chosen and she must hear the letter and read about the happy event in the newspapers, it was different. She felt suddenly cold and sick under the blow—hurt and defrauded and even jealous. She knew that she would hate the girl—some wretched, commonplace girl, with stick out teeth, perhaps, or no figure and no idea of the way to wear her clothes or do her hair.

But she swallowed hard and clinched her fingers under the voluminous letter about Dandy Dinmont. "Oh, so our friend is going to be married?" she remarked lightly.

"That depends," replied the grand duchess, laughing mysteriously, with a catch in her voice as if she had been a nervous girl—"that depends. You must guess. But I won't tease you. My dear, my dear, after Dal's letter, coming, as it has come, in the midst of such a conversation, I shall be a firm believer in telepathy. This letter on its way to us must have put the thoughts into our minds and the words on our tongues. It may be that the emperor of Rhaetia will marry; it may not, for, my sweet, beautiful girl, it depends upon—you."

"Me?" The voice did not sound to Virginia like her own. Was she, too, dreaming? Were they both in a dream?

"He wishes to marry you."

All the letters dropped from Virginia's lap—dropped and fluttered to the grass slowly, like falling rose leaves. Scarcely knowing what she did, she clasped her hands over the young bosom, shaken with the sudden throbbing of her heart. Perhaps such a betrayal of feeling by a royal maiden decorously sued (by proxy) for her hand was scarcely correct, but Virginia had no thought for rules of conduct as laid down for her too often by her mother.

"He wishes to marry—me?" she echoed dazedly. "Why?"

"Providence must have drawn your inclination toward him, dearest. It is indeed a romance. Some day, no doubt, it will be told to the world in history."

"But how did he"— Virginia broke off and began again. "Did he tell this to Dal and ask him to write you?"

"Not—not precisely that," admitted the grand duchess, her face changing from satisfaction to uneasiness, for Virginia was difficult in some ways, though adorable in others, and held such peculiar ideas about life—inherited from her American grandmother—that it was impossible to be sure how she would receive the most ordinary announcements.

The princess' rapt expression faded like the passing of dawn.

"Not precisely that?" she repeated. "Then what—how"—

"Well, perhaps, though it's not strictly the correct thing, you had better read your brother's letter for yourself."

Virginia put her hands behind her back with a childish gesture, and a frightened look came into the eyes which at most times gazed bravely upon the world. "I—somehow I can't," she said. "Please tell me."

"To begin with, then, you know what an admiration Dal has felt for Count

"He wishes to marry—me?"

von Breitstein ever since that diplomatic visit the Rhaetian chancellor paid to Hungaria. The fancy seemed to be mutual; but, then, who could ever resist Dal if he wanted to be liked? The chancellor has written to him from time to time, and Dal has quite enjoyed the correspondence. The old man can be witty as well as cynical if he chooses, and Dal says he tells good stories. Now, it seems, in the informal way in which such affairs are usually put forward, that Count von Breitstein has written confidentially to Dal, as our only near male relative, asking how your family would regard an alliance between Leopold and you or if we have already disposed of your hand. At last the emperor is inclined to listen to his chancellor's advice and marry, and you, as a Protestant princess"—

"A Protestant princess, indeed!" cried Virginia. "I protest against being approached by him on such terms."

The face of the grand duchess was darkened by the gloom of her thoughts. "My daughter," she exclaimed mildly, yet despairingly, "it's not possible that when this wonderful chance, this unheard of chance, this chance that you were praying for, actually falls into your hands you will throw it away for—for a sentimental schoolgirl scruple."

"I was not praying for it," said Virginia. "I'm sure, mother, you would have considered it most bold in me to pray for it. And I didn't. I was only refusing other chances."

"Well, at all events, you have this one now. It is yours."

"Not in the one way I should have loved to see it come. Oh, mother, why does the emperor want to marry me? Isn't there some other reason than just because I'm a proper Protestant princess?"

"Of course," insisted the grand duchess, faintly encouraged. "Dal mentions several most excellent reasons in his letter, if you would only take them sensibly."

"I should like to hear them, at all events," answered Virginia.

A POWERFUL AND EFFECTIVE CURE

For Catarrh, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Asthma.

Soothing Balsams Are Carried to the Sore, Congested Membranes — Cure Quickly and Completely.

Diseases of the breathing organs are, as you know, excited by germs so minute that only the microscope can reveal them; they are lodged in the tissues, develop there, and cause all the trouble. That is how consumption starts.

If the cause of the disease can be carried by air, why not the remedy? This conclusion lies at the root of the Catarrhozone treatment. The instrument through which you breathe fragrant, healing Catarrhozone splits up into minute particles this invaluable healing and curative agent, thereby enabling the air to carry it to the remotest ramifications of the breathing organs, and diffuses itself over their entire surfaces.

CATARRHOZONE ALWAYS CURES.

It would be absolutely impossible to breathe through a Catarrhozone inhaler without carrying this liquid to the remotest parts of the breathing apparatus. Upon healthy tissue it has no action, but upon diseased tissue and upon the micro-organisms which infect diseased tissues its action is so wonderfully curative that the disease is completely abolished. Then the tissue heals.

EARLY TREATMENT IS WISE.

Catarrhozone is an ideal remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. If you have catarrh, or bronchitis, or asthma, all are equally curable by Catarrhozone. These diseases are all modifications of an inflammatory condition of the lining membranes of the throat and nasal passages. Under these conditions we call it catarrh. When it extends to the bronchial tubes, we call it bronchitis. The condition is the same, the causes which produce the diseases are identical, and the remedy, Catarrhozone, acts equally promptly and emciently upon the different forms of this disease. Your case is curable. Get Catarrhozone to-day: two months' treatment (guaranteed) price $1; small size 50c. Sold by all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

GOD'S DIVINE PLAN

PASTOR RUSSELL DISCUSSES THE CAUSE AND EFFECT.

The History of the World Is Divided Into Three Great Epochs In the Second of Which We Now Live—The Flood Closed the First Period, In Which Angels Had Direct Intercourse With Men.

Sept. 12.—Intelligent people appear to reason upon every other subject except religion. Approach a man upon any matter of industry or social progress or political economy or finance and we find him reasonably alert to the general law of Cause and Effect, but when it comes to religion the same man refuses to recognize or follow such laws. To illustrate: If a thousand religious men and women were asked to give some general outline of the Divine Plan under which humanity is being dealt with by the Almighty, Nine Hundred and Ninety-Nine of them would look at you in blank astonishment as though it were absurd to suppose that God would conduct his affairs along the lines of order, reason and common sense—Cause and Effect. On the contrary the Scriptures everywhere hold that our Creator is systematically ordering the affairs of earth and "working all things according to the counsel of his own will" (Ephesians i, 11).

St. Peter divides the world's history into three great epochs, which our common version Bible designates as "worlds." The first of these, he says, lasted from the creation of our first parents to the flood. The flood was the harvest time, the reaping time, of that epoch. It was the conclusion to the course of sin which, he tells us, there prevailed. And only eight persons, Noah and his family, were carried over as a nucleus for another great epoch or "world," which St. Peter calls, "The world that now is," and which St. Paul calls, "This present evil world" or epoch, and of which Jesus states, "My kingdom is not of this world (epoch)," while again he informs us that Satan is "the Prince of this world."

Certain things have been in progress—certain great instructions and blessing from the Almighty during this long period of over Forty-three Hundred years. "This present evil world" or epoch is to have a harvest time and its affairs are to be as thoroughly wound up, completed, as were the affairs of "the world before the flood." Then a new epoch or "world to come" will dawn, the character of which is clearly delineated in the Scriptures as being very contrary everyway to that of "this present evil world." It will be "The world to come, whereof we speak," the new epoch, figuratively said to have "a new heavens and a new earth," in which the Lord will dominate human affairs. His elect Church of the present time associated with him as his Bride, will constitute the "new heavens" or new spiritual domination under which human regeneration will bring the "new earth." Under that new dispensation everything will be in accord with the character of its King, the Prince of Light and Righteousness, just as the conditions of "the present evil world" are in harmony with the characteristics of the "Prince of this world, who now worketh in the hearts of the children of disobedience"—"the Prince of Darkness."

The "world" or epoch which ended at the flood accomplished a great work. It was during that period of Sixteen Hundred and Fifty-Six years that God first tested Satan by permitting him to have an opportunity to show the traitorous attitude of his heart in connection with our first parents. Desiring to establish himself as an Emperor over earth, separate and distinct from the Empire of Jehovah, Lucifer became Satan, God's Adversary, and has since continued in his opposition to the Divine will. Our first parents, through Satan's lie, were led into disobedience to God, which resulted in the death sentence on Adam and his race. Subsequently for centuries the holy angels were allowed to have intercourse with fallen men, with a view to helping them back into harmony with God, not that God expected any such results, for he already foreknew that there could be no recovery of humanity, except through the merit of the Redeemer, whose sacrifice would purchase the world and whose reign as the King of kings and Lord of lords would ultimately restore the willing and obedient of the race. But the angels to all eternity might have supposed that an easier way of saving men was possible; that if permitted they could educate, assist and uplift mankind out of sin and death conditions back to harmony with God. God not only desired to show that all such results were impossible, but also he desired to use the opportunity to test, to prove, the loyalty, the faithfulness of the angelic hosts.

Amongst the liberties granted to all the angels at that time was the power to materialize — to assume human forms. We need not stop to discuss the possibility of this, for we are addressing those who believe the Scriptural record, and to such it will be quite sufficient for us to cite one of the many Scriptural instances: the case of the three men who appeared to Abraham and were subsequently found to be angels—spirit beings. They looked, talked, ate and were clothed like men. Abraham knew not whom they were until subsequently they revealed their identity, as we read in the account of Genesis xviii. The Apostle Paul adds his testimony to this incident, saying to the Church, "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares" (Hebrews xiii, 2).

For long centuries this relationship between the angels and mankind continued. We have no record of any human being receiving an uplift from their ministrations. On the contrary, as God had foreseen, the influence of sin was contagious and ere long some of the angelic hosts became so enamored of the daughters of men that "they took to themselves wives of such as they chose," and preferred to leave their own habitation or spirit condition and to remain in a materialized form and to raise earthly families, although their course was contrary to the Divine arrangement and must have been so understood by them. Divine power was not interposed to hinder them. The error of this sedition, the leaving of their own habitation or plane of spirit being, from a small beginning, spread, and God's non-interference justified the supposition that he was either not able to cope with the situation, or unable to enforce his own Law. Thus centuries rolled by, while the earthly children of "those angels which kept not their first estate" became "giants and men of renown" at a time when maturity was not reached until at least One Hundred years (Genesis vi).

During all those centuries we may be sure that every one of the holy angels had fullest opportunity to participate in the seductive pleasures of sin. And we may be quite sure during that epoch or age God demonstrated fully, completely, which of the angels were in heart and indeed in spirit and in truth loyal to him and to all the principles of his righteousness. This work having been accomplished, that "world before the flood" was brought to an end, was overwhelmed by a flood of waters, the Lord declaring that the whole earth had become corrupt through this evil. The influence of the angels along licentious lines seemingly tended more and more to degrade humanity, so that we read that God beheld that "every imagination of man's heart was evil, and only evil, and that continually." With this closing of that epoch or "world" those angels which had not sought to abandon the angelic plane of being were restrained in Tartarus, our earth's atmosphere, until the judgment of the great day of trouble in the close of this "world," when evidently they will recover their power of materialization.

"This present evil world" differs from "the world before the flood" in that it is not under the ministration of the angels—but man, in a general sense, is left to himself. Since the flood the world in general has been going on just as if there were no God, the exceptions, aside from the Jewish nation and the Church of Christ, being the destruction of the Sodomites and the preaching of Jonah to the Ninevites, warning them that they were about to perish. In other words, so far as outward appearance goes, God has allowed the world to take its own course, interfering only when the corruption became so great as to make life injurious rather than a favor. We may also understand the Scriptures to teach that God has had a silent supervision of the nations to hinder them from overturning or disturbing any feature of the Divine program. He is wise enough to know how to make the wrath of man to praise him and the remainder more than this he will restrain.

St. Paul, reviewing the question of human degradation as exhibited in heathendom, etc., explains that the great deterioration in the human family is the result of man's being left to himself as respects the Divine supervision. He says, looking back along the line of Noah's descendants, "When they knew God they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful. • • • And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind"—they giving themselves over to things that were not profitable, defiling themselves, etc. (Romans i, 21-28).

This condition of things continued from Noah's day until 31-2 years after our Lord's crucifixion, when the special favor of God toward the nation of Israel terminated and the "middle wall of partition was broken down"—Cornelius being the first Gentile admitted to the privileges of the Gospel. From that time onward the proclamation of the Gospel was not restricted to the Jewish nation, but is for whosoever may have "an ear to hear" of every nation, people, kindred and tongue.

During the long period from Noah to Christ — Twenty-Five Hundred years—God, as we have seen, had no dealing with the world, but he did have very special dealings with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and then subsequently with the nation of Israel. To those patriarchs he gave an Oath-Bound Covenant, that through their posterity he would ultimately bless all the families of the earth. Moreover, the character of the promise was such that it implied not only the resurrection of the patriarchs, but the resurrection also of all the families of the earth that have gone down into death under the great Adamic sentence (Romans v, 12, 17, 19).

The nation of Israel was segregated from all the other nations of the world and bound to the Lord and he to them by the Covenant of the Law entered into at Mount Sinai. Under the terms of that Covenant it was implied that that whole nation should constitute the seed of Abraham and rule and bless all other nations, but the conditions were the keeping of the Law perfectly. God, of course, knew that, as imperfect men, Israel had under taken an impossible contract. But he also knew that under his supervision the contract would not eventually be to their disadvantage, but the reverse. He used that nation as a typical people, their jubilees representing the "times of restitution" (Acts iii, 20) coming to the world under the Millennial reign of Christ. Their day Sabbaths typified a coming blessing to Spiritual Israel. Their year Sabbath typified a coming blessing to the world, to the universe. Their Day of Atonement for sins typified the day of better sacrifices, of Christ and the Church. Indeed, we may understand that fleshly Israel and all of its great affairs were typical foreshadowings of God's greater blessings to come in after dispensations.

The culmination of the Lord's dealings with Israel was reached, as he had intended from the beginning, when our Lord Jesus left the glory of the Father on the heavenly plane and was made flesh, being born under the Law Covenant. Not being a direct member of the human family, but "holy, harmless and separate from sinners," he was perfect and fully able to keep all the terms of that Law Covenant, and did so. Thus under the provisions of the Law Covenant he, and he alone, of all the Jewish nation, could claim the rights of the Abrahamic Covenant—the blessings foretold and the rightful authority to bless men, for, as the ruler of earth, he took the place of Father Adam with all his rights and authorities described in Psalm viii 4-6.

By keeping these rights and privileges as a man our Lord could have been an earthly potentate of considerable dignity, the highest amongst men. But the Father's place for him and for the world was far higher than this. As an earthly potentate he would have ruled over a falling and dying race and would have been privileged merely to counsel, rule and direct their imperfect energies; but he never could have brought them to eternal life. Hence the Divine Plan was that he should die as the Redeemer of Adam and his race, that thus he might have the just, the legal right to lift out of sin and degradation and death all of mankind who would fall in line with the gracious arrangements of the Divine purpose which centre in Christ. It was in fulfilment of this feature of the Divine Plan that our Lord laid down the earthly Kingdom, the earthly rights, all that he had, as man's ransom price (Matthew xiii, 44). "Who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time" (I Timothy ii, 6).

We now have Messiah exalted and in his possession the authority justly, legally acquired, whereby he may bless all the families of the earth—all the children of Adam, by restoring to the willing and obedient "that which was lost"—earthly perfection and dominion. Where will he begin his blessing work? All the prophecies implied that Messiah would begin his work with Israel and that it should progress through Israel to all nations. But the prophecies did not event hint at the fact that before giving the "restitution" blessing to Israel, under the New (Law) Covenant of Jeremiah xxxi, 31, Messiah would first make use of his "restitution" authority for the gathering of a special class of people, "a holy nation, a peculiar people, a royal priesthood." This, as the Apostle tells us, was kept a "Mystery," and, generally speaking, it is still a "Mystery," not only to Israel, but to the world. The gathering of the Spiritual Israelites was the first step in the new program. Those of the Jewish nation at our Lord's First Advent who were of the right attitude of heart were transferred from Moses to Christ, from natural Israel to spiritual Israel. Then, as we have seen, from the time of Cornelius onward the Gospel message has been free to all who have the believing heart and hearing ear to take the message. These, as a whole, as our Lord intimated, are but a little flock." His words were, "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom" (Luke vii, 32).

The Kingdom, the life eternal, etc., which the Lord has to give away, are those of Adam, which were lost through his disobedience and repurchased by our Lord at Calvary. These he gives to his followers, the "little flock," but not to keep. Earthly restitution blessings are theirs to sacrifice only. Whoever will not accept them on these terms cannot be Jesus' disciples. Such are the terms of the heavenly or high calling bestowed upon his followers. They must take up their cross and follow him in the sacrifice of earthly life and earthly restitution rights, if they would share with him the glory and honor that will be his in his exalted station.

"The world to come" merely signifies the epoch to come, the epoch wherein dwelleth righteousness, where righteousness will be in the ascendant, and where sin will be absolutely under the control of the great Redeemer, who then will be the King of glory, ruling, reigning, enlightening, blessing, uplifting, restituting, purging, purifying and bringing to perfection so many of Adam's race as will heartily respond to the rules of his Kingdom.

WE WONDER if it ever occurred to the boys of Peterborough that the selling of papers was a stepping-stone to a successful business career in future years.

DO they recognize the fact that this little business offers them an opportunity to

100 Per Cent ?

or in other words, to double the money invested in selling the EXAMINER to transient buyers.

BOYS buy the EXAMINER at one cent each and sell it for two cents each ; or in the case of weekly patrons, they pay six cents per week and receive ten cents from the subscriber, thus making a profit of 62 2-3 per cent.

DO you know of any business in the city that pays such profits with as little chance for bad debts ?

IT only requires a Boy to HUSTLE, the same thing that is required when he gets into a bigger business world.

OF course we do not mean to say that the Boy, to become a successful business man, must be a newsboy, but we do say that the successful newsboy has gained an experience that is of much service to him in after years.

MONEY IN NEWSPAPER ROUTES.

Another boy was only thirteen when his father died, leaving two hundred dollars insurance, a widow and four younger children. The insurance money was loaned out to a neighbour at six per cent., as a sort of reserve fund, and while the widow did plain sewing, the boy carried newspapers morning and evening. After three months' experience with this work he borrowed twenty-five dollars and purchased the smallest newspaper route in town. Vigorous canvassing for new customers made that route so productive that in six months he paid back the loan. The lender offered another loan of fifty dollars, which the boy took, buying two more routes. These were covered by boys hired to do the work, however, because he felt that all his energy must go into the original route, so that he would at least be certain of good returns from that. Principles of management learned by this plan made him so successful that in less than five years he owned every newspaper route in his town. His mother's two hundred dollars was still intact, and his brothers and sisters going to school. A legacy of two hundred dollars fell to the family. This, with the original two hundred dollars and another hundred the boy had saved, was paid on a home costing twenty-eight hundred dollars, the balance to be cleared off at the rate of twenty-five dollars a month. Three furnished rooms were rented at a total of about twenty-two dollars monthly, and this money, it was agreed, should never be spent. Newspaper routes, odd jobs and the mother's contributions kept the family and paid the instalments. In four years the income from furnished rooms, put away in the bank, grew to more than one thousand dollars. The mortgage was finally cleared off, and the boy, now nearly twenty-one years old, started to get an education at the high school.

THERE are a number of Boys in Peterborough making four and five dollars per week, not necessarily all selling the Examiner, but some easily make three dollars per week selling the Examiner exclusively.

Boys! Be Boys of Business

Get in the game. It won't hurt you, but will give you a right start. You will have money of your own to save or buy useful needs with.

OUTRAGE ON CHILDREN.

One Is Dead, One Will Die, and One Is Hurt In Utica, N.Y.

Utica, N.Y., Sept. 14.—A crime for which there at present appears to be no explanation was committed against three Italian children in this city Sunday evening. They are Theresa Procipio, 7 years old, who is dead, shot through the heart; Fanny Infusina, 6 years old, badly wounded in the left arm, and Freddie Infusina, 2 1-2 years old, shot through the stomach and will die. The two last named are children of Ercole Infusina, a grocer in Bleecker street, and the dead girl lived with her parents over the grocery.

There appears to be absolutely no explanation as to why the children were shot.

It developed yesterday morning that they were seen a few minutes after 7 Sunday evening going up Third avenue in company with a man about 40 years of age.

Yesterday morning shortly after 5 o'clock a woman residing near the place where the children were found, which is in a sparsely-settled section of the city, saw a child moving about in some bushes. She sent some men to the place and they discovered the dead body of the other little girl and the wounded boy. The wounded girl was nearly overcome with fatigue and pain.

Fanny stood guard over her wounded brother all night. At times, she said, she would cry out and at other times she would pat his head. In the darkness she did not know what had become of Theresa, or why she was silent. She says that the man went away after he hurt them. She did not know the man, she said, and had never seen him before.

Defeated M.P. Goes Crazy.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 14.—Disappointment and continual brooding over the loss of his seat in the British Parliament, caused Hon. Muir Wilson, a millionaire of Sheffield, and Servian consul, to go suddenly insane in the Hotel Vancouver yesterday morning. He is now in the city jail, where for several hours he kept up a succession of shrieks and screams, and only discontinued through absolute exhaustion.

Early yesterday morning, guests of the hotel were startled when they saw, striding with military bearing down the spacious stairs, a figure in British court costume, waiving a gleaming sword before him.

"Down upon your marrow bones," he shouted, "I am the lord high executioner."

The guests fled in terror till it was perceived that the man, though looking very dangerous, was perfectly harmless. Later he became violent.

Wilson was a former Conservative member of the British House of Commons.

Killed by Wall.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 14.—One man killed, nine seriously injured yesterday, when the walls at the Blanck Transfer Storage Co.'s building here, recently burned, collapsed, demolishing two buildings and burying more than a dozen men in the ruins.

The dead man, Herman Tiege, an employe of a local paper, with those who were seriously injured, were in a two-storey hotel next door to the walls when the accident took place. Two workmen were tearing down the walls of the Blanck building when the crash came.

The men were unable to jump, and both rode the walls to the ground in safety, five storeys below. The monetary damage is estimated at about $15,000.

Half Million For Mines.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—What promises to be one of the most important sales of mining property yet made by the province, was practically completed yesterday, when the time expired for receiving tenders for the purchase of the provincial mine and twenty other mining parcels in the Gillies' limit.

Various rumors, speculative and otherwise, are current as to the values of the provincial mine. Some stories place its value towards the half million mark, others as a few thousand. It is noteworthy, however, that among the 125 tenders received, the sums offered are considerably higher than those obtained on previous sales.

Oriental Labor.

Ottawa, Sept. 14. — Collingwood Schreiber, Government consulting engineer for the G.T.P., gave yesterday morning a statement as to the labor situation on the western division of the G.T.P., which amounts to a plea for the use of oriental labor. There are 850 miles of mountain work to be done, he said, and of this only 100 miles have been graded, this portion of the work taking over a year. There remain 750 miles of more difficult work. The contractors can get only 2,000 men and must have $3 a day, which is too much for navvy work. If the work is to be finished in reasonable time other than white labor must be used.

Within the next two years 25,000 men should be at work. With them it will take four years to do the work.

Crushed by Load of Pigs.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Herbert Willing, a farm laborer, employed by Alexander Featherstone of Streetsville, was fatally injured on the Lake Shore road near Port Credit Saturday afternoon, and died in a few hours at Streetsville. He was taking home from the exhibition a load of hogs, when one of the horses took fright and upset the wagon, the crate pinning Willing against the telephone pole, crushing him badly.

Cremation In Home.

Underwood, Ont., Sept. 14.—Donald McPhail, aged 75, one of Bruce Township's pioneers, was yesterday cremated.

He lived alone on his farm. About 11 o'clock neighbors noticed smoke and flame, but were unable to gain entrance. Later, the charred remains were found. He leaves a son in Arcola, Sask., and two daughters in Michigan.

Arrested In Toronto.

Galt, Sept. 14.—For two months the police have been looking for Thomas McDowell, a young man employed on a farm in the adjacent township, charged with a grave offence. The victim is Myrtle Black, a Galt girl, aged 15. McDowell was arrested in Toronto, and he will appear before Judge Blake in the morning.

Motorman Crazed.

Brandon, Man., Sept. 14.—Thomas C. Taylor, working for a farmer near this place, has been committed to the asylum. Taylor was the Winnipeg motorman who was on bail until the fall assizes in connection with the killing of two young men on July 26. They were crushed between cars. This preyed on Taylor's mind.

Says Officer Drugged Him.

Kingston, Sept. 14.—John Campeau, committed from Belleville to the penitentiary for burglary, has written United States Consul Van Sant to aid him. He says a Toronto officer found him at Charlotte, N.Y., and that he was drugged and brought over to Belleville without waiving extradition.

Collision Kills One.

Cornwall, Sept. 14.—David Norman of Monkland, aged 59, was instantly killed and Angus Trunx shaken up by the collision of a freight train with a train of flat gravel cars. Norman leaves a widow, two sons and four daughters. An inquest will be held to-night.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Chicago and East Buffalo Markets Firm.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Loades cables for cattle are steady, at 12¾c to 14¼c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 11c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 92 carloads, consisting of 1803 cattle, 444 sheep and 28 calves.

Butchers

Prime picked lots sold at $5.50 to $5.75; loads of good to choice butchers' sold at $5.25 to $5.50; medium, $5 to $5.25; common, $4 to $4.75; cows, $3 to $4.40 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

Fred Rowntree bought 12 milkers and springers at $37 to $65 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves held steady at $3 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes sold at $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; rams, $2.50 to $3 per cwt.; lambs, $5.50 to $6 per cwt.

Hogs.

H. P. Kennedy reported hog prices unchanged, at $8.50, fed and watered at the market, and $8.25 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Sept. 11 were 2550 cattle, 1325 sheep and lambs, 1875 hogs and 475 calves. The offerings at the market for local consumption this morning consisted of 1225 cattle, 650 sheep and lambs, 900 hogs and 300 calves.

A feature of the trade to-day was the stronger undertone to the market for cattle, and prices scored an advance of ¼c per lb. as compared with those of a week ago. This was due to the increased demand for supplies on account of the large number of strangers being in the city, and, in addition to this, there was also a number of carloads brought for shipment to the lower provinces; consequently the market on the whole was active, and the prospects are that prices will go still higher in the near future. Cable advices from Liverpool to-day stated that the weather was good, but trade was slow, and in consequence a weaker feeling has developed in the market for Canadian cattle, and prices show a decline of ¼c to 1c per lb. since this day week. There was no demand from exporters here to-day. Choice steers sold at 5¼c to 5½c; good at 4¾c to 5c; fair at 4¼c to 4½c; medium at 3¾c to 4c; bulls at 3½c to 4¼c; canners at 1½c to 2c per lb., and bulls at $2.35 to $2.60 per cwt. There continues to be a strong undertone to the market for hogs on account of the limited supply coming forward, and the keen demand for the same from packers and dealers, and the indications are that unless receipts increase in the near future values will go still higher. The bulk of the stock which arrived this morning had been contracted for last week at $9 per cwt., consequently the offerings on the market for sale were very small, and the inside prices for selected lots were $9.25 to $9.50 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. All the leading foreign markets for Canadian bacon are very strong on account of short supplies, and cable advices received note a further advance in prices of 1s to 5s per cwt. since this day week.

The demand for small meats to-day was very brisk, and an active trade was done. Supplies were larger than usual, and especially so of lambs; but, notwithstanding this fact, the market for them was stronger, and prices advanced, with sales at 6c to 6½c per lb. Sheep were firm, at 3½c to 4c, and calves sold at from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the receipts for the week ending Sept. 11 were 4330 cattle for export account, and 500 cattle, 2040 sheep and lambs, 1100 hogs and 440 calves for local consumption. The supply on the market this morning for sale amounted to 650 cattle, 500 sheep, 500 lambs, 200 hogs and 175 calves.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Sept. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 4000 head; good steady; common 10c to 15c lower; prime steers, $6.50 to $7; shipping, $5.50 to $6.50; butchers, $4.65 to $5.25; heifers, $3.60 to $5.65; cows, $2.50 to $4.75; bulls, $2.75 to $4.65; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.50; stock heifers, $3 to $3.50; fresh cows and springers $2 to $3 lower, $21 to $62.

Paying the Penalty.

Belleville, Sept. 14.—John Lynch of Trenton was sentenced to fifteen months for assault on Mrs. M. J. Blakely. Charles Gunyon of Modoc Township was sentenced to three years for attempting to shoot two men.

Gets Five Year Sentence.

Cornwall, Sept. 4.—J. Simmers, late from Aultsville, yesterday got a five-year sentence from Magistrate Danis. An elderly man, named Barker, recently from the western States, was taken to Simmers' house and while he slept in Simmers' bed was robbed of his watch and revolver, losing also the money he had given Simmers. He was then driven out after a fight. Simmers sold the watch for $5, but before he could spend 25 cents was in the toils. Mrs. Simmers corroborated Barker's evidence and told of frequent threats and violence from her spouse.

$1 a Cake Could Buy No Better Soap

If you were to offer us $1 for a single cake of soap, we could make no better than our Infants' Delight.

For we have put our very best into this cake. We go to the gardens of France for pure vegetable oil. There we pay often double what we might pay. We bring cocoanut oil more than 12,000 miles from the isle of Ceylon. Then we mix these oils and boil them doubly long.

After this we send them through our own special milling process—one that we have perfected only in our 43 years of experience.

Soon here they fall like flakes of snow into huge bins and are then crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture.

Then they pass through granite rollers and come out in miles of silky ribbons, after which they are dried eight times. The result is the most perfect and delightful soap.

It is so pure and clean that it leaves the skin fair as an infant's. So we call this soap Infants' Delight.

Order one cake today and see for yourself how different it is. Note the rich, creamy lather and see how it leaves the skin as soft as velvet and as smooth as silk.

Note the dainty perfume—it comes from Bulgaria and costs us $100 a pound. But it requires 3,000 pounds of rose leaves to make a single ounce of this Otto of Roses. The fragrance is simply exquisite. Please try it and see.

How to Manicure

File your nails to the desired length. Then soak them in warm water with a thick lather of Infants' Delight. Remove your fingers from the water and push back the cuticle at the base of the nails until the white crescent appears. After this, trim and polish the nails as usual.

CLAWS OF AFRICAN LION

Mr. Herbert Nicholl, pianiste at "The Crystal," has received from his brother in Africa a valuable trophy, a box containing the claws of an African lion. The brother is station master on the Beira and Mashonaland Railway at Villa Machads, Portugese East Africa. The claws of the lion received are formidable appendages and capable of doing terrific execution under favourable conditions. The lion in a temper has man or beast at his mercy. The largest claw, measured on the outer curve, from root to point, is three and one-eighth inches in length, and the others in proportion. The smaller ones, especially, are sharp as needles. The sender in a note states that the largest claws mounted are valued at $50, and the smaller at $15.

KING HERE 49 YEARS AGO

Forty-nine years to-day, King Edward the seventh, the Prince of Wales, visited Peterborough. Several of the older residents will remember the occasion. It was on September fourteenth, 1860, that his Majesty visited the city. If the King was to return here now, he would hardly recognize the place as the one he came to, as the Prince of Wales, forty-nine years ago. The Prince arrived at the old Station in Ashburnham and was escorted through the beautifully decorated streets to the town where he was accorded a reception. He was here but a few hours.

RECORD BREAKING FAIR

There is every reason to expect that the Peterborough Fair this year will be a record breaker, not only in point of attendance and number of entries, but also in enjoyment. Never have the Directors offered the public so much in the way of entertainment, and never before has there been such an array of unusual attractions. The public will find something doing every moment during the Exhibition, and there should and doubtless will be a record crowd if the heedoo of bad weather, which generally seems to hang over the Exhibition, is dissipated this year. The Fair is open to exhibitors on Thursday and to the public on Friday and Saturday.

THAT NEW FRANCHISE

An Idea of What the Manufacturers' Committee Are Doing in Arranging an Agreement With Peterboro' Light and Power Co.

WHAT THEY ARE GAINING

The Manufacturers' Committee met last night with Ald. Gillespie in the chair, and Ald. Hicks, Duffus, Metheral and Mayor Rush present. The question of the Peterborough Light and Power Company's franchise was given another discussion with Mr. E. H. D. Hall looking after the interests of the city and Mr. E. A. Peck representing the company.

This is not the first time the committee has considered this matter which is looked upon as one of the most important they have handled during the present year. As the city solicitor stated, the company is receiving the privilege of having their poles on the streets for thirty years for the purpose of delivering power. The city reserves the right to conduct its own street lighting and at present it could carry on domestic lighting if it had the power and by the agreement it still retains that right. The committee considers that the city will benefit by the new franchise if the bylaw is passed and when the agreement is finally decided upon by the two parties it will be published in order that every ratepayer may study out the proposition for his personal satisfaction. Since the first meeting clause after clause has been gone over repeatedly. Changes have been made to protect the city and to safeguard its future interests. The members of the committee have not been satisfied to look at the question from the present, but have done their best to consider situations and conditions which the intervening thirty years will produce. The Committee of the whole Council meet tonight when the Manufacturers' Committee will present the agreement as it now stands.

Points Discussed

At last night's meeting Mr. Peck again explained that the company desired to sell debentures and they wanted something material to offer. It was desirous that the franchise be for thirty years. This was in reference to the change in the agreement suggested by the committee. Ald. Gillespie said that the members thought that a twenty year term was sufficient.

Ald. Hicks asked, "If the question was before a Board of Arbitration and the City was going into lighting and the Company had to sell their plant would the arbitration award the Company more if they had a thirty-year franchise than if they were in their present condition?"

Mr. Peck stated that a clause could be put in the agreement dealing with this point. The City has reserved the right to do its own street lighting, but the question in brief is, should the City desire to buy out the company would extra value be placed on the fact that they had a franchise for thirty years. This point will be attended to.

Ald. Hicks further asked, "If the Company had marketed all its power and the city had acquired a power, say Burleigh power, would the Company permit the City to use their poles to distribute the new power?"

"That's the same as if you have an extra seat you might as well take some one along," Mr. Peck remarked.

"In that case it would perhaps largely depend upon whom you are taking," Ald. Hicks answered.

Referring to the question, Mr. Peck did not care to reply to it and it was left over until Mr. Larmonth was present.

The rental of poles has been agreed upon, one dollar each for 200 poles and 50 cents each for all the poles over that number. This is paid by the Company.

CHIEF WITNESS NOT CALLED AT BOLLARD INQUEST LAST NIGHT

Contrary to Expectations, Fred Jopling Did Not Give Evidence —Coroner Was Indisposed and Case Was Enlarged After Two Hours Session.

CONTRADICTORY EVIDENCE

Contrary to expectations, Fred Jopling, one of the principal figures in the mix-up was not called upon to give evidence at the fourth session of the coroner's inquest into the causes of the death of Arthur Bollard, last night and as a result the hundreds of curious spectators who thronged the court room were disappointed. They were looking forward to Jopling's statement with feverish interest and it was expected that he would give his testimony last night. However, after two hours had been spent hearing two new witnesses and re-examining four who had been previously heard, the inquest was adjourned until Wednesday night at the request of Coroner Dr. Gray who announced that he was indisposed.

The chief feature of last night's sitting was the divergency along several points between the story told by Blake Cullen, a Bridgenorth friend of the Joplings and that testified by Gordon Long, Herbert Marks and Miss Minns. All three swore positively that Harry Jopling did not shout out when he was fighting with Bollard but Cullen maintained that he did shout and that it was on account of that that he (Cullen) had left the ladies he was with and had gone down to where the row took place.

Cullen also repeated the statement that he had heard Bollard say that night at the ice cream stand that he was going to thrash Harry Jopling. On the other hand, Gordon Long testified that he had been with Bollard the evening of the mix-up and that he had not said anything about thrashing Jopling.

The only new witnesses called were G. A. Jopling and Miss Pearl Jopling of Bridgenorth, father and sister respectively of the Jopling boys. Their evidence did not shed any additional light on the affair. Fred Jopling, his arm tied in a sling was among the witnesses, all of whom were sent out of the court room when the session opened. At to-morrow night's session he will be called and also County Constable Archie Moore who is to tell of a conversation he had with Cullen.

Dr. J. A. Morgan who has been attending Fred Jopling will also take the stand and will testify as to Jopling's condition.

Whether or not Dr. Morgan will be questioned as to the post mortem at which he was present in an unofficial capacity, is not known. However, Warden Scott, foreman of the jury informed Coroner Gray last night that the Jury would like to hear Dr. Morgan examined about the post mortem.

Mr. R. E. Wood, Crown Attorney, looked after the interests of the Crown. Mr. F. D. Kerr was present for the Bollard family and Mr. D. O'Connell for the Joplings.

Miss Minns Recalled.

Miss Ada Minns, who had already twice before been on the stand, was the first witness called.

PETERBOROUGH FAIR PROMISES TO BREAK ALL RECORDS THIS YEAR

Directors Are Delighted and Their Enthusiasm Seems to be Warranted by the Manner in Which Entries Are Pouring In—"Looks Good to Me," Says President.

WILL BE A BIG CROWD

"Given this brand of weather for the rest of the week and the Peterborough Fair will break all records," remarked a director of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition this morning.

Other directors echoed this sentiment and it begins to look as if the management is right judging by the way the entries are pouring in and the amusement men are looking for concessions.

The finishing touches are being put on the work of getting the grounds in shape by Superintendent J. J. Bennett and his men and everything will be in readiness for Thursday when the stock entries will start to come in.

The grounds and buildings will be open on Thursday morning for the purpose of receiving exhibits all of which except live stock and poultry must be in by noon on Thursday.

The grounds are thrown open to the public for the first time on Friday morning at eight o'clock and a great part of the judging will take place then. The exhibits in the main building and the poultry will be judged at ten o'clock on Friday morning and all poultry must be on the grounds and arranged in coops in time to allow judging to start promptly at ten o'clock.

At one o'clock will be the judging of halter horses in classes 1 to 5 and other live stock in the small ring.

The grandstand performance commences at 2 o'clock sharp and the speeding in the ring shortly after that hour, while the judging of light harness horses will begin at 2.30 o'clock The 57th Band will be present during the afternoon.

In the evening, commencing at 7.30 o'clock, there will be the grand military tournament by the 24th Field Batery, their performance including red cros ride, tug-of-war, midnight alarm and other sports. The Arab troupe of acrobats and Mlle. Celina de Leo's performing animals will give novel acts, and the band will render a choice programme, while the fire brigade will be on hand.

Board of Health Ordered Payment of Bills That Accrued During Small Pox Epidemic—Other Matters.

SEWERS TO BE BUILT

At a meeting of the Board of Health this morning the accounts in connection with the recent Small Pox outbreak were received and ordered to be paid.

Dr. Burnham occupied the chair and the members present were. Messrs. J. Murty, D. J. Johnston, J. Edgar, Dr. MacPherson and Chief Bonzel.

Mr. S. Clegg asked for a sewer on Antrim street, west of the G.T.R. track. It will be 180 feet long from the manhole east of the track to his house. Moved by Messrs. Johnston and Murty that the request be granted.

Messrs. W. H. Walkey and John Mathison asked for a sewer on Benson street, extending north from the junction of Benson Avenue and Benson street. There are eight property holders, four of whom will sign a petition. Moved by Messrs. Edgar and Murty, that the sewer be built.—Carried.

J. A. Ash asked permission to build a cesspool for two houses which he is building on Bothune street. There is no sewer on the street and he is equipping the houses with complete plumbing. It was moved by Messrs. Murty and Johnston that Mr. Ash be granted leave to build the cesspool under the supervision of the Sanitary Inspector and with the understanding that a connection be made with a sewer when it is constructed.—Carried.

Accounts Certified

On motion of Messrs. Johnston and Murty the following certified accounts were ordered to be paid:—

|---|---|
| Wm. Curtis | $1.38 |
| E. L. Payne | 9.30 |
| Bell Telephone Company | 3.00 |
| R Hicks | 3.50 |

| Mrs. Gates | 156.00 |
| J. J. Turner & Son | 286.25 |
| Mrs. Davis | 12.00 |
| W. H. Andrews | 16.00 |

Ald. Johnston did not think it proper that articles should be purchased from firms with which members of the City Council are connected. He referred to the accounts of J. J. Turner and R. Hicks & Co. Mayor Rush explained that in regard to the Turner account the epidemic had broken out and it was imperative that immediate provision be made for the patients. The Turner Co., who alone are tent makers worked overtime to get out the tents, etc. The Hick's account, a small one, $3.50, was for wood for the tent and was probably 'phoned in to a clerk and Mr. Hicks did not know of its existence.

The account of White Bros. of $1.00 was order to be paid if the Medical Health officer certified to it.

AFTER 25 YEARS

Mr. Joseph B. Boyd, Formerly of Douro, is in the City To-day.

Joseph B. Boyd, of Langdon, N.D., a former resident of the township of Douro, who left here twenty-five (25) years ago, was registered at the Oriental Hotel yesterday, and is also the guest of Mr. Martin McManus, Albert St. He is at present on his way back to his home in North Dakota. He will stop off at Peterborough and visit his old friends and home in the Township of Douro. It is just a couple of months ago since Mr. Boyd had the misfortune of losing his residence in a cyclone, in which his wife was killed. He is a prosperous general merchant in Langdon and for two years was member of the Senate.

FOR BABY'S SKIN TROUBLES

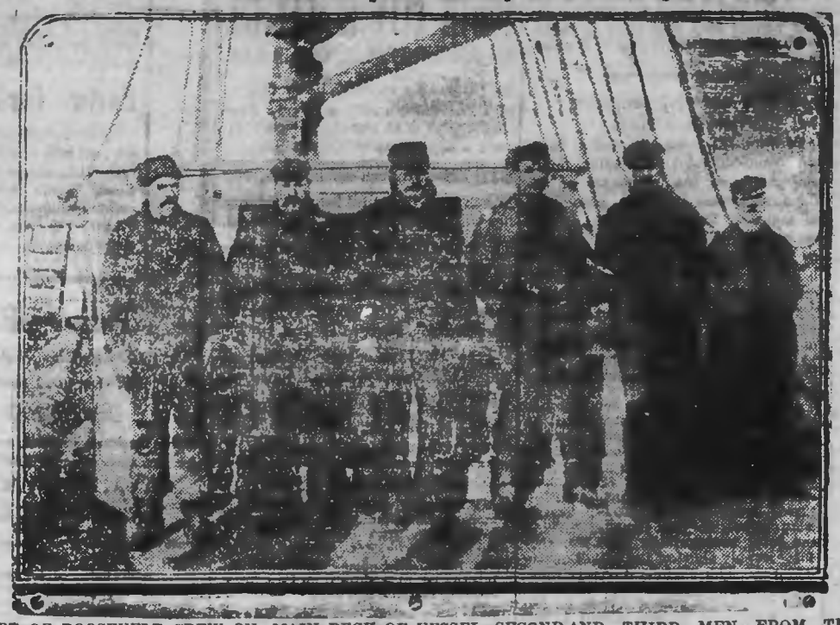
There are times in the life of nearly every child when Dr. Chase's Ointment proves itself a blessing. The tender skin chafes and is irritated by the clothing. Oftentimes baby eczema develops from this very cause. In a dozen ways Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used to sooth and heal the skin and prevent suffering of the little one. No treatment is so well suited for this purpose and none is so entirely satisfactory.

Crew Of Staunch Roosevelt Men Who Share With Peary Hardship And Glory of Polar Sea



PART OF ROOSEVELT CREW ON MAIN DECK OF VESSEL. SECOND AND THIRD MEN FROM THE LEFT ARE GEO. WARDWELL, CHIEF ENGINEER, AND THOS. GUSHUE, THE MATE

Commander Peary's ship the Roosevelt, which carried him into the Arctic Sea, is the most complete Arctic craft ever made.

The Roosevelt is a combination steam and sailing vessel. One startling feature of the Roosevelt is its wooden hull. Practically no metal is found in it. The hull is not only sheathed with 16-inch oak timbers, but is braced inside with great beams running crosswisely and longitudinally inside.

So heavy is the hull construction that it is possible for the ship to be squeezed entirely out of the water—or ice—without crushing the timbers or causing a leak.

The engines are built for strength and endurance and the ship carries duplicate rudders, propellers and shafts. The Roosevelt has three masts and a complete equipment of sailing gear to use in case fuel is exhausted or the machinery is crippled. All the space not needed for machinery and reinforced consturction is used for storing food, supplies, scientific instruments and fuel.

The Roosevelt was built in 1905, and was used by Peary in his "farthest north" expedition of the following year—the one which set the highest mark up till the present time. The Arctic Club of New York, the Peary Club and other organizations, helped Peary secure most of the funds used to build it. It was named for President Roosevelt, who took great interest in the expedition.

Judges Visited Lawns In Contest

Larger Number Than Usual Were Entered for the Prizes Offered by Horticultural Society—Better Than Usual.

A DIFFICULT TASK

The gentlemen appointed by the Horticultural Society to judge the lawns of those citizens who entered their names according to the rules of the competition visited the residences yesterday and will have their decisions ready in a few days. The judges were Messrs. Walter Stocker, Benj. Cooney, James Stevenson and Sam Jordan. The entry list was a little larger than in other years and the lawns and flower pots were particularly fine. The class representing those citizens who care for their own property themselves was more numerous than usual and also in the other classes the places submitted for inspection have been so carefuly tended that the judges find it a difficult matter to make their awards.

WASHOUT ON C.P.R.

4.38 Train Yesterday was Delayed Three Hours.

The 4.38 C.P.R. train was delayed three hours last evening, not getting here until about eight o'clock. When the train was about twenty-five miles out of Montreal it was found that there had been a washout on the track. The train had to return to Montreal and come by way of Ottawa.

First Drill Of The Cadets

Collegiate Institute Corps Was Reorganized for the Season Yesterday, With 150 Boys On Parade.

FIRST INSTRUCTIONS

The organization of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute Cadet Company took place yesterday afternoon at 3.30, there being about 150 boys in the turn-out. A few of the first instructions were given by Lieut. Hodgson. Mr. Hodgson laid special stress on the fact that the boys should walk with their heads erect, and procure caps that would enable them to face the sun and carry out this order.

The next drill will be held on Wednesday, and the officers will be assigned to their positions.

Why the flag was up at the Institute yesterday was a subject of much discussion and debate, the debaters evidently did not remember that yesterday was the 150th anniversary of the battle of the Plains of Abraham.

The annual meeting of the Girls' Athletic Association of the Collegiate Institute, for the nomination of officers will be held in the assembly hall this evening.

BOARD OF HEALTH GIVE THE COUNCIL A "SLAP ON THE WRIST"

Say They Were Ignored in the Isolation Hospital Question and Standing on Their Dignity Refused to Approve of it During the Meeting This Morning.

The Board of Health is "sore" on the City Council. The latter body have practically determined upon building an Isolation Hospital to cost $15,000. The Medical Association were consulted or were asked to consider the proposed plans, but the Board of Health which fathered the Isolation Hospital scheme several years ago was ignored. Dr. MacPherson asked the Board this morning to pass a motion strengthening the Council's hand but they refused. It was not because the members are opposed to the Hospital but they were not in a position to express an intelligent opinion of the plans as they had never seen them, had in fact never been asked to look at them.

Mr. Johnston had seen them in the architect's office while in on business one day but the other members stated that they had not the slightest idea of what the plans called for.

"The Board has been ignored," one and all remarked, and as to passing a resolution that idea was as remote as the South Pole. "Let them bring the plans here so we can see them," the chairman said, "and we will be in a position to express an opinion." With this slap on the wrist the Council and particularly the Property Committee will "be good" to use a stock phrase of Ald. Morgan's.

RETURNS AFTER EXTENDED TRIP TO BRITISH ISLES AND EUROPE

Rev. E. A. Pearson, Pastor of George Street Methodist Church, Arrived Home Last Night---Visited all the Places of Interest in England, Ireland, Scotland and the Various Countries on the Continent---Fully Enjoyed His Vacation.

Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of the George St. Methodist Church arrived home last evening after two months and a half tour of the continent, visiting all the notable places of interest. Mr. Pearson is looking exceedingly well after his stay abroad and in conversation with an Examiner reporter at noon to-day expressed himself as being very glad to be back home again.

He talked interestingly of his trip and at an early date will do doubt favour his congregation with a lecture on his visit to the Old land.

A GREAT HARVEST.

The Scriptures enjoin us to rejoice with those who rejoice, and we have a chance to join in the paeans of praise the farmers of the West are sending up over the bountiful harvest of 1909. Harvesting in the West is practically ended, and threshing is in full hum. The last dry spell of warm weather has been very favourable to harvesting, the lengthening of the season compensating for shortfall of labour. The frost has kept back longer than usual, and the results are far more favourable than the most roseate anticipations. Alberta is credited with the largest average yield of the three provinces. Forty-five bushels per acre are reported from several districts. The West will do its little share in eliminating the shortage of wheat in the world's granaries at the beginning of the year. Of the world's total crop of 3,370 million bushels the Canadian West has contributed about 120 millions of bushels.

TRANSPORTATION AND PROSPERITY.

Activity of transportation interests is one important test of industrial and commercial thrift. Applied to the United States railways, this condition proves that the hard times of a year so ago—the flat year of 1908—are a thing of the past. In the year ending June 30th, 1907, the railways of the United States reaped net earnings of 900 million dollars, and this year promises as big, or bigger, an income. The net earnings of June of this year are 15 per cent. better than the corresponding month of 1907. Not only that, but more money is available for improvements to road bed, rolling stock, etc., and it is calculated that the expenditure upon these by United States railways will reach the wonderful figure of a million dollars for every working day of this year. This will create demands upon rolling mills, steel plants and other industrial establishments, and so the wave of demand will spread with a beneficial effect in all domains of enterprise. The same will apply in a degree to the conditions in Canada. We have reaped a bumper crop, and our railways will be kept hot with traffic, with resultant expension in all national interests and a contamination of the prosperous general conditions that have supervened upon our passing wave of commercial and financial depression. We may fuss and fume over achievements like the discovery of the North Pole and the exploitation of air navigation, but these and similar things though making greater noise in the world, are infinitely less important than the quiet, unobtrusive operation of industrial forces, in field and wrkshop, and mine, with the direct and tangible effect upon the mass of mankind, the international exchange of commodities and the concurrent prmotion of international amity and civilising forces—greater than flying machines and terrestrial axles.

THE NATIONAL EXHIBITION

The City of Toronto is a great city, daily growing in size and importance. Among its successes is to be found the National Exhibition, a splendid annual event which has no counterpart in any country of the world. Great as has been its success in the past great as has been the advance during a generation of man, there is still room for expansion and improvement. This exhibition has outgrown its parochial character and assumed a truly National standing. But to achieve the full significance of this condition there must be improvement and extension in the matter of housing exhibits, especially exhibits of machinery. The great industrial expansion which has come in Canada finds no adequate reflection in exhibits of machinery—there are at present neither facilities for placing the exhibits, nor space in which to display them. For this reason there was this year no exhibit by the Canadian General Electric Works, the Canada Foundry Company or many extensive factories or these and other kinds in Canada. Doubt is no longer felt as to the advantages in the way of advertising and promotion of business of well-placed exhibits of machinery at the National Exhibition. Our boundless resources of all kinds are attracting the attention of British and foreign capital and the indispensable element in this development, is machniery. This indicates the erection of new and extensive buildings for the proper and effective display and operation of machinery. If the exhibition is to remain true to name, is to be and to remain national in character, scope and result, it must be equipped to meet the national demands that are made upon it and do its share in promoting the national development, it can be made to promote. In the interests of the whole of Canada, the directors will be justified in adopting measures for the erection of an adequate machinery building to be available for the exhibition of 1910. The country, as well as the directors, is concerned in the provision of requisite accommodation for our Canadian machinery at our National Exhibition. Adequate provision has been made in the way of buildings and equipment for almost every other interest, and one of the most important should not be slighted.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Halley comet is coming, so scientists tell us, and will be visible to the naked eye in the northern hemisphere about February 10, 1910. This comet was named after Edmund Halley, who in 1680 first discovered it to be a periodical visitor, and predicted its return. It appears to our observation but once in seventy-six years, and consequently the opportunity now afforded is one that will not be available by many adults now living.

The Kingston Standard declares that to the many sins already recorded against the Ross Government, that of neglect of technical education must be added. This remarks the Brantford Expositor, is richness. The only technical education to be found in this province to-day was put there by Hon. R. Harcourt, when Minister of Education. To this the present holder of the portfolio of education, Hon. Dr. Pyne, has added nothing whatever but idle vapour and useless commissions of inquiry.

"In the excitement of receiving Peary's story from Battle Harbour the world has overlooked," says the Ottawa Free Press, "the wonderful feat performed by wireless telegraphy in transmitting over four thousand words of press matter from a station equipped only for marine work. It is one of the most wonderful things yet to the credit of wireless telegraphy and adds another feather to the cap of Chevalier Marconi" and is a credit to Canada which was the first country to recognize by practical adoption and utilization, Marconi's great discovery.

DEVELOPING THE NORTH.

(Toronto News.)

For twenty-five years the sons of old Ontario farmers have been pouring westward and spreading out over the fertile prairies of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Unaware of the existence of millions of unoccupied acres in their own Province and unable through lack of railway facilities to reach them even if they had konwn of them, the migratory element of our poulation has gone further afield. The necessity of clearing the northern Ontario lands of timber is offset by the fact that in this very encumberance lies an ample source of revenue valuable to the pioneer settler during the years when he is getting his land into shape. The fertility of the region has been demonstrated by the display of agricultural products exhibited to the touring legislators.

The Provincial railway provides a strip of the eastern end of the belt with transportation facilities and before long two new transcontinental roads will thread its whole length from east to west. The Transcontinental is under construction from Lake Atibiti to Lake Nipigon, and the Canadian Northern will shortly build a loop from Sudbury to the Nipigon River. The prospect is that throughout their entire length both these sections of railway will be flanked by prosperous communities of farmers. From the outset the settlers will be bleased with plenty of fuel and water—commodities lacking in some parts of the West.

The existing mining camps and the probable discovery and develoument of other valuable mineral deposits should provide the settlers with convenient local markets for their products and the railways will carry their surplus stuff farther east. The rapidly rising valuation placed upon farms already under cultivation along the Provincial railway serves as a trustworthy indication of the brilliant future in store for this part of the country. Because of its rolling character the land will be easily drained, and the long duration of daylight in those northern latitudes conduces to the rapid growth and maturity of vegetation. The region is well adapted to the livestock industry and in fact to mixed farming on a thorough-going scale.

Prior to the building of the Provincial railway the trade of the Temiskaming country went down the Ottawa to Montreal. Ever since it has come more and more to Toronto. The Transcontinental may carry some of the business of the clay belt to the eastern metropolis, but Toronto and wholesale centres stand to benefit materially by the projection of the Canadian Northern to the Nipigon River. In view of these considerations alone the older portions of the Province will support the Ministry in any proper step that may be taken to hasten opening up and development

THE CEMENT MERGER.

(Monetary Times.)

Perhaps the most interesting document anticipated in Canadian financial circles is the prospectus of the Canada Cement Company, a combine of many of the Dominion's cement companies. The information aforded by the promoters up to the present has been somewhat meagre. The request of the Monetary Times for definite data has been met by a statement that there was "nothing further to add to what has already appeared in the daily press." As a basis, therefore, must be taken the data printed in that medium.

A leading official of the combine has stated that its annual output will be 4,500,000 barrels. The total production of cement in 1908 was 3,495,961 barrels. The amount sold in that year was 2,665,289 barrels, or 829,672 barrels less than the amount manufactured. In addition, 469,049 barrels were imported into Canada, making the total consumption 3,134,338, still considerably short of the actual manufactures. The Canada Cement Company therefore propose to commence with an annual output which, on the 1908 figures, is 365,662 barrels in excess of the total consumption of cement in Canada for that year. The merger includes only about nine of the Canadian cement companies, several of the large mills not being merged into the combine. Nine companies, then, propose to manufacture more cement than all Canadian companies manufactured in 1908, in which year the output was largely in excess of the sales.

It has been stated that the demand for cement is rapidly increasing. This statement in the light of the 1907-1908 figures and of present reports does not seem to be confirmed. The increase in the sales of last year over that of the previous year was only 9.4 per cent., while the increase in manufacture was 40.3 per cent., and the gain in the stock on hand at the end of the year, 242.5 per cent. Two of the chief causes for cement demand are bridges and sidewalks. These structures when of concrete are permanent, and already the consumption of cement for this work is less than it was a year ago; therefore new uses for cement appear to be needed more than new companies.

Besides the mills now operating, the combine may construct new plants at Winnipeg and Victoria, deposits of material having been discovered near those cities recently. In face of that, there is the fact that several mills are closed down, lacking both money and product demand.

The capitalization of the Canada Cement Company is given here. The figures previously published are quoted, they being the only statistics at present available:

| | Authorized | To be Issued. |
|---|---|---|
| Preferred 7 per cent. stock. .. | $11,000,000 | 10,000,000 |
| Common stock .. | 19,000,000 | 12,000,000 |
| Total stock .. | $30,080,000 | $22,000,000 |
| Bonds, 6 per cent | 8,000,000 | 5,000,000 |
| Total securities | $38,000,000 | $27,000,000 |

Of the $9,000,000 preferred stock, $4,000,000 will go towards paying for the properties only $5,000,000 going to the public.

The issued capital of the merger will, it is presumed, be considerably greater than the price the combines included therein are willing to accept. The prospectus of the Canada Cement Company should give particulars regarding the past earnings of individual companies. The estimated earnings o fthe combine for the future will require to be most carefully figured in view of the foregoing statements. The prospectus is awaited with interest.

difficulty at the pavilion that night," she replied in answer to a question from the Crown Attorney. "I did not hear anything said to Cullen, nor did I see him until the row had started. I don't knw anything about the starting of the fight."

In going over the fight itself witness remarked that she thought for a time that all the boys were on Mr. Bollard. There were, she thought, four or five in the second crowd that came down. Mr. Bollard was not dancing that night, but was utside at the ice cream stand and was there when the witness and Mr. Marks came out to go home. Witness had not seen who he was talking to at that time. She stated that she had heard two men come running down the road after their party.

"Are you sure they were running?" she was asked.

"I am positive."

"There were two attacked Bollard at the start," added the witness.

"Who was the second one?"

"I don't know who it was," was the reply.

"You were some distance away?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"At first I was six or seven feet away and I kept moving away from them."

"Then you did not have as good an opportunity as Marks and Long had to see what was going on?"

"No."

"Then you are not prepared to contradict their statement as to what took place?"

"No, I am not."

"Their description is more likely to be correct than yours?"

"Yes, they were closer than I was."

Trouble was not Discussed.

G. F. Jopling, of Bridgenorth, was the next witness.

"I did not hear any discussion among my boys about the trouble with Bollard," he replied to Mr. Wood. I didn't hear that they had had any difficulty or were going to have. I did not know anything about the trouble until Bollard died?"

"Did you say anything to Gravelle about the matter?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"I don't remember talking to Gravelle about the trouble."

"Did you tell the boys not to have trouble, that they were doing business in the park and that it would be better not to have any trouble?"

"No, I did not," replied the witness so emphatically that a ripple of laughter ran around the court room.

Miss Jopling Heard.

Pearl Jopling, daughter of the previous witness, and sister of Fred and Harry Jopling was the next on the stand.

"What was the first you had heard of the trouble?"

"I first heard that evening about 9.30 o'clock, at the pavilion; Harry told me that Arthur Bollard was going to give him a thrashing that night."

"Did you have any talk with Fred about it?"

"No."

"Did you say anything to anybody about it?"

"I told Blake Cullen, sitting at the ice cream booth with my seven-year-old brother, Walter."

"Did Cullen know about it?"

"He told me that he had heard nothing about it before."

Witness stated that she left for home with her brother, Walter, about 9.45 o'clock. She had told her other brothers that she was going home, but nothing had been said of their coming. She stated that she had not heard of the scrap until three days afterwards.

Miss Jopling was questioned as to the identity of the girls whom Harry had intended to accompany home that night. She thought they were at Sidenburg's cottage, but did not know whether they belonged to the family, or were employed there. Their first names were Ruth and Ida, but she did not know the rest.

Not Coached by Brothers.

Coroner Gray examined the witness closely as to any conversation she might have had with her brothers in connection with the evidence she was to give.

"Did they tell you what Harry and Cullen had testified?" asked the Coroner.

"I read it in the papers," was the reply.

"Didn't they tell you what to say?" suggested Dr. Gray.

"I knew what to say; I knew I was to tell the truth," replied the witness simply.

"Did any one interrogate you as to what you were going to say?"

"No."

"Did they not tell you what they expected you to say?"

"No."

"You saw what evidence Harry and Cullen gave in the newspapers?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"Yes".

Herbert Marks Heard.

Herbert Marks, Bollard's chum was recalled.

"Have you recollected anything that you forget to mention in giving your evidence before?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Yes, I forgot to say what I did when Bollard yelled "Dirty!"

The witness was taken over the story of the fight by the Crown Attorney. He stated that he, Bollard, and Miss Minns had walked down together; had gotten a few feet past Mr. Wolfe's cottage when some one came running down the road after them. Bollard had just time to turn around and take off his coat when Harry Jopling shouted "Here he is," and rushed at him, and both went down together. Then Fred Jopling took a hand and his brother got out of the scrap.

"When Fred Jopling and Bollard got into the mix-up I was pushed away by Cullen," said the witness "I heard Bollard exclaim 'Let go!' three times, and 'Dirty' twice, and I got around the fellow that was pushing me and went over, and grabbed Jopling by the shoulder. He had Bollard down on his back and was hitting him in the face with his right fist."

Kneeling on Bollard.

"How was he holding Bollard?" asked Mr. Wood.

He had his knee on Bollard's shoulder. They were like that when I got there. When I grabbed Fred by the shoulder he got up and swung at me, hitting me a glancing blow. Then some one else came and the fight stopped."

"What do you suppose the use of that word 'Dirty!' meant?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"That Jopling wasn't fighting fair, I suppose," was the reply.

"Do you know where he had hold of Bollard?"

"Do you think it possible that Jopling was kneeling on Bollard's stomach?" asked the Coroner.

"I don't think so."

"When you say that the word 'dirty' meant that Jopling was not fighting fair you don't base your opinion on anything that you saw that night, do you?" asked Mr. O'Connell in cross-examination.

'No," was the reply.

Gordon Long's Testimony.

Gordon Long was the next witness.

"I was with Bollard at the hotel that night, meeting him about 8.30 o'clock, or a quarter to nine," he testified. "We walked over to the ice cream stand and sat down there. I stayed there with him until he left for home with Miss Minns and Marks."

"Did you hear any conversation between the Joplings, or between Blake Cullen and the Joplings?"

"No, I did not."

"Did you hear anything said about thrashing Harry Jopling?"

"No. Bollard said something to me about making Harry Jopling take back what he had said. He told me that Harry Jopling had called him some names."

"Who did you go down the hill with that night?"

"I went down alone. I was ahead of the Joplings, and behind the Bollard party. I heard some one running down the road, and two passed me, Harry Jopling was the only one I recognized. Fred Jopling was there when I got there. Harry and Bollard were down, but I don't know which was underneath. Fred Jopling went to pull them off or to help; I don't know which. They got up off their feet and Fred said, 'It's me you have to fight; that is only a youngster you are fighting with.' Then they clinched and wrestled across the road under the trees. I heard Bollard holler 'Let go!' three times, and 'Dirty!' twice, and I went over to them. Fred was up then and Bollard was on the ground."

"The first you knew of the difficulty was when you got there and saw the contest?"

"Yes."

"Did that cry of Bollard's startle you?"

"Not particularly."

"But you walked over?"

"Yes."

"Did the words 'Let go' bring you over?"

"Yes, practically, they did."

"Was it a sound of pain?"

"Yes."

"What impression did the words 'Dirty' and 'Let go' give you?"

"That it was not a square deal. That Jopling was using either an unfair hold or a rough hold."

Make Him Take it Back.

The witness was cross examined by Mr. O'Connell as to his conversation with Bollard on the night of the trouble.

"Bollard told me that he would make him take it back," said the witness.

"What did the words 'Make him take it back' mean to you?"

"That he was going to make him take it back, gentlemanly, or else fight it out with him, I suppose."

Witness repeated his story of walking down the park after the Bollard party and being passed on the way by two men running. When he got down he found the members of the Bollard party and Fred and Harry Jopling, who were the only members of the Jopling party there.

"You said I think," remarked Mr. O'Connell, "that you do not know whether Fred Jopling was trying to engage in the fight, or separate them?"

"I don't know which".

"Any way the fight ended when he interfered?"

"Yes."

"It would appear from that, then, that he intended to separate them?"

"Yes."

"When you say that the words 'Dirty' and 'Let go' meant to you that it was an unfair or rough fight, that is apart from anything you saw there that night?"

"Yes."

"As far as you saw it was an entirely fair fight?"

"Yes."

"Did you hear Fred Jopling say when he interefered that Bollard had to deal with him?"

"Yes."

Conversation with Bollard.

"Where did this conversation you had with Bollard take place?" asked the Coroner.

"On the hotel verandah."

"Who was there?"

"Just the two of us."

'Did he say it in a loud voice?"

"It was spoken in an ordinary tone."

"Did you see Cullen there then?"

"No".

"Did you see him at all?"

"I saw him a little later".

"While you were sitting or walking around the ice cream stand did Bollard say anything about thrashing Harry Jopling?"

"No".

"If he had said so you would have remembered it?"

"Yes."

'Did you remain with Bollard until he left with Marks?"

"Yes, except when he went over to the hotel to get a drink of water."

"Then you were with him from about half past eight until he left for home, except when he went for a drink?"

"Yes."

"He couldn't have used the expression that he was going to thrash Harry Jopling when he was with you?"

"No."

"There was no possible likelihood that he used the expression at the ice cream stand?"

"No."

"You mean he didn't use the expression at the ice cream stand?"

"No."

"You mean he didn't use the expression at the ice cream stand, as far as you remember?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"As far as I remember he did not."

"After the first scrap and before the wrestle did you notice Bollard's condition?" the Crown Attorney inquired.

"No."

Blake Cullen Heard Again.

Blake Cullen was the next witness.

"When did you first hear of the difficulty?" he was asked.

"At the ice cream stand, near the pavilion, Miss Pearl Jopling and other ladies were there."

"Did you see Gordon Long there?"

"I don't remember seeing him."

"Did you see Bollard there?"

"Yes."

"Did you hear him say anything?"

"I heard him say that he was going to give Harry a thrashing."

"Did he say that he was going to give him a thrashing or that he was going to make him take it back?"

"I didn't hear him say that he was going to make him take it back."

"Who did he say it to?"

"I don't know."

"Was it to Gordon Long?"

"I don't remember seeing Long there at all."

"Well, what did you do then?"

"I told the conversation to Fred. He was over at the hotel."

"If you had kept your mouth shut there might have been no trouble?" asked Mr. Wood.

"There were others knew it before me, I guess."

"What did you go over to the hotel for?"

"Charlie Forsythe and I were walking around the verandah."

"You were watching Bollard?"

"No, I did not watch Bollard at all."

"You knew he was at the ice cream stand?"

"Yes."

"Did you see the Bollard party start home?"

"They had passed the hotel when I saw them."

"Where was Harry when you came out of the hotel with Fred?"

"He was over at the swings."

"What did Fred say to him?"

"Fred asked him what Bollard was going to thrash him for."

"Bollard had passed then?"

"Yes."

"You knew he had just started home?"

"Yes."

"What was said then?"

"Harry replied that he did not know, and Fred said "We'll go and find out."

"Then they went down?"

"Yes."

A Question of Speed.

"How long did you stay after they had gone?"

"A minute or two, I guess."

"How far was it from where you were to where the fight took place?"

"About 100 yards."

"And how far were you behind the Joplings?"

"Quite a piece; about 25 or 35 yards, I think."

"How long does it take to run a hundred yards?" asked Mr. Wood, and as the witness did not answer he went on himself: "We will say 10 to 12 seconds; to go thirty-five yards would take three or four seconds. Yet you say that you stayed there for a minute or two, and that you were only thirty-five yards behind the Joplings. Do you see where that leaves you?"

"I didn't watch how long I stayed there," replied the witness.

"Did you tell Constable Moore that you and Fred Jopling took home some young ladies that night?"

"No," I told him that Harry Jopling was at the swing with some ladies and that they caught up to me on the way down. I said that I would walk down with them, seeing that Harry had gone."

More bread and Better bread
—And the Reason for it

A STRONG FLOUR can only be made from strong wheat. Manitoba hard wheat is acknowledged the strongest in the world—and that is the kind used for Purity Flour.

But that's not all. Every grain of this wheat contains both high-grade and low-grade properties. In separating the high-grade parts from the low-grade the Western Canada Flour Mills put the hard wheat through a process so exacting that not a single low-grade part has the remotest chance of getting in with the high-grade.

Of course this special process is more expensive to operate but it means a lot to Purity flour users—that's why we use it.

It means that Purity Flour is made entirely of the highest-grade flour parts of the strongest wheat in the world.

It means a high-class, strong flour and therefore yields "more bread and better bread."

Purity may cost a little more than some flours, but results prove it the cheapest and most economical after all.

TALKS WITH PROUD WIVES OF NORTH POLE CONQUERORS

I Always Knew He'd Win, Says Mrs. Peary of Hers---She's Been to the Arctic Herself.

Casco Bay, Me., Sept. 11.—"How will Dr. Cook feel and act among kings?" I asked the brave little wife of the north pole discoverer.

"Just like one of them!" came the proud answer, her eyes flashing.

I had arrived an hour before at this quiet little refuge of Mrs. Cook and her children— a refuge to which they had fled when privations in the great city on Long Island threatened them. I found Mrs. Cook radiant with joy and wifely pride.

"How did I feel when I heard the news?" she said. "Well, I can hardly tell you. On the afternoon of Sept. 1 I saw a newspaper extra at Lewiston. It told me of my husband's success. I was stunned but said nothing. And when I came home there was the cable gram from Fred. Then I knew that the whole terrible dream was over. Of course I was happy.

"Dr. Cook is a quiet man and uneffusive. When he says 'My world is in my little home,' it means volumes to me. He signed this message to me yours cordially, but that means much. His self-control is perfect. If you knew him you would realize he is the kind of a man to find the pole."

The news of the success of Peary—Dr. Cook's rival—was spreading among the villagers and resorters.

"Peary is not sincere," Mrs. Cook said. "I know because my husband has been with him. You've seen Peary's pictures in ice deserts, haven't you? Well, he always gets a big chunk of ice between his camera and his boat, so the picture will make the situation look desperate.

"Why, when he met me at the Arctic Club banquet in 1907, he said, 'Ah, Mrs. Cook, wife of Dr. Cook. He's in the north now, I hear.' Then he walked away. He was very patronizing. I saw him treat Mr. Fiala, the Italian explorer, the same way, too.

"Peary never let his men talk. He always wanted all the glory. Never any credit for anybody but himself. I'll admit my husband and Peary are not friends.

"The Eskimos hated Peary. That's why he didn't take Mene along when the boy wanted to go back. He was afraid Mene would tell the Eskimos the truth about Peary's standing in this country."

A week of delight over success has made Mrs. Cook forgetful of what she herself calls her terrible dream. Just how terrible her experience has been few of her close friends know.

A few days before her husband's memorable message Mrs. Cook was sitting beside her little cottage at Casco. Mrs. F. E. Vore, an old friend, was calling on her.

"Marie," asked Mrs. Vore, "what are you going to do this winter?"

"I'll have to take up work as a stenographer, I'm afraid," said the explorer's wife. "I've done that before. Oh, if I only knew Fred was alive!"

Mrs. Cook was down to her last $100 bill. The rest of a small fortune she had spent on her husband's explorations.

South Harpswell, Me., Sept. 7.—"I'm the happiest woman in the world."

It was Mrs. Robt. E. Peary, a little brown-eyed woman, with just a trace of gray in her hair, who said this. And she meant it.

Her husband—her big, brave husband—was safe. He had accomplished his life desire—he had found the pole.

And no woman in the world realized better than Mrs. Robt. E. Peary just what her husband's feat cost. For Mrs. Peary herself has been into the Arctic circle. She has made a dash to the pole. It was under the Arctic sun that she gave birth to little Marie Ahnighto, the white baby of the north—now a pretty girl of 16.

"I know what it means—in the polar seas," said Mrs. Peary, "and yet I didn't suffer much hardship.

"It may sound strange, but it didn't seem cold. I have had lots more trouble with the cold in Brooklyn than with the intense zero weather of the Arctic. It's the climate and the dryness of the air that make the difference.

"We didn't suffer except on occasions"——

A look suggesting some terrible memory came into her restless brown eyes. She probably was thinking of a freezing accident on board the Windward when her husband had suffered the loss of seven toes.

"Whatever the perils of the Arctic circle," she continued, "nothing could be worse than being here in comfort while Mr. Peary—I didn't know where he was—was outside the range of communication. I couldn't cable. All I could do was to wait—just to wait and hope.

People used to pity me for my suspense, but they didn't know and understand.

"But now it's all over," and The Woman Who Had Faith smiled.

"Child life among the Eskimos is the most interesting," she said. "About the only toy the children can play with, is a foot ball made from walrus hide, which is very tough. They kick and throw this around on the ice.

I don't see how the babies there can stand it. They wear hardly any clothes, even in the coldest weather, until they grow up. Then they leave parts of their bodies thinly covered.

"But that's what makes them so strong, I suppose," she explained.

"The Eskimos have been a help to my husband, of course," Mrs. Peary added. "We are thankful for all he has done, and now when he is so near home I feel that he belongs to us all the time. I don't think he will go back to the pole. The north tried to claim him, and even his life, but we have him again, and he has made good his word that he would find the north pole."

In the Peary family Marie is still a dyed-in-the-wool polar enthusiast. The hazy memories of her childhood in the far north still make the adventurous career of her father one of great romance, and to her at least all his perils have been forgotten in the enjoyment she feels.

"How far did you walk with the ladies?"

"I can't say how far."

"When you got down what did you find?"

"Fred had his hand on Bollard's shoulder, asking him to get up."

"Just asking him gently to get up?" inquired the Crown Attorney, sarcastically.

"Yes, he was just asking him to get up."

"Do you remember him telling Bollard that he was the man he had to fight?"

"No."

"Did you take hold of Marks?"

"Yes, I said there was no use of us getting into it."

"Did you hear Bollard say, "Let go?"

"No, I just heard him holler".

"Did you see Jopling strike Bollard?"

"No, it was too dark."

"Could you see what hold he had on him?"

"No."

"Did you hear Bollard say 'Rotten?'"

"No."

"Was it a cry of pain?"

"I can't say whether it was or not."

"How far were you away?"

"I was twelve or fifteen feet away."

Did Hear Word 'Dirty.'

"If the word 'Dirty' had been used could you have heard them?" asked Mr. O'Connell.

"I don't know whether I could have heard them or not, I suppose I could if I had been paying attention."

"But you were paying attention."

"Yes."

"Then you would have heard the word had it been used?"

"Yes."

"Was it the girls going home that caused you to go down?"

"No."

"You didn't go down to assist in the fight?"

"No."

"You went down to see what he was going to lick Harry Jopling for?"

"Yes."

"Then you had two objects in going down, to accompany the girls and to see if the Joplings would get an explanation?"

"Yes."

"You did not go down to assist in the fight?"

"No."

"There was no agreement between Joy and Jopling that you were to engage in the fight?"

"No."

"Was there any agreement between the Joplings and anybody else to engage in the fight?"

"No."

"Why did you leave the ladies?"

"I heard some one shouting and found when I got down that it was Harry Jopling."

"Did anyone interfere in the fight between Bollard and Fred Jopling?"

"No."

"If they had would you have seen it?"

"Yes."

"When you started you had no intention of going home with the ladies?" asked Mr. Wood.

"No."

A Volley of Questions.

Coroner Gray hurled a volley of questions at the witness in connection with the shouting he said that Harry Jopling had done. He stated that no one else had said anything about this shouting, and that it was strange there should be such divergency.

Mr. O'Connell, who is representing the Joplings in the inquiry, objected to this. He pointed out that Harry Jopling had already testified to having shouted when Bollard had hold of him.

Coroner Gray had forgotten this part of the evidence, but Mr. O'Connell appealed to Mr. Wood, who verified his version of the matter.

"This is a serious matter," remarked the Coroner. "We are not here for our health. We are here to find out how that boy came to his death."

"Did you hear Fred Jopling ask Bollard for an explanation?" he asked, continuing the examination of the witness.

"No."

"You said no one interfered in the fight. Why you interefered. You kept Marks away when he was going to assist his friend," declared the Coroner.

"I said there was no use of us interfering. I wanted to see fair play," replied the witness.

Witnesses Recalled.

Herbert Marks was called back to the stand.

"Did you hear anyone shouting when Bollard and Harry Jopling were on the ground?"

"No."

"Do you think you would have heard it if there had been shouting then?"

"I think so."

"When did you hear the first shouting?"

When Bollard said 'Let go,' when he and Fred Jopling were in holds."

Gordon Long and Miss Minns were brought back again, and the same questions asked them in regard to the shouting. Both corroborated Marks in that the first shouting took place when Bollard and Fred Jopling were fighting.

At the conclusion of their evidence Coroner Gray announced that he was indisposed, and that it would be impossible to go on.

The inquest was therefore adjourned until Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

"THE OLD SCRATCH."

How the Evil One Came to be Popularly Known as 'The Old Scratch'.

One of the many familiar names of his satanic majesty is "The Old Scratch." It is undoubtedly due to the fact that scratching is so disagreeable that people thought it no worse than the evil one. A scalp full of dandruff keeps one scratching all the time; not only disagreeable, but considered very inelegant in polite society—as it should be—because one ought to keep the scalp so clean that it would not itch. To cure the scalp, of dandruff effectively, use Newbro's Herpicide. It kills the germ that creates the dandruff, which is preliminary to falling hair, and, finally, baldness. No other hair preparation kills the dandruff germ. Herpicide also is a very delightful and effective hairdressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

OBITUARY.

MR. W. A. BAILEY ON THE ATHLETIC EVENTS

Peterborough, Sept. 10, '09.

Sir,—Whilst congratulating Mr. Woodon a very fine performance in winning the Howden Cup, allow me humbly to suggest that those who present trophies should enter the contest themselves. It was rather disgusting after the expense competitors are put to, to have to pay at the gate, especially considering the inadequate arrangements.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

Note.—Mr. Bailey made a fair showing in the sprints and jumps, and was in a small measure, perhaps, responsible for the success. The competitors apparently had to pay to enter the grounds, a point which Mr. Bailey objects to.

WEDDING BELLS

GRUBBE—SEYMOUR-LUCAS.

The following from the London Daily Graphic will be of interest here as oneof the contracting parties has relations here:

There is always something peculiarly charming about the marriage of a great artist's daughter, and was specially the case with that of Miss Seymour Lucas, for both her father and mother come from highly artistic stock; in fact through her mother Miss Seymour-Lucas is said to be descended from Rubens. The famous R. A.'s daughter is not, however, marrying a painter, but a soldier. The marriage of Captain Lawrence Carrington Grubbe, son of the late John Eustace Grubbe, of Horsendon Manor, Princes Risborough, Buckinghamshire and Southwold by the Sea, and Miss Marie Ellen Seymour-Lucas, only daughter of Mr. Seymour Lucas, the distinguished Royal Academician, took place yesterday at St. Mary's, Kilburn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Noyes, the Rev. Hall Grubbe, Vicar of Ardleigh, brother of the bridegroom, and the Rev. S. East. Mr. Hubert Grubbe was his brother's best man. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a soft white satin Princess gown, trimmed with Honiton lace and pearls, and a tulle veil over a coronet of orange blossoms. The three bridesmaids wore white embroidered muslin dresses, trimmed with lace, and Charlotte Corday hats, trimmed with roses. They carried bouquets of roses, which, with gold curb bracelets, were the gifts of the bridegroom. After the ceremony a reception was held at New Place, Woodchurch Road, Hampstead. Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll sent the bride an amethyst and diamond pendant, surmounted by a diamond true-lover's knot. The President of the Society of Antiquaries, gave a copy of an antique Mazer bowl, and many leading R. A.'s sent works of their own as wedding presents.

SOME DEFINITIONS FOR BEGINNERS IN INVESTMENTS

More or Less Familiar Terms Precisely Explained.

There are always new investors "coming on," and some who already have securities drawing dividends are not familiar with the precise meaning of some of the terms used on their stock certificates. For these A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, Toronto, furnish information showing the full significance of the securities of the F. N. Burt Company, Limited, which they are now offering for sale by advertisement. These securities are 7 per cent. cumulative, convertible, preference shares, which are offered at par, with bonus of 20 per cent. of the amount of preference shares in common stock. The following is a detailed explanation of the terms used.

"7 per cent."—The shares yield dividends at the rate of 7 per cent per year. In this case quarterly dividends are to be paid of 1¾ per cent. each, on the first days of January, April, July and October in each year.

"Cumulative."—If, for any reason, the Company should not pay a total of 7 per cent. in any one year in dividends to Preference stockholders, no dividend can be paid to common stockholders until such shortage and any other shortage from year to year has been paid to the Preference shareholder.

"Convertible"—In the Burt Company this word signifies that a holder of preference shares may, any time he likes, exchange his preference shares for the same par value in common shares. This right would come into value on the business of the Company becoming so prosperous that the Common Stock dividend rate could be made greater than the dividend rate on the preference stock.

"Preference"—In the Burt Company the fixed preference dividend rate is 7 per cent. per annum, and the "Preference" is as to both assets and dividends. That is to say, if the business should ever be wound up Preference shareholders would have to be paid in full, including any unpaid dividends at 7 per cent. per annum, before the common shareholders would get anything.

"Common"—All dividends over and above the 7 per cent. per annum on the Preference shares go to the Common shareholders, and in the winding up of a Company they receive all surplus after the Preference shares have been paid in full, together with any accumulated dividends.

Subscription books are open at the offices of A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, 7 and 9 King Street, East, Toronto, and close on or before Tuesday afternoon next at 4 o'clock.

The firm report a growing demand for this class of security during the last two years, and expect to receive a large number of small subscriptions.

ARRANGING FOR A CAMPAIGN

General Evangelistic Campaign For Peterborough Presbytery.

The Rev. William Beattie of Cobourg, Convener of Comimttee of Evangelistic work for the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, together with Mr. James Clarke of Port Hope, a member of the same committee were in the city this morning in Conference with the local Presbyterian Ministers outlining a plan for Evangelism for the Presbytery to take place during the month of November. The aid of outstanding Christian workers specially adapted for this sort of work will be invited and the first two weeks of the month will be spent throughout the northern part of the Presbytery and the latter weeks along the lake shore congregation.

Mr. Beattie reported that the General Assembly Committee in Evangelism had been in receipt of applications from 21 Presbyteries throughout the Church urging the assistance of workers for Evangelistic Services. This means a marvellous uprising of Churches and Ministers to the great need felt throughout the Dominion for a revival of religion.

The plan will be submitted to Presbytery at its meeting in St. Paul's Church next Tuesday, Sept. 21st, when Professor Kilpatrick of Knox College, who was identified with the great campaign in the Kootenay district last Spring will address the Presbytery and all friends of the work who may wish to gather at two o'clock.

A departure is to be made this year in the character of the Annual meeting of friends interested in the work of the Bible Society. Heretofore the meeting has been more or less a formal affair with a visitor from outside as speaker. The general interest of the whole city has not been looked to, although the public has given liberally to the support of the Society's object in spreading the Scriptures in foreign tongues.

This year the strong wishes of a number of the work's best friends have been responded to and a union public meeting has been arranged for Wednesday, September 22nd, at eight o'clock, p.m., in Charlotte St. Methodist Church. This will be veryman's meeting and brief, bright and breezy addresses are expected from Rev. Messrs. Brown, Webb, Pogue and Canon Davidson.

It is requested that all the friends will keep that date open, and invite others who may not now be interested. It is expected that all the midweek services in all churches will be merged in this one.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium class will meet on Thursday and Friday afternoon and evenings for the purpose of registering for the coming season The schedule will be published in to-morrow's issue.

NEW KEY RATE

Reduction of 25 Cents for Peterborough as Result of Improvements in Fire Department.

City Clerk Armstrong announced last night that the city's key rate for insurance had been reduced twenty-five cents, that is from 60 cents to 35 cents. This notification was received from the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, and is the first reduction Peterborough has received since the new fire brigade was organized. It is considered a substantial one and will be appreciated by the citizens in general. With the new dam completed it is expected that a further reduction will be made.

System Poisoning
CONSTIPATION

Do not be satisfied with temporary relief—Cleanse the system and make cure lasting with DR CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Constipation begins with the bowels but it does not end there.

You must also consider the way it affects the liver, the kidneys, the digestive system and in fact the whole human body.

Headaches, backaches, aching limbs, indigestion, biliousness, kidney derangements, and the most serious diseases imaginable, often have their beginning with constipation of the bowels.

There is one treatment which has a direct and combined effect on the bowels, the liver and the kidneys and gets these organs into good working order in remarkably quick time, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They afford relief quickly but they do more than that. They positively cure constipation and insure lasting regularity of the bowels by setting the liver right.

Policeman Peter O. Morris, 16 Wascana Ave., Toronto, Ont., states:

"I was troubled for years with habitual constipation and have spent considerable in so-called remedies and can gladly say that I have been completely cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and shall be pleased to personally recommend them to any person who wishes to interview me."

It scarcely seems wise to trifle with medicines which merely afford temporary relief, when by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, you not only get prompt relief but also a thorough cleansing of the whole excretory system and lasting benefits by the restoration of the health and activity of the liver.

PRESENTED WITH CLOCK

Employees of J.J. Turner & Sons Remember Mr. Jas. McBain.

The employees of the J. J. Turner & Sons' factory took advantage of the approaching marriage of one of their number, Mr. Jas. McBain, to present him with a handsome gift.

The presentation, accompanied by the following address, was made at noon:

James McBain, Esq.

Dear Mac,—We, your fellow workers learn that you are about to leave the rank of the bachelors and join forces with the benedicts at an early date. We have nothing but words of encouragement to offer you on the important step which you are about to take, and trust you will live to a ripe old age to enjoy every domestic happiness.

We have been associated with you for some time and you have endeared yourself to us by your courteous manner and happy disposition, so that on the eve of the important step which you are about to take we feel that we would like to give you some token of the esteem in which you are held by us.

We would ask you to accept from your fellow workers this clock as a small token of our appreciation and esteem.

May its face remind you as it marks time in your life that we are all approaching the end of our span, and should use the time at our disposal to the best advantage.

With best wishes for your future happiness, we are—

Signed on behalf of the employees of the undersigned firm.

J. J. TURNER & SONS.

RETURNS AFTER EXTENDED TRIP TO BRITISH ISLES

ers, early in July from Montreal, Rev. Mr. Pearson went to Moville, Ireland. The month of July was spent in the British Isles. Mr. Pearson celebrated the glorious twelfth of July most fittingly. On that day he crossed the Boyne to Drogheda. In Belfast also on that day he saw the Orangemen's procession and witnessed some of the Belfast riots. Other places in Ireland visited were Londonderry, Dublin, the Giant's Causeway, and the Blarney Stone. Mr. Pearson next came to Wales and thence to Glasgow, Edinburgh and the famous Trossachs in Scotland. He enjoyed a delightful sail on Loch Lomond and Lock Katrine. Coming to the North of England, a visit was made to Grasmere, the home of Wordsworth. Here in Rydal Cottage is where Wordsworth lived and in this vicinity are many of the scenes of which he has written. In the cottage, at the present time resides the great granddoughter of the late poet and Mr. Pearson had the pleasure of meeting her. Mr. Pearson also had an admittance to the House of Commons and heard some of the celebrated speakers. All the world's greatest Cathedrals were also visited.

In Europe all the principal places in France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium and Holland were seen. In Rome, Mr. Pearson with about thirty-five others had an audience of Pope Pius X.

Mr. Pearson saw the British fleet off the Isle of Wight, on the occasion of the meeting of the Czar and King Edward VII.

AN OLD RESIDENT

Mrs. John Moffat, for Over Seventy Years a Citizen of Peterborough, Died This Morning.

Mrs. John Moffat died this morning at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Alex. Gibson, 585 George street, at the ripe age of 83 years.

While summering at Stony Lake with the family she was taken suddenly ill and removed to her home but never rallied.

The deceased was the daughter of the late Archibald Haggart and the relict of the late John Moffatt. She came to Peterborough with her father over 70 years ago when the city was a very small hamlet.

She leaves surviving her three daughters, Mrs. C. E. Starr and Miss Violet Moffat, both of Toronto and Mrs. Alex. Gibson of this city. Her only brother, Mr. Alex. Haggart of Winnipeg had arrived the day previous to her decease.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the residence of Mr. Gibson.

HAND NOT A PUMP HANDLE FOR MEMBERS

Rev. Dr. Crothers Refuses to Shake Hands as His Congregation Files Out—There to Preach the Gospel.

A despatch from St. Catharines today states that at St. Paul-street Methodist Church Sunday, Rev. W. J. Crothers, D.D., the pastor had a word to say about the lack of cordiality among the people of his flock.

"There are some people who think that the pastor of this church should go down to the door after the service and shake hands with the people as they go out. I refuse to do such a thing. I refuse to make a pump-handle of my arm for anybody. I am not here for hat purpose. That is up to the members of the congregation themselves. If they don't see fit to shake hands with each other that is their affair, not mine. I am here to preach the gospel."

Dr. Crothers also intimated that there were other churches in the city for those who were not satisfied with St. Paul's.

FINAL GAME IN THE CITY BALL LEAGUE ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON

The West Ends and T. A. S. have been ordered to play the final game in the City Baseball League at Riverside Park at 2.30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. The teams should have played two weeks ago, but rain one Saturday and a field-day of sports the next, made it impossible to get together. A win for the T. A. S. will give them the championship, while on the other hand a West End victory means another tie-up in the League.

TO GO AS MISSIONARIES

Four Peterborough Young People are Training at Missionary Institute.

Mr. Herb. Johnston and Miss Grace Johnston have left for Nyack, N.Y., where they will be students at the Missionary Training Institute. Each is taking a three years' course, Miss Johnston having already completed one year. It is Miss Johnston's intention, at the conclusion of her three years to take up the missionary cause in the Soudan, in Central Africa. Two other Peterborough young ladies Miss Daisy Billings and Annie Nesbitt are also training at the same institute to go forth as missionaries.

Miss Grace Crowe, of the firm of Grafton & Co., L't'd, Hamilton, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crowe, Cross St.

Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie motored to Lindsay, Fenelon Falls and Bobcaygeon yesterday on a business trip. At Lindsay he was joined by Ald. Duffus returning from Toronto, and although a long stretch of country had to be covered, they arrived home in good time.

REV. DR. CRAFTS WILL VISIT THIS CITY

Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau.

The Rev. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, M. A., Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, will visit Peterborough on Friday, Oct. 8th. Dr. Crafts has very recently arrived on this side of the Atlantic from the World's Congress on Reform, held a few weeks ago in the Old Land, and the proceedings of which created such a profound impression throughout Europe.

Dr. Crafts is billed to speak in Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Belleville, Peterborough, and Toronto, and his advent will no doubt be looked forward to with the greatest delight.

A PURSE OF GOLD

Presented to Mr. S.H. Soper by Board of George Street Methodist Church.

Mr. S. H. Soper, who has conducted the services at the George street Methodist church during the summer months while Rev. E. A. Pearson was absent, has concluded his duties here and has returned to College. Yesterday he was agreeably surprised by the Board of the Church presenting him with a purse of fifty dollars in gold, in appreciation for the work he has done in temporarily taking Mr. Pearson's place as pastor. Mr. Soper has applied himself diligently to the work of this important pastorate, and won many friends during his stay in Peterborough.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHE

Mrs. E. Morrow, Bracebridge, Ont., writes—"For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Not only have they cured constipation but have also entirely cured the headaches from which I used to suffer terribly and have improved my health in every way."

WILL ATTEND THE PLENARY COUNCIL

Archbishop O'Connor Will be Accompanied by Ven. Archdeacon Casey of Lindsay.

The Plenary Council will go into session at Quebec next week, and its deliberations will last until on into the month of October. All the Archbishops and bishops of Canada, as well as other church dignitaries will be present, and questions of vital import to the Roman Catholic church of Canada will come up for discussion.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey announced in St. Mary's church on Sunday that he would accompany his Lordship Bishop O'Connor to the Council. —Lindsay Post.

PROTECT CITY

Ald. Hicks Suggested a Clause to be Put in All Agreements With Companies.

Ald. Hicks made a suggestion at the committee meeting last night in which he aims at protecting the city by placing in every agreement with a Company or other Corporation, a clause which will determine the responsibility of accidents which may happen in some manner through the company's fault. He called attention to the team of horses that were killed at the corner of McDonnel and George streets some time ago. The city paid one-third of the costs and the two companies made up the rest. Ald. Hicks failed to see where the city was liable, and to make sure that only the party or parties to blame will be in the future responsible, he has asked the City Solicitor to place in agreements a clause that will provide for this. His idea is that in case an accident occurs the parties involved agree to the decision of an arbitrator. This or something to that effect, he believes, will settle the matter, will protect the city, and provide a satisfactory means of settling the liability of parties against whom the claims are made.

CORN ROAST HELD

Noisy Boys Created Disturbance But There Was an Enjoyable Evening, Nevertheless.

The Young People's Guild, of the Knox church, had a "corn roast" on the Sherbrooke St. hill last night. It was for the purpose of getting the young people acquainted, for the re-organization of the Guild.

There was a number of boys from the town present who persisted in cheering singing and other nuisances, but despite this fact, the young folk spent a very pleasant evening.

SOLD HIS IRONS

Mr. H. B. Collier Cleared Out a Large Stock of Goods at the Exhibition.

Mr. H. B. Collier, of the Collier-Cunningham Co., returned last night from Toronto, where he had an exhibit at the Exhibition, which, from his standpoint, was the best he ever attended. Mr. Collier took a large supply of irons and other electric utensils the company manufactures, and sold practically everything, bringing back none of the irons and but a few of the other articles. Besides these sales, which were made to individuals, ther were many others ordered by hardware company representatives throughout the whole Dominion, from Vancouver on the west to St. John on the east. Mr. Collier was exceedingly well pleased with the exhibition, and the advantage it gives the manufacturer of getting in touch with so many of the Canadian people.

EXCAVATIONS FOR NEW KNOX CHURCH

The ground was broken this morning for the new Knox Church, at the corner of Wolfe and Rubidge streets. A gang of men with horses turned the first sods and gradually the excavation work took on a material form. The final decision of the officials of the church in regard to the letting of the contract was to have the work done by day labour and will be under the supervision of Messrs. McCannon and Shurter, both practical men. It is expected that this scheme will be a successful one, as the two men are enthusiastic over the work and will receive the support of the congregation if they should need it in any case. The foundation will be completed this year, but it is likely that the rest of the building will not be undertaken until next Spring.

LIVE NEWS ITEMS FROM HASTINGS

Special to The Examiner.

Hastings, Sept. 13.—The brick work of the Methodist church has been completed and it is beginning to take on quite an imposing appearance.

Our boys are feeling quite elated over the fact that for a second time this year they have defeated Roseneath in a game of baseball.

On Friday last Miss Jessie Scriven, daughter of Mr. Bryant Scriven, of town, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Davis. The young couple will reside in Campbellford.

Miss Brown and Miss Nugent, of Lindsay, were guests at the home of M. and Mrs. (Rev.) Barrett over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonney, of Oak Hills, visited friends in town on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Warner visited friends in Oshawa on Sunday and Monday.
